Budget 1988-89

Speech of

Shri Narayan Datt Tiwari
Minister of Finance

29th February, 1988

PART A

Sir,

I rise to present the Budget for the year 1988-89.

2. The Economic Survey for 1987-88 was placed before the House a few days ago and contains a detailed review of trends in the Indian economy over the past year. Economic performance and management during the year have been dominated by natural calamities of drought and floods. The drought this year has been one of the worst in this century, with 21 out of 35 meteorological sub-divisions receiving deficient or scanty rainfall during the monsoon months. In most of the Eastern states the problem was not too little but, rather, too much rainfall, leading to devastating floods. What is worse, this year of drought and floods followed three successive years of poor monsoon.

3. Despite the very severe strains and distress, the economy has demonstrated remarkable resilience. It has done so for two good reasons. First, sustained development and diversification of our economy, over the years, has created a capacity to withstand temporary shocks. Second, Government has responded with timely interventions across a wide front to contain the economic and social costs of the drought.

4. The buffer stock policy pursued by the Government enabled us to build large food stocks, which stood at 23 million tonnes on 1st July, 1987. With the help of these stocks, a massive and sustained effort was launched to ensure adequate supply of foodgrains throughout the country, particularly in drought affected areas. Other important Government programmes to combat the drought included massive expansion of relief and employment generating works, strengthening of the public distribution system, special efforts to compensate for shortages of drinking water, fodder and power supply, action plans to grow contingency crops in the kharif season and to boost rabi production, measures for livestock protection and large scale imports of essential commodities such as edible oils and pulses. These supply measures were buttressed by careful fiscal and monetary policies to make available adequate resources for relief expenditures, without cutting back on the public investment programme.

5. Thanks to these sustained efforts the overall indicators of economic performance have been better than in any previous year of severe drought. Thus, despite the decline in agricultural production, GNP growth in 1987-88 is expected to be in the range of 1 to 2 per cent, in contrast to a decline of 4.7 per cent in 1979-80. Available data show that industrial production in April – November 1987 rose by 10.2 per cent over the corresponding period of the previous year. In contrast, in the drought year 1979-80, there was an absolute decline of 1.7 per cent in industrial production. The overall rate of inflation in the current financial year, as measured by the Wholesale Price Index, stood at 9.8 per cent as on February 6, 1988 as compared with inflation in excess of 21 per cent recorded in 1979-80. Price movements in respect of essential commodities are being monitored closely at Central and State levels and I would like to thank State Governments for setting up control rooms at the district level also. We have to keep continuous vigilance on the price front at all levels.

6. The strains imposed by the drought and floods have highlighted some of the underlying strengths as well as problem areas of our economy. In the face of successive monsoon failures, our agriculture has demonstrated its basic strength. We are proud of our farmers. By their hard work and unflinching determination through the years, they produced enough to enable us to build substantial food stocks. This helped us to withstand the impact of the current drought without acute food scarcity and widespread economic dislocation.

7. Industrial production will show an increase of more than 8 per cent for four successive years since 1984-85. The infrastructure has performed well. Generation of thermal power has made up the deficiency in generation of hydel power and, overall, there was a growth of 7.6 per cent in power generation in the first nine months of the current year. Productivity in the Railways has shown significant improvement. Coal production has increased by 10.2 per cent in April-December,1987. The improvement shown by the public sector in these areas is a matter of considerable satisfaction, and bears testimony to the successful implementation of policies initiated by this Government. Our workers have worked hard to make this possible, and the nation is grateful to them. Government attaches the highest importance to building a strong and vibrant public sector.

8. Exports have recorded strong growth over the last two years. After growing by over 15 per cent in 1986-87, exports rose by nearly 25 per cent in the first nine months of the current year as compared to the corresponding period of the previous year. Over the same period, the growth of imports was less than 14 per cent. The trade deficit has been declining over the past two years.

9. However, we must not be complacent. As we look ahead, we must move decisively to overcome some of the problems that have emerged on the economic scene. The four successive years of poor monsoons have caused considerable hardship in our rural areas, reduced agricultural output, and affected the momentum of growth. We, therefore, have to give a major thrust to agriculture in the remaining years of the Seventh Plan.

10. We have done well in agriculture. But the drought and floods have highlighted certain areas which require our urgent attention. The Prime Minister has directed that an Action Plan should be formulated quickly by the Planning Commission, which would identify the areas where further measures can lead to early gains in production. In 1987-88, an additional allocation of Rs.236 crores has been made for completion of irrigation projects in drought affected States. In the coming year, Plan outlays for Centre and States in respect of agriculture and irrigation are being increased by 40 per cent. If necessary, the Government will make re-allocations within the overall Plan outlay for 1988-89 and provide more resources for achieving agricultural targets.

11. We have seen rapid growth in industry, reflecting the success of Government policies in stimulating investment and production, and promoting technological upgradation. We must ensure that this momentum is maintained. Costs and prices need to be reduced. Indian Industry must be made more competitive. Sickness in industry has been a major problem. We have to take further steps to combat sickness. We must also upgrade skills, train workers and improve management. Industrial development must make the best use of our most abundant resource, namely, the skills of our people. Rapid growth of industry is essential for generating employment opportunities.

12. Small, village and khadi industries have a special place in our economic development. These industries make use of locally available resources and are instrumental in creating job opportunities in smaller towns and rural areas where the bulk of our people live. Speaking in this house, thirty five years ago, Pandit Jawahar Lal Nehru had told the nation, and I quote,

> "I have no doubt that we cannot raise the people's level of existence without the development of major industries in this country; in fact, I will go further and say that we cannot even remain a free country without them..... But we must always remember that the development of heavy industry does not by itself solve the problem of the millions in this country. We have to develop the village and cottage industry in a big way, at the same time making sure that in trying to develop industry, big and small, we do not forget the human factor."

This overall approach continues to guide us.

13. Government has been taking several measures to increase revenue, improve tax compliance and enforce economic laws. These have yielded dividends and growth of revenue in the past three years has been quite satisfactory. The faster growth of expenditure has, however, exerted substantial pressures on the fiscal situation. We face unavoidable compulsions of higher expenditure, for example, on defence, development, social services, relief programmes and food and fertilizer subsidies. As a nation, we must deal earnestly with the problem of mounting expenditure.

14. As anticipated, the balance of payments situation has been under strain because of several factors. These include higher imports of edible oils and pulses, increase in imports of crude oil and petroleum products, increasing protectionist tendencies abroad, and unfavourable climate for official development assistance. The environment for developing countries has also been badly affected by upheavals in the international economy, volatility of exchange rates, and slow growth of world trade. In order to reduce the impact of these unfavourable developments, we took vigorous measures to increase exports and reduce the growth of imports. These measures would need to be further strengthened.

15. India has followed a prudent policy in debt management and has avoided problems of the kind faced by several other developing countries. We remain committed to ensuring long-term viability in our balance of payments.

16. The challenges before us are many and it is only through hard work, thrift and sacrifice that we can build a self-reliant, strong and socialist economy. As a humble political worker, I am conscious that while we have made tremendous progress, there is a great deal that remains to be done to improve the condition of our people, particularly in rural areas.

17. Within the limitation imposed by our overall resource situation, I propose to take a number of steps to benefit farmers, promote small and village industries, provide relief to the poor, protect and create more jobs, and generate self employment opportunities for our people. In addition to augmenting the anti-poverty programmes, such as IRDP, NREP and RLEGP, Government has decided to initiate a number of measures to increase the flow of agricultural credit, strengthen the institutional framework, enhance social security to the weaker and vulnerable sections of the society, particularly Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes, and promote better housing for the rural poor. While some of these programmes call for additional outlays, it is proposed to reorient and redirect several of the existing programmes and institutions to serve our social objectives better.

18. In working out the package of measures for agriculture, we have kept in view the guidelines given by the Prime Minister when he addressed the kisans the other day:

"कृषि को अगले दो-तीन सालों में एक जोरदार नया प्रोत्साहन दिया जाए, जिसमें छोटे और सीमांत किसानों, भूमिहीन मजदूरों और ग्रामीण दस्तकारों पर खास ध्यान दिया जाए। हमारी यह भी कोशिश हो कि ऐसी जो भी योजना देहात के विकास के लिए बने वह देश के हर हलके के लिए ही नहीं बल्कि देहात में हर तबके के लिए भी बने। इससे पूरे समाज की ताकत बनेगी, पूरे समाज को इसका लाभ मिलेगा और पूरा समाज आगे बढ़ेगा।"

[In the next two-three years we must give a strong thrust to agriculture. Special attention must be given to small and marginal farmers, landless labourers and village artisans. It shall also be our endeavour that our schemes for rual development benefit not only all the regions of the country but also all the sections of the society. This will strengthen and benefit the entire community and help us march forward.]

19. The financial condition of our farming community has been affected by the drought. A number of measures have already been taken such as reschedulement of loans, conversion of short term loans into term loans and lowering of rate of interest in some cases. As an important step forward, I am happy to inform the House that today the Reserve Bank of India is issuing instructions to bring down the cost of agricultural credit. The rate of interest on crop loans upto Rs.7,500 is being reduced by one and half per cent to two and half per cent. The interest rate will, henceforth, be reduced to 10 per cent for loans upto Rs.7,500 from the prevailing levels of 11.5 per cent and 12.5 per cent. Similarly, for crop loans above Rs.7,500 and upto Rs.15,000, interest rate will be reduced to 11.5 per cent from 12.5 per cent to 14 per cent. This reduction in interest rates will benefit crores of agricultural borrowers from cooperative sector, Regional Rural Banks and commercial banks, and provide much needed relief to them.

20. In order to increase the flow of credit at reduced cost, it has also been decided that the target for direct finance to agriculture by public sector banks should be raised to 17 per cent of their total outstanding advances by the end of 1988-89. Together with added efforts by regional rural banks and cooperative banks, the target for availability of direct credit by banks to agriculture will increase by over Rs.3,000 crores in 1988-89.

21. In order to further reduce the cost of inputs, Government is asking the fertilizer companies, in both public and private sectors, to give a discount of 7.5 per cent over notified prices for coming Kharif and Rabi sowings. This will reduce the price of a bag of urea by around eight rupees and eighty paise. The companies should be able to absorb the cost of this discount through better inventory management. I am sure our enterprising farmers will take advantage of this discount and increase agricultural production.

22. Timely use of pesticides and weedicides has an important role in preventing crop damage and improving productivity on our farms. In order to lower their cost, I will be announcing later in my speech, reduction in import duties on selected pesticides/weedicides as well as intermediates. At the same time, selected pesticide items, considered important for agriculture, will be allowed to be imported freely by designated state and cooperative agencies. This will ensure that the existing manufacturers do not indulge in monopolistic practices. This measure will help our farmers.

23. In consultation with the Reserve Bank of India, NABARD, the State Bank of India and the Commercial banks, I am happy to announce a new strategy on rural credit designed to serve every village of the country. The commercial banks and the Regional Rural banks together have over 40,000 branches in the rural and semi urban areas of the country. The number of villages exceeds five lakhs and seventy six thousand. Under the proposed dispensation, each bank branch in the country will have a designated service area of about 15 to 25 villages, as required, in the neighbourhood of the branch. The branch will be primarily responsible for meeting the appropriate credit needs of its service area. This country-wide arrangement, supervised by the District Lead Bank Scheme already operational, and further supplemented by the rural cooperatives, will go a long way to serve the credit needs of the village community.

24. To help farmers affected by drought, we have given a number of reliefs and concessions by way of rescheduling of loans, postponement of all recoveries, and reduction in interest rates. It has been a long standing demand of farmers and the cooperative movement that a separate National Agricultural Credit

Relief Fund should be established to provide relief on a systematic basis. I am happy to announce that it has now been decided to set up such a Fund. The corpus of the Fund will be provided by the Central and State Governments on an agreed basis. The criteria for releasing money from the Fund will be worked out by the Reserve Bank of India.

25. Before I turn to other matters, I would like to refer to a subject which has been close to our hearts. I have a feeling that the cooperative credit system, which played such a pioneering role in the early years of our Independence, has not grown as fast as it could have. Cooperatives are the best instruments for reaching our farmers; they are also a symbol of self-reliance at the village level. I believe that we must now devote special attention to revitalising the entire cooperative sector. I would invite the Hon'ble Members to give this matter their personal attention and also request them to send me suggestions regarding the role that the Reserve Bank of India, NABARD and the nationalised banking sector, should play in promoting the growth of the cooperative movement. I shall also be writing to State Governments, who have a major responsibility in this area.

26. The programme of rural electrification has enabled countrywide utilisation of ground water for irrigation with the help of electric pump sets. However, some of the poorer farmers have often been unable to afford the one time cost of pump set installation. A special programme to be called JALDHARA will be launched to assist marginal farmers in drought prone areas. This scheme will provide them the benefits of pump sets for irrigation on nominal rental / lease charges. It is proposed that during 1988-89 the benefits of this scheme will be provided to about fifty thousand farming families.

27. To improve the quality of life of rural families below the poverty line, including Harijan and Adivasi families, I propose a massive programme to be called KUTIRJYOTI for extending single point light connections to households of their families. The programme will meet the one time cost of internal wiring and service connection charges. In 1988-89, five lakh households are proposed to be covered by this programme. The cost of both the JALDHARA and KUTIRJYOTI will be met through a combination of grants and loans to the State Electricity Boards by the Rural Electrification Corporation.

28. People living in hill areas have to bear the burden of higher transport costs in the supply of Kerosene and LPG. Today, freight subsidy is given on Kerosene to North Eastern States and Jammu & Kashmir. It has now been decided to extend this concession to all hill areas. Similarly, it has been decided that LPG cylinders would be supplied to the customers in all hill areas at the same price as for the customers in the nearest point in the plains. This will also, to a large extent, help in conserving the forest resources used for purposes of light and fuel.

29. In his budget speech last year, the Prime Minister emphasized the high priority of the housing sector and had announced the decision to set up a National Housing Bank with an initial capital of Rs.100 crores. Necessary legislation has been passed, and the Bank will become operational shortly. In order to give a special thrust to rural housing, the Reserve Bank of India, along with some financial institutions, will make a special additional contribution of Rs.100 crores to the National Housing Bank. This entire additional amount will be used for promotion of rural housing in several ways, including setting up of specialised rural housing savings and loan institutions,if necessary.

30. In this context, it is also proposed to extend the role of the Land Development Banks to cover the field of housing finance for farmers. These banks exist in most districts, have strong apex bodies and deal directly with the rural population. They can also mobilise resources for housing finance. The State Governments will be requested to carry out necessary legislative measures to permit Land Development Banks to undertake housing finance.

31. A new programme of housing for small and marginal farmers with monthly income of upto Rs.700, is being launched by Housing and Urban Development Corporation. Under this programme, HUDCO will provide assistance, upto specified amounts, at low rate of 7 per cent interest repayable in 22 years for building or improving a house. Assistance will also be given for improvement of old homes, for example, change of roof from thatch to tile.

32. A new scheme, called the "Village Abadi Environmental Improvement Scheme" will be launched by HUDCO this year. Projects involving expenditure upto Rs.2,000 per family in villages with population not exceeding 5,000, for improving rural abadi infrastructure like drainage, sanitation etc., will be supported. The equity base of HUDCO will be suitably strengthened to help finance these programmes.

33. Commercial Banks have also been providing help for rural housing, both directly as well as through HUDCO. With their vast branch network in rural areas, their role should be further enhanced. Hon'ble Members will be happy to know that, it has been decided that commercial banks will increase their lending for the housing sector to an annual level of Rs.300 crores by the end of the Seventh Plan.

34. There is great scope for using local low-cost materials in housing. Our scientists and engineers have also developed considerable expertise in low-cost housing technology. It has been decided to set up a national network of Nirman or Nirmithi Kendras which will provide easy access to low-cost housing materials and techniques. It is proposed to set up one Kendra in each district. In the coming year, 100 Kendras will be set up.

35. Landless labourers, artisans and other very poor families in rural areas face acute financial distress when their huts and belongings are destroyed by fire. I am glad to inform the House that it is proposed to launch a new scheme to provide fire insurance protection to them. The Government of India will bear the entire premium cost. The scheme will be implemented by the General Insurance Coporation of India and its four subsidiaries. The GIC will separately announce the details of the scheme.

36. I also propose to take a major new initiative for extending the system of social security to the weaker sections of our society. The Life Insurance Corporation of India, which has done so much to spread insurance culture throughout the length and breadth of our country, will be setting up a separate "Social Security Fund" with a corpus of Rs.100 crores. Certain changes are being made in the Income tax payable by the Life Insurance Corporation of India to make this possible. The Fund will be used for financing life insurance schemes for weaker and vulnerable sections of the population at subsidised rates. The House will agree with me that the creation of such a fund will provide a solid foundation for extending insurance cover to the toiling sections of our society, for example, landless labourers, handloom workers, rickshaw-pullers, drivers etc. who work on daily wages or whose employment is casual. In respect of these group insurance schemes, 50 per cent of the premium will be adjusted from the newly created Social Security Fund, the balance 50 per cent of the premium being payable by the beneficiaries concerned.

37. Group insurance schemes will also be introduced for groups with regular incomes like primary school teachers, cooperative milk producers, and workers in shops and commercial establishments. Schemes will also be formulated for the benefit of artisans, tailors, barbers, masons, carpenters and other similar groups.

38. While IRDP extends benefits to the families of the poor, these families face hardship in the event of sudden death of the head of the family. To give greater security to the family, a group insurance scheme of the LIC is proposed to be introduced to cover around 3 to 4 million families under IRDP assistance every year with effect from 1st April, 1988. The insurance cover will be Rs.3,000, with double benefit in case of accidental death.

39. I would now like to propose some measures specifically for the benefit of Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes. Many State-level Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes Finance/Development Corporations are doing a good job in looking after the special requirements of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes. I now propose setting up a National Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes Finance and Development Corporation. This corporation will play a catalytic role in developing schemes for employment generation and financing pilot programmes which can then be taken up by the State level Corporations and other agencies active in this field. This Corporation will also work with nationalised banks and NABARD in improving the flow of financial assistance to the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes. The objective would be to innovate, experiment and promote rather than replicate the work of the existing agencies. I am making a provision of Rs.50 crores in the next year's budget for this Corporation.

40. Hon'ble Members will be happy to know that we propose to initiate a project for one million wells under the National Rural Employment Programme and Rural Landless Employment Guarantee Programme by raising the percentage of allocation of funds for the exclusive benefit of Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes from 10 per cent to 20 per cent. It is fitting that in the year of Fortieth Anniversary of Independence, we initiate this massive programme of construction of wells which will benefit millions of small and marginal farmers belonging to Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes.

41. I would now like to announce some measures for promotion of employment opportunities in the decentralised sector. The handloom sector provides employment to about 10 million weavers and others. This important sector has been affected by high prices of cotton and other yarns. I propose to increase the subsidy on Janata cloth from Rs.2 per sq.metre to Rs.2.75 per sq. metre. The impact of this relief will be Rs.40 crores. Later, in my speech, I shall be announcing a package of measures which will benefit the handloom sector by reducing the cost of certain types of yarns. At present, a standard rebate of 10 per cent is being provided for Khadi. I propose to extend this rebate to Kambals and Kambalis.

42. It has been a long standing demand of the tiny and small industries that there should be a separate apex bank for them. Hon'ble Members will be happy to know that it has now been decided to establish a Small Industries Development Bank of India. The new bank will be a subsidiary of the Industrial Development Bank of India. The equity of the new bank will be Rs.250 crores, and it will have its own separate Board of Directors, including representatives from the small scale sector.The new Bank will also administer both the Small Industries Development Fund established in May, 1986 and the National Equity Fund for providing equity support to projects in tiny and small scale sector.

43. New small scale units often experience problems and delays in securing working capital finance. In order to overcome this difficulty, it has been decided that requirements of working capital upto Rs.2.5 lakhs for new tiny and small scale units, whose project cost does not exceed Rs.5 lakhs, will be provided through a single window. Thus, both term loans and working capital will be made available by the same bank or institution. The details of this scheme will be announced by Industrial Development Bank of India shortly.

44. A healthy capital goods sector is a pre-requisite for self-reliance. Last year, while presenting the Budget, the Prime Minister announced a package of measures to revitalise the machine building industries. Later in my speech, I shall be announcing certain measures which will carry this process further for revitalising industries such as paper, cement, and textiles. These measures will help to stimulate demand, lower costs and improve efficiency.

45. The Capital market is an important source for mobilisation of savings for industry and Government has taken several steps to strengthen it. Last year, the Prime Minister announced the decision to set up a separate Board for the regulation and development of the Stock Exchanges. Necessary legislation in this regard is under preparation and the Board is expected to become operational soon. Measures have also been taken to set up Mutual Funds, lay down ground rules for orderly operations of the Stock Exchanges, improve their infrastructure, facilitate share transfers and enforce better discipline on companies entering the market. Later in my speech, I shall be announcing certain further measures which will help to boost investment in new industries and generate more employment and economic activity.

46. We have one of the largest pools of scientific and technical manpower. Yet, many of our young and new entrepreneurs find it difficult to raise equity capital because of the risk involved. This problem can be solved by allowing Venture Capital Companies or Funds to invest in new companies in anticipation of future capital gains. However, such companies at present are not eligible for the concessional treatment of capital gains available to non-corporate entities. In order to overcome this problem, it has been decided to formulate a scheme under which approved Venture Capital Companies/Funds will be enabled to invest in new companies and be eligible for the concessional treatment of capital gains available to non-corporate entities. Necessary legislative measures will be taken to bring this into effect.

47. At present, a tax concession is available for investment in the equity shares of new industrial undertakings. Small investors generally find it difficult to take advantage of these concessions because of absence of sufficient information about the prospects of new companies. It has been decided that concession now available for direct investment in equity shares of new industrial undertakings will also be available for investment in special units of mutual funds where the resources are earmarked for investment in new projects. This will help new companies to raise capital more easily.

48. I also propose to provide a seperate exemption upto Rs.3,000 for income from dividends under Section 80L of the Income tax Act. This will be in addition to the existing concessions available for certain types of incomes, including dividends upto Rs.7,000 and a further Rs.3,000 for income from investments in Unit Trust of India and certain other specified investments which I am including in the Finance Bill.

49. Sharp fluctuations in international exchange rates have posed problems for exporters as well as for Indian industry. In order to provide some protection to individual projects from exchange rate fluctuations, financial institutions will introduce a new scheme whereby promoters of such projects can have their foreign currency loans designated in rupees. The interest rate on such loans will be variable and will include an exchange premium. The details of the scheme will be announced by the Industrial Development Bank of India separately.

50. It has been the policy of this Government to encourage workers' participation in management in industry. It is only through interaction and involvement of workers in management that we can improve the overall performance, increase productivity, and prevent sickness. Government has already announced a scheme to facilitate such participation. I am happy to inform the House that complete exemption from Income tax will be given in respect of all expenditure incurred by companies in connection with introducing schemes for workers' participation. Government has also introduced a scheme whereby 5 per cent of the capital issues are reserved for employees. In order to facilitate purchase of shares by workers in their own companies, banks are being asked to provide loans liberally for this purpose. Reserve Bank of India will be issuing necessary instructions shortly.

51. Working journalists have contributed a lot to the country by their intellectual toil, and suggestions have been received that a Bill should be considered by the Parliament to provide a reasonable pension scheme for them. Government will be taking appropriate steps in this direction after consulting all concerned.

52. Government attaches considerable importance to strengthening economic and cultural ties with Indian nationals settled abroad. A number of facilities, including fiscal concessions, have been extended to Non-Resident Indians for facilitating investments. In response to representations received, Government have now decided to introduce a new scheme of Foreign Currency denominated Bonds/Deposit Certificates for Non-Resident Indians on a non-repatriable basis. The maturity period of these Bonds/Deposit Certificates will be 7 years and these will carry an interest rate higher than that applicable to the repatriable foreign currency non-Resident deposits. These Bonds / Deposits will be free from Income tax, Wealth tax and Gift tax.

53. The fiscal regime for investments and deposits by Non-Resident Indians in our country has been made quite liberal. It is the Government's intention to maintain fiscal stability. No changes willl be made in the tax treatment which might adversely affect investments already made by Non-Resident Indians.

54. The success of Non-Resident Indians in many fields of scientific, economic and cultural endeavour has been a matter of great satisfaction to us. We cherish our continued association with them.

55. I also propose to introduce certain measures for boosting small savings collections. I am particularly keen to mobilise untapped rural savings. A new scheme without tax concession, but with flexibility of encashment after two and half years of deposit, is being introduced. The rate of interest will progressively increase for longer durations. The deposit will double in value after five and half years. This instrument will attract new investments as it can be encashed as and when funds are needed. The instrument will be called KISAN VIKAS PATRA.

56. Last year a new savings scheme based on the net savings principle, was announced by the Prime Minister. Under this scheme, 50 per cent of deposits upto a maximum of Rs.20,000 are eligible for deduction under Section 80CCA of Income tax Act. However, in the year of withdrawal, 50 per cent of the amount withdrawn is added to the taxable income. The interest rate on deposits was 9 per cent. It has been decided to raise the interest rate to 11 per cent. The new rate will be applicable to existing deposits also with effect from 1st April of last year. Further, the rate of deduction at the time of deposit will be raised from 50 per cent to 100 per cent with corresponding increase in the amount subject to tax at the time of withdrawal. The amount eligible for deposit is also being increased to Rs.30,000 per annum with effect from next financial year.

57. The doubling period for Indira Vikas Patra sold from 1st March, 1988 will be reduced to five years.

58. It is also proposed to continue the sale of Rahat Patra beyond 29th February, 1988. With the continuance of Rahat Patra, sale of Capital Investment Bonds is proposed to be discontinued from 1st April, 1988.

59. Sir, I have taken this opportunity to announce certain measures for the welfare of the weaker and vulnerable sections of our society, for generating greater employment opportunities, particularly in the rural areas and for strengthening our productive base. I am sure these measures will contribute to fulfilling the aspirations of our people.

60. Let me now turn to the Revised Estimates for 1987-88 and Budget Estimates for 1988-89.

Revised Estimates 1987-88

61. The Revised Estimates of total expenditure in the Budget for 1987-88 are placed at Rs. 66161 crores against Rs. 62942 crores in the Budget Estimates. As the gravity of the drought became clear, the first task of the Government was to ensure that sufficient resources were available with State Governments in order to start relief works and take other measures for alleviating the distress caused by the drought. Central Teams were despatched to States and decisions announced in record time in respect of ceilings of expenditure for States affected by drought and floods. Expenditure from the Central Budget on account of drought, floods and other natural calamities is now estimated at nearly Rs.2,000 crores. This includes Centre's share of margin money, advance Plan assistance for drought, non-Plan assistance for floods and hailstorm, supply of subsidised foodgrains in drought affected areas, subsidised supply of seeds, provision of rigs for drinking water and assistance for Accelerated Rural Water Supply Programme.

62. There have been certain other inevitable increases in expenditure. The subsidy on indigenous fertilizers will go up by Rs.300 crores. Food subsidy will also be Rs.200 crores higher. I am sure Hon'ble Members will agree with me that, under the circumstances prevailing in the current year, the increases are fully justified. The liberalisation of pensionary benefits of Government employees, particularly the Defence Services personnel, is expected to add Rs.374 crores to the pension bill in the current year. Financial reliefs granted to certain public sector enterprises are expected to cost additional Rs.417 crores by way of subsidy, write off of loans etc. Interest charges are likely to be Rs.800 crores higher than the original Budget provision. Taking into account the other variations, the total non-Plan expenditure during the current year is estimated to be Rs.1,971 crores higher than the original Budget provision of Rs.39,265 crores.

63. Central assistance for State and U.T.Plans is expected to be Rs.1,127 crores higher mainly due to larger advance Plan assistance to States affected by drought. Budgetary support for Central Plan is estimated to be Rs.121 crores higher - this being the net effect of increases in sectors like agriculture, rural development, fertilizers, agricultural financial institutions, subsidy for setting up industries in backward areas, etc. offset by savings in certain other sectors.

64. Taking the Plan and non-Plan together, there is an increase of Rs.3,219 crores. As a result of a series of measures undertaken by Government during the year, economy consciousness has been created and expenditure contained particularly in low priority areas.

65. Gross Tax Revenue is estimated to yield Rs. 1,028 crores more than the Budget Estimates mainly under Income and Corporation taxes and Customs duties. The share of States in taxes will be higher by Rs.392 crores. Non-tax Receipts will be higher by Rs.2,201 crores. Of this, non-tax revenue receipts are expected to fetch Rs.765 crores more and capital receipts

Rs.1,436 crores more. Rs.700 crores of the increase in capital receipts will be from market loans.

66. Taking the variations in expenditure and receipts into account, the current year is expected to end with an overall deficit of Rs.6080 crores. Notwithstanding the severe strain the events of the year have cast on the Budget, this is close to the original estimate of Rs.5,688 crores.

Budget Estimates for 1988-89

67. The Hon'ble Members will agree that Budget Estimates for the year 1988-89 are being presented in a rather difficult environment. We have to ensure that, despite pressures on the Budget, there is no cut-back in public investments, as that would have an adverse effect on economic activity and employment. Accordingly, in framing the Budget for next year, highest priority has been given to maintaining the tempo of Plan investment.

68. The Central Plan for 1988-89 has been fixed at Rs.28,715 crores against the approved outlay of Rs.24,622 crores in the crurrent year, a step up of 16.6 per cent. Even compared to the revised Central Plan outlay of Rs.25,701 crores, the next year's outlay represents a step up of 11.7 per cent. Central Plan for the next year will be financed to the extent of Rs.16,000 crores from budgetary resources and Rs.12,715 crores from Internal and Extra Budgetary Resources of public enterprises. With the proposed outlay for 1988-89, we would have achieved in four years more than 86 per cent of the Seventh Plan outlay in real terms.

69. In addition, Central Budget for the next year provides Rs.9,714 crores for assistance for State and UT Plans. The total Plan expenditure in the Budget for the next year is thus, Rs.25,714 crores compared to Rs.24,925 crores in the Revised Estimates for the current year.

70. I am glad to inform the House that the total transfers from Centre to States in 1987-88, including their share in taxes, were Rs.24,870 crores. In 1988-89 such transfers are estimated at Rs.26,348 crores, an increase of Rs.1478 crores.

71. Several States have represented that their liquidity position has been affected by the drought and have requested for some relaxation in the Ways and Means limits. The Hon'ble Members will be happy to know that Reserve Bank of India is raising from tomorrow the Ways and Means limits by 40 per cent over the limits prevailing prior to October, 1986. These were stepped up by 30 per cent and 20 per cent for different periods of the year in October,1986.

72. As mentioned earlier, it has been.decided to increase the outlays of the Departments of Agriculture and Cooperation and Water Resources by 40 per cent above the current year's outlay. I also propose to provide Rs.671 crores for fertilizer projects in 1988-89. During the current year, four new fertilizer plants, two each in public and private sectors, are likely to go into poduction. Fertilizer production is expected to attain a level of 7.1 million tonnes this year, an increase of nearly 40 per cent over the output at the commencement of the Seventh Plan.

73. The major anti-poverty programmes, namely, Integrated Rural Development Programme (IRDP), National Rural Employment Programme (NREP) and Rural Landless Employment Guarantee Programme (RLEGP) will continue to be the main instruments for generating employment and increasing the earning opportunities for those below the poverty-line. Thus far, about 254 lakh families have been assisted with a total investment of Rs.8,413 crores under IRDP. Forty per cent of these beneficiaries belong to Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes. Under NREP and RLEGP, 7,006 lakh man-days were generated in 1986-87 which was substantially higher than the target of 5,115 lakh man-days. The target is likely to be exceeded this year also.

74. These programmes have proved highly successful in generating employment in our rural areas. Suggestions have been received for expansion of these programmes as well as for their reorganisation. The merger of some important programmes, like the National Rural Employment Programme, Accelerated Rural Water Supply Programme, Rural Landless Employment Guarantee Programme and Desert Development Programme, and various other Anti Poverty Programmes has also been suggested so that available resources can be more effectively deployed to meet the twin objectives of employment and creation of assets to meet village needs. There is also need to provide flexibility at the operational level. In the light of these suggestions, it is proposed to undertake a thorough review of the employment programmes in the coming year to examine the possibility of having a comprehensive programme.

75. Rural water supply continues to receive high priority. The technology mission for drinking water in villages and related water management is being pursued vigorously. In 1988-89, I propose to provide Rs.2,200 crores for the Department of Rural Development, inclusive of Rs.430 crores for rural water supply and sanitation. As Hon'ble Members are aware, the outlay on water supply is in addition to the Minimum Needs Programme outlay in the State Sector.

76. Welfare programmes for the tribal people have to be based on respect and understanding of their culture and tradition, and appreciation of their social, psychological and economic problems. The main instrument for the development of tribal people and tribal areas is the Tribal sub-Plan. As the Hon'ble Members know, the Tribal sub-Plans are financed by the State Governments, Special Central Assistance, Centrally Sponsored Programmes and financial institutions. The Special Central Assistance for Tribal sub-Plan for 1988-89 is Rs.185 crores. For Scheduled Castes, Special Component Plans are being formulated with the primary objective of providing occupational mobility and economic strength. In the current year, over 20 lakh Scheduled Caste families are likely to be benifited by these programmes. An amount of Rs.180 crores has been provided as Special Central Additive to Special Component Plans for 1988-89.

77. Our human resources are the most important resource of all. The quality of manpower developed today will be decisive in determining the pace and direction of economic and social progress in the future. In 1986, a new Education Policy was introduced after extensive discussion in Parliament and outside. In order to give a good start to the new Policy, last year, while presenting the Budget, the Prime Minister raised the allocation for education sharply to Rs.800 crores from Rs.352 crores in 1986-87. The actual expenditure is likely to be of the order of Rs.700 crores. Next year's Plan makes an allocation of Rs.800 crores. Together with the non-Plan provision, the total allocation for the Department of Education in 1988-89 will be Rs.1,550 crores against the Revised Estimate of Rs.1,185 crores for 1987-88.

78. Improvement in the health status of the population is an essential component of the human resource development. To achieve this, special emphasis is being laid on establishing primary health facilities, particularly in rural areas, launching control programmes for major communicable and non-communicable diseases, augmenting facilities for medical and para-medical education and training and providing family welfare, maternity and child health, immunization and related services. Under the National Leprosy Eradication Programme, multi-drug treatment has been extended to nearly 2.2 million cases out of the estimated 4 million cases. The Universal Immunization Programme is being extended to 120 districts, besides 182 districts already covered. Health Contingency Plans have been prepared for drought affected States. I propose an outlay of Rs.228 crores for medical and public health programmes and Rs.600 crores for family welfare programmes for 1988-89.

79. Government have initiated a number of measures to ameliorate the conditions of working women. These include programmes for raising skills and economic development, supportive services for working women and shelter and rehabilitation for women in adverse circumstances. For children, a nation-wide programme of Integrated Child Development Services has been in operation. An important objective of these ICDS Programmes is to reduce childhood mortality, morbidity and malnutrition. I am happy to inform the Hon'ble Members that 1,738 Integrated Child Development Services Projects have been sanctioned for the most backward rural areas, tribal areas and urban slums in the country. During the remaining period of the Seventh Five Year Plan, we will be covering most of the tribal blocks with more than 30 per cent Scheduled Tribe population and also the slums in big cities. For the next year, I propose an outlay of Rs.235 crores for the Department of Women and Child Development.

80. Energy, Transport and Communications constitute the basic infrastructure of the economy. A total allocation of Rs.16,588 crores is being provided for these sectors. This outlay represents an increase of about 25 per cent over the current year's level, and accounts for about 58 per cent of the total Plan outlay for 1988-89.

81. Electricity generation has been increasing at an annual rate of 9 to 10 per cent during the Seventh Plan. Though hydro-generation was adversely affected by drought this year, thermal generation registered an improvement of 16 per cent during the first nine months of the current year compared to the corresponding period of last year. The plant load factor of the thermal plants has improved further and is expected to touch 55 per cent, the highest in the last 10 years. I am providing for an outlay of Rs.3,963 crores for the Power sector, that is, an increase of over 32 per cent over the current year's outlay.

82. Coal is the primary and the most abundant source of conventional energy in our country. I am stepping up the provision for this sector by 30 per cent, to a level of Rs.1,733 crores for 1988-89. The production of coal during the current year is expected to reach 182 million tonnes as against the last year's level of 166 million tonnes.

83. As Hon'ble Members are aware, our Petroleum and Natural Gas sector has taken great strides during this decade. The rebound in international oil prices has underlined the urgency for finding and exploiting hydro-carbon resources. Significant discoveries during the year in Krishna-Godavari Off-shore Region and the Bhuvanagiri area of the Cauvery Basin constitute promising rewards to our heavy investments in oil exploration. The year also saw the completion of the first section from Hazira to Bijaipur of the HBJ Pipeline covering 642 kilometres. To maintain the tempo of exploration and production of crude oil and natural gas, I propose an outlay of Rs.3,395 crores for the Petroleum sector.

84. In the field of communications I must share with the House a sense of pride in the work of the Centre for Development of Telematics.By developing a state-of-art electronic switching system, C-DoT has demonstrated what we can achieve through proper organisation and marshalling of our scientific talents. I am allocating Rs.1,873 crores for 1988-89 for the Department of Telecommunications - an increase of 44 per cent over the outlay for the current year.

85. Government recognises the development of our scientific and technological capabilities as a necessary pre-requisite for the economic development of the nation. With this in view, I propose to increase the outlay of the Scientific Departments by about 20 per cent over the current year's level. We can take justifiable pride in the many achievements of our scientists and technologists. While there have been many notable developments during the year, I would like to make a special mention of one of these. On August 26, 1987, the Prime Minister had informed the Hon'ble Members that India was the first applicant to be allotted a mine site in the Central Indian Ocean by the Preparatory Commission for the International Sea-bed Authority. This is a significant step forward in development of our scientific potential. The mine site of 1,50,000 sq.kms. contains a rich deposit of polymetallic nodules.

86. Many other initiatives are envisaged in the different sectors of the economy. However, I do not propose to take the valuable time of the House with a detailed review of all the Plan programmes. The full details are available in the Budget documents.

87. The allocation for Defence is Rs.13,000 crores against Rs.12,000 crores in the current year. Our armed forces, in the face of unwarranted provocations, have done a tremendous job of protecting our borders. Our jawans are the nation's strength. We shall continue to provide them the requisite support in their efforts. Food and fertilizer subsidies are placed at Rs.5,300 crores against Rs.4,410 crores in the current year. Interest charges next year are estimated at Rs.14,100 crores against Rs.11,450 crores in the current year. The allocation for export promotion and market development is Rs.1,091 crores. The other increases relate to grants payable to States for revision of pay scales of university and college teachers, grants and loans to foreign Governments, strengthening of police forces and payment of Rs.100 crores to Oil Industry Development Board. A lump sum provision of Rs.800 crores has been made for additional D.A. instalments that may become payable to Government employees next year. I would like to assure the Hon'ble Members that I have kept the non-Plan expenditure to the barest minimum. Non-Plan expenditure in 1988-89 will thus be Rs.47,896 crores against Rs.41,236 crores in the Revised Estimates for the current year.

88. Coming to receipts, Gross Tax Revenue at existing rates of taxation is estimated at Rs.41985 crores. After payment of Rs.10682 crores to States and local bodies as their share of taxes, the net tax revenue to the Centre next year is estimated at Rs.31303 crores. Receipts from market loans are placed at Rs.7,000 crores, that is, the same level as in the current year. External assistance, net of repayments, is placed at Rs.3,734 crores, against Rs.3,184 crores in the current year. Taking into account the variations in other receipts and expenditure, Budget deficit for the next year at existing rates of taxation is estimated at Rs.8120 crores.

Budget 1988-89

Speech of

Shri Narayan Datt Tiwari
Minister of Finance

29th February, 1988

PART B

89. I shall now turn to my revenue proposals. Every Budget has to raise some resources for financing expenditure, and I shall not be failing in my duty to do so. However, I do believe that it is equally, if not more, important to use fiscal policy for achieving our wider economic and social goals while, at the same time, providing relief where it is due. I am sure, the Hon'ble Members will find a strong link between the proposals that I am about to make, and some of the people-oriented initiatives that I have referred to in Part A of my speech.

90. This House is aware of the fact that in view of the exigencies of the situation, in order to meet the formidable after-effects of the drought of 1987-88, Government took a decision to levy a surcharge of 5% on income-tax for persons with taxable income above Rs.50,000, a surcharge of 10% on wealth tax for the assessment year 1988-89 and a 5% surcharge by way of auxiliary duty of customs on imported goods excluding essential commodities like fertilizers, power equipment, life-saving drugs and medical equipment, etc. This timely action helped the country and the Central and State Governments to meet the requirements of a very difficult situation created by the drought. This surcharge did not touch essential commodities.

91. In view of the continuing pernicious effects of the drought and the natural calamities, I propose to continue with these surcharges for one more year. In addition, it is now proposed to levy a surcharge by way of Special Excise Duty at the rate of 1/20th of the Basic Duty of Excise. The incidence of this surcharge will generally be small; for example, it will be only one quarter of one percent i.e. 0.25%, where the basic duty is 5% ad valorem and one percentage point where the basic duty is 20%.

92. Essential commodities and other priority items which are presently exempt from excise duty will continue to remain exempt. I am also exempting from this surcharge, certain other essential goods of common consumption, namely, sugar, matches, cotton fabrics, vanaspati, refined vegetable oil, tea, coffee and kerosene.

Direct Taxes

93. Hon'ble Members will recall that, in August, 1986, a Discussion Paper on Direct Tax Laws was presented in Parliament. After further discussions and consultations among experts and the public, the Government had introduced the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Bill, 1987, which was passed during the last Session. Since then, many representations have been received from experts, concerned Associations, Chambers of Commerce and other tax-payers regarding some provisions in the Act. The following, inter alia, are the main points made in these representations:-

(1) The proposed system of assessment of partnership firms is too harsh particularly on partnership firms with small income, as such firms, subject to certain deductions, will henceforth be taxed at the maximum marginal rate. Certain other clarifications have also been sought in regard to some other provisions relating to taxation of firms.

(2) The levy of additional tax at a flat rate of 30 per cent would be very unfair in cases of genuine doubt regarding taxability of certain receipts and that the levy of additional tax should itself be appealable.

(3) The provisions relating to charitable trusts, voluntary agencies and institutions carrying on scientific research, etc. may result in unintended hardship, particularly as regards the treatment of contributions to the corpus of such institutions.

(4) The new Act provides for unfettered discretion regarding re-opening of assessments merely on a change of opinion.

94. There are many positive features in the Act, which will help the tax-payers by simplifying the law, but there is also scope for reconsideration keeping in view the representations against some of its provisions. In a democracy, Government should always keep itself abreast of public opinion and be flexible enough to respond to reasonable suggestions. Government will bring a further amendment bill in the Budget Session which will take care of genuine grievances. After the Bill is introduced, Government will be happy to consider any further suggestions that the Hon'ble Members may have to offer.

95. A reasonable degree of stability in the Direct Tax regime is desirable for inspiring confidence and encouraging savings and investment. I do not, therefore, propose any change in the rate structure for personal and corporate taxes.

96. There is, however, a case for reducing, to some extent, the brunt of the burden borne by the fixed income groups. I, therefore, propose to raise the rate of standard deduction from 30 per cent to 33-1/3rd per cent of salary income and the ceiling from Rs.10,000/- to Rs.12,000/-. This measure will benefit about a million tax-payers.

97. Hon'ble Members will recall that Estate Duty was abolished from March, 1985. This was done mainly because the Estate Duty law was complicated and led to procedural harassment to large numbers of tax-payers at a time of great distress, with negligible gain in terms of revenue. However, there is a strong case on grounds of social justice for taxing the transfer of wealth through inheritance especially where the volume of wealth involved is large. This matter has been under consideration of Government for some time. Government have decided to levy a tax on the transfer of wealth which will be applicable to all wealth-tax assessees. The tax will be levied in respect of assets subject to wealth tax. The method for valuation of assets would be the same as for the wealth tax. It will also be administered by the wealth tax officer. The rate of the wealth transfer tax would be 5 times the applicable wealth tax rates. This new tax will avoid the rigidities and procedural delays which characterised the operation of the old Estate Duty Act. As I have mentioned, it will be applicable only to wealth tax assessees and will not affect ordinary tax-payers. Separate legislation in this regard will be introduced in this Session.

98. The thrust of my other proposals in regard to Direct Taxes is to strengthen incentives for export promotion and foreign exchange earnings, to encourage savings and to stimulate the capital market.

99. To encourage exports, I propose to enhance the existing tax concession under Section 80 HHC for export profits so as to exempt 100 per cent of export profits from income-tax. It is also proposed to extend the benefit to supporting manufacturers exporting through Trading or Export Houses. A five-year tax holiday presently available for units in Free Trade Zones is also being extended to 100 per cent Export Oriented Units. Replantation and rejuvenation subsidies for rubber, coffee and cardamom plantations are also proposed to be exempted from income-tax.

100. To promote long-term financing available for construction and purchase of houses, I propose to enhance the existing concession available under Section 80L in respect of interest and dividend income received from companies providing such finance. At present, such income is included under the general exemption limit of Rs.7,000. It is proposed to make such income also eligible under the separate limit of Rs.3,000 for UTI under Section 80L.

101. As an anti-evasion measure, I propose to provide for assessment of income of persons engaged in certain trades, like liquor and forest contracts, at a reasonably fixed percentage of the amount payable by them while purchasing the goods. The tax will be collected at source.

102. I also propose to tax under the head "capital gains", income from transfer of a capital asset by a holding company to its wholly-owned subsidiary company or vice versa, in every case where the capital asset is taken over as stock-in-trade at the time of transfer.

103. Hon'ble Members will recall that in Part A of my speech, I have already referred to certain changes being made in the income-tax payable by LIC as well as certain fiscal measures to promote the equity market. There are certain other minor proposals regarding Direct Taxes in the Finance Bill.

104. The total effect of these proposals will be a revenue loss of Rs.201 crores, which will be off-set by my proposal to continue with the levy of surcharge on income-tax and wealth-tax which will mean a gain of Rs.270 crores. Thus, the net increase in revenue will be Rs.69 crores.

Indirect Taxes

105. Sir, I will now move on to the proposals relating to indirect taxes. It has been my endeavour to see that the basic thrust provided in the field of indirect taxes in the Budget last year is carried forward. I have proposals for providing stimuli to cover agriculture and farming sectors, rural employment, exports, health and medical care, housing and construction activities, technology upgradation and selected industries such as cement, textiles, electronics, paper and plastics. There are also some important reliefs for the common man .

Agricultural and other allied sectors

106. In Part A of my speech, I have announced several measures for the benefit of the farmers, including reduction in interest rates and reduction in cost of inputs, such as fertilizers. I now propose a number of fiscal reliefs for promotion of agriculture and agro-based activities.

107. Monobloc pumpsets and submersible pumpsets are important for irrigation. I am exempting electric motors used in these pumpsets from excise duty.

108. To bring down the cost for farmers, I propose to fully exempt from excise duty a large number of pesticide intermediates. I am also proposing to reduce customs duty in respect of a number of pesticides and pesticide intermediates from the existing levels of 105 per cent and 147 per cent to 70 per cent and 60 per cent ad valorem . These measures will reduce the cost of indigenous production and the end-prices.

109. With a view to promoting modernisation in the agricultural, horticultural, poultry and bee-keeping sectors, I am providing for full exemption from excise duty in respect of machinery for these sectors such as sprinkler systems, fodder mixers, germination appliances, egg candlers, etc.

110. Cold storages are of great importance for the marketing of agricultural produce. I propose to reduce the excise duty on parts and accessories going into the installation of cold storage plants from 40 per cent to 15 per cent ad valorem.

111. As the House is aware, the Government has taken up an ambitious programme of increasing milk production through genetic improvement of cattle and buffaloes. Certain critical equipments, hormones and drugs required for this programme are accordingly being exempted from customs duty in excess of 25 per cent ad valorem.

Food Processing and Packaging

112. Growth of food processing and packaging industry can be of immense help in increasing the value-added of agricultural produce and raising incomes of farmers. In continuation of certain measures for growth of this industry, announced by the Prime Minister last year, it is proposed to further reduce the customs duty in respect of 34 specified items of food processing and packaging machinery from 55 per cent to 35 per cent ad valorem. I also propose to reduce the excise duty on preparations from vegetables, fruits, nuts or other parts of plants like jams, fruit juices, etc. from 10 per cent to 5 per cent ad valorem. Such preparations from vegetables and fruits like jams, jellies, fruit juices, sauces, ketchups and pickles, if manufactured in rural areas by registered cooperative societies, Khadi & Village Industries Commission and State Khadi & Village Industries Boards are proposed to be exempted from excise duty altogether.

113. I also propose to reduce the excise duty on aluminium foil from 25 per cent to 15 per cent ad valorem. This will help in hygienic and scientific packaging of processed food, drugs, condiments, etc.

Rural Employment

114. Off-farm self-employment provides a major route for enhancing income and earnings in the rural areas. Individually, a micro-entrepreneur with low staying power is vulnerable to adverse market forces. His success lies in cooperative ventures. Hence, I am providing for a special scheme for generation of self- employment in the rural areas. Under the proposed scheme, specified products, namely, radios, cassette players and recorders in combination with radios, tape recorders, voltage stabilizers, footwear of a value not exceeding Rs.75 per pair and a few other items will be fully exempt from excise duty, if they are manufactured in rural areas by registered cooperative societies, including self-employed women's cooperatives or cooperative societies under the Scheme of Development of Women and Children in Rural Areas or the Khadi and Village Industries Commission or the State Khadi and Village Industries Boards.

115. As Hon'ble Members are aware, there are a large number of self-employed persons working as carpenters, fitters, electricians, plumbers, etc. To lend further strength to their toiling hands and with the twin objectives of increasing their productivity and earnings, I propose to reduce the excise duty in respect of some hand tools like files, screwdrivers, pliers, etc. from 20% to 10% ad valorem.

116. To promote better accounting and to relieve the traders, city-based shop keepers, small businessmen, wholesalers and small factory owners from the drudgery of book-keeping at the end of the day, I propose to reduce excise duty from 20% to 10% on small electronic cash registers of assessable value of Rs.10,000 or below.

Consumer Articles

117. I am conscious of the fact that common consumers have been affected by some price increase. I am anxious to give them some relief within the constraints in which I am operating.

118. I propose to increase the upper value limit from Rs.25,000/- to Rs.30,000/- for the purpose of extending the concessional rate of excise duty of 15 per cent ad valorem in respect of a wide variety of commonly used toilet soaps. I am also proposing to fully exempt from excise duty laundry and carbolic soaps manufactured in rural areas by cooperatives and khadi and village industries sector.

119. So far, electric bulbs upto 60 watts have been exempted from excise duty. With a view to facilitating a brighter luminance in houses, streets, work places, etc., I propose to reduce the excise duty in respect of electric bulbs exceeding 60 watts from Rs. 1.50 per bulb to Re.1.00 per bulb.

120. As a measure of providing a little more happiness and education among children, I propose to completely exempt from excise duty toys, like toy scooters, toy pedal cars, dolls, toy musical instruments, scale models, recreational models, etc. and inexpensive pencil sharpeners.

121. With a view to reducing domestic drudgery, I propose to fully exempt from excise duty certain domestic electrical appliances from frying pans to saucepans. I am also similarly exempting electric kettles, water-boilers, toasters and automatic irons. I am also totally exempting stainless steel utensils from excise duty.

122. As a further component of anti-smuggling measures and to cultivate a greater sense of time-consciousness and to instil a spirit of greater punctuality among the school-going children, college students, office-goers, the public generally and, if I may venture to say so, politicians like us also, I propose to reduce the excise duty on wall clocks and quartz clocks and parts thereof from 15 per cent to 5 per cent ad valorem . I shall be announcing some relief for indigenous watch industry later in my speech.

123. In respect of glassware, I propose to reduce the excise duty in respect of a number of items of tableware of common use like jugs, cups, plates, bowls, etc. manufactured by automatic process from 40 per cent to 25 per cent ad valorem and those manufactured by the semi-automatic or mouth-blown processes, to 20 per cent ad valorem .

124. I also propose to exempt from excise duty all children's films and all films selected for the Indian panorama section for International Film Festivals.

125. There can be no better auspicious occasion than the Government's Annual Budget to exempt sindoor, kajal, alta and mahavar -- the age-old symbols of glorious and devout womanhood-- from taxation and, accordingly, I hereby do so by proposing to fully exempt these from excise duty.

Health and Medicare

126. Our goal is to provide cheap and efficient medicare to all our people. Towards achieving this objective, availability of essential drugs at lower prices has to be ensured. I, therefore, intend to align the excise tariff, as far as possible, with the new Drug (Prices Control) Order, 1987. I propose to provide total exemption from excise duties in respect of formulations and bulk drugs which are specified in Category I of the Drug (Prices Control) Order. Intermediates for these drugs will also be fully exempt from excise duty. The House would recall that the drugs specified in Category I are required for the National Health Programmes like T.B., Leprosy, Malaria, Filaria Eradication programmes and programmes for the control of blindness and trachoma and prevention of dehydration.

127. A concessional excise duty of 10% ad valorem is being prescribed for single ingredient formulations based on drugs specified in Category II of the Drug (Prices Control) Order. I also propose to continue the existing excise duty exemptions in respect of specified cardiac drugs and anti-TB, anti-malaria, anti-leprosy and anti-diabetic drugs. Two anti-cancer drugs and an important life-saving drug, are proposed to be added to the list of exempted drugs. However, I propose to withdraw the existing exemption from customs duty in respect of specified formulations for which adequate indigenous capacity has been built up. It is hoped that these fiscal reliefs will encourage domestic production and help better availability of these vital drugs.

128. I propose to prescribe a nominal excise levy of 5% on bulk drugs except those covered by Category I of Drugs (Prices Control) Order. This will enable the manufacturers to avail of MODVAT credit in respect of all dutiable inputs including drug intermediates. I also propose to reduce the import duty on 235 specified drug intermediates from 115% to 90% ad valorem .

129. In the related field of medical equipment, the procedure for customs duty-free import of hospital equipments, apparatus, appliances including spare parts and accessories by Government and Government-controlled hospitals is being simplified. Similarly, the procedure for import of specified sophisticated medical equipment at a concessional duty of 40% ad valorem is also being streamlined. In respect of such imports by Non- Resident Indians, financed out of their own foreign exchange resources, the duty will be even lower at 20%. Import of such equipment when financed by Government to Government assistance will be exempt from customs duty.

130. I propose to extend the concessional duty to spare parts of such specified equipments also at 40% ad valorem . The list of medical equipments attracting concessional customs duty at 40% ad valorem is being enlarged by addition of 83 dental, ophthalmological, cardiological, gynaecological, general surgical and other medical equipments. Components of these equipments will also be charged duty at 40% as against the existing levels ranging from 80% to 130% ad valorem in order to encourage domestic manufacture of these equipments.

131. I also propose to reduce the excise duty on these indigenously manufactured equipments from 15% to 5% ad valorem . The excise duty on X-ray films is also proposed to be reduced from 15% to 5% ad valorem . Excise duty on aluminium extrusions and square and round tubes used in the manufacture of artificial limbs is being exempted altogether.

132. I hope that our dedicated doctors throughout the country will now be able to modernise their hospitals and clinics a little faster and patients will get better care and treatment thereby.

Housing

133. As I mentioned earlier, in order to encourage growth of housing it is necessary to reduce the cost of house building material. Hence, I propose to provide a general reduction in excise duty on cement from Rs. 225 to Rs. 205 per tonne. The existing differential in excise duty rates for certain categories of cement units will also continue. The levy ratios for certain categories of cement units are also being reduced.

134. In order to protect the environment and help divert demand from wood to metals, excise duty on doors, windows and their frames and thresholds for doors, made of aluminium is proposed to be reduced from 20% to 15% ad valorem . Similarly, excise duty on corrugated sheets of aluminium is being reduced from 25% to 15% ad valorem . I also propose to reduce the excise duty on steel doors, windows and their frames and thresholds for doors from 15% to 5% ad valorem .

135. It is time that we think innovatively and use unconventional materials for housing which would be cheap and functional. The excise duty on blocks, slabs, lintels, etc. constituting structural intermediates and components of pre-fabricated buildings is being reduced from 12% to 5% ad valorem . Similarly, fly ash bricks will pay a lower duty of 5% ad valorem , and lympo, a cement substitute, will bear a zero rate of duty.

136. To reduce fire hazards, we should promote the use of fire extinguishers. With this end in view, I propose to exempt fire-extinguishers from excise duty.

Exports

137. To thrive in the highly competitive international market, our natural advantages and production efforts have to be supplemented by adequate fiscal and other measures. In this context, I propose to take some further measures to promote exports.

138. Concessional rates of customs duty have been provided in the past in respect of specified items of machinery for identified export thrust sectors. Eight more machines for the garments and hosiery sector, twenty-three machines for the leather industry, four more machines for the gem and jewellery industry and three more items of textile machinery will now attract a concessional rate of 35% ad valorem . Specified items of machinery for the tea, bicycle, silk and woollen industries are being provided with a concessional customs duty of 35% ad valorem .

139. Ivory and Ivory powder are being totally exempted from customs duty. This will help reduce poaching in our jungles as well as provide adequate raw material for ivory handicraft industry, which is export-oriented.

140. The value-limit of duty-free import of commercial samples is being enhanced from Rs.1000 to Rs.5000 in a year; and for duty-free import of prototypes of engineering goods, from Rs.1000 to Rs.10,000.

141. Full rebate of excise duty will now be available for tea exported directly from factories. The procedure for claiming rebate of excise duty on export of unblended tea by merchant-exporters is being simplified. Green tea is being exempted from excise duty altogether.

Capital Goods

142. In the modern industrial world, obsolescence takes place at a fast rate. Unless one upgrades the technology continuously, one is apt to be left out in the race. Following Prime Minister's guideline given in last year's Budget speech, I had announced in August 1987, a technology upgradation scheme, under which fiscal relief was provided in respect of import of specified items of capital equipments required for manufacture of machinery covered by the scheme at 35% ad valorem . To promote domestic production of such machinery, the customs duty on selected raw materials needed for their production is being reduced to 55% from the existing level ranging from around 100% to 180%. These include specified insulation materials, copper conductors and special electrical steel sheets for power generation and electrical equipment and clad steel plates for manufacture of selected industrial machinery specified in the technology upgradation scheme. The customs duty on boiler and presssure vessel quality steel plates, turbine blade flats and stainless steel plates required for manufacture of machinery is also being reduced from 90% to 55%.

Scientific equipment and spares

143. There have been persistent demands from the scientific community for further fiscal concessions in regard to consumables required for research and spares of imported equipment. Keeping in view the importance of scientific research, the existing duty concession schemes are being liberalised. The certification procedures, which have been acting as hurdles in the clearance of these goods, are being simplified.

144. Some specified scientific instruments and apparatus would bear excise duty of 5% ad valorem instead of the current rate of 15%.

Textiles

145. The textile industry has a unique place in the industrial map of India. It provides jobs to millions of our people. It is a major export earner, and is directly linked to agriculture. Of late, the industry has suffered from widespread sickness and haphazard growth. Availability and prices of raw cotton and cotton yarn have been subject to considerable instability. Handloom weavers are suffering because of yarn prices. Powerlooms have their problems too. While production of synthetic yarn, which is used for blended fabrics preferred for their durability by the common man, has expanded, prices of such yarn have been very high. Smuggling has been another problem which, despite Government's strong action, has had some adverse effects on the economy.

146. In order to overcome these problems, in 1985, Government had announced a new Textile Policy. Its primary objective was to increase production of cloth of acceptable quality at reasonable prices. In line with this policy, a number of measures have already been taken by the Government. These have yielded results as reflected in the increase in production and availability of cloth. I now propose to provide some fiscal support to the endeavours of the Ministry of Textiles in reviving this industry so that, once again, it can regain its rightful place in our economy. My proposals, which follow are based on a comprehensive review of the duty structure relating to the various segments of the industry with a view to lowering prices, increasing the demand for fabrics and increasing the base of production.

147. In 1985, a scheme was evolved for making available duty-free polyester staple fibre to the handloom sector for manufacture of designated fabrics under a scheme approved by the Government. I now propose to reduce the excise duty on polyester filament yarn for manufacturing handloom fabrics under a scheme for supply management and distribution of fabrics, to be announced by the Ministry of Textiles. Similarly, viscose filament yarn will bear a concessional rate of 50 per cent of the existing duty, when the yarn is supplied to registered handloom cooperative societies or any approved organisation for the development of handlooms.

148. I also propose to exempt handloom woollen fabrics processed by approved independent processors from excise duty. Raw wool imported by certain specified handloom agencies is being exempted from customs duty. The import duty on acetate filament yarn is being reduced from 60 per cent to 45 per cent.

149. In order to reduce prices of cotton yarn, it is proposed to reduce the excise duty on cotton yarn of counts not exceeding 35 by 10 per cent of the existing rates. The excise duty on cotton yarn above 35 counts is being reduced by 3 paise per count. This will mean a reduction of upto a maximum of 28.5 per cent, depending on the count of yarn.

150. Considering the fact that viscose staple fibre would help substituting for cotton, I propose to reduce the excise duty on viscose staple fibre cleared for blending with cotton from the existing level of Rs. 7 per kg. to Rs. 5 per kg. Simultaneously, I propose to increase the duty on viscose staple fibre used for other purposes to Rs. 8 per kg. to divert more VSF for cotton blending.

151. The National Textile Corporation is already manufacturing cheap fabrics under a special scheme, for which polyester staple fibre is being supplied free of excise duty. I propose to provide that polyester filament yarn will be available at a concessional duty rate of Rs.10 per kg. to the National Textile Corporation for manufacturing fabrics under a duty credit scheme. The details will be announced separately.

152. In line with the Textile Policy, in order to facilitate absorption of increased domestic production, I propose to reduce fiscal levies on man-made fibres and yarn. This would also help revitalise the powerloom sector which is facing problems of under-utilisation of capacity and consequent problems of unemployment. The duty on polyester staple fibre is being reduced from Rs.25 to Rs.15 per kg., and on polyester filament yarn from Rs.83.75 to Rs.53.75 per kg. At the same time, in order to ensure greater availability and to put pressure on the domestic producers to pass on the reduction in excise duties fully to the consumers, import duties on these items are also being reduced by about 25 percentage points.

153. The excise duty on nylon filament yarn is being reduced from Rs.70 to Rs.40 per kg. and that on acrylic fibre from Rs.10 to Rs. 8 per kg. Customs duty on these items is also being suitably reduced.

154. It is also proposed to reduce the excise duty on nylon filament yarn for industrial purposes such as for manufacture of tyres for cycles and industrial filter fabrics, from Rs. 70 to Rs.8.13 per kg. Nylon filament yarn of specified deniers used for fishing nets will pay an even lower concessional duty of Rs.4.55 per kg.

155. I also propose to reduce the excise duty on certain specified textile machinery required for modernisation of the mills from 15 per cent to 5 per cent ad valorem . The customs duty on certain specified machinery for the garment, hosiery and woollen industries is being reduced to 35 per cent, as indicated earlier.

156. Hon'ble Members will agree that these comprehensive fiscal measures, supported by other measures taken by the Ministry of Textiles, should give a boost to the textile industry and help protect jobs of lakhs of workers. These should also improve the working of the mills of the National Textile Corporation. I fully expect and shall insist upon the entire relief being passed on in the form of lower prices.

157. At this point, I would also like to ask manufacturers in all industries, where I have granted excise concessions, to pass on the excise relief to consumers in the form of lower prices. Administrative Ministries concerned are being requested to keep a close watch on the price behaviour of these commodities. I shall not hesitate to withdraw the concessions, wherever there is evidence of manufacturers taking undue advantage of these concessions.

Electronics

158. We have been using the fiscal mechanism for some time to give a boost to the entire electronics sector. As a result of Government policy, substantial growth has taken place in this sector, giving employment to lakhs of young men and women. At present, concessional rates of customs duty of 60% or 70% ad valorem are available in respect of specified items of machinery for the electronics industry. These concessions have been reviewed. With a view to providing a stimulus and keeping in view the latest advances in technology, I propose to extend a uniform concessional duty of 60% ad valorem in respect of 280 items of machinery for the electronics sector.

159. Customs duty on moulds, tools and dies required by the electronics industry is being reduced further from 60% to 30% ad valorem . The coverage of the graded structure of duties for raw materials, piece parts and components for the industry is being enlarged. Polycrystalline silicon will now bear a lower duty of 35% instead of the existing 80%.

160. Machinery and instruments required for the manufacture of Rural Automatic Exchanges based on indigenous technology will attract a lower rate of duty of 30%. A uniform rate of 100% is being provided in respect of a large number of equipments for telecommunication transmission, satellite communication, switching, data communication terminals, television transmission, studio and sound broadcasting. Non-electronic components of these equipments will bear a lower duty of 80%. With a view to encouraging production of high-tech items like Large-Scale Integrated circuits, micro-processors and other micro-electronics items, import of 22 items of machinery will be allowed at 15% ad valorem .

161. At present, computers, computer systems and peripherals attract varying rates of duty ranging from zero to 147.5%. As a rationalisation measure, a uniform rate of duty of 80% ad valorem plus countervailing duty is being provided in respect of all computers, computer systems, computer peripherals and spare parts thereof. Software will continue to attract the existing rates of customs duty at 60% ad valorem . As an export incentive, accompanying computer software and start-up spares imported under the policy on computer software export, software development and training will be allowed at the rate applicable to the hardware. Computerized Numerically Controlled systems and their parts at present attract a customs duty of 80%. This is being lowered to 55% ad valorem . Excise duty on Computerised Numerically Controlled systems is being reduced to 5% ad valorem .

162. Colour TV sets of screen size exceeding 36 cms and of assessable value exceeding Rs. 5,000 per set will now attract an excise duty of Rs.2,000 instead of Rs.1,750. However, such sets of value not exceeding Rs.5000 will continue to attract a duty of Rs.1500 per set as at present. Excise duty on audio magnetic tapes is being enhanced to Rs. 4 per square metre. Blank audio cassettes are being exempted from duty. Excise duty on computer software is being reduced from 25% to 10% ad valorem .

163. Certain other industries also require a boost for their further development. My proposals now cover a number of such industries.

Plastics

164. The House would recall that the customs duties on various plastic materials, such as LDPE, HDPE, PVC and polypropylene were lowered in September, 1987, in the wake of the steep hike in the international prices of these materials. International prices have since gone up even higher and there is need for further reduction in customs duties. I, therefore, propose to reduce the basic customs duty on LDPE from Rs.3,000 to Rs.2,000 per tonne and on HDPE from 30 per cent to 20 per cent ad valorem .

165. The auxiliary duty of customs on PVC is proposed to be converted from ad valorem to specific, and in the case of suspension grade PVC is being reduced to Rs.2000 per tonne and in the case of paste grade to Rs.4000 per tonne. In the case of polypropylene, auxiliary duty is being reduced from 45 per cent to 30 per cent ad valorem .

Automotive Sector

166. In the automotive sector, I propose to extend the concessional rate of 55 per cent customs duty in respect of parts for certain additional components to be manufactured by auto ancillaries for supply to fuel-efficient motor vehicles. Parts of specified as well as additional components of fuel-efficient two-wheelers and light commercial vehicles will now attract a lower rate of customs duty of 40 per cent ad valorem as against the current rate of 55 per cent ad valorem . Concessional rate of customs duty of 55 per cent ad valorem in respect of components required for the manufacture of fuel-efficient cars upto 1000 cc under phased manufacturing programme is proposed to be made available for a further period from 1.3.1988 to 31.3.1990. Fuel-efficient motor cars of engine capacity exceeding 1000 cc manufactured under approved phased manufacturing programme will, however, now attract excise duty at the rate of 30 per cent ad valorem instead of the existing 25 per cent.

167. I propose to reduce the excise duty from Rs. 1000 to Rs.500 per body in respect of bodies of such three-wheeler auto-rickshaws, which are used by the general public in major cities.

Vegetable oils

168. In order to cut down on imports of vegetable oils, the Government had taken fiscal measures in the previous years so as to encourage domestic production of edible oils. These measures have had encouraging results. As a follow-up of the measures taken in the last two years, I propose to provide total exemption from excise duty in respect of refined safflower oil. Rebate for the use of solvent-extracted cotton seed oil in the manufacture of vanaspati is being increased from Rs.3250 to Rs.4000 per tonne. Rebate for the use of indigenous palm oil in the manufacture of vanaspati is also being made available at the rate of Rs.3250 per tonne. Solvent-extracted sunflower and safflower oils will, henceforth, qualify for rebate at the rate of Rs.3250 per tonne, if used in the manufacture of vanaspati. I am also proposing an increase in the rate of rebate from Rs.320 to Rs.640 per tonne for the use of rice bran oil in the manufacture of soaps.

Paper and Paper Board

169. I propose to reduce the excise duty on paper and paper board manufactured by small paper mills by Rs.100 per tonne in each of the existing slabs. Paper and paper board manufactured by mills using agricultural residues such as cereal straw, bagasse, grasses and jute waste, etc. already attract a lower rate of excise duty of 10 per cent ad valorem plus Rs.800 per tonne. I propose to reduce this duty further by Rs.300 per tonne. Concession of 50 per cent of the excise duty available to certain new paper mills upto 31.3.1988 is being continued till 31.3.1990.

170. Specified items of machinery for manufacture of newsprint are being provided with a concessional rate of customs duty of 25 per cent ad valorem .

171. I also propose to provide for import of machinery for binding and multi-colour sheet-fed off-set printing machine by registered newspaper establishments at concessional rates of customs duty.

Rolling Bearing Industry

172. In respect of 21 items of machinery for the rolling bearing industry, a concessional duty of customs at 35 per cent ad valorem is being provided.

Watches

173. With a view to giving a further boost to domestic watch industry, I intend to reduce customs duty from 55 per cent to 35 per cent ad valorem in respect of certain horological machinery and testing instruments. The list of horological raw materials attracting concessional customs duty of 25 per cent ad valorem is being enlarged. In addition, my detailed proposals provide for a sound package for certain specified parts.

Glass and glassware

174. I propose to restore the concessional rate of excise duty of 30 per cent ad valorem in respect of glass and glassware manufactured by the semi-automatic sector.

Energy conservation

175. In our industrial processes, many of us have remained rather unresponsive to the need for energy conservation and energy recycling. The concept of energy conservation is still in its infancy in the country and we have to provide some incentive in that direction. Accordingly, 15 specified energy-saving equipments are being exempted from customs duty in excess of 40 per cent ad valorem .

Hotels

176. To promote tourism in the country, certain additional equipments required by hotels are being extended a concessional rate of customs duty of 90 per cent .

Rationalisation Measures

177. My proposals on the indirect taxes include certain rationalisation measures.

(a) Industry has found the MODVAT system beneficial. The procedural problems faced in the initial stages have, by and large, been sorted out. I propose to rationalize rates of excise duty in respect of a few commodities, including paints based on synthetic polymers, trailers, furniture, phthalic anhydride and coated textiles as a part of MODVAT corrections.

(b) The scheme of excise duty concessions applicable to small scale industry relating to air-conditioning and refrigerating appliances and parts thereof is being slightly modified to enable full utilisation of the MODVAT credit.

(c) I propose to align the excise tariff relating to ferrous and non-ferrous metals and articles thereof with the corresponding chapters of the Harmonised System which would help reduce classification disputes. Tariff rates of excise duty in respect of items relating to iron and steel and copper are being revised. The effective rates of excise duty would by and large be maintained. A uniform rate of excise duty of Rs.550 per tonne is being prescribed in respect of unmachined forgings and forged products of steel. The basic customs duty on ships, vessels and other floating structures imported for breaking up is being reduced from Rs.1035 to Rs.750 per Light Displacement Tonnage.

(d) Certain proposals for rationalising and rounding off of rates of excise duty in respect of Petroleum products are being made. These proposals have no significant revenue implications.

(e) The scheme of excise duty concession to manufacturers of tread rubber in the small scale sector is being revised as an anti-evasion measure.

(f) As an anti-evasion measure, I am also proposing to enhance the basic customs duty in respect of certain compound alcoholic preparations of a kind used for the manufacture of beverages to Rs.80 per litre or 270%, whichever is higher.

(g) There have been some reports regarding under-invoicing in respect of imports of galvanised steel sheets, tin plates and cold rolled steel sheets. In order to deal with this problem, the basic customs duty in respect of these goods is being converted from ad valorem -cum-specific rates into specific rates.

(h) Specific rates of excise duty in respect of air-conditioners upto 7.5 tonnes capacity are being revised. Specific rates are also being prescribed in respect of air-conditioners exceeding 7.5 tonnes but not exceeding 15 tonnes.

(i) As an anti-evasion measure, excise duty on paste grade PVC is proposed to be increased from 40% to 60% ad valorem . The duty paid on the resin would be available as MODVAT credit. Effective rates of duty on coated textiles are being suitably revised.

(j) In order to provide protection to the indigenous industry, I am proposing to enhance the basic customs duty in respect of Sodium Formaldehyde Sulphoxylate from 70% to 110% and Sodium Ferrocyanide from 70% to 100% and iron powder from 40% to 70%. The basic customs duty in respect of palm nuts and kernels is also proposed to be raised from 60% to 200% ad valorem .

178. Legislative changes and other changes of minor significance: Apart from the above proposals, certain amendments have also been proposed in the Finance Bill effecting changes in the excise and customs tariffs. These amendments are basically enabling provisions without any major revenue significance. Besides, there are a few minor proposals for continuing, amending or rescinding existing notifications including one for giving retrospective effect to an amending notification. To save the precious time of the House, I do not wish to dwell on them. I am also providing for amendment of some of the provisions of the Customs Act, 1962, details of which are in the Finance bill. A few amendments to the Central Sales Tax Act, 1956, are also proposed, so as to align the definitions of certain goods of special importance with reference to the Central Excise Tariff Act, 1985.

179. Copies of notifications giving effect to the changes in the customs and excise duties effective from 1st March, 1988 will be laid on the Table of the House in due course.

180. Anti-smuggling drive: Our anti-smuggling efforts yielded a seizure of Rs.250 crores of contraband goods in 1987 which is the highest ever. I have instructed the concerned authorities to relentlessly continue the drive against smuggling, tax evasion and black money. I also seek the active cooperation of the State Governments, as it is with their assistance that we can succeed in this task. I hope and trust that the State Governments will also mount active steps against hoarding, black-marketing, smuggling and sale of smuggled goods.

181. Revenue effect: Details of all the pluses and minuses in respect of individual items covered in my proposals are in the Explanatory Memorandum to the Finance Bill. In the aggregate, my proposals in respect of Customs and Central Excise duties outlined above are likely to yield additional revenue of Rs.515.75 crores from Customs duties and Rs.749.17 crores from Excise duties. The concessions and reliefs aggregate to Rs.209.44 crores on the Customs side and Rs.509.79 crores on the Excise side. The net additional revenue from Customs duties would, thus, be Rs.306.31 crores and that from Excise duties Rs.239.38 crores. In Excise duties, the Centre's share would be Rs.117.23 crores and that of States, Rs.122.15 crores. Out of the total net additional yield of Rs.545.69 crores, the Centre's share would be Rs.423.54 crores and that of the States, Rs.122.15 crores.

182. Taking into account the additional yield from the modifications proposed in direct and indirect taxes and the revision announced a few days ago in postal tariffs, the year end deficit for the next year is estimated at Rs.7484 crores. Government reiterates its determination to closely monitor expenditure, maximise collection of revenues and contain the budgetary deficit.

183. Mr. Speaker, Sir, in framing the Budget proposals, my guiding principle has been the need to boost agriculture, help the poor and generate more employment, investment and growth. India's achievements since Independence are the result of the untiring efforts of all our people. Every section of our people has contributed to build the country's economy. No single section or region or group can claim exclusive credit for it. The nation's Parliament as the supreme forum of our democracy has also made an invaluable contribution. In all humility, may I take this opportunity to request through you, Sir, all the Hon'ble Members of Parliament, to make this year's debate on the budget a participatory and constructive endeavour to evolve a nationally accepted strategy to achieve our goals.

184. Let us be proud of what all of us together have been able to do and if there are inadequacies or deficiencies, let us overcome them collectively. Let us all join in the exciting task of India's economic development and do so by making it a common fraternal partnership of the entire Indian people. As our Prime Minister Shri Rajiv Gandhi said a couple of months ago:

> "Our socialism is our own. It is not a foreign transplant. It is not cast in someone else's ideological mould. It is rooted in our own history, our culture, our realities. Gandhiji enjoined us to work for the Daridra Narayan, to wipe every tear from every eye. This constiutes the moral imperative of our socialism."

185. This is also the message that this Budget seeks to convey. Sir, I now commend this budget to the House.

केन्द्रीय आयोजना, 1988-89 की विशेषताएं

आयोजना परिव्यय में 16 प्रतिशत की वृद्धि ।

आधारभूत ढांचे के परिव्यय में 25 प्रतिशत वृद्धि

कृषि क्षेत्र के लिए कार्य आयोजना

कृषि और सिंचाई (1295 करोड़ रुपए)

- कृषि और सहकारिता तथा जल संसाधन विभागों के परिव्ययों में 40 प्रतिशत से ज्यादा वृद्धि
- चालू वर्ष में 20.5 लाख अतिरिक्त हेक्टेयर भूमि में सिंचाई की व्यवस्था किए जाने का लक्ष्य निर्धारित ।
- कृषि उत्पादन में वृद्धि करने के लिए विनिर्दिष्ट जिलों में कार्य आयोजना ।

गरीबी-विरोधी कार्यक्रम

- ग्रामीण विकास विभाग का परिव्यय (2200 करोड़ रुपए)

एकीकृत ग्रामीण विकास कार्यक्रम (346 करोड़ रुपए)

- कुल मिलाकर 8413 करोड़ रुपए के पूंजी निवेश से अब तक 254 लाख परिवारों की सहायता की गई इनमें से 40 प्रतिशत लाभभोगी अनुसूचित जातियों और अनुसूचित जनजातियों से संबंध रखते है ।
- ग्रामीण रोजगार कार्यक्रमों पर परिव्यय का विवरण इस प्रकार है: राष्ट्रीय ग्रामीण रोजगार कार्यक्रम (52 करोड़ रुपए), ग्रामीण भूमिहीन रोजगार गारंटी कार्यक्रम (730 करोड़ रुपए) । वर्ष 1986-87 के दौरा 7006 लाख कार्य दिवसों के लिए रोजगार पैदा किया गया जो कि 5115 लाख कार्य दिवसों के रोजगार निर्धारित लक्ष्य से काफी ज्यादा था । आशा है कि चालू वर्ष में भी, रोजगार पैदा करने के लक्ष्य से ज्याद रोजगार पैदा किया जाएगा ।
- इन कार्यक्रमों को और ज्यादा कारगर बनाने के उद्देश्य से इन कार्यक्रमों का मूल्यांकन ।

ग्रामीण जलपूर्ति और स्वच्छता (430 करोड़ रुपए)

- सातवीं आयोजना के प्रथम तीन वर्षों में 1.62 लाख गांवों में से एक लाख समस्यामूलक गांवों में जलपूर्ति औ स्वच्छता की व्यवस्था की गई है ।
- वर्ष 1988-89 में 18,500 आंशिक रूप से पूरकमिल किए गए गांवों के अलावा, जिन में जलपूर्ति औ स्वच्छता की व्यवस्था पूरी की जाएगी, 32698 गांवों में उपर्युक्त व्यवस्था किए जाने का लक्ष्य निर्धारित है ।

ऊर्जा (9,196करोड़ रुपए)

- विद्युत के क्षेत्र में 32 प्रतिशत की वृद्धि
- कोयले और लिग्नाइट में 30 प्रतिशत की वृद्धि

विद्युत (3963 करोड़ रुपए)

- अप्रैल से दिसम्बर, 1988 के बीच तापीय विद्युत के उत्पादन में 16 प्रतिशत वृद्धि
- आशा है कि चालू वर्ष में तापीय विद्युत संयंत्रों का संयंत्र भारानुपात बढ़कर 55 प्रतिशत हो जाएगा, जबकि इसकी तुलना में सातवीं आयोजना के प्रारम्भ में यह अनुपात 50 प्रतिशत था ।
- अप्रैल से दिसम्बर, 1988 के बीच विद्युत उत्पादन की स्थापित क्षमता में 2673 मेगावाट की वृद्धि
- वर्ष 1986-87 तक 4.15 लाख गांवों में बिजली पहुंचा दी गई ।
- वर्ष 1987-88 के अन्त तक विद्युत-चालित पम्प सेटों की संख्या 71.8 लाख हो जाएगी ।

बजट का सार BUDGET AT A GLANCE

व्याख्यात्मक टिप्पणी Explanatory Note

इस पुस्तिका में बजट के अनुमानों को स्थूल समूहों में बांट कर दिखाया जाता है, ताकि बजट को आसानी से समझा जा सके । इस प्रयोजन के लिए प्राप्तियों और व्यय की कतिपय मदों का पुनः समूहीकरण किया गया है । उदाहरण के लिए वाणिज्यिक विभागों के व्यय को, उसमें से उनकी प्राप्तियां घटाकर दिखाया गया है, ताकि लेनदेनों की मात्रा में होने वाली वृद्धि से दोनों खातों के आंकड़ों के परिमाण में वृद्धि न हो पाए । इसी प्रकार राज्यों को दिए गए ऐसे अल्पावधिक ऋणों और अग्रिमों को, जिनकी उसी वर्ष के दौरान वसूल कर लिया गया हो, निवल मात्रा में प्रदर्शित किया गया है । कतिपय ऐसे लेनदेनों को, जिनके कारण नगद रकम की निकासी नहीं होती लेकिन जिनके बारे में समतुल्य प्राप्तियां हो जाती हैं जैसे कि अन्तर्राष्ट्रीय मुद्रा कोष को दिए जाने वाले अंशदान को, सम्मिलित नहीं किया गया है, ताकि व्यय की वास्तविक मदों को ही प्रमुखता मिले ।

The Budget estimates are presented in this document in broad aggregates to facilitate easy understanding. For this purpose certain items of receipts and expenditure have been regrouped. For example, the expenditures of commercial departments have been taken net of their receipts so that increase in the volume of transactions does not inflate the figures on both sides. Similarly, short term loans and advances given to the States and recovered during the same year have been netted. Certain transactions which do not involve cash outgo and are matched by receipts e.g. subscription to International Monetary Fund have been excluded so that focus is on real items of expenditure.

यद्यपि राजस्व खातों और पूंजी खातों के बीच की भिन्नता की अपनी अलग संगति है, तथापि दोनों भागों में दिखाए जाने वाले कतिपय लेनदेनों को इकट्ठा करके भी दिखाया गया है । आयोजनागत व्यय में वर्तमान विकास तथा निवेश संबंधी परिव्यय सम्मिलित है । अनुदानों के रूप में अथवा ऋणों के रूप में प्राप्त विदेशी सहायता को, इकट्ठा करके प्रदर्शित किया गया है । रक्षा सेवाओं से संबंधित अनुमानों को एक ही स्थान पर प्रदर्शित किया गया है ।

While the distinction between revenue and capital accounts has its relevance, certain transactions appearing in both the sections have been brought together. Plan expenditure comprises current development as well as investment outlays. External assistance received whether in the form of grants or loans has been brought together. Estimates relating to Defence services have been shown at one place.

THE ECONOMIC SITUATION IN 1987-88

Economic performance and economic management during the current year have been dominated by the impact of the drought. While the initial shock of monsoon failure is experienced in agriculture, the derived effects usually get transmitted to other sectors of the economy within a time span of six to eight months. This year, however, a comprehensive package of policies have been carefully planned and implemented across a wide front in order to contain the adverse effects of the drought.

1.2 Coming at the end of a run of four poor monsoons, the current drought is one of the worst monsoon failures on record, with 21 out of 35 rainfall subdivisions receiving deficient or scanty rainfall. However, in contrast to earlier years of severe drought, the extent of economic dislocation has been limited this year. Thanks to large foodstocks, adequate availability of foodgrains has been ensured in different parts of the country. The performance of industry so far has been satisfactory. Critical infrastructure sectors like coal mining, railways and thermal power generation have also done well. The price situation remains difficult. However, the inflation rate is not as high this year as during the drought years of the sixties and seventies.

1.3 The relative stability which the economy has demonstrated this year is partly attributable to the absence of other shocks, such as those experienced during the droughts of 1965-67, 1972-73 and 1979-80. Also, with the diversification of the economy, the share of agriculture and agro-based industries in national income has come down substantially. The effect of a supply shock in agriculture on the rest of the economy is consequently more subdued than before. Apart from these factors, the performance of the economy is in large measure a reflection of the many timely policy interventions undertaken in order to minimise the impact of the drought.

1.4 The most important of these policy measures has of course been government operations in foodgrains. Large stocks, built up to over 23 million tonnes by June, 1987, made it possible to maintain adequate supplies of foodgrains, especially in the drought affected areas, through the Public Distribution System, the relief programmes and other employment programmes. There have also been a host of other policy measures including relief employment programmes and steps to boost Rabi production. Measures have also been taken for the accelerated completion of irrigation projects, conservation of water resources, livestock protection, fodder production and maintenance of drinking water and power supplies. Imported edible oils and pulses have also been released through the vastly expanded public distribution system. These measures have been supplemented by fiscal and monetary policies to make adequate resources available for drought and flood relief without excessive monetary expansion.

1.5 The challenges of successful management of the drought have focussed attention on the continuing sensitivity of agricultural production to adverse weather conditions. The tempo of higher growth recorded in the first half of the eighties has been disturbed by recurring monsoon failures during the last four years. With a view to recovering the momentum of agricultural growth, it has been decided that top priority should be given to this sector in the remaining two years of the Plan.

1.6 The growing resilience of the non-agricultural sector to drought and supply shocks in agriculture is shown by recent trends in industrial production. During the first eight months of the current year (April to November 1987) industrial production as a whole registered an increase of 10.2 per cent over the comparable period of 1986. However, an analysis of monthly growth patterns during earlier drought years suggests that the adverse impact of drought on industrial production usually shows up after a time lag. Even after allowing for some slow down in industrial production during the last few months of the financial year, it is likely that over the whole year industrial growth will exceed 8 per cent. This is in line with the high rates of growth recorded during the preceding three years. Assuming a decline of 7 to 10 per cent in agricultural production and a growth rate of 6 per cent in the services sector, as observed in recent years, it may be expected that GNP growth will be around 1 to 2 per cent this year. This contrasts with an actual decline of 4.7 per cent in GNP during a similar drought year in 1979-80.

1.7 The price situation remains difficult with inflation, on a point to point basis, standing at 9.8 per cent between end March, 1987 and 23rd January, 1988. This is causing considerable hardship. However, the wide array of drought management measures taken by the government has ensured that inflation has not been as rampant this year as in earlier drought years. It is also reasonable to expect that inflationary pressures will subside if there is a normal kharif crop in the next season, since it is the set-back in agriculture which has been the driving force behind inflation this year.

1.8 As noted above, monetary and fiscal policies followed during the year were carefully designed to finance the substantial additional expenditure on drought and flood relief operations without generating undue inflationary pressures on this account. A firm effort has been made to reduce other expenditure and raise additional resources through surcharges on taxes as well as upper class rail fares. This has been accompanied by a policy of restrained monetary expansion.

1.9 The balance of payments situation continued to be under pressure because of the increase in essential imports, necessitated by the drought, which has come on top of a number of adverse medium term factors such as the deceleration in oil production, protectionist tendencies abroad, bunching of repayment obligations and the unfavourable climate for concessional external assistance. Anticipating these developments, the government had undertaken a number of measures in 1985-86 and 1986-87 to accelerate the growth of exports and check the increase in imports. These measures have been quite successful, with exports growing much faster than imports during 1986-87 and again during the first nine months of 1987-88 for which trade data are available. However, with the persistence of the adverse medium term factors cited above, the possibility of a lagged effect of the current drought and uncertainty about the inflow of remittances from Indians working abroad, the balance of payments situation will remain under pressure.

Gross National Product, Savings and Investment

1.10 The Central Statistical Organisation, which is the official agency responsible for estimating the national income of the country, has revised the estimates and issued a new series starting from 1980-81. As compared with the old series, the new series shows a small upward revision of the national income figures and certain variations in inter-year growth rates. According to the new series, GNP growth was 4.9 per cent in 1985-86 and 4.1 per cent in 1986-87. The lower rate of growth in 1986-87 was due to a decline of nearly 2 per cent in gross value added in the group 'agriculture and allied activities'. The group 'manufacturing, construction, electricity, gas and water supply' maintained the growth rate of 8.0 per cent recorded in the preceding year. The 'transport, communication and trade' sector showed some improvement, with the growth rate going up to 6.6 per cent from 6.1 per cent a year ago.

1.11 According to the new series, the rate of domestic savings as a proportion of GDP in 1986-87 works out to 21.7 per cent as against 22.0 per cent in 1985-86. The rate of gross domestic capital formation was 23.4 per cent in 1986-87 as compared to 24.4 per cent in 1985-86. Reliance on the inflow of capital from abroad has declined from 2.4 per cent of GDP in 1985-86 to 1.7 per cent in 1986-87.

Agricultural Production

1.12 The drought this year is one of the worst on record, with as many as 21 out of 35 rainfall subdivisions receiving deficient or scanty rainfall. Coming at the end of a run of four poor rainfall years, the drought has had a severe adverse impact on crop production, especially in the Kharif belt which is still largely dependent on rainfed agriculture.

1.13 The official estimate of total foodgrain production which had declined to just over 144 million tonnes in 1986-87, as compared to 151 million tonnes in 1985-86, is not yet available for the current year. However, it is expected that production will decline by 7 to 10 per cent from the previous year's level. Apart from Kharif cereals, other crops affected by the drought include pulses, oilseeds, cotton and to some extent sugarcane.

1.14 Despite the sharp decline in agricultural production it has been possible to maintain the increased releases of foodgrains through the Public Distribution System, employment programmes, relief programmes and other channels because of the large stock of over 23 million tonnes which had been built up by June, 1987. This programme of maintaining adequate releases of foodgrains has formed the backbone of government strategy in combating the drought and it has provided the support necessary for a whole range of other measures.

1.15 In order to boost agricultural growth, special emphasis will have to be given to the extension of area under assured irrigation, greater use of ground water resources in rainfed areas with untapped growth potential, particularly in the eastern region, optimal water use in dry land agriculture and a better balance between crops as well as regions in agricultural growth. To attain the desired cropping pattern adjustments, a special technology mission on oilseeds has been set up with a view to achieving self-reliance in edible oils. The Mission has shown some promising initial results. To ensure better regional balance in agricultural growth, special agricultural development strategies are to be drawn up for each distinct agro-climatic region, specially suited to the requirements and specificities of each region. The Planning Commission has now constituted a high level group to prepare an action plan for fulfilling agricultural targets along these lines.

Industry and Infrastructure

1.16 Despite the adverse consequences of the drought, the performance of industry has been highly satisfactory during the first eight months of the current year for which data are now available (April-November 1987). The industrial sector as a whole achieved a growth rate of 10.2 per cent. This is significantly higher than the growth rates of 8.5 per cent to 9 per cent attained during the corresponding period of the previous three years, which were themselves much higher than the growth rates attained in the first half of this decade and earlier. The growth rate for the manufacturing sector proper, which accounts for over 77 per cent of total industrial production, has been even more impressive, showing an overall growth rate of over 11 per cent in the current year.

1.17 It is important to note that while there are large variations in growth performance across industries, the growth is not confined to a narrow base but is fairly widely dispersed in the manufacturing sector. Industries accounting for over two-thirds of the total weight of the manufacturing sector have shown positive rates of growth during this period, while the weight of industries registering a growth rate of over 10 per cent adds up to about 21 per cent of the total weight of the sector.

1.18 The high growth performance of industry during the first half of the current year does not allow for any complacency. An analysis of industrial growth behaviour during earlier drought years indicates that the impact of drought on industry appears with a lag of six to eight months. Nevertheless, even after allowing for this factor, it is reasonable to expect that industrial growth for the year as a whole will exceed 8 per cent, which is actually higher than the long term trend rate prior to 1984-85.

1.19 High industrial growth has been facilitated by the robust performance of the infrastructure sectors during 1987-88 (April—December). Coal production increased by 10.2 per cent, while railway revenue earning goods traffic went up by 5.4 per cent. Power generation increased by 7.6 per cent despite the sharp fall in hydel generation on account of the drought. This has been made possible by an increase of 15.7 per cent in thermal (including nuclear) power generation. The impressive increase in thermal generation is attributable to the achievement of a higher plant load factor of 55 per cent as well as the streaming in of additional generating capacity.

Prices

1.20 Prices came under pressure right from the beginning of this year as a consequence of the poor weather and shortage of some essential agro-based commodities experienced during 1986-87. The inflationary consequences of bad weather in one financial year usually reach their peak towards the end of the relevant agricultural season, which falls in the next financial year. These pressures were further aggravated around July, 1987, when it became apparant that the country was going to experience another drought. Up to the third week of January, 1988 the Wholesale Price Index (WPI) had registered an increase of 9.8 per cent, on a point to point basis, since the end of March, 1987. The Consumer Price Index (CPI), which is a more appropriate measure of price increases being faced by consumers, showed an increase of 9.6 per cent up to December, 1987, the last month for which data is available so far.

1.21 A major part of the inflation which has occurred in the current year is accounted for by the rise in prices of seasonal items of agricultural origin, which have a weight of about 52 per cent in the WPI. Agricultural prices had risen by over 14 per cent up to the middle of January, 1988. Even in the case of manufactured products, the increase in prices is largely on account of agro-based items. The individual items which have shown the maximum increase in prices this year include edible oils and oilseeds, condiments and spices, cotton, pulses, gur, khandsari and cereals. It is, therefore, quite clear that the driving force behind inflation this year is the shortfall in agricultural production.

1.22 As a part of its policy to contain inflation, the Government has attempted to keep a check on the size of the budgetary deficit, despite the large unforeseen increase in drought and flood relief expenditure. The additional expenditure has been largely met by additional resource mobilisation and a cut back in other expenditure. This has been buttressed by a policy of restrained monetary expansion. The cautious monetary and fiscal policies being pursued by the Government and the Reserve Bank of India have been necessary in order to avoid any aggravation of the price situation. However, since the basic inflationary pressures have arisen because of a supply shock in the real sector, the main burden of macro-management has, accordingly, fallen on effective supply management.

1.23 The maintenance of adequate supplies of foodgrains, primarily through the Public Distribution System and relief and other employment programmes, has been the backbone of supply management policy. This has been possible because of the huge stock of over 23 million tonnes of foodgrains which had been built up by June, 1987. The enhanced releases of rice and wheat have been backed up by similar large releases of imported edible oils and pulses, both in the Public Distribution System and in the open market. The Public Distribution System has been substantially expanded with the addition of about 5600 new FPS outlets, of which around 3000 new fair price shops and a large number of mobile PDS outlets are located in drought affected States. The drive against hoarding has been stepped up and a monitoring system has been put in place in order to maintain a close watch on the prices and availability of essential commodities throughout the country.

Fiscal and Monetary Policy

1.24 During the current year fiscal policy has been aimed at maintaining the pace of investment despite the serious problems thrown up by the drought. On the basis of reports submitted by the Central teams which visited the drought affected States, it was estimated that the additional expenditure on drought and flood relief during the year would substantially exceed the provision made for this purpose in the budget. To meet a part of the additional expenditure, the Government announced surcharges on personal income tax, corporate income tax, wealth tax and customs duties, as well as surcharges on upper class railway fares. These surcharges were expected to yield additional revenue of about Rs. 500 crores. Administrative efforts to improve revenue collection were also stepped up. At the same time the Government also initiated economies in expenditure which were expected to yield a saving of about Rs. 650 crores. Furthermore, to help finance the substantial additional imports of essential items such as edible oils and pulses necessitated by the drought, Government took a number of initiatives for additional mobilisation and accelerated disbursement of external assistance.

1.25 Leaving aside the impact of the drought on the Centre's budgetary position, its other effects on the money-output-prices situation have included a sharp reduction in food credit with the draw down of food stocks and a reduction in output growth leading to the emergence of inflationary pressures. In these circumstances the monetary authorities have pursued a policy of restricting money supply (M_3) growth to a level lower than in the previous year while meeting the genuine credit requirements of trade and industry. Thus the Statutory Liquidity Ratio (SLR) was increased from 37 per cent to 37.5 per cent on April 25, 1987 and further to 38 per cent with effect from January 2, 1988. The Cash Reserve Ratio (CRR) was also raised from 9.5 per cent to 10 per cent with effect from October 24, 1987. Selective credit controls, which had been relaxed earlier in the year, were reimposed and tightened between July and October, 1987 for a number of drought affected commodities such as oilseeds, vegetable oils, cotton, kapas, paddy/rice and other foodgrains (excluding wheat). At the same time banks were advised to extend liberal credit facilities to drought affected farmers. Higher export refinance limits were also made available during the year. As a consequence of all these measures the leading monetary indicators have been growing at satisfactory rates.

Balance of Payments

1.26 The balance of payments situation came under further pressure during the year on account of additional imports of essential commodities such as edible oils, pulses, etc. necessitated by the shortfall in domestic production. These short term pressures have come on top of a number of adverse medium term factors such as the expected deceleration in indigenous oil production, protectionist tendencies abroad, the bunching of repayment obligations to the IMF and other sources and an unfavourable climate for concessional external assistance.

1.27 In anticipation of some of these medium term developments, the Government had taken a number of measures during 1985-86 and 1986-87 to accelerate the growth of exports and check the increase in imports. Further steps have also been taken during the current year. These measures have met with considerable success. Exports increased by 15.3 per cent in 1986-87 and again by 24.7 per cent during the first nine months of the current year as compared to the corresponding period of 1986-87. In contrast imports grew by 2.2 per cent during 1986-87 and 13.5 per cent during April-December, 1987 as compared to April-December, 1986. The increase in imports in the current year is largely on account of the increase in import prices of crude oil and petroleum products apart from additional imports necessitated by the drought. With exports growing faster than imports the trade deficit declined in 1986-87 and in the first nine months of the current year.

1.28 However, trade performance during the first nine months may not have fully reflected the adverse impact of the drought, which could surface during the last quarter of the current year. The balance of payments situation will therefore need to be monitored closely.

AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTION

The momentum of agricultural growth established during the early eighties, leading up to a peak production of over 152 million tonnes of foodgrains in 1983-84, has been seriously disturbed by adverse weather conditions during the last few years. A run of four poor monsoons culminated in one of the worst droughts on record in 1987. Foodgrain production, which declined from over 150 million tonnes in 1985-86 to about 144 million tonnes in 1986-87, is expected to go down by a further 7 to 10 per cent in the current year. Non-food crops such as oilseeds and cotton are also estimated to have suffered substantial production losses in the last kharif season.

2.2 Famines of the type experienced during the colonial period have little chance of recurrence any more, thanks largely to the tremendous contribution of our farmers and agricultural scientists towards achieving higher productivity and the farsighted policy of laying emphasis on growth, self-reliance and food security pursued by India. The performance of Indian agriculture, nevertheless, remains highly sensitive to the vagaries of weather. The current drought has underlined this problem and drawn attention to the long term measures in irrigation, land and water management, afforestation and ecological regeneration which must be given priority in order to free Indian agriculture from the constaints of weather. These are being examined in the mid-term review of the Seventh Five Year Plan. Some measures have already been initiated and a few of these are discussed further below.

Current Drought and Its Impact

The Extent of Monsoon Failure

2.3 The country this year experienced poor rainfall for the fourth year in succession after the last good monsoon year of 1983-84. The south west monsoon rainfall in 1987 has been the poorest as compared to the last few years and even as compared to severe drought years in the past. As many as 21 out of a total of 35 meteorological zones, suffered deficient and scanty rains compared to 14 in 1986 and to 19, 16 and 12 respectively in the earlier drought years of 1965, 1979 and 1982 as shown in Table 2.1.

2.4 The south west monsoon set in over Kerala around the normal date on June 2 and its progress till June 17 was quite satisfactory. After June 17, further advance of the monsoon was rather slow. Normally by July 8, monsoon should have arrived over the entire country except over western most part of West Rajasthan. But it had not yet arrived in northern parts of Gujarat State, parts of Uttar Pradesh, parts of Rajasthan, Haryana and Punjab. It was only by 27th July that the entire country was covered. Upto July end, the rainfall was normal only over West Bengal, Bihar, Assam, Arunachal Pradesh, Telangana, North-interior Karnataka, Marathwada and Konkan and Goa. It was during the middle of August that exceptionally good rains were received in as many as 20 sub-divisions. During the first week of September, West Bengal and the north eastern States continued to have heavy rains but by the third week of September, the south west monsoon had withdrawn from Gujarat, Rajasthan, Madhya Pradesh, Punjab, Haryana and Uttar Pradesh.

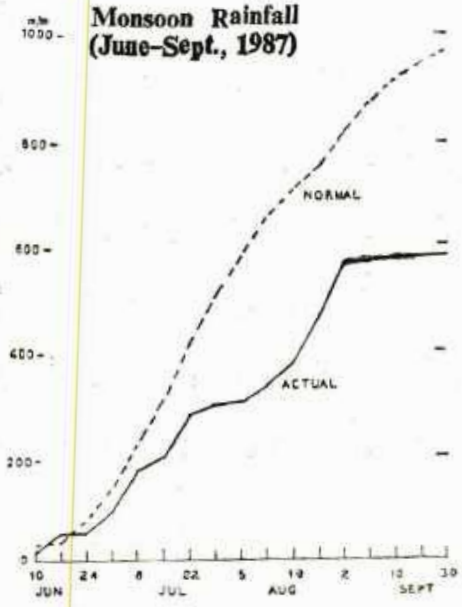
northern, eastern and central regions were worse off in 1979 as compared to this year. (Upper Graph).

2.6 More than the total precipitation, it is the timing and duration of the rainfall which affects yields. Monthwise comparison on the basis of the composite rainfall index shows that the rainfall situation was particularly bad in the months of June and July this year. However the overall position improved subsequently (Lower Graph). The rains in late August and September should have a beneficial effect on the winter crop. However, in the area sown under kharif, the crop prospects depend, to a large extent, on rains in the first two months of the monsoon season, i.e, June and July. Because of the delayed monsoon in many States, the critical sowing operations could not take place this year.

2.7 The areas that were particularly deficient in rain were Gujarat, Rajasthan, Punjab, Haryana, Chandigarh, Delhi, Uttar Pradesh, Himachal Pradesh and Orissa. Out of these, Gujarat and Rajasthan were the worst affected this year and have had poor rainfall for the past three or four years.

2.8 In Gujarat, the actual rainfall was below normal almost throughout the season and the State was deficient by 42 per cent (Graph). Saurashtra region in Gujarat, which accounts for a third of total groundnut production, was deficient by 74 per cent. It is estimated that no sowings have been done in over 75 per cent of the normal groundnut area in Gujarat. This is likely to have resulted in a very large fall in kharif groundnut production during 1987. The monsoon pattern for Rajasthan is similar to that in Gujarat. In the second week of June, the rains had been good, infact more than normal, but there were hardly any rains during July and early August. In the last two weeks of August, good rains were received but then there was a cessation of monsoon rainfall since early September. During the monsoon months (June to September), Rajasthan State was deficient by 51 per cent. Because of the severe drought in this State, the area and production of bajra as well as other rainfed crops, is likely to be adversely affected.

GUJARAT



Impact of Drought

2.9 Rainfall deficiency mainly affects the kharif crop, the major rabi crop being wheat, which is largely sown under irrigated conditions. The kharif crop is normally sown at the on-set of the monsoon during June and July in most areas. It accounts for about 60 per cent of India's foodgrain production, 80 per cent of coarse grain production, more tnan 50 per cent of oilseed production and 33 per cent of pulses.

2.10 The large food stocks this year were useful in mitigating the effects of the drought. However, agricultural production itself is highly sensitive to adverse weather conditions. Foodgrain production, in particular, is badly affected. In the drought year of 1979-80 total foodgrain output fell by 16.8 per cent, while kharif foodgrain prodution fell by 19 per cent. In 1982-83 total foodgrain production fell by 2.8 per cent while kharif foodgrain output fell by 12 per cent.

2.11 In recent years, the impact of poor rain on oilseed production has also been pronounced. The nine major oilseeds production fell by 20.5 per cent in 1976-77, 13.5 per cent in 1979-80, 17.2 per cent in 1982-83. In 1985-86 oilseed output fell by about 16 per cent as both kharif and rabi oilseeds production showed a substantial fall over the previous year.

2.12 During the year 1986-87, the second year of the Seventh Five Year Plan, there was a substantial fall in foodgrain production. It was the third successive drought year and total foodgrain output at 144.1 million tonnes was 6 million tonnes lower than the previous year's output of 150.4 million tonnes. Kharif production fell by 3.7 million tonnes to 81.5 million tonnes while rabi production fell by 2.65 million tonnes to 62.5 million tonnes. Among foodgrain crops, there was a fall in the production of rice, wheat, pulses, and a marginal increase in the production of coarse grains. Among non-foodgrain crops, there was a substantial fall in the production of cotton, raw jute and mesta. Oilseed production and sugarcane production, however, have shown an increase. Sugarcane production, in particular, has shown an impressive increase of nearly twelve million tonnes.

2.13 During 1987-88, there is likely to be a further substantial decline in production, with the severe drought this year coming after three successive years of poor monsoon over some parts of the country. Kharif production has been the worst affected as usual. There are likely to have been crop losses in almost all kharif crops. Coarse grains and oilseeds appear to have been the worst affected. The groundnut crop in Gujarat which accounts for the bulk of India's groundnut production was almost totally lost.

2.14 In the case of foodgrains the extent of shortfall in production will depend on the size of the rabi crop, in particular the wheat crop. About 70 per cent of wheat production is concentrated in the three large surplus producing States, i.e., Uttar Pradesh (35 per cent), Punjab (23 per cent) and Haryana (11 per cent). Much of the area under wheat cultivation is irrigated. However, there is some risk of crop losses in non-irrigated wheat production, despite good rains in the post-monsoon period. There is also a potential problem even in the irrigated areas since 47 important reservoirs of the country had only 52 per cent of capacity storage at the end of September, 1987 as compared to 75 per cent a year ago. It is, therefore, unlikely that crop losses during the kharif season will be off-set by the rabi crop. Total foodgrain production in 1987-88 is now expected to be lower than the production of 1986-87 by about 7 to 10 per cent.

Management of the Drought

Drought and Distress

2.15 Poor people living in rural areas bear the brunt of all the distress and dislocation of every day life caused by a drought. Consisting largely of agricultural labourers and small and marginal farmers, the rural poor do not have the resources necessary to cushion the effects of a drought. Yet it is this section of our community which is most directly and severely affected by the drought because of the loss of incomes and jobs.

2.16 The access of the rural poor to their means of subsistence, meagre at the best of times, is sharply eroded in a year of drought. To begin with, monsoon failure leaves large tracts of cultivable land unsown. The volume of agricultural operations is consequently cut down and whole communities are left with little employment or income. Additionally, the real purchasing power per rupee of whatever meagre income is earned gets further eroded by the rise in prices which inevitably follows the loss in production and reduced supplies. There is extreme distress and the very poor find it difficult to cope unless their entitlement to minimum limits of consumption is restored through a large scale relief employment programme or some other institutional arrangements.

2.17 In Rajasthan, for example, there are about 7 lakh agricultural labourers, 20 lakh marginal workers, 13 lakh marginal farmers and nearly 9 lakh small farmers among the 105 lakh persons estimated to be below the poverty line. These sections are largely dependent on agriculture and their means of livelihood depend on the state of the crop. This year it is reported that hardly 37 per cent of the normal cropped area was sown, and about two-thirds of this has withered. It has been estimated that about 83 per cent of the 29 lakh agricultural labourers, marginal farmers and small farmers, i.e., about 24 to 25 lakh persons, have been affected by the drought. The number would be higher if marginal workers were included. In addition about 66 per cent of the livestock population amounting to 326 lakh animals including cattle, camels, horses, pigs, etc., have been affected by the drought. Of this an estimated 163 lakh animals belong to agricultural labourers and small/marginal farmers. Their cattle losses alone could be around 15,000 heads.

2.18 It is not difficult to imagine the enormous dislocation of every day life in severely affected States, especially those where this year's drought is the third or fourth consecutive year of drought as, for example, in Rajasthan. As a result not only have agricultural operations collapsed but the declining water table has left an acute shortage of drinking water. In this grim situation government relief employment programmes, cattle camps and drinking water supply arrangements have become the crucial guarantees of survival for the distressed population.

2.19 In order to reduce distress, the Government has taken a number of measures to deal with the immediate effects of the drought on agricultural production and rural employment, fodder, drinking water, power generation, reservoir storage and availability of essential commodities. Some long term measures have also been initiated to reduce the vulnerability of agriculture to adverse weather conditions. Some of these measures are discussed below.

Agricultural Production and Income Generation

2.20 The Government has taken up various action programmes to boost rabi production. Detailed strategies have been worked out for individual crops, regions and watersheds. Instructions have also been issued on appropriate technological practices for each region. The Government has made arrangements for supply of adequate quality and quantity of seeds and other inputs apart from expanding rabi acreage. State Governments have been advised to ascertain the requirements of seeds and take advance action to ensure that there is no shortage. The States have also been directed to carefully monitor the use of water available in various reservoirs. Priority has been given to providing drinking water in all scarcity areas, particularly Gujarat and Rajasthan. The water available after meeting drinking requirements is being used for irrigation purposes. To augment the supply of water, efforts are being made to ensure the availability of power for the operation of tubewells for 8-10 hours every day. The supply and repair of rigs for digging tubewells has also been stepped up.

2.21 To recover at least a part of the kharif loss in rural incomes, cultivation of a short duration cash crop was undertaken wherever possible. The supply of adequate inputs for this purpose was arranged. In order to minimise the income loss of rural labour households, the various employment generation programmes have been supplemented by Scarcity Relief Works Programmes wherever these have been necessary. Additional foodgrains have been released every month to support these programmes. In Rajasthan, for example, apart from 4 lakh persons already employed under National Rural Employment Programme (NREP), Rural Landless Employment Guarantee Programme (RLEGP) etc., another 3 lakh persons were employed daily on relief programmes upto

August. Subsequently it was targetted to step this up to about 11 lakh persons. An attempt has been made to rotate this employment between families to ensure that all affected families have been covered.

Irrigation

2.22 The Central Government has made an extra allocation of Rs. 236 crores to accelerate the execution of selected irrigation projects in the drought affected areas. Of this total outlay, about Rs. 153 crores is for major and medium irrigation projects and Rs. 81 crores for minor irrigation projects. This additional outlay is expected to create additional irrigation potential of nearly 1,42,800 hectares. The major beneficiaries have been Gujarat (29,369 ha), Rajasthan (18,500 ha), Uttar Pradesh (23,800 ha), Maharashtra (14,500 ha), Madhya Pradesh (13,750 ha), Andhra Pradesh (12,500 ha) and Karnataka (11,000 ha).

2.23 As against a plan target of 2.27 lakhs as many as 3.53 lakh irrigation pumpsets were energised during the period April to December alone, of which 2.27 lakhs are in drought affected areas. An additional 2.8 lakh inoperative sets have been repaired and made operational as against a target of 1.3 lakhs. Thus an extra 6.3 lakh pumpsets became operational during this period.

Fodder

2.24 There has been an acute shortage of fodder in the drought affected regions, especially Rajasthan and Gujarat. The supply of fodder to these areas has been augmented through the collection of fodder from forests and other adjoining regions. Areas have also been identified to increase fodder production and subsidies have been given for this purpose. Adequate 'Ways and Means Advances' have also been released to support these programmes. Fodder production has also been augmented through the application of fertilisers in various areas. Supply of molasses to cattle-feed plants has been ensured and protection has been offered to the cattle population in specially organised cattle camps and transport has been arranged to transfer cattles to these camps.

Drinking water

2.25 The supply of drinking water to scarcity areas has been arranged through normal Plan programmes and with permanent and semi-permanent schemes of extension of piped water supply. Additional hand-pumps have been introduced and arrangements have been made for tanker supply to certain drought affected areas where no other alternative arrangement was possible. The first priority has been given to the use of water available in reservoirs for drinking purposes. The State Governments have drawn up contingency plans to combat the scarcity of drinking water and 'Ways and Means Advances' have been released for this purpose. 'Ways and Means Advances' have also been released for purchase of rigs and other equipment for digging tubewells. Physical and financial progress of implementation of the contingency plan and optimum utilisation of rigs have been closely monitored.

Power Supply

2.26 Instructions have been issued by the Ministry of Power to the States to ensure that power supply for agriculture is maintained for at least 8 to 10 hours a day. They have also been advised to issue instructions to regulate availability of power to prevent over-drawal of water where the availabilty of ground water is inadequate. The Department of Power has also advised the State Electricity Boards to restore power supply to pumpsets which were disconnected due to arrears of payments.

Management of Water Resources

2.27 Instructions have been issued to the State Governments to carefully regulate the utilisation of water stored in the reservoirs. Evaporation losses have been minimised through the use of chemical retardants. Water budgets have been prepared for each reservoir covering drinking water, kharif/rabi requirements and evaporation losses.

Vegetable Production

2.28 Vegetable production has been supported in those areas where minor irrigation sources are available, especially in the proximity of urban agglomerations, through distribtuion of mini-kits containing vegetable seeds, fertilisers and plant protection chemicals. Such mini-kits have also been provided in the 19 identified cities and towns where there is heavy demand for vegetables.

Distribution of Essential Commodities

2.29 Government policies to ensure adequate supply of foodgrains have been discussed further below, in chapter 5. Apart from foodgrains, essential commodities like edible oils, controlled cloth, etc., have also been made available in adequate quantities. The demand gap in the case of edible oils has been met through imports. Similarly, the shortage of milk has been met through the import of milk powder and butter oil. NAFED has also been advised to import pulses over and above the imports under OGL undertaken by private traders. About 5,600 new PDS outlets have been opened during the year. Of these, over 3,000 including many mobile outlets, have been opened in drought affected areas. The latter, in particular, have proved to be very popular. The anti-hoarding drive and prosecution against hoarders have been stepped up and food stocks held by private traders have been closely monitored. The availability and prices of essential commodities have also been kept under constant watch through a monitoring system stretching from district headquarters to the Central control room in New Delhi.

Financial Assistance

2.30 A ceiling of about Rs. 1798 crores for expenditure on Relief Measures against drought and other calamities has been approved. Of this, the share of the Centre is about Rs. 1456 crores. The amount is required to be utilised only for specified relief measures in the affected villages and towns. Financial assistance has also been extended by banks on a priority basis to persons affected by drought and floods. This includes credit to undertake second sowings or raising alternative short duration crops, including fodder, production of seeds or for setting up fair price shops. Instructions have been issued for conversion of short term loans into medium term loans and re-scheduling of investment credit. Banks have also been advised to process and sanction loans for minor irrigation quickly. The limit for consumption loans to small and marginal farmers and other weaker sections of society has been raised from Rs. 250 to Rs. 500.

Long Term Measures

2.31 Apart from the measures taken to meet the immediate effects of the drought, long term strategies have also been initiated against the background of the current drought to reduce the vulnerability of agriculture to adverse weather conditions. In recent years output growth has come largely from increases in yield, rather than acreage. However, yield increases are more sensitive to rainfall than acreage. Consequently, high average rates of growth have come along with large fluctuations in production. This is especially true of the kharif belt which is more dependent on rainfed agriculture. The rabi region is more stable because of the higher coverage by assured irrigation. This analysis of instability in Indian agriculture has led to the evolution of a long term strategy of agricultural development which has four major dimensions.

2.32 The most important element of the strategy is to maximise the area under assured irrigation. Though the share of irrigated agriculture has gone up from around 17 per cent of cropped area in the early fifties to about 30 per cent today, a large proportion of the additional irrigation has come from wells and tanks which get depleted in years of poor rainfall. Accordingly, the Plan allocation for major and medium irrigation projects is being augmented and greater emphasis is being placed on the full utilisation of potential already created in these projects. This will also help to give a better regional balance to agricultural growth.

2.33 Despite emphasis on assured irrigation, however, the major portion of cropped area will continue to depend on rainfed agriculture at least till the end of this century. Accordingly, the full exploitation of groundwater in high rainfall areas like the Gangetic region is being emphasised to achieve increases in gross acreage through multiple cropping. The National Watershed Development Programme for Rainfed Agriculture, started in 1986-87, is being reinforced for this purpose. A 'coarse grain policy' is also being worked out for rainfed areas which will integrate production plans with pricing, storage and procurement of coarse grains, while a special R & D thrust is being given to oilseed production under a Technology Mission set up for this purpose.

2.34 A third dimension of the strategy is to optimise water use in dryland agriculture by methods of water management which will maximise the area and output per unit of water. To this end, the focus of the type of works taken up under the rural employment programmes like RLEGP and NREP as well as Area Development Programmes like Drought Prone Area Programme (DPAP) and Desert Development Programme (DDP) have been sharpened to take up schemes which are intended to protect agriculture against drought. Henceforth, the thrust of agricultural research will also be redirected to support the development of rainfed and dryland agriculture. It is recognised that both water resources and fertile topsoils are being depleted because of rapid deforestation and the large scale loss of vegetable cover. Accordingly, afforestation programmes are being stepped up and integrated with programmes of irrigation and water management.

2.35 Implicit in this approach is the central role of regional factors in agricultural planning. Separate strategies are being worked out for each distinct agro-climatic region to suit the requirements of agricultural development specific to that region. For this purpose, separate spatial zones have been identified. The Planning Commission has now set up a group which is examining an eight point proposal for an action plan to ensure that targets in agriculture are realised.

Cropwise/Statewise Production

Rice

2.36 Rice production during 1986-87 declined to 60.4 million tonnes as against the record level of 63.8 million tonnes produced in 1985-86. The decline of 3.4 million tonnes is on account of the fall in kharif rice production by 4.3 million tonnes, which was partly compensated by an increase of about 1 million tonne of rabi rice production during 1986-87. Except for Punjab and West Bengal which reported an increase of 0.57 million tonnes and 0.47 million tonnes respectively all the other major rice producing States reported a decline in rice production. The States which showed substantial decreases were Madhya Pradesh (—1.15 million tonnes), Uttar Pradesh (—1.06 million tonnes) and Andhra Pradesh (—0.87 million tonnes). These 3 States taken together accounted for about 90 per cent of the fall in production of rice during 1986-87. In almost all the States the fall in production was associated with a decrease in area under rice. The States which showed a fall in production despite an increase in area, are West Bengal and Bihar.

2.37 During the current year 1987-88, rice production is likely to show a further fall since all the major rice growing areas have been adversely affected either by drought or by floods. About 69 per cent of the area under kharif rice is in the eastern States, including Uttar Pradesh and Madhya Pradesh where the monsoon was delayed by 3 weeks. Later heavy rains in August and September caused extensive floods in Bihar, Assam and West Bengal damaging the standing crop in these regions to some extent. States in the northern region like Punjab, Haryana and Jammu and Kashmir have also been severely affected by the drought. Although farmers in Punjab and Haryana mainly grow the crop under assured irrigation conditions, the crop coverage might lag behind because of lower water tables. In the southern region, the crop condition is considered to be satisfactory, though in Tamil Nadu there has been an acute moisture stress which might lead to shrinkage in area. However, the fall in kharif rice acreage might be partially offset by an increase in area under rabi rice.

Wheat

2.38 The production of wheat during 1986-87 was 45.57 million tonnes, 1.46 million tonnes less than the record production achieved during 1985-86 but a little higher than the earlier peak production of 45.48 million tonnes achieved in 1983-84. Almost all the major wheat producing States, except for Punjab, recorded a fall in production during 1986-87. The States which showed substantial decreases in production include Uttar Pradesh (—0.48 million tonnes), Rajasthan (—0.32 million tonnes), Madhya Pradesh (—0.34 million tonnes) and Haryana (—0.20 million tonnes). Four States, namely, Uttar Pradesh, Rajasthan Madhya Pradesh and Haryana taken together accounted for almost 91 per cent of the fall in wheat output during 1986-87. However, Punjab showed an impressive increase of 0.16 million tonnes of production during 1986-87. About 1.7 million tonnes of wheat produced in Punjab was, subsequently, lost due to unseasonal rains in May 1987.

2.39 Total area under wheat during 1986-87 also showed a decrease of 0.19 million hectares. In some States like Gujarat, Madhya Pradesh and Maharashtra decrease in production is associated with a fall in area during 1986-87. However, in some other major wheat producing States, the yields seem to have gone down since there was a substantial fall in output despite an increase in the area under wheat. This is the case in Bihar, Haryana, Rajasthan, Uttar Pradesh and West Bengal.

Coarse Grains

2.40 The production of coarse grains during 1986-87 was 26.34 million tonnes showing an increase of 0.14 million tonnes over the previous year. The decline in production in Andhra Pradesh, Bihar, Haryana, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra and Rajasthan was more than offset by increases in production in Gujarat, Karnataka, Punjab, Tamilnadu, Uttar Pradesh and Himachal Pradesh. In most of the States, changes in production are directly related to changes in area under the crop. However, in Gujarat, Jammu & Kashmir and Punjab, production has increased despite a fall in area. Rajasthan is one State where despite a substantial increase in area under coarse grains, production has shown a decline.

2.41 The small net increase in coarse grains production is due to an increase in kharif coarse cereals which more than compensated for the decline in rabi coarse cereals. Among the kharif coarse cereals, there is a fall in production and acreage under jowar and small millets while there is an increase in production and acreage under bajra, maize and ragi. Among the rabi coarse cereals, there is a fall in both acreage and output of jowar and barley.

2.42 The jowar output during 1986-87 accounted for 34 per cent of total coarse cereals output. The output of jowar during 1986-87 was 8.87 million tonnes, about 1.3 million tonnes lower than the previous year. In Maharashtra, the single most important jowar growing State, output fell by 0.83 million tonnes and area fell by 0.29 million hectares during 1986-87. This accounts for about 62 per cent of the fall in jowar output and about 64 per cent of the fall in jowar acreage during 1986-87. Other jowar growing States have also shown a decline in production and area. The States which have shown impressive increases in production include Karnataka, Tamil Nadu and Uttar Pradesh.

2.43 During the year 1987-88, the rainfall deficiency has been particularly damaging for jowar, bajra and other coarse cereals. The acreage sown in Haryana, Rajasthan and Gujarat has come down significantly. It is estimated that only about 60 per cent of the normal area under this crop might have been sown during kharif 1987. In Rajasthan, which is the largest bajra growing State, only about 30 per cent of normal area was covered upto July-end. However, the rains in the middle of August in Karnataka and Maharashtra have revived the prospects of jowar, bajra and ragi in these States.

2.44 The overall prospects for rabi coarse cereals are considered to be satisfactory since the important rabi jowar growing States of Maharashtra, Karnataka, Andhra Pradesh and Tamilnadu received adequate rains at the time of sowing. For rabi maize also, there is likely to be an increase in acreage in the two important States of Bihar and Karnataka.

Pulses

2.45 The production of pulses during 1986-87 was about 11.74 million tonnes showing a decline of 1.62 million tonnes from the peak level achieved in 1985-86. This is mainly on account of a fall in rabi pulses output by about 1.37 million tonnes. Production of kharif pulses also showed a decline of 0.25 million tonnes. Almost all the major pulse growing States reported a decline in production. The States which showed a substantial decline in production during 1986-87 are Rajasthan (—0.89 million tonnes), Madhya Pradesh (—0.18 million tonnes) and Gujarat (—0.10 million tonnes). These States taken together account for 72 per cent of the fall in production. Rajasthan alone accounted for more than 50 per cent of the fall in production and 59 per cent of the fall in acreage during 1986-87. The shortfall in Rajasthan occurred in the rabi season. Orissa and Bihar reported increases in both area and production of pulses, while Karnataka showed an increase in production despite a large fall in area under the crop.

2.46 During the year 1987-88 production and area under rabi pulses are considered to be satisfactory since rains in the post monsoon season have been good. There might be some shrinkage of area in Rajasthan, Gujarat and Haryana. However, this is likely to be compensated by higher acreage in Madhya Pradesh, Bihar, West Bengal, Maharashtra, Karnataka, Uttar Pradesh, Orissa, Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh, where Arhar and Greengram were taken up as contingency crops.

Oilseeds

2.47 While the demand for edible oil and hence oilseeds has grown steadily over the years, the growth of domestic production has been sluggish and erratic. This is especially true of the last few years of poor monsoons since oilseed production is largely based on rainfed agriculture. As a consequence, there has been a growing gap between demand and domestic production, which has had to be met through large scale imports leading to a substantial drain of scarce foreign exchange resources. The government has set up a Technology Mission on Oilseeds, to deal with this problem, details are discussed further below.

2.48 84 per cent of oilseed production in India is based on rainfed agriculture. In years of poor monsoon, oilseed production is always severely affected. During the Sixth Plan, the production of nine major oilseeds had increased from 8.74 million tonnes in 1979-80 to 12.95 million tonnes in 1984-85. But during the first year of the Seventh Plan (1985-86), production fell to 10.83 million tonnes. During 1986-87 production increased marginally to 11.45 million tonnes. Actually only kharif oilseed output increased by 0.65 million tonnes, while rabi oilseed production fell by 0.03 million tonnes. The two most important oilseed producing States, i.e., Gujarat and Karnataka have shown substantial increases in production of 0.79 million tonnes and 0.42 million tonnes respectively. Madhya Pradesh, Tamilnadu, Uttar Pradesh and Rajasthan have, however, reported a decline in production during 1986-87.

2.49 The nine major oilseeds are groundnut, rapeseed and mustard, sesamum, nigerseed, sunflower, safflower, soyabean, linseed and castor seed. Of these, the three most important oilseeds are groundnut, rapeseed and mustard and soyabean which together accounted for 83 per cent of total production in 1986-87. Among kharif oilseeds, production of kharif groundnut and sunflower increased while that of soyabean and sesamum declined. Among the rabi oilseeds, production of rabi groundnut and sunflower increased while that of safflower, rapeseed and mustard declined.

2.50 During the current year 1987-88 the prospects for oilseed production are not good since Saurashtra region in Gujarat, which accounts for more than a third of total groundnut production, has received very poor rainfall. It is estimated that only about 25 per cent of the normal area under the nine major oilseeds has been sown in Gujarat. The condition of the major rabi oilseed, rapeseed and mustard, is reported to be good in all the States except Haryana and Rajasthan. The condition of other rabi oilseeds is also reported to be satisfactory.

Groundnut

2.51 The production of groundnut during 1986-87 was 6.06 million tonnes showing an increase of 0.94 million tonnes over the previous year. This increase mainly occurred in kharif groundnut production. The increase in the groundnut production is partly due to an increase in area under the crop. All the States except Tamilnadu, Rajasthan and Maharashtra have shown an increase in production of groundnut during 1986-87. Gujarat and Andhra Pradesh are the two major groundnut producing States which have recorded increases. Gujarat, in particular, has recorded an increase of 0.84 million tonnes over the previous year's level and this accounted for nearly 90 per cent of the increase in groundnut production.

2.52 For kharif 1987, the area sown in Gujarat is estimated to be only four lakh hectares out of the normal area of 19 lakh hectares. Even in the area where the crop was sown, about 40 per cent of the crop is estimated to have been damaged by moisture stress. Crop conditions in Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh were also unsatisfactory.

2.53 Rapeseed and mustard are the major rabi oilseed crops, accounting for about 55 per cent of rabi oilseed output and 23 per cent of total oilseed output in 1986-87. Production of rapeseed and mustard during 1986-87 was 2.63 million tonnes, 0.05 million tonnes less than the previous year's level. Among the major rapeseed and mustard producing States, increase in production was reported by Madhya Pradesh and Rajasthan while Haryana, Jammu and Kashmir, Punjab and Uttar Pradesh reported a fall in production. During the current year 1987-88, the area sown might increase since mustard and toria were grown where paddy crop could not be taken up due to deficient rains as in the upland areas of Punjab, Haryana and Uttar Pradesh.

2.54 Soyabean production during the current year was 0.84 million tonnes as against 1.02 million tonnes in the previous year. The decline in production of soyabean is mainly attributable to the decline in Madhya Pradesh (—0.18 million tonnes), the single most important soyabean producing State because of the drought conditions that prevailed in the State in 1986-87. There was also a fall in production of soyabean in Uttar Pradesh, while a small increase was reported by other States. During the current year 1987-88, the sowings of soyabean were late and acreage was affected in western Madhya Pradesh and Uttar Pradesh because of the late and weak monsoon. In Madhya Pradesh the coverage is expected to be of the same order as last year which itself was a drought year.

2.55 There was an impressive increase in production of sunflower in 1986-87 in both the kharif and rabi seasons. The important sunflower producing States are Karnataka and Maharashtra. Karnataka reported an increase in kharif sunflower production but a fall in that of rabi sunflower while Maharashtra reported a fall in output of kharif sunflower and an increase in rabi sunflower production.

2.56 Whereas the production of oilseeds and edible oils has remained more or less stagnant in recent years, its demand has been rising with increases in income and population. Along with measures to increase domestic availability through imports, the Government has launched a concerted effort to boost the production of oilseeds and move towards self-reliance through the Technology Mission on Oilseeds which was set up in May, 1986.

2.57 The Mission concentrates on 4 major areas of operation namely, making available more profitable crop technology to motivate the farmers, providing a strong support system to farmers through the extension system and input supply agencies for application of proper technology, making available modern post-harvest technology to motivate industry for better processing, storage etc. and ensuring remunerative prices and procurement to the farmers and extending necessary support to the edible oil industry in processing, storage and marketing.

2.58 The National Oilseeds Development Project (NODP), with an allocation of Rs. 170 crores, is being implemented during the Seventh Five Year Plan. The Oilseeds Production Thrust Project (OPTP) which is funded 100 per cent by the Central Government, was initiated in the current year 1987-88 to help the farmers in the matter of input supply and production.

2.59 In recent years, good progress has been made in the field of research both in crop and post harvest technologies. In crop technology, 31 improved varieties/hybrids have been evolved and the production of breeder seeds increased by 34 per cent over the previous year. A post-harvest processing technology for rice bran stabilisation and a superior technology for processing sunflower seeds was also evolved. In order to popularise cultivation in the country, 35 tonnes of a promising variety of sunflower seed was imported during kharif 1987. These have been multiplied and made available for use in rabi, 1987-88.

2.60 As a result of the measures taken in this direction, the area under sunflower and soyabean in kharif 1987 is reported to have increased by 40 per cent and 20 per cent respectively over the previous kharif season. In order to boost oilseed production, price incentives are also being given to oilseed growers.

Cotton

2.61 The production of cotton in 1986-87 is 7 million bales. This is 1.7 million bales less than the record production achieved during 1985-86. The decline in production during 1986-87 has been reported mainly by Andhra Pradesh, Gujarat, Karnataka, Maharashtra and Tamil Nadu. The major decreases were in Maharashtra (—1.1 million bales), Andhra Pradesh (—0.11 million bales), Gujarat (—0.90 million bales), Karnataka (—0.09 million bales) and Tamil Nadu (—0.14 million bales). The decrease in production was, however, offset to some extent by the increase reported in Punjab (0.3 million bales), Haryana (0.16 million bales) and Rajasthan (0.22 million bales).

2.62 The area under cotton during 1986-87 fell by 0.46 million hectares to 7.07 million hectares. The large decreases in area were in Andhra Pradesh (−0.2 million hectares) and Karnataka (−0.15 million hectares).

2.63 During the year 1987-88, the monsoon was deficient in many of the major cotton producing States. Drought affected the sowing of cotton crop in Gujarat, Punjab, Maharashtra, Haryana and Rajasthan. In Tamil Nadu no sowings were undertaken even by the second week of September. This might lead to a further decline in the area under cotton during 1987-88 and production also is likely to show a fall.

Jute and Mesta

2.64 In the case of both jute & mesta there was a substantial decline in production as well as acreage during 1986-87, the decline in production being more pronounced. The production of jute at 7.36 million bales during 1986-87 showed a decline of 32 per cent (−3.5 million bales) over the previous year and the decline in area at 0.81 million hectares was lower by 30 per cent (—0.34 million hectares). The decline in area and production during 1986-87 was reported by all the jute growing States. The three major jute growing States, i.e., West Bengal, Assam and Bihar accounted for more than 90 per cent of the fall in area and production during 1986-87.

2.65 In the case of mesta, the production during 1986-87 was 1.27 million bales, showing a fall of 28 per cent (—0.49 million bales) and the area cultivated was 0.27 million hectares, showing a fall of 23 per cent (—0.08 million hectares). The decline in mesta production during 1986-87 as compared to 1985-86 was reported by all the mesta growing States. Two States namely, West Bengal and Andhra Pradesh accounted for 74 per cent of the decline in production and 68 per cent of the decline in area during 1986-87.

2.66 During the current year 1987-88, it is estimated that there will be some fall in area under jute and mesta because of drought conditions that prevailed in Andhra Pradesh and floods in West Bengal. Measures that were taken by the Government recently to help jute growers and the jute industry include the creation of a Jute Modernisation Fund and a Special Jute Development Fund of Rs. 150 crores and Rs. 100 crores respectively. The funds are intended for modernising, restructuring/rehabilitating the jute industry and for the development of jute cultivation. The Government has also introduced mandatory use of jute packaging material for certain sectors of the economy.

Sugarcane

2.67 After achieving a record production of 189.5 million tonnes in 1982-83, sugarcane production suffered a set back in the next three years. However, during 1986-87 the production of sugarcane again increased to 182.5 million tonnes, an increase of 11.8 million tonnes over the level achieved during 1985-86. The States that contributed to this increase are Uttar Pradesh, Tamil Nadu, Haryana, Punjab, Madhya Pradesh and Karnataka. Large increases in production were achieved during 1986-87 in Uttar Pradesh (12 million tonnes), Tamil Nadu (1.6 million tonnes), Haryana (1.6 million tonnes), Punjab (1.1 million tonnes) and Karnataka (0.2 million tonnes). Four States namely Uttar Pradesh, Tamilnadu, Karnataka and Maharashtra accounted for almost 77 per cent of total sugarcane production in 1985-86. Of these, Uttar Pradesh, Tamil Nadu and Karnataka together showed an increase of about 14 million tonnes, while Maharashtra showed a decline of 2.8 million tonnes. The other States that showed large decreases in production during 1986-87 were Andhra Pradesh, Gujarat and Orissa.

2.68 The massive increase in production is largely attributable to an increase of 0.21 million hectares in area under sugarcane over the previous year. This is mainly due to an increase in area under sugarcane in Uttar Pradesh, Orissa, Maharashtra and Gujarat have, however, shown a marginal decrease in area under sugarcane. Andhra Pradesh is a special case where production declined despite an increase in area under the crop.

2.69 During the current year 1987-88, the poor rainfall might adversely affect the yield of sugarcane crop although area under sugarcane might be somewhat higher. In view of the drought this year, the statutory minimum price (SMP) of sugarcane for 1987-88 season, which was fixed at Rs. 18 per quintal linked to a basic recovery rate of 8.5 per cent at the beginning of 1986-87 season, has been revised upwards to Rs. 18.50 per quintal. For the next season 1988-89, a SMP of Rs. 19 per quintal has been announced linked to a basic recovery of 8.5 per cent. The advance announcement of SMP has helped to eliminate uncertainty about the trend of future sugarcane prices in the minds of the farmers and consequently induce them to increase the production of cane.

2.70 Sugar production during 1986-87 achieved a record level of 85 lakh tonnes, which is more than the previous best attained in 1981-82 and 15 lakh tonnes more than production in the previous year. This impressive growth in sugar production is mainly attributable to the measures initiated by the Government for the 1986-87 season. Thus the ratio of levy to free sale sugar was reduced to 50:50 in 1986-87 from 55 : 45 in 1985-86 and the price of molasses was doubled from Rs. 60 per tonne to Rs. 120 per tonne. Also, while raising the rate of excise duty from Rs. 30 to Rs. 60 per tonne, a provision has been made to set off the duty where molasses are used for production of industrial alcohol. This was done to help the sugar industry to tide over its cash flow problem.

Agricultural Inputs

2.71 In order to increase yields per hectare and stabilise output growth, a major thrust is required to increase the share of cropped area brought under irrigation, alongwith more intensive use of inputs like improved/high yielding variety (HYV) seeds, and chemical or bio-chemical fertilisers. It is also important to ensure an augmented flow of agricultural credit.

Irrigation

2.72 The drought experienced this year has reemphasised the need for early completion of the on-going projects and full utilisation of the irrigation potential created. The most important long term requirement for agricultural development is maximisation of area under assured irrigation. Accordingly, the plan allocation for major and medium irrigation projects is being augmented and greater emphasis is being placed on full utilisation of potential already created. The Seventh Plan document had already given highest priority to the completion of on-going irrigation schemes and to improved operations and management of existing schemes.

2.73 The irrigation potential of 22.6 million hectares, which existed in 1951, nearly trebled to about 67.5 million hectares by the end of the Sixth Five Year Plan. The Seventh Plan envisages the creation of additional irrigation potential of 12.9 million hectares as against 10.9 million hectares of potential created during the Sixth Plan. The achievement during the first year of the Seventh Plan (1985-86) was creation of a potential of 2.1 million hectares. The anticipated achievement for the second year, i.e., 1986-87 is 2.32 million hectares, marginally lower than the target of 2.42 million hectares for the year 1986-87. The target for the year 1987-88 was additional irrigation potential of 2.38 million hectares which has been augmented as a part of the drought management programme.

2.74 While creation of additional potential is a pre-requisite for agricultural development, it is equally important that the potential is utilised promptly and efficiently. Past experience shows that there is a large gap beween the creation of additional irrigation potential and the utilisation of created potential. The gap in the potential and utilisation has increased from about 7.0 million hectares at the end of Sixth Plan (1984-85) to about 7.5 million hectares in 1985-86. In medium and major irrigation alone, the gap between the created potential and its utilisation has remained at about 5 million hectares. In case of minor irrigation schemes although the gap is less, it has been increasing and had gone up to 2.74 million hectares in 1985-86.

Seventh Plan* (Additional)	4.31	3.92	8.60	7.00	12.91	10.92

*Target

2.75 The basic problem with the utilisation of potential in case of medium and major irrigation works is the non-development of land in the command areas by way of land shaping, land-levelling or construction of field channels. Lack of extension work to induce the farmers to take advantage of available irrigation facilities and deficiencies in the management system, leading to inefficient distribution of water, have also emerged as serious problems.

2.76 Also, the crop pattern actually realised often does not conform to the pattern envisaged at the project formulation stage. Farmers at head reaches tend to grow crops which consume a lot of water in contravention of the crop pattern originally planned. This results in shortage of water at the lower reaches especially in poor monsoon years. Consequently, benefits often do not flow from the project in the manner envisaged. In case of minor irrigation, the factors that lead to a gap between created potential and utilisation include non-availability of power for agricultural pumpsets and tubewells, inadequate maintenance and lack of proper distribution system from public tubewells.

2.77 One of the important measures taken to reduce the gap between potential created and utilisation is to revamp the centrally sponsored Command Area Development Programme (CADP) which covers the activities of construction of field channels, field drains, land levelling, and extension work among farmers. As against 76 projects in the beginning of the Sixth Plan, the programme now covers about 132 selected major and medium irrigation projects. High priority in allocation of both physical and financial resources is being given to these projects. Emphasis is being laid on efficient management of water distribution system, more efficient and timely on farm water delivery and training of field staff and farmers in the management of water distribution systems below the outlet level. The programme will be continued in all 132 projects in 1987-88. The States have been asked to prepare detailed project reports for each project indicating total cost, phasing of the requirement of funds and the targets to be achieved. The Plan outlay for the CAD programme in 1987-88 is Rs. 318.23 crores as against the outlay of Rs. 307.12 crores and anticipated expenditure of Rs. 294.49 crores for 1986-87.

Seeds

2.78 A major element in the strategy for increased foodgrain production is to increase the area under high yielding varieties of paddy, wheat and other cereal crops. The area under high yielding varieties increased from 38 million hectares to 54 million hectares during the Sixth Plan. During the first year of the Seventh Plan, 1985-86, the area under HYV has increased further to 55 million hectares. However, during 1986-87, the area under HYVs declined to 54 million hectares, mainly because of a fall in the area under HYVs of jowar and bajra. The achievement in 1986-87 is also much lower than the target of 60.6 million hectares set for that year.

2.79 Adequate production and distribution of the certified quality seeds is essential for increased agricultural production. During the Sixth Plan the distribution of certified seeds went up from 14 lakh quintals in 1979-80 to 48.5 lakh quintals in 1984-85. This further increased to 55 lakh quintals in 1985-86.

During 1986-87, however, there has only been a small increase in the distribution of certified seeds.

TABLE 2.7

Distribution of Certified/Quality Seeds

(Million hectares)

Year	Lakh quintals	Percentage increase over the preceding year
1980-81	25.01	..
1981-82	29.81	19.2
1982-83	42.06	41.1
1983-84	44.97	6.9
1984-85	48.46	7.8
1985-86 (anticipated)	55.01	13.5
1986-87 (likely achievement)	55.83	1.5

2.80 The main reason for this slow down in the distribution of certified/quality seeds is perhaps a diversification of area from high seed rate crops like groundnut (125 kgs./hectare) to low seed rate crops like rapeseed and mustard (5 kgs./hectare). Also crops sown because they require less irrigation typically have a low seed rate compared to wheat, paddy, groundnut, etc.

2.81 In order to achieve the seed distribution target of 73 lakh quintals in 1987-88 and 11.74 million quintals by the end of the Seventh Plan, infrastructural facilities for seed production, processing quality control and distribution have to be extended beyond the States presently covered by the National Seeds Project to other States like Assam, West Bengal, Gujarat and Madhya Pradesh and the North Eastern Region. This is proposed to be achieved through Phase III of the National Seeds Project which is expected to be implemented during 1987-88. National Seeds Project I, for creating infrastructural facilities in Andhra Pradesh, Haryana, Maharashtra and Punjab and National Seeds Project II, covering Bihar, Karnataka, Orissa, Rajasthan and Uttar Pradesh, were completed in December, 1984 and December, 1985 respectively. It is interesting to note that in the SRP Programme the share of the eastern region in paddy is now rising.

2.82 To review the present and future strategies in to seeds, the Government of India has set up an Expert Group on seeds. The Group will examine the adequacy and thrust of seed research, inter-linkage between various classes of seeds, effectiveness of production and delivery of seeds and mode of price fixation for improved seeds.

Fertilizer

2.83 During the Sixth Plan fertilizer consumption has increased from 52.6 lakh tonnes (nutrients) in 1979-80 to 82.1 lakh tonnes (nutrients) in 1984-85. In 1985-86, the first year of the Seventh Plan, it further rose to 87.4 lakh tonnes (nutrients) showing an increase of 6.4 per cent over the previous year. During 1986-87, however, there was no further increase in the consumption of fertilisers. In 1987-88, about 91.15 lakh tonnes of fertilizer nutrients are expected to be consumed as against a target of 103 lakh tonnes of nutrients.

2.84 The production of fertilisers has shown a considerable increase from 29.8 lakh tonnes in 1979-80 to 51.8 lakh tonnes in 1984-85. During 1985-86 it further increased to 57.6 lakh tonnes and to 70.7 lakh tonnes during 1986-87. As a result, the share of imported fertilisers, has been coming down, from 20 lakh tonnes in 1979-80 to 13.5 lakh tonnes in 1983-84. Because of the tremendous increase in the consumption of fertilisers during the year 1983-84, imports were at an all time high level of 36.2 lakh tonnes in 1984-85. During 1985-86 production increased by 5.8 lakh tonnes and the imports were also kept high at 34 lakh tonnes. The increase in production in 1986-87 is of the order of 13 lakh tonnes and the imports were brought down to 25 lakh tonnes because the off take of fertilisers during 1985-86 was 87.4 lakh tonnes. The target of fertilizer production for the year 1987-88 is 77 lakh tonnes and the imports are targetted to be brought down to 12 lakh tonnes, less than half of the imports of last year. Subsidy on imported fertilisers has been showing a continuous decline from 1984-85 onwards, mainly because of scaling down of the level of imports as also because of lower international prices. However, with the increase in indigenous production and comissioning of new units the subsidy on indigenous fertilizers has shown a continuous increase.

Credit

2.85 The objectives of agricultural credit policy are to provide adequate and timely credit to the farmers, with a focus on small and marginal farmers or other weaker sections, and to provide adequate credit support for areas selected under special programmes like Special Rice Production Programme (SRPP) and National Oilseeds Development Project (NODP), for dryland farming etc.

2.86 The quantum of agricultural credit disbursed by the institutional agencies has been increasing over the year. During the Sixth Plan, the total disbursements by these agencies increased from Rs. 2759 crores in 1979-80 to Rs. 5556 crores in 1984-85. During the first two years of the Seventh Plan, the disbursements have increased to Rs. 6886 crores in 1985-86 and to Rs. 7195 crores in 1986-87.

*Target

2.87 In view of the drought, the State Governments have been advised to step up credit support substantially to the farming communities during rabi 1987-88. The target for disbursements during 1987-88, has been fixed at Rs. 9645 crores.

2.88 For the weaker sections, certain relaxations like lower rate of interest, longer repayment schedule, lower down payment of margin for long term loans etc, were continued during 1986-87. Out of the total flow of credit of Rs. 7195 crores during 1986-87, the share of weaker sections was about 45 per cent.

2.89 The major problem faced by the lending institutions particularly the cooperatives, is the unsatisfactory level of over-dues. At the end of June 1985, the percentage of overdues at the Primary Agricultural Credit Societies (PACS) level was about 41 per cent while at the level of Primary Land Development Banks it was around 41.7 per cent. The State Governments have been advised to draw up and implement time bound programmes for special recovery drives. However, due to the drought this year, certain relaxations have been allowed. The RBI/NABARD has issued instructions to banks to reschedule outstanding loans and provide crop loans to farmers seriously affected by the drought to undertake second sowing or raise alternative short duration crops including fodder, production of seeds etc. Special facilities are being provided to farmers who have been affected by three or more years of drought, both in respect of complete rescheduling of loans and provision of new credit. The limit for consumption loans to small and marginal farmers and other weaker sections was raised from Rs. 250 to Rs. 500. Banks were also advised to process and sanction loans for minor irrigation quickly.

Crop Insurance

2.90 All the farmers availing of crop loans from Co-operatives, Commercial Banks and Regional Rural Banks for raising paddy, wheat, millets, oilseeds and pulses are covered under this scheme. The insurance premium is charged at the rate of 2 per cent of the sum assured for paddy, wheat and millets and 1 per cent of the sum assured for oilseeds and pulses. A part of the premium paid by the small and marginal farmers is subsidised by the Central Government and the concerned State Governments on a 50:50 basis. The progress of the Comprehensive Crop Insurance Scheme (CCIS) is indicated in Table 2.11.

2.91 So far 18 States and 3 Union Territories have implemented the scheme. The State Government of Rajasthan implemented the scheme in Rabi 1985-86 and kharif 1986 but later it had opted out. In order to make the scheme more attractive, the CCIS was modified from rabi 1986-87 season. Now for paddy and wheat there are 3 rates of indemnifiable limits viz. 80 per cent, 85 per cent and 90 per cent depending upon the coefficient of variation in yield. Such threshold yield will be determined on the basis of a moving average of last three years yield as against the average of last 5 years yield as originally provided under the scheme. During kharif 1987, the number of farmers covered has increased to 44.42 lakhs as compared to 39 lakhs in kharif 1986. There has been a fall in the area covered during the same period because of withdrawal of Rajasthan from the scheme.

Dryland Agriculture

2.92 Dryland agriculture covers about 70 per cent of the total cultivated area but is characterised by low productivity, high risk and low income. Stable growth of rainfed/dryland agriculture is, therefore, crucial for regaining the momentum of overall agricultural growth. Keeping this in view a National Watershed Development Programme for Rainfed Agriculture was initiated in 1986-87 in selected districts on a pilot basis. The programme lays emphasis on land and water management through introduction of optimal cropping systems, dryland horticulture, farm forestry, fodder production etc. Attempts are also being made to step up the pace of research in dryland agriculture.

Outlook

2.93 The severity of the drought this year and the slackening of agricultural production underlines the continuing sensitivity of agricultural performance to vagaries of weather, although there is no doubt that the ability of the economy as a whole to cope with a drought is much greater today than earlier.

2.94 Instability in agricultural production is mainly attributable to the fact that about 70 per cent of total cropped area is still rainfed. This is specially true of the kharif crops. Further, out of the 30 per cent of cropped area irrigated, a large proportion of the additional irrigation has come from wells and tanks which are themselves rain dependent and get depleted in years of poor rainfall. More specifically, it derives from the fact that agricultural growth has come largely from increases in yield rather than acerage during the last two decades and yield itself is highly sensitive to rainfall. The weather sensitivity of output growth is also probably reinforced by the uneven development of agriculture, with increases in production having come largely from a few regions or States. Drought in these regions, therefore, has a strong impact on aggregate national production.

2.95 Instability in output growth and the uneven regional distribution of growth in Indian agriculture have led to the evolution of a long term strategy which aims at stabilising growth through the greater coverage of cropped area by assured irrigation, emphasis on the availability of infrastructure and inputs in backward regions with high potential and better water management in rainfed or dryland agriculture. This strategy is also being integrated with the attempt to arrive at a more balanced cropping pattern, in particular, a thrust towards self reliance in edible oils through the Technology Mission on Oilseeds.

2.96 The government has now decided to give top priority to these strategic tasks in order to stabilise agricultural growth along a higher path. A high level group has accordingly been constituted to work out an action plan for the fulfilment of targets in the agricultural sector.

INFRASTRUCTURE

The performance of the infrastructure sectors in the current year has been highly encouraging. This is in contrast to the experience of earlier droughts when performance of infrastructure was also badly affected. Thermal power, coal, saleable steel and cement have registered substantial increases in the production. The growth rate of 10.2 per cent in coal production during April—December 1987 has been the highest since 1981-82. But for the decline in hydel power generation due to successive drought conditions, the increase in electricity generation would have been still higher as thermal (including nuclear) power generation recorded an impressive increase of 15.7 per cent during April—December 1987. This is attributable to a higher plant load factor (PLF) of 55 per cent and other measures like better plant management and streaming in of additional generating capacity.

3.2 Cargo handled at major ports during April—December 1987 recorded an impressive increase of 8.7 per cent over the corresponding period of 1986. Railways revenue earning goods traffic has increased by 5.4 per cent. The telecommunications sector has shown a considerable improvement in its performance in terms of growth, both of the infrastructure and of the traffic throughput during 1986-87 and 1987-88 so far. There was, however, a slight set-back in the production of telephone instruments by Indian Telephone Industries during April—December 1987.

3.3 The growth rate in production of six infrastructure sectors (electricity, coal, saleable steel, crude petroleum, petroleum refinery products and cement), which accounts for a total weight of 28.8 per cent in the index of industrial production, was 7.4 per cent in 1986-87 as against 8.1 per cent in 1985-86. During the first nine months (April—December) of the year 1987-88 these sectors, including hydel power, achieved an overall growth rate of 6.4 per cent as against 7.9 per cent during the corresponding period of 1986-87.

Energy

Electricity

3.4 Power generation in the country during 1986-87 achieved a higher growth rate of 10.2 per cent as compared with the growth of 8.5 per cent recorded in 1985-86. However, total generation was 1.3 per cent below the target. The overall performance of the thermal units continued to be satisfactory during 1986-87. Thermal (including nuclear) generation recorded a growth of 12.2 per cent in 1986-87 on top of an increase of 15.8 per cent achieved during the year 1985-86 and hydro generation achieved a growth rate of 5.3 per cent over the year as against a decline of 5.4 per cent recorded in 1985-86. As against the target of 127.8 billion kwh. of thermal generation, the actual generation during 1986-87 was 128.8 billion kwh. representing an increase of about 1 per cent over the target. However, in the case of hydel and nuclear power, the generation fell short of targets by 5.8 per cent and 1.9 per cent respectively. The shortfall in the achievement of the targeted level of hydel generation can be ascribed to inadequate or delayed monsoon leading to reduced inflows in the reservoirs, delays or slippages in the commissioning of some units and forced closure of some hydro power stations.

3.5 In 1987-88, with the anticipated fall in hydel electricity generation because of the substantial fall in water levels of major reservoirs caused by failure of monsoon, steps were taken to augment thermal power, expediting the commissioning and stabilisation of new plants and encouraging use of captive generation wherever possible. While there was a decline of 11.6 per cent in hydel generation during April—December, 1987 compared to the same period of 1986, thermal (including nuclear) generation increased substantially by 15.7 per cent. In aggregate the power generation during April—December 1987 recorded a growth of 7.6 per cent as compared to 10.3 per cent in corresponding period of 1986.

3.6 With the special measures taken to step up thermal generation in the current year, it is now expected to increase by about 2.7 billion kwh. over what was programmed at the beginning of the financial year (143 billion kwh.). In the context of the current drought, various measures like demand management, regulation of supply to different sectors and transfer of surplus power across States and regions have also been taken to even-out shortages to the extent possible.

3.7 The overall satisfactory performance of power generation during the first nine months of 1987-88 has been possible largely because of a progressive increase in the plant load factor (PLF) of thermal power stations. The all—India thermal plant load factor increased from 47.9 per cent in 1983-84 to 53.2 per cent in 1986-87 and further to 55.0 per cent during April—December 1987 as against the target of 53.5 per cent for the year 1987-88.

3.8 The States where the Electricity Boards have increased the PLF beyond the actual achievement in 1986-87 and also exceeded the target for April—December 1987 include Andhra Pradesh, Tamil Nadu, Rajasthan, Punjab, Gujarat, Maharashtra, Uttar Pradesh and Orissa. The performance of the other State Electricity Boards has not been satisfactory. In the Central sector, the overall PLF achieved during April—December 1987 at 62.0 per cent was marginally higher than the target (60.0 per cent), although less than the actual PLF achieved in 1986-87 (65.0 per cent). The PLF of NTPC and NLC is far ahead of their targets but that of DVC is lagging behind. Private utilities achieved a PLF of 67.1 per cent during April—December 1987 as compared to a target of 65.0 per cent.

3.9 Statewise details show that the PLF of a large number of States is much lower than the all-India average. The States where a low PLF is a chronic problem have not been able to achieve the target and in certain cases it is even less than what was actually achieved in 1986-87. This is a cause for great concern and efforts need to be directed towards the improvement of PLF especially in these States.

3.10 The additional power generation capacity rolled or commissioned during April—December, 1987 vis-a-vis the capacity scheduled is given in Table 3.4. It is observed that there have been considerable slippages in the implementation of both thermal and hydel projects. Such slippages have also contributed to the shortfall of 11.0 per cent in power supply as compared to requirements. Because of the severe shortage in power availability, a number of States continued to enforce power cuts and restrictions to bridge the gap between demand and availability and this has had an adverse impact on industry. The States which enforced major cuts in power supply to the industrial sector include Punjab, Haryana, U.P., Rajasthan, Tamil Nadu, Karnataka, Kerala and Orissa. A major thrust is, therefore, required for the speedy implementation of the projects as per schedule.

Coal

3.11 Production of coal during the first nine months of 1987-88 recorded an increase of 10.2 per cent compared to the corresponding period of 1986-87, the total production going up from 112.9 million tonnes to 124.4 million tonnes. Singareni

Collieries Co. Ltd. (SCCL) recorded an increase of 8.4 per cent in coal production while Coal India Ltd. (CIL) increased its output by 10.8 per cent during the period. However, overall coal production is still marginally short of target. The performance of SCCL was affected by labour strikes, breakdown of machinery, absenteeism and power shortage problem. Pit-head stocks at the end of December 1987 increased by 20.1 per cent compared to end-December, 1986 and despatches increased by 8.1 per cent during April--December, 1987 over the corresponding period of 1986.

3.12 Taking into account the possible drawal from pit-head stocks and the need to import superior coking coal to meet the steel plants' requirements, the target for coal production in 1986-87 was fixed at 166.8 million tonnes. The actual production was fairly close to this target at 165.8 million tonnes. While the overall performance of CIL has been satisfactory in 1986-87 in as much as it exceeded the target of production, SCCL and TISCO/IISCO/DVC group were behind the target. Except for North-Eastern Coalfields the production of all subsidiaries of CIL was as per or ahead of the target. Because of mismatch between movement and supply plans, pit-head stocks, which ought to have been reduced in order to meet the gap between demand and production, actually went up from 26.6 million tonnes at the end of 1985-86 to 29.4 million tonnes at the end of 1986-87. Coal movement by rail in 1986-87 was 118.1 million tonnes as against the planned level of 120 million tonnes. The daily average loading of wagons in 1986-87 was 13552 as against 12996 in 1985-86.

3.13 Based on the performance in 1986-87 and the demand for coal in 1987-88, the coal production target during the current year has been fixed at 183.5 million tonnes. Of this, the share of CIL is 158 million tonnes, SCCL 20 million tonnes and TISCO/IISCO/DVC 5.5 million tonnes. The total demand for coal during 1987-88 is estimated at 192.05 million tonnes. The share of power sector demand is more than half of this, the other major consumers being steel, cement, railways, etc. The demand-production gap is to be met through drawdown of stocks. The required rail movement of coal is estimated at 122.6 million tonnes.

3.14 As a consequence of the measures taken to improve the movement of coal by rail, the availability of coal across the country has gone up. As much as 123.6 million tonnes of coal was despatched during April—December 1987 compared to 114.3 million tonnes during the corresponding period of 1986. The daily average coal loading in CIL during April-December 1987 was 11389 wagons per day as against 10909 wagons per day recorded in April—December 1986, thereby showing an increase of 480 wagons per day. The movement of coal from Singareni Collieries Co. Ltd. has improved considerably. Loading went up to 1401 wagons per day during April—December 1987 as compared to 1210 wagons per day during the corresponding period of 1986.

3.15 Production of metallurgical grade coking coal during April--December 1987 was of the order of 19.48 million tonnes as against 21.35 million tonnes achieved during the same period of 1986. This drop in production was wholly accounted for by a shortfall in medium coking coal output in Central Coalfields. Washed coal production in CIL washeries during April—December 1987 totalled 6 million tonnes as against 5.87 million tonnes during the same period last year. However, this was short of the target for the period by 14.9 per cent. Table 3.6 indicates the supply/demand position with regard to coking coal for steel plants.

*This was subsequently reduced to 13.90 million tonnes.

3.16 In 1986-87, 2.56 million tonnes of coal was imported as against 2.45 million tonnes in 1985-86. Imports of coking coal during 1987-88 are likely to be around 2.5 million tonnes. Meanwhile, the average ash content of indigenous coal has declined marginally from 19.4 per cent in 1985-86 to 19.1 per cent in 1986-87. Even though the average ash level is slightly lower, the quality of coking coal supply varied from day-to-day, with ash content ranging from 17 to 26 per cent. This affects the smooth and efficient operation of blast furnaces and their production

Lignite

3.17 Production of lignite from Neyveli Lignite Corporation in 1986-87 was recorded at 7.13 million tonnes from the first mine and 1.42 million tonnes from the second mine. This was higher than the targeted level of 6.5 million tonnes from the first mine and 0.9 million tonnes from the second mine. In addition, the lignite mines of the Gujarat Mineral Development Corporation produced 1.08 million tonnes in 1986-87 against 0.92 million tonnes in 1985-86. The target for lignite production at Neyveli during 1987-88 has been fixed at 9.15 million tonnes, 6.5 million tonnes from the first mine and 2.65 million tonnes from the second mine. The Gujarat Mineral Development Corporation is also expected to augment its production. The production of lignite from Neyveli Lignite Corporation during the first nine months of 1987-88 was 7.01 million tonnes as against the production of 5.72 million tonnes in the same period of previous year. This was higher than the target level of 6.47 million tonnes for the period, by 8.3 per cent.

Petroleum

3.18 Production of crude oil in 1986-87 exceeded the targeted level of production—it was 30.48 million tonnes as against a target of 30.21 million tonnes. While ONGC's production at 27.86 million tonnes exceeded the target of 27.37 million tonnes, Oil India Ltd. produced 2.62 million tonnes as against a target of 2.84 million tonnes. Details of trends in production are given in Table 3.7.

3.19 Production of crude oil during April—December 1987 amounted to 22.6 million tonnes as against 23.0 million tonnes achieved during the corresponding period of 1986. The decline of 1.7 per cent was on account of lower level of off-shore production of crude oil which recorded a fall of 3.2 per cent. The total on-shore area production, however, was 1.3 per cent higher. On the whole, crude oil production in 1987-88 is expected to exceed the target of 30.46 million tonnes. Refinery production (in terms of crude throughput) during April—December 1987 aggregated to 35.3 million tonnes representing 100.5 per cent achievement of the target and an increase of 5.1 per cent over the level of 33.6 million tonnes achieved during the corresponding period of 1986. However, throughput achieved by the refineries at Guwahati, Barauni, Bombay (HPCL), Vizag (HPCL), Digboi and Madras fell short of the target. The overall refinery capacity utilisation during the period April—December 1987 was 96.5 per cent as against 93.7 per cent recorded during the corresponding period of 1986. Based on these results, the targeted refinery throughput of 46.95 million tonnes is likely to be exceeded during 1987-88. The production of natural gas, which has become an important source of energy and feedstocks, at 7.7 billion cubic metres during April—December 1987 registered a significant increase of 16.7 per cent over the same period last year. The production and exploratory activities during the year were further intensified by ONGC.

3.20 Production of LPG by gas fractionation both by ONGC and OIL during 1987-88 was targeted at about 5.6 lakh tonnes. This is likely to come down to 5.3 lakh tonnes primarily due to slippage at Hazira LPG plant and shortfall in LPG fractionation plant at Ankleshwar. But production will still be higher than that achieved in 1986-87 by 7.5 per cent.

3.21 The consumption of petroleum products has been continuously increasing. In 1986-87 the consumption was 43.4 million tonnes as against 40.9 million tonnes in 1985-86, representing an increase of 6.1 per cent as compared to 5.4 per cent in 1985-86. The growth in the consumption of middle distillates consisting of kerosene, high speed diesel oil, etc. was 6.7 per cent as against 7.1 per cent recorded in 1985-86. Details are given in Table 3.8. While consumption of kerosene increased by 6.5 per cent that of H.S.D.O. increased by 7.4 per cent in 1986-87. As against the total production of petroleum products at 42.8 million tonnes, their consumption during 1986-87 was 43.4 million tonnes. The gap between production and consumption was met through a net import of 0.6 million tonnes. The consumption of LPG is likely to increase by a little over 16 per cent from 1.50 million tonnes in 1986-87 to 1.75 million tonnes in 1987-88.

3.22 The Working Group on location of new gas-based fertilizer plants suggested the setting up of six new fertilizer plants in addition to the two gas-based plants in Maharashtra and Gujarat. Each of these plants will have a capacity of 1350 tonnes per day of ammonia, utilising 1.5 mmscmd of lean gas. In addition to these gas based fertilizer plants, it was also proposed to utilise gas for power projects.

3.23 In view of the emerging importance of gas in the national economic scene, an independent Authority called the "Gas Authority of India Limited" (GAIL) was set up in August 1986. The primary objective of GAIL is to deal with gas transportation and distribution. The immediate task before GAIL is to execute the HBJ pipeline project. The Government of India had approved the implementation of the HBJ gas pipeline project in April 1984, at an estimated cost of Rs. 1700 crores, including a foreign exchange component of about Rs. 680 crores. The project contemplates laying of a 1730 kms. long pipeline with necessary facilities from Hazira in Gujarat through Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan and Uttar Pradesh, to meet the feedstock requirement of six fertilizer plants (four in Uttar Pradesh and one each in M.P. and Rajasthan) and fuel requirement of two (one in Anta, Rajasthan and one in Auraiya, U.P.) of the three power plants, being set up along with pipeline. For the third power plant at Kawas gas is being offered only on a fallback basis. The initial capacity of the pipeline is 18.2 mmscmd. The project is scheduled to be completed in all respects by July, 1989. The first section of the pipeline from Hazira to Bijaipur (640 kms.) was completed in August 1987 and supply of gas to Bijaipur fertilizer plant has started.

3.24 The total probable hydrocarbon reserves of the country are estimated at around 17 billion tonnes of oil or oil equivalent of gas, out of which about 75 per cent have already been established. Out of the established reserves, only about 25 per cent of oil reserves and a little over 50 per cent of the gas reserves are regarded as recoverable reserves. The position of balance recoverable reserves of oil and natural gas as on 1-1-87 was as follows :—

Balance Recoverable Reserves as on 1-1-1987

Crude Oil	581 million tonnes.
Natural gas	541 billion cubic metres.

3.25 A three-pronged exploration strategy has been adopted during the Seventh Plan in order to significantly augment the established geological reserves and recoverable reserves of hydrocarbons :

(i) the physical targets for exploration companies during the Seventh Plan vis-a-vis the Sixth Plan are significantly higher; as against 80 party years of geological and geo-magnetic survey in the Sixth Plan, a target of 112 party years has been set for the Seventh Plan. Exploratory drilling, both onshore and offshore, is proposed to be increased from an actual achievement of 9.6 lakh metres in the Sixth Plan to 28.2 lakh metres during the Seventh Plan Period.

(ii) beside intensified exploratory efforts by ONGC and Oil India Ltd., an Indo-Soviet cooperation for integrated exploration, on a turnkey basis, in agreed areas of Cambay and Cauvery basins has also been formalised. This would soon be extended to cover agreed areas in the Bengal basins.

(iii) under the Third Round of bidding, 27 offshore blocks were offered for exploration by foreign oil companies. Offers of foreign oil companies under this round are being processed and negotiations with them are at an advanced stage.

3.26 The country's exploratory efforts have yielded good results and several discoveries of oil and gas have been made in various parts of the country since the beginning of the Seventh Five Year Plan. During April-October 1987 the following discoveries of oil and gas were made in the country :—

3.27 While several States in the country were affected by severe drought conditions, some States suffered from floods. These conditions necessitated ensuring improved supply of certain petroleum products like high speed diesel oil and kerosene. The oil industry continued its endeavour of meeting in full the requirements of HSDO in the drought affected States, particularly those in the North-West where the demand for HSDO was high. Similarly, additional allocations of kerosene were made to meet the specific demand of certain States and Union Territories due to floods and drought.

Non-conventional Sources of Energy

3.28 So far over 8.8 lakh biogas plants have been installed in the country since 1974-75. In 1986-87 alone over 2 lakh biogas plants were installed as against a target of 1.5 lakh plants. The programme has become popular among small and marginal farmers and in far-flung areas like the North-Eastern Region. A sum of Rs. 64 55 crores was released to the State Governments and programme implementing agencies. As against the target of 1.2 lakh plants for 1987-88, over 48,500 biogas plants have already been installed during April-October 1987. As a result of various measures undertaken, the quality of installation of biogas plants has improved considerably. New administrative and financial measures have been taken by the Government to accelerate the implementation of the programme. These include rationalisation of the rates of Central subsidy for different categories of beneficiaries and capacities of biogas plants, setting up of four new Regional Biogas Development and Training Centres, financial assistance for the removal of old non-functional plants, field demonstrations on the utility of biogas manure, popularisation of cheaper models developed recently, etc.

3.29 The exploitation of other non-conventional sources of energy has also been planned. During 1986-87 an outlay of Rs. 124 90 crores was approved for the non-conventional energy programmes like solar thermal energy, solar photovoltaics, wind energy, rice straw agro thermal power plant, community/institutional biogas plants, etc. For 1987-88 an outlay of Rs. 100.70 crores has been provided.

Energy Conservation

3.30 In the context of the present power shortages, energy conservation or more efficient use of energy needs to be accorded increasing importance. The Inter-Ministerial Working Group on Utilisation and Conservation of Energy in its report submitted in 1983 had estimated the conservation potential at 25 per cent in the industrial sector and 30 per cent in agricultural sector. A Standing Group on Conservation of Electric Energy has been set up and it has recommended several measures. Encouraged by the result of a pilot project for rectification of pumpsets reflecting on an average a reduction of about 28 per cent in energy consumption, more such projects have been undertaken during 1987-88. The Petroleum Conservation Research Association has identified some areas for conservation of petroleum products. Energy audits in some major industries have been carried out and follow up action on the basis of the findings of these audits is being taken.

Transport and Communications

Railways

3.31 For the second year in succession, the freight loading on Indian Railways in 1986-87 registered an impressive increase. It carried about 307 million tonnes of originating traffic (including 29 million tonnes of non-revenue earning traffic) as against the target of 294 million tonnes (including 27 million tonnes of non-revenue earning traffic). There was a quantum jump of 19 million tonnes, i.e., 7.4 per cent increase in revenue earning traffic over the previous year. In terms of NTKMs, the total freight transport output crossed 223 billion net-tonne Kms. (including 9 billion NTKMs of non-revenue earning traffic). The percentage increase of revenue earning NTKMs was about 9 per cent over the previous year and about 12 per cent over the target. Barring coal, cement and steel, loading of all other commodities was excellent. The shortfall in the traffic of coal, cement and steel was largely due to inadequate offerings. The Railways, however, made up these shortfalls by higher loading of other commodities. The overall loading performance of the Indian Railways during 1986-87 remained above the target despite the shortfall in offering of traffic in three major commodities and other constraints such as the non-transferability of loading capacity from one type of commodity and one area to another.

3.32 The target for the freight traffic for 1987-88 was set at 313 million tonnes (including 26 million tonnes of non-revenue earning traffic). In view of the record freight loading performance of the Railways in 1986-87, and the trend of actual traffic carried during the first two months of 1987-88, the freight traffic targets were revised upward from 287 million tonnes of revenue earning traffic to 290 million tonnes and that of total traffic from 313 million tonnes to 316 million tonnes. This implied an increase of about 12 million tonnes in the revenue earning freight traffic over the previous year and the transport output of 218 billion NTKMs i.e. about 4 billion NTKMs more than the figure of 214 billion NTKMs achieved during 1986-87.

*April—December £ Provisional

3.33 According to revised target, the Railways were to carry 209.2 million tonnes of revenue earning freight traffic during April—December 1987. As against this 210.0 million tonnes were carried during this period thereby registering an increase of about one million tonnes over the target and 10 7 million tonnes (5.4 per cent) over the quantity moved in the corresponding period of the previous year. This achievement was despite the large breaches in September in the Eastern sector of the country due to floods in Bihar and West Bengal. The present trend, however, indicates that the revised target of 290 million tonnes of revenue earning freight traffic would be achieved despite some drop which is discernible to the loading of fertilisers, cement and iron ore for export.

3.34 As per total transport effort, measured in terms of net—tonne kilometres (NTKMs), the goods traffic during April-December 1987 has registered an impressive growth of 3.1 per cent over the corresponding period of last year and has reached a level of 159.1 billion NTKMs despite the fact that the traffic from the core sector in iron ore for export, fertilisers and cement was below the targeted level.

3.39 In 1986-87 major ports handled 124.2 million ways in freight movement can be gauged by the comprehensive index of wagon utilisation viz. net—tonne kilometres (NTKMs) per wagon/day which reflects not only the mobility of the wagon but also the pay load. In 1986-87, the NTKMs per wagon/day averaged 1390 Broad Gauge (BG) and 695 Metre Gauge (MG) as against 1296 (BG) and 677 (MG) during 1985-86. During April—December 1987 NTKMs per wagon/day improved to 1368 (BG) as against 1357 (BG) during the same period in the previous year. Another efficiency indicator, viz., Wagon Turn Round time, which was 12.0 days (BG) and 14.3 days (MG) during 1985-86 was reduced to 11.6 days (BG) and 12.7 days (MG) during 1986-87 registering an improvement of 3.3 per cent and 11.2 per cent respectively over the previous year.

3.36 In order to improve efficiency and safety, the Railways continued their programme of replacement of overaged assets and modernisation of operations. Despite the severe resource constraints, Indian Railways completed track renewals of 3978 Kms. during 1986-87 and 1739 kms. during April—September 1987 in pursuance of targeted priority in the Seventh Five Year Plan. The Railways have also made satisfactory headway in replacement of over-aged assets, maintenance of existing assets, completion of essential on-going projects etc. for achieving required transport capacity to meet traffic demand.

3.37 In order to sustain the process of growth and development, the induction of new technology by upgrading motive power technology, computerisation of freight operations, introduction of micro-processors in yards and other areas, induction of special type of rolling stock to carry bulk traffic etc. has been planned as part of a long-term profile of the railway freight system.

3.38 Another important achievement relates to introduction of computerised passenger reservation system. The main objective of this was to relieve passengers from undue strain in making reservations for seats and berths. The entire reservation load for all trains passing through Delhi area has been computerised. Extension of computerisation of reservation to Bombay and Calcutta has made substantial progress and is expected to be completed during the year. Computerised reservation is also expected to start at Madras, Secunderabad, Bangalore, Bhopal, Lucknow and Ahmedabad by the end of 1988.

Ports

3.39 In 1986-87 major ports handled 124 2 million tonnes of cargo compared to 120 million tonnes in 1985-86 representing an increase of 3.5 per cent Coal, iron ore and container traffic showed significant increases. The increase in coal traffic was on account of both higher movement of coastal coal (thermal) as well as import of coking coal, while increase in container traffic was in line with the anticipation and the thrust of the Seventh Plan. The aggregate port capacity at the beginning of Seventh Plan was 132.73 million tonnes. It has increased to 141.93 million tonnes in 1986-87 with 8 million tonnes increase at Vishakhapatnam and Madras ports for POL traffic and 1.2 million tonnes increase at Paradip for fertiliser raw materials. With the commissioning of Nhava Sheva Port, the port capacity is likely to increase to 147.83 million tonnes by 1988-89. It is expected to go up further to 154.90 million tonnes towards the close of the Seventh Plan, on account of augmentation of container handling facilities at the ports of Bombay, Cochin, Madras and Calcutta, coal and P.O.L. handling facilities at Haldia and general cargo berth at Mangalore.

3.40 The total cargo handled at major ports during April—December 1987 was 95.8 million tonnes representing a growth of 8 7 per cent over the same period last year. There has been substantial increase in the traffic handled in the case of POL (18.9 per cent) as compared to the corresponding period of 1986 largely on account of increased imports; other commodities recorded an increase of 9.0 per cent. The traffic in iron ore, however, declined by 10.4 per cent as compared to the corresponding period of 1986. The traffic at the major ports during 1987-88 is expected to be more than the projection of 123 million tonnes for the year and also the traffic which was handled during 1986-87. According to the trend available upto December, 1987, the total traffic in 1987-88 is likely to be around 130 million tonnes.

Telecommunications

3.41 The performance of the telecommunications sector during 1986-87 has been encouraging. The number of direct exchange connections recorded a growth of over 10 per cent and of telex connections of 11.5 per cent. The production of telephone instruments by ITI at 7.52 lakhs was, however, below the target on account of the problems of supply of components by collaborators.

3.42 During the period April—December 1987 the total production of 5 lakh telephone instruments registered a growth of 2.6 per cent over the year, though it lagged behind the target for the period by about 8 per cent on account of the decline in production in Bangalore unit of ITI. The production was affected because of the problems associated with the availability of components and other materials. These bottlenecks need to be removed so that the respective targets can be achieved during the remaining period of 1987-88. A total of 83,875 new telephone connections were provided in the monitored sector during the first nine months of the year, which though 26 per cent higher than the target fixed for April—December 1987 was marginally below the achievement in the corresponding period of the previous year. During the period April—December 1987 an addition of 74,600 lines of switching capacity was made in the monitored sector as against the target of 61,800 lines for the period and the achievement of 84,690 lines during the same period of 1986.

3.43 In respect of international service, the number of countries to which the Indian subscriber can dial directly rose from 5 in 1985-86 to 9 in 1986-87 with the necessary infrastructure built-up for a rapid increase during 1987-88. Within the country, as against 76 cities which had access to international subscriber dialling facilities in 1985-86, the number increased to 323 at the end of 1986-87. The service is now available from 460 stations in the country to 160 countries.

3.44 There was a significant thrust towards the extension of telephone service to rural areas. 1558 long distance public telephones were opened in rural areas in 1986-87 compared to 1509 in 1985-86. Also 818 rural telephone exchanges were commissioned in 1986-87 as compared to 630 in 1985-86.

INDUSTRIAL PERFORMANCE

Industrial production during 1980-81 to 1986-87 grew at a compound annual rate of 7.6 per cent as against 4.2 per cent per annum between 1971-72 to 1979-80. Also, the growth rate achieved during the eighties is much higher than the trend growth rate of 6 per cent witnessed in the earlier three decades. The sectoral growth profile reveals an improvement in growth performance during 1980-81 to 1986-87, as compared to 1971-72 to 1979-80, in all sectors, i.e., mining, manufacturing and electricity generation. This higher rate of industrial growth recorded during the eighties, as compared to the seventies, has been maintained during 1986-87 and the first eight months of the current year for which the data is available.

Impact of drought

4.2 The immediate shock of monsoon failure is first experienced in agriculture. However, the derived effects may be passed on to industry through one or more of four major routes, i.e.,

(i) a backward linkage in the shortage of raw material supplies for agro-based industry;

(ii) a forward linkage in the reduced rural demand for industrial products because of reduced agricultural income;

(iii) a shift in the share of consumer demand away from industrial products because of the higher cost of food and other agro-based necessities with a low elasticity of demand; and

(iv) a potential shift in public sector resource allocation away from investment expenditure in order to finance drought relief measures.

4.3 It is not surprising, therefore, that in the past major droughts have usually been followed by recession in Indian industry. Eight out of eighteen major industry groups have typically suffered from the adverse impact of drought since the mid-seventies. These include food manufacturing, beverages and tobacco, textiles, footwear and other wearing apparel, rubber products, chemicals and chemical products, transport equipment and other miscellaneous industries. Taken together, these industries accounted for over half of the total weight in the index of industrial production in the base year 1970. It has also been observed that the effects of drought on industry usually show up only after a lag of about six to eight months, i.e., somewhere between the third quarter of the drought year and the first quarter of the following financial year. However, there are several reasons, some conjunctural and some related to long term structural changes, which suggest that past experience may not be a good basis for gauging the impact of drought on industrial growth this year.

4.4 Conjuncturally the most severe drought since the mid-sixties have coincided with other traumatic episodes. Thus, the drought years of 1965-66 and 1966-67 occurred around the same period that India had to fight a border war which imposed great strains on the economy. The drought of 1972-73 came just before the first oil shock, while the drought of 1979-80 came together with the second oil shock. It is not easy to disentagle statistically the effects of the drought from the effects of these other shocks which affected the economy around the same time. Fortunately, the adverse impact of the drought this year has not been compounded by such severe exogenous shocks.

4.5 Apart from these conjuncturel differences, some important structural changes have occurred over the years which have now made the industrial economy less sensitive to fluctuations in agricultural production. Thus, the share of agro-based industries in value added in the manufacturing sector had come down from around 44 per cent in 1960-61 to less than 34 per cent by 1980-81. Furthermore, even within traditionally agro-based industries there has been a significant shift away from agricultural inputs to manufactured inputs, e.g., the increase in the use of synthetic fibres in the textile industry.

4.6 On the demand side, the growing importance of industries like fertiliser, pesticides, farm machinery, etc., have tended to make the manufacturing sector more sensitive to fluctuations in agricultural production. But the adverse impact of drought on these industries again tends to be offset by the higher demand for pump-sets, drilling equipment, electrical or diesel motors and other ancillaries which are used more intensively to maintain ground water irrigation and drinking water supplies. More important is the fact that the share of agriculture in national income has come down from over 57 per cent in 1960-61 to less than 33 per cent now. Accordingly, the adverse impact of a decline in agricultural income on aggregate consumption demand for industrial products is now much less than in the earlier period.

4.7 These structural changes have led to some weakening of the backward and forward linkages between industry and agriculture. The process is also reinforced by long term structural changes in the power sector. The share of thermal sources in total power generation has gone up from about 54 per cent in 1960-61 to about 70 per cent at present. Consequently with sustained expansion of coal production and managerial improvement resulting in higher plant load factor, total power generation during the current year (April—December) has gone up by about 8 per cent despite the drought and the associated shortfall in hydel power generation. The net effect of all these long term structural developments is that the industrial economy is much less vulnerable to the effects of a drought today as compared to the sixties and early seventies.

4.8 Finally, the impact of the drought, especially in the capital goods sector, depends to a large extent on government policy with regard to public sector investment. It is well known that in India public sector investment usually leads private investment and hence aggregate investment in the economy. In the past, whenever there has been a large cutback in public investment as for instance during the drought years 1965-66 and 1966-67, this had set off a recession—especially in the capital goods sector.

4.9 This year, however, government has adopted a number of measures to ensure that resources allocated for drought relief will not be diverted from public sector investment expenditure. These measures include reduction in current expenditure, additional resource mobilisation through taxation and surcharge on transport fares, additional market borrowings to mop up a part of the flow back of funds to the banking sector on account of reduced food credit and faster disbursement of aid from bilateral and multilateral sources. Details of these measures are discussed elsewhere in the Survey. With the Reserve Bank of India also having announced a busy season credit policy which ensures adequate availability of working capital for the industrial sector, it is expected that the adverse impact of drought on aggregate investment demand will be minimal.

4.10 With the long term changes having substantially reduced the vulnerability of the industrial economy to the effects of the drought and the policies adopted this year to ensure that public investment is maintained despite the drought, it is unlikely that the current drought, by itself, will set off a recession in industry. This is especially so since this year's drought is not accompanied by other major shocks as in most of the earlier years of severe drought since the mid-sixties. Thus, while the adverse impact of the drought on industrial production cannot be avoided altogether it is expected that the impact will be considerably subdued this year in contrast to the earlier drought years. On balance, it is expected that industrial production may grow by over 8 per cent this year. This is in line with the average growth of 8.8 per cent achieved during the previous three years and much higher as compared to the record of a decline or negligible growth in industrial production during years of severe drought in the past.

Industrial Production

4.11 According to the revised Index of Industrial Production (Base : 1980-81 = 100), the growth rate achieved by the industrial sector as a whole was 8.7 per cent in 1985-86 and 9.1 per cent in 1986-87. The sectoral break up of the Index of Industrial Production indicates growth rates of 6.2 per cent, 9.3 per cent and 10.3 per cent respectively for the mining, manufacturing and electricity sectors in 1986-87. These are in contrast to the Seventh Plan target annual growth rates of 13 per cent for mining, 8 per cent for manufacturing and 12.1 per cent for electricity. It is evident that manufacturing sector has exceeded the Seventh Plan target growth rate for the second successive year, but electricity and mining sectors have fallen short of envisaged growth rates.

This higher rate of industrial growth recorded during the eighties, as compared to the seventies, has been maintained during 1986-87 and the first eight months of the current year for which data is available.

4.12 The growth rate achieved by the mining and electricity sectors during 1986-87 shows improvement in performance compared with 1985-86 when mining sector achieved a growth rate of 4.2 per cent and the electricity sector a rate of 8.5 per cent. The manufacturing sector, however, recorded a lower growth rate of 9.3 per cent in 1986-87 compared with 9.7 per cent in 1985-86. This is attributable to negative growth rates in beverages and tobacco (—12.1 per cent), textile products (—22.8 per cent) and rubber, plastic and petroleum products (—2.2 per cent). As shown in Table 4.3 these industries together account for a weight of 6.4 per cent in the revised index of industrial production. Also, comparatively lower rates of growth were recorded in 1986-87 as compared to 1985-86 in cotton textile, (1.9 per cent), paper and paper products (9 9 per cent) leather and leather products (5.6 per cent), non-metallic mineral products (1.9 per cent), basic metal and alloy products (8.4 per cent), metal products (8.5 per cent) and electrical machinery (27.0 per cent). These industries account for a weight of 36.9 per cent in the index. Comparatively higher rates of growth were achieved during 1986-87 as compared to 1985-86 in food products (6.1 per cent), jute (4 0 per cent), wood and wood products (10.3 per cent), chemicals and chemical products (13.7 per cent), machinery and machine tools (8.9 per cent), transport equipment (6.7 per cent) and miscellaneous products (54.2 per cent). These industries account for a weight of 33.8 per cent in the index.

4.13 When consolidated into a picture of growth by broad groups of industries as revealed by the use-based group indices of industrial production (Table 4.4) it emerges that basic industries and capital goods, which account for a combined weight of 55.85 per cent, showed higher growth rates of 9.4 per cent and 18.2 per cent respectively during 1986-87 as compared to 1985-86. However, there was considerable deceleration in the intermediate and consumer goods industries which grew by 4.3 per cent and 5.3 per cent respectively in 1986-87.

4.14 The two sub-sectors of the consumer goods industry, viz., consumer durables and consumer non-durables, have shown divergent trends. Whereas the growth rate of consumer durables increased further from 18.7 per cent in 1985-86 to 19.5 per cent in 1986-87, that of consumer non-durables fell from 11.5 per cent in 1985-86 to 2.6 per cent only in 1986-87. The deceleration in consumer non-durables, where a substantial part of the output is agro-based, could be explained by drought in 1986-87.

4.15 During April—November 1987, industrial production recorded an increase of 10.2 per cent over the corresponding period of the preceding year. At the sectoral level manufacturing, electricity and mining showed increases of 11.6 per cent, 8.2 per cent and 4.6 per cent respectively during April—November, 1987.

4.16 Within the manufacturing sector there have been substantial variation in growth performance across industries. Ten out of seventeen industry groups showed positive growth rates during the first eight months of this year over the corresponding period of the previous year. These industry groups were : food products (5.7 per cent), cotton textiles, (15.8 per cent), paper and paper products (4.4 per cent), manufacture of leather (5.9 per cent), chemicals and chemical products (15.6 per cent), basic metal (10.5 per cent), manufacture of metal products (5.2 per cent), electrical machinery (41.3 per cent) transport equipment (7.4 per cent) and other manufacturing (29.4 per cent). However, seven industries accounting for a weight of about 18.1 per cent showed lower production, during the period April—November 1987. These were beverages and tobacco (—18.4 per cent), jute (—9.8 per cent), wood products (—35.8 per cent), manufacture of rubber, plastic, petroleum and coal products (—0.1 per cent), non-metalic mineral products (—2.4 per cent), textile products (—18.9 per cent) and non-electrical machinery (—1.0 per cent). The negative growth in some of these industry groups, which are mainly agro-based is in a large measure reflection of unsatisfactory performance of the agricultural sector owing to drought.

4.17 At the three digit level of classification it is observed that sub-group of industries, accounting for a weight of 52.59 per cent in the index or more than two-thirds of the weight in the manufacturing sector, showed positive rates of growth. Eighteen of these industries, accounting for a weight of 20.72 per cent in the index, showed growth rates in excess of 10 per cent.

Industrial Policy Initiatives

4.18 The process of industrial policy reforms which started in the late seventies and gained momentum after 1984 have generally emphasised cost efficiency and has aimed at a progressive shift from discretionary quantitative controls to non-discretionary fiscal controls. The attempt is to gradually emphasise cost efficiency in Indian industry through greater domestic competition. The changes are being introduced cautiously to ensure that competitive pressures bring in cost efficiency without risking any sudden shocks. The important reforms in the area of industrial policy in the recent past have emphasised relaxing licensing constraints on entry in priority sectors, growth (capacity re-endorsement), flexibility to respond to changing demand conditions (broad-banding) and cost efficiency (e.g. prescribing minimum scales of production in a number of commodities). The impact of these policy initiatives is to some extent, reflected in acceleration of industrial growth in recent years. Industrial growth accelerated to 8.8 per cent during 1984-85, 1985-86 and 1986-87 from an average growth rate of 6.4 per cent in the preceding three years. There are signs of continued buovancv in the current year as well. The greater impact of these measures is likelv to be felt in the coming years when investment intentions fructify and yield increments in production.

PRODUCTION OF SELECTED INDUSTRIES

4.19 The schemes of broad-banding and re-endorsement of capacity with minimum economic scales of operation were extended to cover new areas. Computer software industry was added to the list of delicensed industries. Broad-banding was introduced in milk products industry. Also, fresh guidelines were issued to the industrial units for the manufacture of milk products and malted foods. Toilet soap was added to the list of industries where minimum economic capacities were permitted. New sugar policy was announced with a minimum economic size of 2500 tonnes per day subject to sugar cane availability being certified by the State Governments, expansion of capacity upto 3500 tonnes crushing per day was permitted. Having regard to the idle capacity in steel casting industry, such units which have obtained industrial licences, letters of intent before October, 1987 and which have installed electric arc furnace for a capacity of 15 tonnes and above were allowed to take up manufacture of steel ingots/billets provided they adopt modern technological measures for producing steel.

4.20 With a view to removing procedural impediments and facilitate decisions being taken expeditiously, powers were delegated to the Administrative ministries in a number of areas. Furthermore, exemption from the licensing provisions was extended in respect of MRTP/FERA companies, in case of high priority items which were exempted under Section 22 of the MRTP Act subject to locations in centrally declared backward areas (which fall beyond a radius of 100 Kms. from cities having a population of more than 25 lakhs according to 1981 census) However, this facility is not available to the MRTP/FERA companies in the pharmaceutical industry. With a view to encouraging export production, it was decided that undertakings which have obtained export orders be permitted to take up manufacture of the items concerned without having to obtain an industrial licence provided the entire production covered by such permission is exported.

Industrial Approvals and the Capital Market

4.21 The number of letters of intent granted were 1130 in 1986 as against 989 in 1987. The number of licences issued were 618 in 1986 as against 472 in 1987. The data available for 1987 shows declines of 12.5 per cent and 23.6 per cent respectively in the number of letters of intent and industrial licences issued over 1986. Similar trends are in evidence in SIA (Secretariat for Industrial Approvals) registration which show a decline of 21.7 per cent. Also, the total number of foreign collaboration approvals during 1987 showed a decline of 10.9 per cent over last year. However, the value of foreign investment approvals showed a marginal increase of 0.7 per cent during the same period. Besides, capital goods approvals granted during 1987 by the Capital Goods (Main) Committee at Rs. 980.3 crores were lower by 11.8 per cent compared with those (Rs 1,110.9 crores) in 1986.

@April—December, 1987.

4.22 Financial assistance sanctioned and disbursed by the term lending financial institutions aggregated to Rs. 8150.62 crores and Rs. 5649.78 crores respectively during 1986-87 and showed increases of 23.2 per cent and 14.7 per cent respectively. During the period April—December, 1987 sanctions of financial assistance at Rs. 7651.60 crores (provisional estimates) showed a rise of 12.1 per cent and disbursement at Rs. 5532.06 crores registered a higher increase of 17.0 per cent compared with those in the corresponding period of the preceding year.

4.23 According to provisional data, approvals (i.e. consents/acknowledgements) granted by the Controller of Capital Issues for raising fresh capital to Government and non-Government companies during the first nine months of 1987-88 (April—December) at Rs. 4061.72 crores were lower by 11.2 per cent as compared with Rs. 4575.15 crores in the corresponding period of 1986-87. Approvals granted during the first nine months of the current financial year for raising capital include also the consents for public sector undertakings of Rs. 2377.92 crores as against Rs. 991 74 crores for the same period last year. It is noteworthy that during the year, bonds issued by the public sector undertakings, both under the 13 per cent and 9 per cent (tax free) schemes, emerged as a major and successful instrument for resource mobilisation, for the infrastructure segments like power, railways and telecommunication. Making allowances for these, the approvals granted to the private corporate sector for raising capital showed a sharp decline of 53.0 per cent during April—December 1987 over the same period last year. The subdued tone of the stock markets appears to have affected the new issues market for industrial securities.

4.24 Equity prices had experienced unusual buoyancy in 1985-86 largely due to high market expectations and excessive speculative influences. Subsequently there was a long phase of adjustments during 1986-87. Thus, the Reserve Bank's average All India index of ordinary share prices which had risen by 63 per cent in 1985-86, rose by 4 per cent only in 1986-87. After the volatile movements of the preceding two years, stock prices have tended to stabilise during the current year.

4.25 The current year has been a year of trials and adjustments for the capital market. In general, however, the capital market in India remained fairly stable inspite of periodical and heavy speculative selling pressures domestically and unprecedented upheavals in share market round the world. During the year several steps were taken to provide a solid foundation for the healthy future growth of the capital market, consolidating the gains and learning from the experience of the past. These included progress in computerisation of operations on various exchanges; electronic linking and simultaneous price displays on major exchanges; decisions to permit the entry of corporate members on stock exchanges and steps in that regard; floatation of new mutual funds by State Bank of India and Canara Bank, establishment of investors' service cells in stock exchanges; strengthening of their administrative machinery and more effective monitoring systems; changes in the trading regulations on major exchanges; and the decision to establish a Board for securities.

Capital Goods

4.26 Capital goods sector has played a pivotal role in India's industrialisation strategy. Over the years it has emerged as a large and diversified sector. Growth of this sector has followed a cyclical path in the eighties as shown in Table 4.4.

4.27 The heterogeneity of the capital goods sector is reflected in diverse problems faced by this sector in recent years. Some segments of capital goods sector and in particular heavy engineering have not done well due to factors like lack of investible resources, absence of proper linkages between the user sector and the capital goods manufacturing sector, insufficient and sporadic flow of orders. Also, competition from imports is noticeable in machine tools and some items of electrical machinery. Besides, Indian capital goods producers suffer disadvantages in terms of input purchases owing to higher domestic prices vis-a-vis international prices. Also, weak and uncertain recovery in the world economy coupled with access to cheaper credit for producers of capital goods in industrial countries have led to intense competition in the international market for capital goods.

4.28 One major factor of underlying problems in the capital goods sector is the mismatch between supply and demand in the domestic market which is reflected in high demand for sophisticated and high precision machinery by the user industry leading to imports. A better product match between demand and supply is likely to emerge in this sector because of broad-banding and delicensing for a large number of machinery items. The tariff policy for capital goods sector has to strike a right balance between the need to provide reasonable level of protection to the indigenous capital goods industry and at the same time to ensure that it does not raise the cost of capital goods in the user industries. The Budget for 1987-88 announced certain important steps to stimulate growth and to ameliorate some of the problems faced by the capital goods sector. There was an upward revision in tariff rates on project imports from 55 per cent to 85 per cent (alongwith reduction in the tariff rate for general machinery to the same level) with a view to confer reasonable protection to indigenous producers and reduce bias towards import. The duty on import of equipment for electronic industry was raised from 25 per cent to 30 per cent and for fertiliser plants from zero to 15 per cent. Project duty rate on power plants of 50 MW and below was raised from 25 per cent to 35 per cent. In order to strengthen the competitive position of indigenous machine building sector and to reduce their cost disadvantage in terms of input purchase, the duty rate was reduced to 85 per cent on steels used in industrial machinery. Also, textile machinery industry has been provided access to imported stainless steel at a concessional duty of 65 per cent instead of the rate of 245 per cent prescribed at present. In order to encourage modernisation of foundaries, import duty on specified capital goods was slashed from 101 per cent to 55 per cent. At the same time, a special scheme for technological upgradation for selected capital goods was announced. This scheme is being implemented through Industrial Development Bank of India (IDBI).

4.29 The demand for capital goods is a derived demand which is a function of the rate of modernisation and investment in the economy. Any policy aimed at modernisation and stepping up investment would lead to greater orders on domestic capital goods manufacturers and will soften the demand constraint which has afflicted some sub-sectors of the capital goods industry. Maintenance of the tempo of investment and modernisation in infrastructure sector, in particular in rail-coal-power complex, is vital for sustained growth of the capital goods sector.

Fertiliser

4.30 Nitrogenous fertiliser production during 1986-87 at 54.10 lakh tonnes showed an increase of 25 per cent over the level of 43.28 lakh tonnes achieved in 1985-86 and also was well above the targeted level of production of the order of 51.75 lakh tonnes set for 1986-87. The production of phosphatic fertiliser at 16.60 lakh tonnes during 1986-87 recorded an increase of 16.2 per cent over the preceding year's level of 14.28 lakh tonnes, but fell short of the targeted production level of 17.75 lakh tonnes for 1986-87. During the first nine months (April—December) of the year 1987-88 the nitrogenous fertiliser production at 38.95 lakh tonnes fell marginally short of the targeted level of 40.55 lakh tonnes set for the period. Also, in case of phosphatic fertilisers the production during April—December 1987 at 11.25 lakh tonnes fell short of targeted level of production set at 15.10 lakh tonnes for the same period. The level of stocks this year has been much higher than the earlier years mainly on account of reduced offtake by agriculture sector because of the drought, fall in actual consumption over the targeted level and continued import of fertilisers due to contractual obligations. The main reasons for the shortfall in the production of fertilisers apart from the slack demand have been power cut, water shortage, scheduled shut down, equipment breakdown and non-availability of phosphoric acid in case of phosphatic fertilisers.

4.31 The capacity utilisation in the nitrogenous fertiliser industry was higher at 79.1 per cent during 1986-87 compared to 70.4 per cent in 1985-86; in the case of phosphatic fertiliser industry the capacity utilisation at 80.1 per cent was lower during 1986-87 compared with 88.9 per cent in 1985-86. Also, the capacity utilisation has varied across the public, private and cooperative sectors. During 1986-87 nitrogenous fertiliser units in the public sector operated at considerably lower levels of capacity utilisation at 65.4 per cent compared to 93.3 per cent in the cooperative sector and 99.1 per cent in the private sector. In the case of phosphatic fertiliser industry, capacity utilisation in the public sector was 71.6 per cent as against 110.7 per cent in the cooperative sector and 77.2 per cent in the private sector. Higher capacity utilisation of fertiliser plants is essential to bring down unit costs and energy costs of fertiliser production. This will also help in containing the subsidy associated with the indigenous production of fertiliser.

Drugs and Pharmaceuticals

4.32 The Indian drug industry has recorded a phenomenal growth both in terms of range and quantum of production. As a consequence of impressive growth recorded by this industry, the country has attained self-sufficiency in a number of bulk drugs. The production of bulk drugs and formulations was valued at Rs. 2597.6 crores during 1986-87 and showed an increase of about 10.3 per cent over 1985-86. There are about 250 units engaged in the production of drugs in the organised sector of which five are in the public sector and seven in the joint sector. There are eight FERA companies at present compared to thirty one in 1978, eleven MRTP companies without foreign equity and seven companies which come under MRTP as well as FERA. In the small scale sector there are about 5,000 units engaged in the production of drugs.

4.33 To enable drug manufacturing units in the country to achieve economies of scale, minimum economic scales of production have been prescribed in respect of certain drugs. The system of delicensing has also been extended to this industry and it covers 94 items at present. The system of delicensing is to be progressively extended in the cases of : (a) bulk drugs whose imports are allowed under Open General Licence; (b) bulk drugs whose formulations are essential and are items of mass consumption; (c) bulk drugs whose production is limited to three producers or less in the organised sector; and (d) formulations and drug intermediaries related to bulk drugs which are delicensed. The scheme of delicensing would be available to non-FERA and non-MRTP companies only. In August 1987, Government promulgated the new Drug Price Control Order which aims at encouraging drug production in desired areas.

Small Scale Industries

4.34 The steady progress of small scale industries during the last few years has continued. According to estimates provided by the Development Commissioner, Small Scale Industries (DCSSI), the number of small scale units increased from 13.53 lakhs in 1985-86 to 14.57 lakhs (provisional) in 1986-87, showing an increase of 7.7 per cent. These units produced goods and services valued at Rs. 72,250 crores (provisional) at current prices in 1986-87 thus showing an increase of 18 per cent over the production valued at Rs. 61,223 crores during the preceding year. Employment in the sector also increased from 96 lakh persons in 1985-86 to 101.40 lakh persons (provisional) in 1986-87, thereby registering an increase of 5.6 per cent. Total exports from the sector, in 1985-86 was estimated at Rs. 2,785 crores and showed an increase of 7.9 per cent over the previous year. The share of small scale sector in India's total exports was 25.3 per cent during 1985-86.

4.35 Along-with growth in the volume of production, there has also been progressive diversification in this sector. The sector produces more than 5,000 items. Its contribution has been most notable in important segments of the electronics industry. It contributes about 45 per cent of production in the field of consumer electronics, 75 per cent of production in instruments and instrumentation and 45 per cent of production in computer and allied items.

4.36 The progressive growth of this sector is attributable to a number of promotional measures provided by the Government. These measures include : (a) market protection is provided through the reservation of products for exclusive production in the small sector. The list of reserved items where small scale production is efficient, is being kept under constant review. With the dereservation of three items during April—December 1987 the total number of items reserved for exclusive manufacture in the small scale sector stood at 847 at the end of December, 1987. In addition, the nomenclature of five reserved items was changed; (b) small scale sector is also given purchase preference in Government procurement. Under this programme, 409 items have been reserved for exclusive purchase from small scale sector while 13 items are reserved for purchase upto 75 per cent and 28 items for purchase upto 50 per cent; (c) infrastructure support is provided through industrial estates, the District Industries Centres, Small Industries Service Institutes and other specialised institutes which provide technical assistance and testing facilities, etc. With a view to improving the quality of products, eight electrical items of mass consumption have been brought under compulsory ISI certification; (d) providing better access to scarce raw materials; and (e) small scale units also get concessional interest rates and priority in the disbursement of loans by the financial institutions.

4.37 Some important policy initiatives have been undertaken specifically for tiny units in the small scale sector. During 1987-88, a National Equity Fund was established with the object of rendering special attention to the needs of the smaller amongst the small scale units. The Government of India has provided Rs. 5 crores towards the Fund with a matching contribution from the IDBI. The scheme is being administered by IDBI and operated through nationalised banks. Under the scheme assistance will be provided by way of seed capital, in the form of soft loan, to eligible small and tiny industries with the project costs not exceeding Rs. 5 lakhs and located in villages or towns with population not exceeding 5 lakhs. New units as also the potentially viable sick units in the small scale sector, eligible for assistance under the Refinance Scheme of IDBI, will get support out of the Fund. Assistance under the scheme is available upto a maximum of Rs. 75,000 per project at a nominal service charge of 1 per cent per annum. The units availing of this assistance are required to mobilise a cash contribution of 10 per cent of the project cost.

4.38 There has been impressive progress in the scheme for providing self-employment to educated unemployed youths, which was launched in 1983-84. In 1986-87, the number of beneficiaries was 2.19 lakhs with sanctions from banks amounting Rs. 455.12 crores.

Central Public Sector Enterprises

4.39 Over a period of more than four decades, the growth of the central public sector enterprises has been phenomenal in terms of investment and production, as well as the scope of activities. From only 5 enterprises on 1st April, 1951 they have increased to 228 as on 31-3-1987 employing about 23 lakhs people (including casual workers). At the end of 1986-87, capital employed in the operating central public sector alone stood at Rs. 51,931 crores and the total turnover was Rs. 69,016 crores. Its coverage has extended beyond the basic and heavy industries into light manufacturing, some of consumer goods, electricity, high technology products, construction, and diverse range of consultancy services. About 55 per cent of total investment in central public sector enterprises is in steel, coal, minerals and metals, power and petroleum sectors.

4.40 During 1986-87, 214 operating central public sector enterprises have together earned a record net profit after tax of Rs. 1,769 crores and showed an increase of 50.8 per cent over the corresponding amount of Rs. 1,173 crores for the preceding year. However, groupwise net profit/loss position of enterprises during 1986-87 in terms of broad sectors shows that of the 12 manufacturing/producing sectors only 5 sectors were able to make net profits. These were Petroleum (Rs. 2,142.05 crores), Power (Rs. 233.78 crores), Medium and light engineering (Rs. 54.76 crores), Heavy engineering (Rs. 8.90 crores) and Minerals and metals (Rs. 2.04 crores). On the other hand, the remaining sectors made net losses during 1986-87. These were : Coal (Rs. 330.96 crores). Textiles (Rs. 189.64 crores), Chemicals, Fertilisers and Pharmaceuticals (Rs. 146.29 crores), Consumer goods (Rs. 141.10 crores), Transportation equipment (Rs. 50.60 crores), Steel (Rs. 26.38 crores) and Agro-based Products (Rs. 3.97 crores). The group of enterprises operating in the non-commodity producing sectors which are mainly engaged in rendering diverse range of services made a net profit of Rs. 216.49 crores during 1986-87. The major performance indicators of the central public sector enterprises for the years 1984-85, 1985-86 and 1986-87 together with the performance during the first six months of the current and previous financial years is given below :

4.41 During the current year, a number of measures were introduced with a view to provide greater autonomy to the public enterprises. A system of memorandum of understanding (MOU)/Annual Performance Plan (APP) has been introduced in case of major undertakings in order to focus clearly on the tasks and responsibilities assigned to the public enterprises on the one hand and the corresponding obligation of the administrative Ministry on the other. This would ensure greater autonomy to the public sector undertakings and at the same time provide accountability for results. Besides, in cases where MOU cannot be entered into, performance evaluation is to be done with reference to four groups of general criteria viz., financial performance, productivity and cost reduction, technical dynamism and effectiveness of project implementation. Also two holding companies were constituted to provide greater managerial autonomy and flexibility to enterprises functioning in broadly similar areas. These companies were set up for engeneering enterprises—one with headquarters at Allahabad and the other at Calcutta. Furthermore, it has been decided to give five year terms to Chief Executives and Functional Directors to ensure stability of senior management. It has been decided that investment proposals will go to the Public Investment Board only where the proposal is for more than Rs. 20 crores. The delegation of powers with the enterprises has been revised as given below :—

Industrial Sickness

4.42 Industrial sickness has emerged as a serious problem affecting the small, medium and large units. It is a major area of concern due to its implications for the entire economy and health of the industrial sector in particular. As at the end of December 1986, the number of sick units in the portfolio of scheduled commercial banks stood at 1,47,740 involving an outstanding bank credit of Rs. 4874 crores. The total number of large industrial units identified by banks as sick has increased from 637 as at the end of December 1985 to 714 as at the end of December 1986 and the amount outstanding against these units increased from Rs. 2980 crores to Rs. 3287 crores over the same period. On the other hand, the number of small scale units increased from about 1.18 lakhs at the end of December 1985 to around 1.46 lakhs at the end of December 1986. The outstanding bank dues of these units increased from Rs. 1071 crores as at the end of December 1985 to Rs. 1306 crores at the end of December 1986.

4.44 Of the 17,708 potentially viable sick industrial units, 3314 units have been put under nursing by the banks upto December, 1986. The outstanding bank advances to these units amounted to Rs. 1726 crores. In case of 714 large sick industrial units, banks had determined the viability or otherwise in respect of 653 units by the end of December 1986. Out of these, 383 units were found to be potentially viable and accounted for Rs. 1819 crores i.e. about 55.3 per cent of the total outstanding bank credit to all large sick units. Banks have put 255 units with outstanding credit of Rs. 1223 crores under the nursing programme.

4.45 In the small scale sector, 18,76,655 (prov.) units have been provided with bank credit amounting to Rs. 9098 crores at the end of December 1986. Of these, 1,45,776 units (7.8 per cent) have been found to be sick with outstanding bank credit of Rs. 1306 crores (14.4 per cent). Of the total sick units 16,946 units (11.6 per cent) with outstanding credit of Rs. 303 crores (23.3 per cent) were considered by banks as potentially viable. A total of 2761 units with outstanding credit amounting to Rs. 210 crores were reported to be put under nursing programme by the financing banks as at the end of December, 1986.

4.46 In terms of the Sick Industrial Companies (Special Provision) Act, 1985, the Government of India have set up the Board for Industrial and Financial Reconstruction (BIFR) in January 1987 (which has become operative since May 15, 1987) for determining the preventive, ameliorative, remedial and other measures which are required to be taken in respect of sick industrial companies and for expeditious enforcement of the measures determined. Companies (other than Government companies and those specifically exempted under the Act) whose net-worth is eroded fully, fall under the purview of this legislation. For the purpose of this legislation, a sick industrial company has been defined as under : "An industrial company (being a company registered for not less than seven years) which has at the end of any financial year accumulated losses equal to or exceeding its entire net-worth and has also suffered cash losses in such financial year and the financial year immediately preceding such financial year."

4.47 The BIFR has been given wide-ranging powers in respect of approval of rehabilitation packages for sick industrial companies including their restructuring and revival. In cases where sickness is confirmed, BIFR will determine the course of action to be followed with regard to the company. This course of action may be : (a) allowing the company time on its own, i.e. as per the scheme already initiated by the banks/institutions, to make its net-worth positive within a reasonable period; (b) having a scheme prepared through the operating agency in respect of the company; or (c) deciding on the winding up of the company. The scheme under option (b) above sanctioned by the BIFR has to be finalised in accordance with a time schedule stipulated in the Act. The scheme may contain provisions for financial assistance merger, sale or lease of a part or the whole of the company, suspension of existing agreements/contracts etc. The decision of the BIFR is binding on all concerned. The Act has an overriding effect over all other laws except FERA and the Urban Land (Ceiling and Regulation) Act. The jurisdiction of civil courts is barred in respect of matters coming under the purview of BIFR. The Act provides for an Appelate Authority. Besides, the BIFR has powers to appoint a Special Director on the sick company in case of mismanagement. It also has powers to debar the company management and all other units of the same management from any credit facilities from the organised sector for a period of 10 years. The setting up of BIFR is a major step for intervening at an early stage and detecting, preventing and taking remedial measures which need to be taken with respect of sick companies.

4.48 The importance of detection of sickness at the incipient stage, as also the need for proper coordination between the commercial banks and term lending institutions in the formulation and implementation of rehabilitation packages, has been emphasized by the Reserve Bank of India from time to time. With a view to cover these categories of industrial units which do not come under the purview of the Sick Industrial Companies (Special Provision) Act, 1985, the RBI has advised the banks to take the necessary remedial measures in respect of industrial units at the stage of 50 per cent erosion of their net-worth. Such units are termed as 'weak' units to distinguish them from 'sick industrial companies' as defined in the Act. An industrial undertaking is termed 'weak' if at the end of any accounting year, it has: (i) accumulated losses equal to or exceeding 50 per cent of its peak net-worth in the immediately preceding five accounting years; (ii) a current debt-equity ratio of less than 1 :1, and (iii) suffers a cash loss in the immediately preceding accounting year. Beside these measures, RBI has been closely monitoring certain specific industries where the incidence of sickness is high. Standing Committees have been set up in the RBI for the jute and sugar industries to consider the specific problems of these sectors.

4.49 The other significant policy initiative has been the introduction of liberalised margin money scheme for supplementing the efforts of the State Governments in reducing sickness in the small scale sector in June 1987. Under the scheme, the State Governments are to make a matching contribution on a 50 : 50 basis in providing assistance to sick small scale units in their rehabilitation. In the revised scheme, the maximum quantum of assistance has been enhanced from Rs. 20,000 to Rs. 50,000 per unit.

Employment in the Organised Sector

4.50 Growth in the employment in the organised sector has been sluggish in recent years. According to the quick estimates, there was a marginal increase of 1.7 per cent in employment in the organised sector which increased from 250.37 lakhs at the end of June, 1986 to 254.73 lakhs at the end of June, 1987. The increase took place entirely in the public sector which showed an increase of 3 per cent in contrast to a decline of 1.2 per cent in the organised private sector.

4.51 The number of job seekers on the live register of Employment Exchanges was 304.95 lakhs at the end of November 1987 thereby showing an increase of 2.2 per cent over the same month of 1986. Monthly average vacancies notified during April-November 1987 was of the order of 50.4 thousand as compared to 54.1 thousand during the corresponding period of the last year thereby showing a fall of about 6.8 per cent. Similarly, average monthly placements during April-November 1987 declined to 28.1 thousand from the monthly average of 29.1 thousand over the same period of 1986, thus showing a fall of 3.4 per cent.

Industrial Relations

4.52 There has been a general stability in industrial relations situation in the country during the year

1987-88. Though there has been a marginal rise in loss of man-days from a level of 13.86 million in the first two quarters of 1986-87 to 15.68 million for the corresponding period of 1987-88, there has been no major industrial unrest in the country. Strikes and lockouts were generally confined to the cotton and jute textiles as also the engineering industries in the States of West Bengal, Tamil Nadu, Maharashtra and Andhra Pradesh.

4.53 Tripartite Industrial Committees on Chemical Industry, Engineering Industry, Cotton Textile Industry, Jute Industry, Plantation Industry, Road Transport Industry, Tanneries and Leather Goods Manufacturing Industry, Cement Industry, Building and Construction Industry, Coal Industry and Mines other than Coal Industry, had been reconstituted, with a view to strengthening the Tripartite Consultative Machinery. During 1987, Tripartite Industrial Committees on Electricity Generation and Distribution Industry, Glass and Pottery Industry and Food and Drinks Industry were constituted. In these meetings, discussions were held on the issues relating to industrial relations situation, safety and occupational health, workers participation in management and social security schemes etc.

Outlook

4.54 Indian industry enjoys several advantages. It has a large domestic market and diversified industrial base. The base of entrepreneurship has grown substantially. However, the relatively high structure of costs and prices in the industrial sector has adversely affected the competitiveness of Indian manufactured products in the world market and constricted domestic demand. In order to accelerate industrial growth, a number of measures have been taken in the recent past to promote productivity and efficiency. Existing units today enjoy considerable freedom to expand and diversify to take advantage of economies of scale and be able to respond flexibily to changing market conditions. This is likely to foster domestic competition and exert downward pressure on industrial costs and prices in the future. In the ultimate analysis, the success of these initiatives will depend on the response of entrepreneurs and firms. The transition from a high cost industrial structure to an efficient, low cost one will entail some adjustment costs to individual enterprises. However, these costs are to be viewed in terms of lower cost to the economy, higher employment and output in future.

4.55 The most notable fact in the industrial scenario during the current year has been the remarkable resilience of the industrial sector in the face of severe drought. This, to a large extent, is the result of two factors. Firstly, there has been considerable diversification of the domestic economy in general and the industrial sector in particular which has reduced the sensitivity of industry to fluctuations in agriculture. Secondly, the infrastructure sector in general and power-rail-coal complex in particular has shown robust performance. It has been observed that drought related adverse effects show up only after a lag of about six to eight months i.e. somewhere around the third quarter of the drought year and the first quarter of the following financial year. However, in view of the structural changes, the robust performance of the infrastructure sector and the fact that the drought has not coincided with adverse exogenous shocks as in the past, the experience of the sixties and seventies may not be replicated this year. Therefore, while the adverse impact of the drought on industrial production cannot be avoided altogether, it is expected that the impact will be limited. It is also gratifying that public investment levels are being maintained despite pressure on the resource position of Government because of drought, and that indigenous capital good industries are being provided special support through fiscal and other measures. These coupled with the expected recovery in agriculture should add a further stimulus to industrial growth next year.

PRICES, PRICE POLICY AND THE PUBLIC DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM

Prices came under pressure during 1987-88 largely on account of the set back in agricultural production caused by the drought. The pressure on prices had started building up towards the second half of 1986-87, following the third successive year of poor monsoons. Rainfall deficiency resulted in a shortfall in the production of both food as well as non-food crops during 1986-87. Consequently, the usual seasonal decline in prices during the second half of last year was weak. Furthermore, the worst inflationary effects of a shortfall in crop production in any year usually spill over to the early months of the following financial year, when stocks get depleted. Hence, though the year 1986-87 itself ended with an inflation rate of only 5.3 per cent in terms of Wholesale Price Index (WPI), the shortfall in last year's crop production led to the commencement of a strong seasonal price rise from the beginning of the current financial year.

5.2 These pressures got aggravated when the intensity and dimensions of the current drought of 1987-88 became apparent around July. The prices of several essential agricultural or agro-based commodities such as pulses, edible oils etc. started rising sharply. By the end of August, the WPI had recorded an increase of 9.1 per cent as against 6.3 per cent during the corresponding period last year. There was a seasonal decline in prices thereafter, but it could not be sustained because of the shortfall in market arrivals from the kharif harvest.

5.3 The Government has taken a number of measures in advance by way of supply and demand management. While these steps have helped to moderate the extent of the price rise, the inflation rate in the current year is substantially higher than in the previous year. During the current financial year, upto 23rd January, 1988 the WPI had gone up by 9.8 per cent as against an increase of 5.4 per cent recorded during the corresponding period last year (Table 5.1). The index more appropriate for capturing the extent of price rise faced by consumers is the Consumer Price Index for Industrial Workers (CPI) which went up by 9.6 per cent during the current financial year upto December, 1987 as against 7.8 per cent upto December, 1986. The annual rate of inflation in terms of CPI in December, 1987 was 9.3 per cent as compared with 9.2 per cent recorded in December, 1986.

5.4 As pointed above, the current inflation is being driven largely by the shortfall in production of some essential agricultural or agro-based commodities. This is very clearly indicated by the movement of prices of different groups of commodities or individual items shown in Table 5.2. In particular, it will be noted that the largest increases in prices have been recorded in seasonal agricultural items such as edible oils, oil-seeds, pulses, condiments & spices, cotton and jute. In the case of manufactured products also, the bulk of the price rise in this group is accounted for by food products of agricultural origin. The prices of other manufactured items, especially the administered prices of items manufactured in the public sector had remained stable through most of the year. There was an increase in some of these prices, particularly coal and steel in the later half of December, 1987, in order to offset increases in costs, including wages.

5.5 While the inflationary effects of a drought as severe as the current one cannot be eliminated altogether, the price situation this year has not been as alarming as in earlier drought years. A comparsion with some earlier years of severe drought shows that as against the inflation rate of 9.8 per cent recorded so far this year, upto 23rd January, 1988, the annual inflation rate of WPI, measured on a point to point basis, was 12.4 per cent in 1965-66, 15.5 per cent in 1966-67, 22.7 per cent in 1973-74 and 21.4 per cent in 1979-80.

Measures taken to contain the Price Rise

5.6 The availability of large stocks of rice and wheat, built up over the years to around 23 million tonnes by June, 1987 has, of course, been the single most important instrument of government policy in combating the drought and inflation. These stocks have made it possible to maintain the large scale releases of foodgrains through the Public Distribution System (PDS), the Special Employment Programmes, Relief Programmes and other channels. However, the Government has also taken several other measures in advance across a wide front. These include steps to minimise kharif production losses through the sowing of a second contingency crop, an action plan to maximise rabi production, augmentation of domestic supplies of essential commodities like edible oils and pulses through imports and the strengthening of the PDS. Around 5,600 additional fair price shops have been opened, of which 3,100 outlets including a large number of mobile distribtuion outlets are located in drought affected states. Efforts in demand management include measures to finance the huge additional expenditure on drought and flood relief largely through cuts in other expenditure and additional resource mobilisation. Increases have also been effected in the Cash Reserve Ratio (CRR) and Statutory Liquidity Ratio (SLR) to curb excess liquidity in the monetary system. Action against hoarders and black marketeers has been intensified. A monitoring mechanism has been put in place, linking district monitoring cells to the Central Control Room in New Delhi via the state level authorities.

5.7 However, it must be borne in mind that the inflationary impact of drought in one year usually spills over to the early months of the following financial year as shown in Table 5.1. Prices will, therefore, continue to remain under pressure until the next kharif season, assuming that the next monsoon will not be deficient. While dealing with this situation in the months ahead, the policy stance will have to take into account the specific sources of the current inflation. While a restraint on monetary expansion is essential to avoid aggravating the price situation, the basic strategy of inflation control will have to rely on the maintenance of adequate supplies of essential commodities.

5.8 The overall rate of inflation in terms of WPI was 5.3 per cent during 1986-87 as against 3.8 per cent during 1985-86 and 7.6 per cent during 1984-85. At the retail level the CPI showed some deceleration in the rate of inflation to 7.5 per cent in 1986-87 from 8.9 per cent in 1985-86. However, the fact remains that the inflation rate in terms of CPI both in 1985-86 and 1986-87 was higher than the WPI. Apart from changes in the trade and transport margin, the difference in the movement of the WPI and CPI are largely explained by differences in the weighting diagrams used to construct the two indices. The WPI is constructed to reflect the average price movement of all commodities including inputs, basic goods and capital goods which are excluded from the CPI. On the other hand the WPI does not capture the movement in prices of non-tangible services like housing, transport, health and education which are reflected in the CPI.

5.9 The group-wise analysis of the WPI shows that the increase upto the end of August, 1986 was recorded by the seasonal items such as the sugar group, the oilseeds and oil group and fruits and vegetables. The prices of cereals remained relatively stable, such as rice prices increased by 6.7 per cent while the prices of pulses registered a marked fall. The price index for Fuel, Power, Light and Lubricants registered only a marginal increase. Upto the end of September, 1986 the prices of fibres remained stable but recorded a sharp contra-seasonal increase in subsequent months. Similarly, there was also a contra-seasonal increase in the prices of edible oils and oil-seeds. Though weak, the seasonal decline in prices helped to bring down the annual rate of inflation during the year to 5.3 per cent by end-March, 1987. The rate of inflation based on CPI, which was 8.9 per cent in 1985-86, came down to 7.5 per cent by March, 1987. The prices of administered items as a group remained fairly stable, while the index of petroleum group actually registered a fall because of the decline in POL prices in the international market. There was some increase in the index of electricity prices following the revision in electricity rates by the State Electricity Boards.

Price Behaviour in 1987-88

5.10 The seasonal rise in prices continued upto the end of August, 1987 when the index recorded an increase of 9.1 per cent over end-March, 1987. This was followed by a decline during the month of September but the declining trend was not sustained and an upward trend resumed thereafter. By 23rd January, 1988 the WPI had registered an increase of 9.8 per cent. The CPI recorded an increase of 10.1 per cent upto November but declined to 9.6 per cent by December 1987. The annual rate of inflation on a point to point basis was 9.3 per cent compared to 9.2 per cent in the corresponding period of last year.

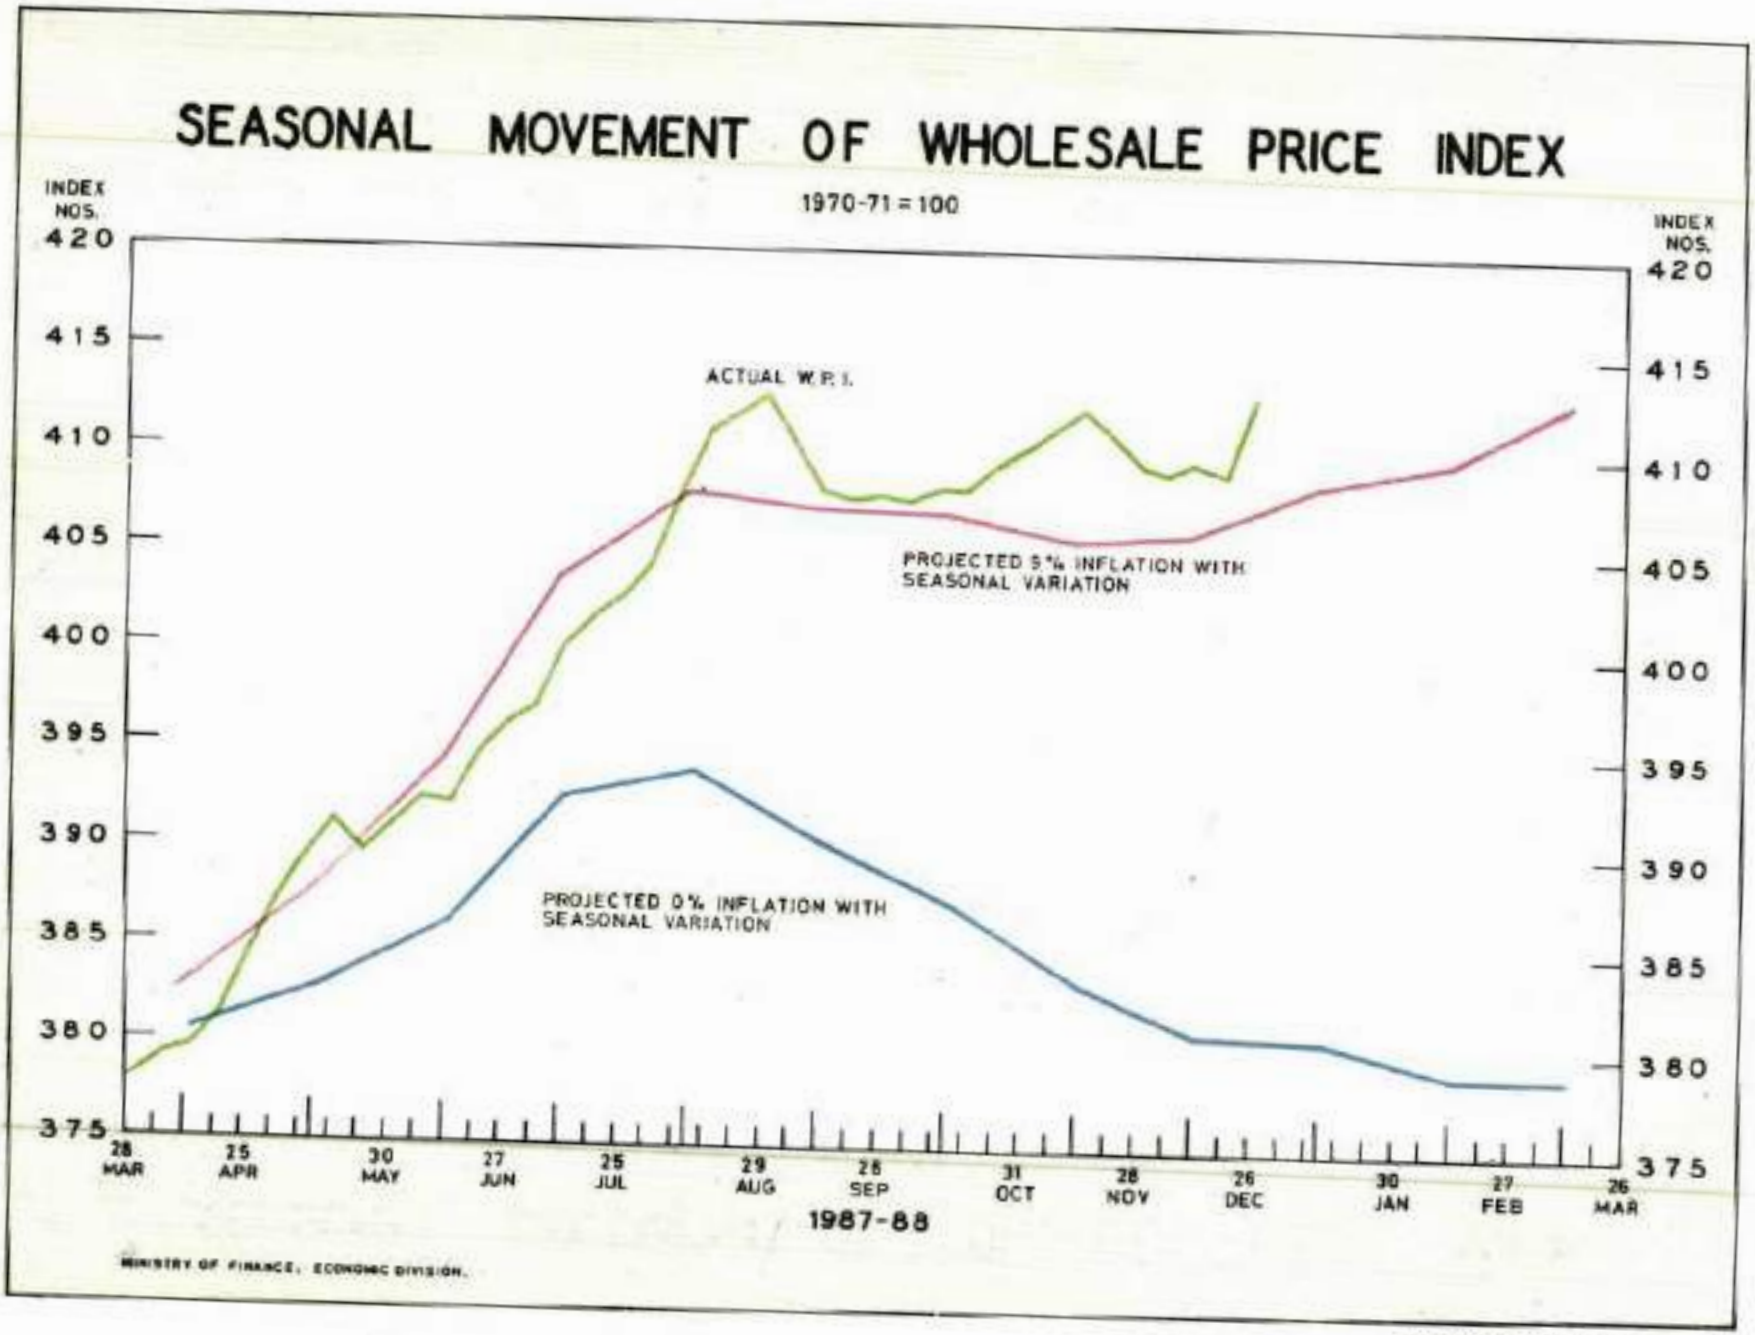
5.11 The index for cereals as a group registered an increase of nearly 14 per cent upto 23rd January, 1988. There was a hardening of wheat prices because of the damage caused by unseasonal rains during March and April. Thereafter wheat prices tended to stabilise. However, of late, wheat prices have again shown an upward trend. To check this upward tendency in cereals prices, the Government has been releasing stocks at the rate of about 1.5 million tonnes per month through various channels. Such releases are expected to continue over the next few months.

5.12 In so far as pulses are concerned, with their stagnant production and increasing domestic demand, there is a growing demand-supply gap even in normal years. This year the problem has been aggravated by a severe shortfall in production. Consequently, the price index for pulses has gone up by 32.6 per cent during the current year upto December against a decline of 11.4 per cent last year. It was, therefore, decided to import pulses on government account in addition to imports under OGL. The price index for fruits and vegetables registered an increase of 11.3 per cent upto end of August, 1987 but stabilised thereafter. The prices of potatoes and onions have come down considerably.

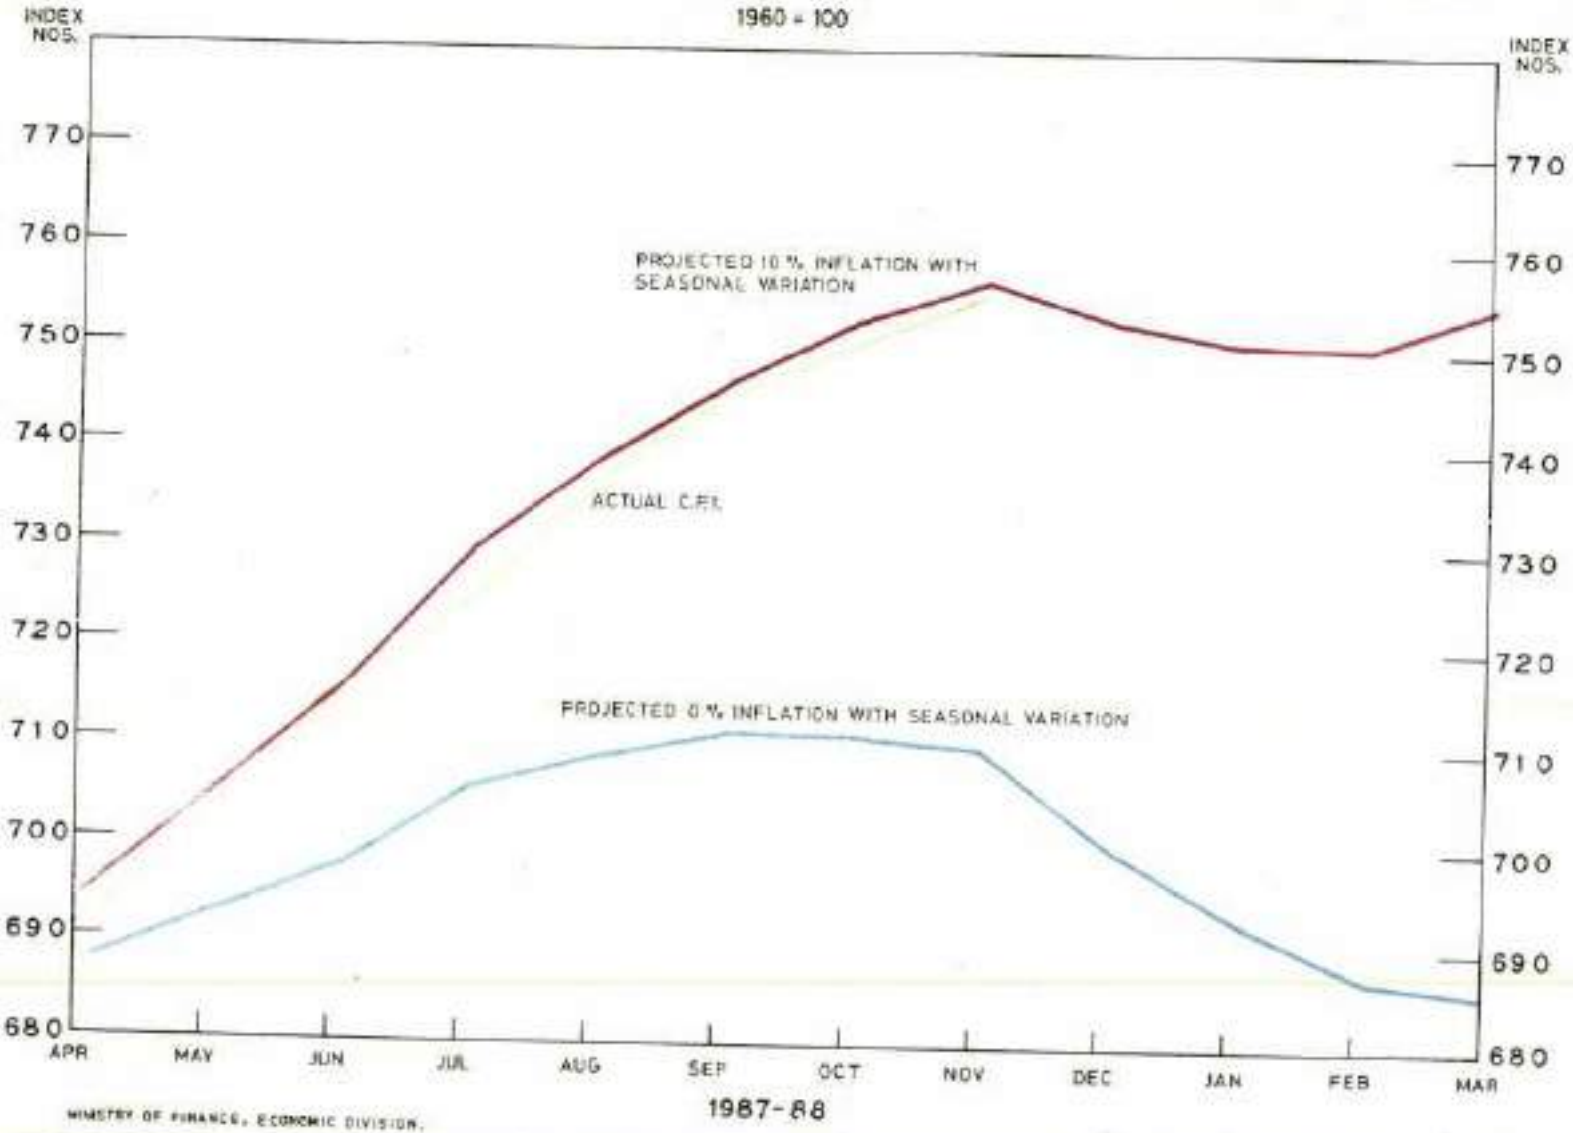
5.13 The prices of milk and milk products and condiments and spices have also recorded sharp increases. While prices of the former have gone up by 12 per cent upto end-December, 1987 those of the latter have gone up by 42 per cent up to end-December, 1987. The increase in prices of milk and milk products is understandable since the drought has created an acute shortage of fodder resulting in lower production of milk. In order to meet the shortage about ten thousand tonnes of skimmed milk powder and ten thousand tonnes of butter oil are being imported. With these imports and the commencement of the flush season in November, 1987 the milk supply position has improved. Supply constraints in respect of important spices like red pepper, turmeric, garlic and ginger have also pushed up the index of condiments and spices quite considerably.

5.14 The increase in edible oil prices this year has come on top of a very large increase recorded in 1986-87. As in the previous year the group oilseeds, edible oils and oil cakes has again turned out to be the most important source of inflation. It accounts for 23.0 per cent of the total increase in prices during the current financial year upto 23rd January, 1988. The release of imported edible oils for PDS as also to the vanaspati industry is being maintained at a high level and imports have been stepped up to support these enhanced releases.

SEASONAL MOVEMENT OF WHOLESALE PRICE INDEX



SEASONAL MOVEMENT OF CONSUMER PRICE INDEX



MINISTRY OF FINANCE, ECONOMIC DIVISION.

5.15 Among manufactured non-food products the price index for the textiles group has recorded a rise of 7.2 per cent upto 23rd January, 1988. This has been on account of the continuous increase in prices of important fibres. Raw cotton prices have gone up by nearly 38 per cent because of a sharp decline in production in the previous year.

5.16 Even though prices of the sugar group as a whole have remained relatively stable during the current year, gur prices have been quite volatile and not easily amenable to control. The price index for gur recorded a sharp rise of 33.5 per cent upto end-August, 1987 but declined appreciably thereafter. During 1986-87 season sugar prodution reached a record level of over 85 lakh tonnes. This year also despite drought conditions the sugar production has been maintained at a high level.

Outlook

5.17 The price situation has been a cause of concern in 1987-88 and it will have to be carefully monitored in 1988-89. As pointed out above, this high inflation rate during 1987-88 is mainly attributable to supply shortages and inflationary psychology generated by the unprecedented drought. It has been emphasised in earlier Surveys also that the demand supply balance for many critical items in the Indian economy is fragile and disturbances like the drought can have a strong adverse impact on prices of these items. This proneness to price instability in respect of particular commodities and other long term constraints, such as the relatively low growth in production of certain items like pulses and oilseeds, have added to the complexity of price management.

Price policy framework and developments

Agricultural Prices

5.18 Agricultural price policy continued to be guided by the need for providing remunerative prices to farmers, procuring sufficient quantities of rice and wheat for running the public distribution system plus bufferstocking and promoting a desirable inter-crop balance. Under this policy, on the recommendations of the Commission for Agricultural Costs and Prices (CACP), the Government has been making upward revisions in the support/procurement prices of major agricultural commodities taking into account costs and other factors. The revisions made during the marketing years 1982-83 to 1988-89 are given in Table 5.3.

5.19 Foodgrains : On the recommendation of the CACP, the Government announced an increase of Rs. 4 per quintal in procurement price of Paddy for 1987-88. The procurement prices of all varieties of paddy in the common group of fair average quality have been raised from Rs. 146 per quintal during 1986-87 to Rs. 150 per quintal for 1987-88. The price for fine variety of paddy has been fixed at Rs. 154 per quintal and for super fine variety at Rs. 158 per quintal for 1987-88. The procurement price of wheat has been raised by Rs. 7 for 1988-89 to the level of Rs. 173 per quintal.

5.20 The procurement price of coarse grains viz., jowar, bajra, maize and ragi for fair average quality has been raised by Rs. 3 per quintal to Rs. 135 per quintal for 1987-88. The minimum support price for barley has been raised by Rs. 3 per quintal to Rs. 135 per quintal for 1987-88. For 1988-89, the price remains the same. In case of gram, the minimum support price has been raised by Rs. 10 to Rs. 290 per quintal for 1988-89. The minimum support prices for kharif pulses (Arhar, Moong and Urad) were raised by Rs. 5 per quintal to Rs. 325 per quintal for 1987-88.

5.21 Oilseeds : In case of kharif oilseeds the price of groundnuts (in shell) has been stepped up by Rs. 20 to Rs. 390 per quintal for 1987-88 and that of Soyabean (yellow variety) by Rs. 10 to Rs. 300 per quintal. The increase in case of Soyabean (black variety) is only Rs. 5 a quintal, pegging the new price at Rs. 260 a quintal. As a measure to facilitate expansion of sunflower cultivation, its minimum support price has been enhanced by Rs. 40 per quintal to Rs. 390 per quintal for 1987-88. For mustard, the minimum support price has been raised by Rs. 15 per quintal to Rs. 430 per quintal for the 1988-89 marketing season. For Safflower the minimum support price has been fixed at Rs. 415 per quintal for 1988-89. It is the same as for the last season. For toria, the price has been raised by Rs. 25 to Rs. 400 per quintal for 1988-89.

5.22 Sugarcane : For sugarcane, the statutory minimum price was earlier fixed in November 1986 at Rs. 18 per quintal for the marketing season 1987-88. However, in view of drought and floods in many parts of the country, the Government decided in December 1987, to revise the price to Rs. 18.50 per quintal, linked to a recovery of 8.5 per cent for the marketing season 1987-88. The statutory minimum price of sugarcane for the 1988-89 marketing season has also been announced. It is Rs. 19 per quintal linked to a recovery of 8.5 per cent.

5.23 Fibres : The minimum support price for the fair average quality of cotton (F-414/H-777) for 1987-88 season has been raised by Rs. 10 per quintal to Rs. 440 per quintal. For the long staple variety Hybrid-4 the price has been fixed at Rs. 550 per quintal for the 1987-88 season. The statutory minimum price of raw jute (W-5 grade Ex-Assam) has been raised by Rs. 15 per quintal to Rs. 240 per quintal for the 1987-88 season.

5.24 Tobacco : The minimum support prices in respect of Farm Grade Flue-Cured virginia tobacco for black soil and for light soil for 1987-88 season have been raised from Rs. 1,115 and Rs. 1,200 per quintal to Rs. 1,125 and Rs. 1,220 per quintal respectively.

Administered Prices

Industrial Prices

5.25 Coal : With effect from December 23, 1987, the weighted average price of coal charged by Coal India Limited was increased to Rs. 219 per tonne (15 per cent) from the weighted average realisation of Rs. 190 per tonne. This increase allowed after a gap of nearly two years since the last revision has been necessitated by increases in wages granted to coal workers and cost of other inputs since then. The increase has been permitted following an in-depth study of production costs in the coal industry undertaken by the Bureau of Industrial Costs and Prices (BICP).

5.26 Iron and Steel : Pig iron and steel prices were revised upwards by the Joint Plant Committee (JPC) by 15.6 per cent on an average with effect from December 24, 1987. The price rise was necessitated by a sharp increase in prices of a number of raw materials used by the Steel Industry and the hike in railway freight. This increase again has been allowed after a gap of nearly three years since the last revision.

5.27 Petrol : The price of motor spirit (petrol) was raised by one rupee per litre with effect from January 9, 1988. Including local taxes, the revised retail price of petrol is Rs. 8.50 per litre in Delhi, Rs. 9.14 in Bombay, Rs. 8.70 in Calcutta and Rs. 8.98 in Madras. The earlier retail prices were Rs. 7.43 per litre in Delhi, Rs. 7.99 per litre in Bombay, Rs. 7.60 per litre in Calcutta and Rs. 7.84 per litre in Madras respectively. No increase has been effected in the price of diesel, kerosene and domestic cooking gas.

5.28 Drugs : The Government announced the new Drug Price Control Order (DPCO) on August 27, 1987. Under the DPCO, every company has to make a specific application for a revision in prices on the basis of a changed maximum allowable post-manufacturing expense (MAPE) in respect of controlled drugs. The number of price controlled bulk drugs has been reduced from 347 to 166 under the new DPCO. The new order replaces the 1979 DPCO. The new order lists for price control 27 bulk drugs which are required for the National Health Programme.

5.29 The new DPCO has two categories of formulations and bulk drugs in place of the present three categories for the purposes of price control. Category-I consists of drugs required for the National Health Programme and Category-II, consists of drugs other than those in category-I but which are also considered essential for health needs. The new DPCO has a MAPE of 75 per cent for drugs in category-I and 100 per cent for those in category-II. The new DPCO aims at a system of price control which would on the one hand encourage production by ensuring a reasonable return to the producers of essential drugs and on the other hand, ensure that there is no undue increase in prices. Under the new Order, the prices are expected to increase by 10-20 per cent. According to the new DPCO, while fixing the prices of bulk drugs, the Government will take into consideration a post tax return of 14 per cent on net worth or a return of 22 per cent on capital employed or, in respect of new plants, an internal rate of return of 12 per cent based on long term marginal costing.

5.30 Molasses and Alcohol : The new molasses and alcohol policy was announced on September 7, 1987 and became effective from October 1, 1987. The revised policy viz. the Molasses Control Order and Ethyl Alcohol (Price Control) have a bearing on the earnings of the sugar mills and on the use of sugarcane in the production of Sugar, Gur and khandsari. The main features are : (a) increase in the prices of sugar molasses and khandsari molasses raising them to Rs. 120 per tonne and to Rs. 180 per tonne respectively; (b) Central excise duty on molasses has also been raised from Rs. 30 to Rs. 60 per tonne. A full rebate, however, is being given for identified alcohol based chemical units depending on indigenous alcohol in order to minimise the impact of the price hike in molasses.

5.31 Aluminium : In view of the rise in input costs, the ex-factory average sale price of aluminium was revised by the Government with effect from January 19, 1988 from Rs. 23,928 per tonne to Rs. 25,309 per tonne, registering an increase of 5.8 per cent. The earlier revision was effected on 1st March, 1987. The prices are exclusive of excise duty.

Public Distribution System

5.32 The Public Distribution System (PDS) built up over a number of years, along with buffer stock operations in foodgrains, has emerged as the principal instrument of Government policy in mitigating the effect of drought and containing inflation this year. The system was put to severe test because of the scale of operations required this year and it is a matter of satisfaction that the system has effectively served the role assigned to it by reaching essential commodities to all parts of the country, particularly to areas severely affected by drought.

5.33 The basic objective of the Public Distribution System is to ensure that the essential articles of daily use are made available at reasonable prices to the public, particularly the vulnerable sections of the society. This form of market intervention helps to check the rise in open market prices while at the same time helping to maintain minimum standard of consumption by providing essential commodities at affordable prices which are fixed. The public agencies of the Central and State Governments are required to arrange for procurement, stocking, transportation and distribution of various essential commodities through the authorised outlets.

5.34 Under this system (PDS), the Central Government has assumed responsibility for procurement and supply of seven essential commodities to States/Union Territories. These seven commodities are (i) wheat, (ii) rice, (iii) levy sugar, (iv) imported edible oils, (v) soft coke, (vi) kerosene oil and (vii) controlled cloth. The State Governments are free to include other commodities for distribution. They can themselves make arrangements for procurement and distribution of these commodities with a view to making more commodities of mass consumption available to the consumers. The Central Government has issued detailed guidelines to ensure effective monitoring and operation of the system.

5.35 Some of the State Governments like West Bengal, Orissa, Tamil Nadu, Himachal Pradesh etc. have included pulses and also some manufactured items like matches, torch cells etc, to supply to consumers through selected PD outlets of their respective areas. The responsibility of the State/Union Territories is to make the required arrangements for transportation, stocking, distribution, inspection and monitoring of these commodities at the State/Local level.

5.36 During the current year the PDS was further strengthened. About 5,600 additional fair price shops (FPS) have been opened between April and December 1987. More than 3,100 shops of these have been opened in drought affected areas. In addition, a large number of mobile vans have been operating as distribution outlets in the drought affected areas. The total number of FPS in the country at the end of December 1987 was about 3.43 lakhs.

Foodgrains Operations

5.37 The procurement of foodgrains this year was lower compared to last year because of drought and untimely rains during the harvesting period in 1987-88. As may be seen from Table 5.4, the procurement of rice was 4.7 million tonnes during April—December 1987 compared to 6.4 million tonnes during April-December, 1986. Similarly, the procurement of wheat has been 7.9 million tonnes during April—December, 1987 compared with 10.5 million tonnes during April—December, 1986.

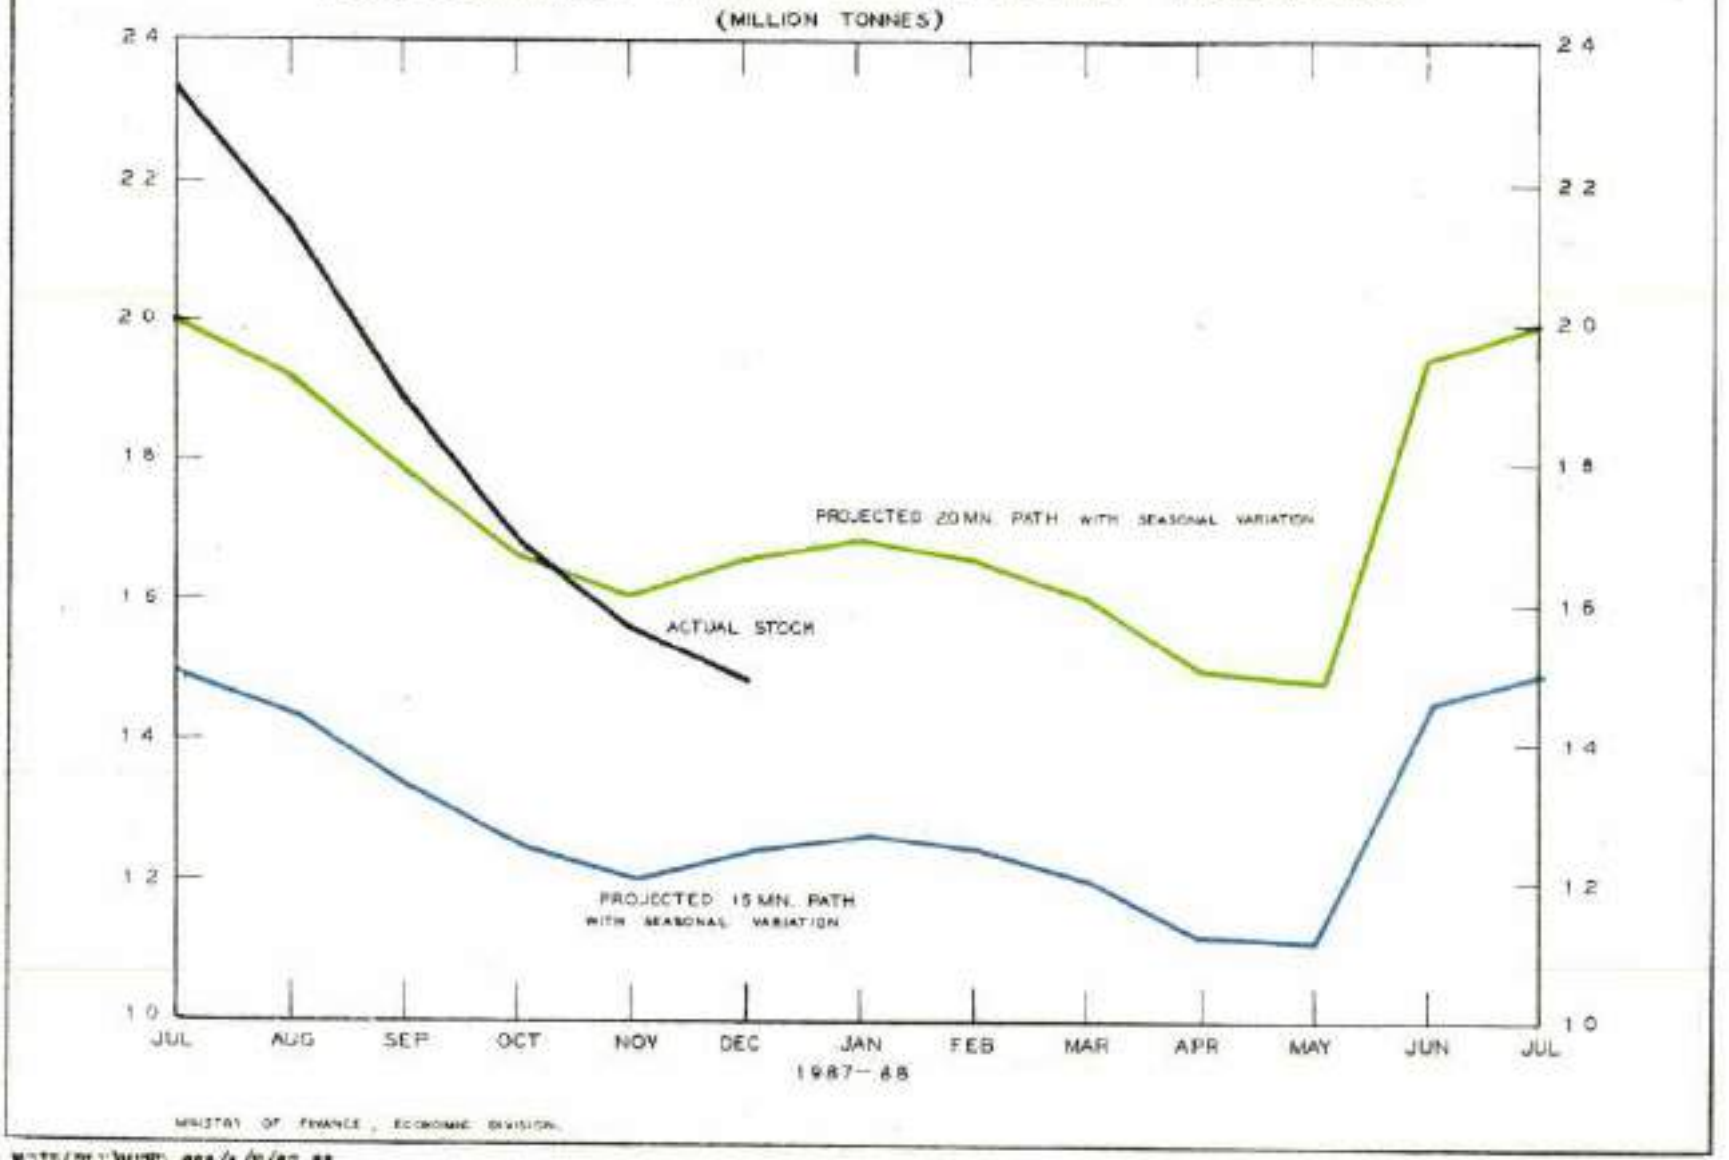
5.38 The demand for foodgrains from the PDS has increased significantly during the current year because of the drought. Requests for additional allocations of rice, wheat, sugar and edible oils were received from several States. Availability and distribution have been carefully planned and monitored. The Government has made additional special allocation of 4.9 lakh tonnes of rice for PDS to States during August/October 1987. Also additional quantities of rice and wheat have been allocated for drought/calamities relief operations in Madhya Pradesh, Gujarat, Rajasthan, Jammu and Kashmir and Himachal Pradesh.

5.39 The central issue price of wheat for the PDS was increased from Rs. 190 per quintal to Rs. 195 per quintal with effect from 1st May 1987. For supply to the roller flour mills, the issue price was raised to Rs. 210 per quintal from Rs. 205 per quintal. The issue price of wheat for distribution in the Integrated Tribal Development Programme areas was raised by Rs. 5 per quintal to Rs. 130 per quintal from May 1, 1987. The issue price of common variety of rice sold through the PDS remained unchanged at Rs. 239 per quintal. For fine and superfine varieties, however, the issue prices were raised by Rs. 13 per quintal with effect from October 1, 1987. The revised rates were Rs. 264 per quintal for fine variety and Rs. 279 per quintal for superfine variety. The issue price of rice for distribution in the integrated tribal development programme areas for common variety of rice also remained unchanged at Rs. 160 per quintal. For the fine and superfine varieties, the issue prices were raised by Rs. 13 per quintal with effect from October 1, 1987. The new prices are Rs. 183 per quintal for fine variety and Rs. 198 per quintal for superfine variety.

5.40 Flour milling industry has been delicensed since July 1986. The Government is not under any obligation to supply wheat to the roller flour mills. However, in order to ensure availability of wheat and wheat products at reasonable prices, the Food Corporation of India (FCI) sells wheat under open sales to mills and traders at the rate of Rs. 210 per quintal. Under the scheme of open sales, the FCI sells wheat to the mills at the stipulated rate of Rs. 210 per quintal in important consuming cities for upto 75 per cent of their assessed capacity, keeping in view the trend in the prices of wheat and wheat products in the region. During the period January 1987 to September 1987, 28.9 lakh tonnes of wheat has been sold under open sales to mills/traders. The FCI has also decided to conduct auctions of wheat to improve the availability of wheat especially to roller flour mills and to contain grain prices in the market.

5.41 Total distribution of foodgrains, including distribution under National Rural Employment Programme, (NREP), Rural Landless Employment Guarantee Programme (RLEGP) and relief operations, has been higher at 13.5 million tonnes during April—December 1987 compared with 11.9 million tonnes during April-

TOTAL STOCKS OF FOODGRAINS WITH THE PUBLIC AGENCIES



MOF(PL)MISC-666/1/F/87-88

December, 1986. The distribution during 1987-88 has been higher in the case of both rice and wheat.

5.42 Taking advantage of the high stocks of foodgrains built up in the last few years the Government has followed a policy of releasing adequate foodgrains in the market to ensure availability and restrain the impact of drought on prices. Stocks at 14.1 million tonnes of foodgrains held at the end of December 1987, comprising 6.5 million tonnes of rice and 7.6 million tonnes of wheat, are adequate to meet the requirements of the PDS and other programmes (Table 5.4). The Government also proposes to continue open market sales in areas affected by drought to maintain adequate availability.

5.43 The building up and maintenance of buffer stocks has been an important plank of national food policy. According to a decision taken by the Government in March, 1984, the size of the buffer stock to be maintained by the public agencies in the country should be 10 million tonnes, comprising 5 million tonnes of wheat and 5 million tonnes of rice. This buffer stock would be over and above the operational stocks which on different dates of the year would range between the lowest figure of 6.5 million tonnes on the 1st April and the highest figure of 11.4 million tonnes on the 1st July of the year. This buffer stocking policy has stood the test of time and has been instrumental in ensuring national food security in the country during the period of severe drought in the current year.

Sugar Operations

5.44 Sugar production during 1986-87 (sugar year) increased to 85.04 lakh tonnes which is a record high. Total imports during 1986-87 (sugar year) are estimated to be 9.53 lakh tonnes compared with 16.26 lakh tonnes during 1985-86 (sugar year). The releases of sugar (both levy and free sale) amounted to 90.99 lakh tonnes during the financial year 1986-87 as against 85.46 lakh tonnes during 1985-86.

5.45 During the current financial year upto February, 1988 (Table 5.5) the releases added up to 86.82 lakh tonnes compared with 83.47 lakh tonnes during the same period in the financial year 1986-87. The monthly levy quotas of sugar, which are allotted on uniform norms, were revised to 3.32 lakh tonnes per month from February 1987 onwards compared with 3.13 lakh tonnes maintained since October, 1983. This is based on the per capita availability of 425 grams for the projected population as on 1-10-1986. Consequent to the increase of statutory minimum price (SMP) of sugarcane from Rs. 17 per quintal for 1986-87 to Rs. 18.50 per quintal for 1987-88, the issue price of sugar has been increased from Rs. 4.85 per kg. to Rs. 5.10 per kg. with effect from first January, 1988. The ratio of levy to free sale sugar, however, remains unchanged at 50 : 50 during the sugar year 1987-88.

Edible Oil Operations

5.46 The allocation of imported edible oils to State Governments for public distribtuion is made by the Central Government on a monthly basis, taking into account the demand and supply position. As the prices of edible oils have been ruling quite high during the current financial year, the supply of imported edible oils for PDS was kept at a high level throughout the year (Table 5.5). In order to narrow the gap between issue prices of imported oils and the minimum support price-equivalent of indigenous oils, the issues prices of imported edible oils for PDS were increased from Rs. 9,000 per tonne to Rs. 11,000 per tonne for supply in bulk with effect from December 23, 1987.

5.47 For vanaspati industry the allocation of imported edible oils was also kept at a high level during this period. On 26th August 1987 the Government and the vanaspati industry agreed on a voluntary price control on vanaspati resulting in an immediate reduction of about Rs. 2 per kg. for the consumer. An additional allocation of imported oils, for upto 15 per cent of requirement, was also made at the commercial rate of Rs. 18,000 per tonne. This was in addition to the normal allocation of imported edible oils being supplied at the rate of Rs. 15,000 per tonne upto 70 per cent of requirement. From December 1, 1987, the allocation of imported edible oils at commercial rates has been reduced from 15 per cent to 10 per cent requirement. It is necessary to carefully regulate supply of imported oils to vanaspati industry in order to ensure that maximum support is provided to the growth of minor oils in the country. While in the lean season the allocations at the concessional price can be liberal, these need to be reduced in the peak season when market arrivals are high. The Government has provided substantial fiscal incentives for use of oils, such as rice bran oil, in vanaspati. It is a matter of satisfaction that production of these oils has increased sharply in the last two years. This process needs to be strengthened further.

FISCAL POLICY AND THE GOVERNMENT BUDGET

During the past year fiscal policy strove to maintain the momentum of development in the face of difficult challenges posed by the severe drought. In September, 1987 the Government levied surcharges on personal income tax, corporate income tax, wealth tax and customs duty and also announced surcharges on domestic air fares and upper class railway fares. These measures were expected to raise about Rs. 500 crores in the current financial year. The Government also initiated economies in expenditure, which were expected to yield savings of around Rs. 650 crores in 1987-88. Furthermore, to help finance the substantial additional imports of essential commodities entailed by the drought, the Government undertook a number of external assistance initiatives to mobilise and accelerate the disbursement of external capital. On the other hand, the drought is likely to constrain the buoyancy of tax and non-tax revenues, especially in the later part of the current financial year. However, in view of the prompt, anticipatory measures noted above, the financial consequences of the drought on the overall Government budget deficit are likely to be contained within manageable limits.

6.2 Despite the secular and short-term pressures on Government finances, fiscal policy endeavoured to maintain the priority for development. The outlay on the Central Plan for 1987-88 was stepped up by 12.3 per cent, thus making it likely that for the first time, over three-fifths of the targeted Central Plan expenditure (in real terms) would be fulfilled in the first 3 years of a five-year plan period. Though the additional relief expenditure necessitated by drought and floods imposed substantial additional strain on the Government's fiscal position, every effort was made to ensure that there was no diversion from Plan expenditure commitments. In regard to revenue collections, the progress upto December, 1987 has been satisfactory. During April—December, 1987, provisional estimates of the Centre's collections from major taxes amounted to 71.5 per cent of the 1987-88 budget estimates. This compares with the figure of 70.4 per cent achieved during the corresponding period of the preceding year. While enhanced allocations for the Central Plan in the 1987-88 Budget underlined the Government's determination to strengthen public sector development, the need for making all out efforts at improving productivity and efficiency of public enterprises was also emphasized.

Budgetary Developments 1986-87

6.3 The combined budgetary transactions of the Central and State Governments and Union Territories registered a large deficit in 1986-87. The year's budgetary deficit at Rs. 9,283 crores, according to revised estimates, was more than twice the size (Rs. 4,030 crores) projected in the budget estimate and over two and a half times the actuals (Rs. 3,439 crores) in 1985-86. As a proportion of GDP, the budgetary deficit was 3.2 per cent, substantially higher than the average of 1.5 per cent in the preceding quinquennium of 1981-82 to 1985-86 (Table 6.1). There was, however, a marked step-up of about 22 per cent in both developmental and non-developmental expenditure. The increase in developmental expenditure was particularly notable against a smaller increase of 11.0 per cent in 1985-86.

6.4 The current revenues of the Centre, States and Union Territories recorded an increase of 16.0 per cent in 1986-87 (RE) which was lower than the rise of 20.5 per cent in 1985-86. Non-tax revenues, inclusive of the internal resources of the non-departmental undertakings, on the other hand, increased by 21.1 per cent, marginally higher than the increase of 19.7 per cent in 1985-86. The tax-GDP ratio improved somewhat to 16.9 per cent from 16.5 per cent in 1985-86.

6.5 The gap between total expenditure and current revenues of the Centre, States and Union Territories was estimated at Rs. 36,707 crores in 1986-87 (RE). As a proportion of GDP, the gap was 12.5 per cent, much higher than the average of 9.8 per cent in the preceding quinquennium of 1981-82 to 1985-86. This gap was financed to the extent of 68.3 per cent by domestic capital receipts and 6.4 per cent by external assistance. Under domestic capital receipts, market loans increased from 6,475 crores in 1985-86 to Rs. 7,097 crores in 1986-87 (RE) and small savings increased from Rs. 4,292 crores to Rs. 4,900 crores. The remaining gap of 25.3 per cent was met through budgetary deficit.

S/249 Fin./87—8

6.6 The deterioration in the budgetary position during 1986-87 was noticeable in the case of both the Central and State Governments. The Centre's budgetary deficit which was estimated at Rs. 3,703 crores in the budget, turned out to be Rs. 8,285 crores in the revised estimates. This deterioration occurred despite higher collection of Rs. 39,595 crores of both tax and non-tax revenues (including internal resources of public sector enterprises) as against Rs. 36,294 crores anticipated in the budget estimates. The main factors responsible for this outcome were substantial increase in both current and capital expenditures. For example, defence expenditure was Rs. 1,472 crores more than the budget estimates. So was the case with interest payments and subsidies, which together increased by Rs. 1,734 crores over the budget estimates of Rs. 13,437 crores. Implementation of the Fourth Pay Commission's recommendations also added substantial additional annual burden. Net transfer of resources to State and Union Territory Governments exceeded the budget estimates by Rs. 522 crores. A loan of Rs. 1,200 crores advanced to Food Corporation of India to finance buffer stocks of foodgrains, for which no provision had been made in the budget estimates, also contributed to the sharp rise in Centre's expenditure during 1986-87(RE). Overall, the aggregate expenditure of the Centre, which had been placed at Rs. 66,168 crores in the budget estimates for 1986-87, moved up by as much as Rs. 6,902 crores to Rs. 73,070 crores in the revised estimates.

6.7 As indicated in the last year's Economic Survey, a disturbing feature of the Centre's budgetary developments has been the emergence and widening of the deficit in current account since 1979-80. This deficit as a proportion of GDP at current market prices, was only 0.6 per cent in 1979-80 and it reached a level of 2.1 per cent in 1985-86 and 2.5 per cent in 1986-87 (RE) (Table 6.2). This is symptomatic of the pressure which has been growing on the Centre's budget. Already, the Centre's balance from current revenues (BCR)*, which had reached a peak level of a little over 2 per cent of GDP at current market prices in 1978-79, has been eroded in recent years. In 1986-87, BCR actually turned negative and might worsen further in the current year.

6.8 Although the current revenues, particularly tax revenues, have shown substantial improvement in recent years, from 10.6 per cent in 1984-85 and 11.2 per cent in 1985-86 to 12.0 per cent of GDP in 1986-87 (RE), current expenditures, too, rose sharply to 12.1 per cent, 13.3 per cent and 14.5 per cent of GDP during these years. Among the major items of expenditure, the growth in interest payments has been most pronounced, from about 2.2 per cent of GDP in mid-eighties to the current level of 3.3 per cent and should be a cause for concern. Subsidies, were around 1.8 per cent of GDP after having risen from a level of one per cent in mid-seventies. The amount of grants to States and UTs has in the last three years been around 2.7 per cent of GDP, whereas in the three preceding years the level was only 2.3 per cent. Defence expenditure, which had shown remarkable stability at about 2.8 per cent of GDP in the past decade rose to 3.3 per cent of GDP in 1986-87.

NOTE : The ratios in this table from 1980-81 onwards are based on the new series of GDP released by the C.S.O., and, therefore, these will differ from the figures given in last year's Economic Survey. To facilitate comparison, however, the ratios for 1980-81 have also been given on the basis of the old series of GDP.

6.9 The budgetary position of the States and UTs also worsened in 1986-87. Whereas their budgets for 1986-87 had envisaged a deficit of Rs. 327 crores, the revised estimates showed a three times larger deficit of Rs. 999 crores. This order of deficit was in sharp contrast to the actual surplus of Rs. 1,498 crores in 1985-86. Further, the deficit emerged despite substantial increase in the receipt of grants from the Centre to Rs. 7,603 crores from Rs. 6,865 crores in the budget estimates. Their share in Income Tax was up by as much as 30 per cent in the revised estimates as compared with that in the budget estimates. Thus, the main factors responsible for the substantial deficit were rise in expenditures, both developmental and non-developmental, beyond the budgeted levels. Sizeable increases were noticeable on account of interest payments, administrative services and relief for natural calamities. On the developmental side, substantial increases were recorded under education, medical and public health and agriculture. At the same time, internal resource generation by States' commercial enterprises in 1986-87 (RE) was unsatisfactory, only Rs. 63 crores against the budgeted amount of Rs. 879 crores.

Central Government Budgetary and Fiscal Developments, 1987-88

The 1987-88 Budget

6.10 In line with the fundamental objectives of elimination of poverty and building of a strong modern and self-reliant economy, the thrust of the Budget for 1987-88 has been on mobilisation of additional resources for the public sector, promoting savings and investment and on strengthening the productive forces in the economy as well as direct measures for the removal of poverty. The Budget also carried out further reforms in the tax system. A number of provisions relating to direct tax laws were simplified and rationalised and a National Savings Scheme based on net savings was introduced. MODVAT was extended to all the remaining industries with a few exceptions. Excise and customs duties on a number of products were rationalised and a graded customs structure introduced in certain cases with the particular objective of accelerating growth, modernisation and indigenisation in selected industries.

6.11 The outlay for the Central Annual Plan for 1987-88 was stepped up by 12.3 per cent compared to the outlay in the preceding year. As a result, over 60 per cent of the Five Year Central Plan target expenditure in real terms would be financed in the first three years of the plan. Further, in the allocation of resources, high priority was accorded to programmes which have a direct bearing on alleviation of poverty and creation of additional opportunities of employment in the rural areas. In particular, special emphasis was laid on strengthening the anti-poverty programmes viz., Integrated Rural Development Programme, National Rural Employment Programme, the Rural Landless Employment Guarantee Programme, and rural water supply and housing. There was a massive increase in the allocation for education. Substantial provisions were also made for agriculture and irrigation. Further, in view of the critical importance of infrastructure for rapid agricultural, industrial and overall development, an outlay representing more than half of the total Central Plan outlay was provided for energy, transport and communications.

6.12 The details of important fiscal measures adopted in the Budget for 1987-88 and the Finance Act 1987 are given in the following paragraphs.

Direct Taxes

6.13 In line with the Long Term Fiscal Policy, no changes were made in the rates of personal or corporate taxes. However, several of the provisions for direct tax laws were simplified and rationalised to promote savings, investment and growth, and certain provisions modified to check tax avoidance and evasion.

6.14 Following the recommendations of the Study Group on Taxation of Expenditure in its Interim Report, a new National Savings Scheme based on the principle of net savings was introduced. Under the scheme 50 per cent of deposits upto a maximum amount of Rs. 20,000 are eligible for deduction. However, in the year of withdrawal 50 per cent of the amount withdrawn together with the interest thereon will be added to the taxable income of the relevant year. Deposits will earn interest (presently at 9 per cent per annum). However, the net deposits or balances in the account would be fully exempt from income tax and wealth tax. The scheme has the merit of adoption of an expenditure tax principle in the Income Tax Act.

6.15 To encourage savings, as also to give stimulus to housing activity, Section 80-C was amended to provide that any payment, upto Rs. 10,000 per annum, made by the tax payer towards cost of purchase or construction of new residential property would also qualify for deduction under Section 80-C, within the overall monetary limit of Rs. 40,000. The deduction will be allowed in respect of any payment by way of instalment or part payment due under self-financing or other schemes of any development authority, Housing Boards, etc., as well as for repayment of loans borrowed by the tax payers from Government and other specified institutions.

6.16 With a view to mobilising savings from small savers (including those in rural areas), another Mutual Fund on the lines of the one earlier set up by the Unit Trust of India, has been established by the State Bank of India, as a follow-up of the proposal contained in the Budget.

6.17 The provisions relating to taxation of Capital gains were further simplified and rationalised. The statutory deductions and concessions earlier available under Section 80T to non-corporate tax payers and under Section 115 to corporate tax payers, were incorporated in Section 48 itself for computation of capital gains arising from transfer of a capital asset, and a uniform scheme of deduction from long term gains in respect of specified category of assets has been adopted in case of both corporate and non-corporate assessees. Further, to ensure aniform treatment of capital losses and capital gains, it has been provided that long term losses arising on transfer of long term capital assets (after these are scaled down by the same percentage of deduction as long term capital gains) would be treated as any other losses so that these can be set off against income under any head. The distinction between the carry forward of short-term and long-term capital losses was removed.

6.18 The benefit of exemption in respect of capital gains arising from the transfer of a residential house or other long term assets in case these are utilised for acquiring a residential house, earlier available to individuals only, was extended to Hindu Undivided Families. Further, to check tax avoidance and to simplify procedure, a new provision providing for the deposit of capital gains or the net consideration in a public sector bank or institution in accordance with a scheme to be notified has been introduced. Under this provision the amount of capital gains or net consideration, if not appropriated or utilised by the tax payer for acquisition of a new asset, shall be deposited on or before the furnishing of the return of income, in an account with a bank or institution and utilised in accordance with the scheme framed in this regard.

6.19 To promote decongestion of urban areas and to secure balanced regional development, the provisions relating to exemption of capital gains were liberalised in case of the capital gains, whether short or long term, arising from transfer of specified capital assets on shifting of industrial undertakings from an urban area to a non-urban area.

6.20 With a view to make capital markets more attractive to the ordinary investors, the eligibility period for availability of concessional treatment in respect of long-term capital gains arising on transfer of equity shares was reduced from 36 months to 12 months. The provision (section 80CC) relating to allowing of deduction in respect of investment in new equity shares offered for subscription by certain categories of new companies was extended by another 3 years, and the minimum holding period of such shares reduced from 5 years to 3 years. It was also provided that the interest income in case of tax-free bonds issued by specified public sector companies would not form part of total income of the bond holder.

6.21 To promote investment as well as facilitate replacement and modernisation of assets in the corporate sector, a simplified set of depreciation rules was brought into force effective from April 1, 1988. These allow for depreciation in respect of a block of assets, and provide for three rates of depreciation for plant and machinery viz., 33.33 per cent, 50 per cent and 100 per cent.

6.22 To extend fiscal support, manufacture of computers, office machines and apparatus used for transmission and reception of messages was excluded from the Eleventh Schedule of the Income Tax Act to make their manufacture also eligible for the concessions under the Act. Further, it was clarified that the benefit of tax holiday available to new undertakings established in Free Trade Zones would extend to units which develop soft-ware or assemble or process components for exports.

6.23 As a measure of simplification ,it was provided that the income of assessees engaged in activities connected with the exploration of mineral oils would be determined at 10 per cent of the aggregate of the amounts specified, and in the case of non-residents engaged in the business of operation of air-craft, the income from such business would be computed at a flat rate of 5 per cent of the amount received or receivable by or on behalf of the tax payer. A number of other tax provisions were simplified and rationalised including those relating to the Investment Deposit Scheme (Section 32AB).

6.24 On the other hand certain provisions were modified and rationalised to plug loopholes, and to check tax avoidance. Capital gains on transfer of goodwill of a concern or transfer of assets from a firm to a partner and vice-versa, were made taxable. The concessions available to Indian companies earning income from a foreign Government or enterprise for imparting technical knowhow, were made admissible only if foreign exchange earned is repatriated within the specified period. The provisions relating to deduction of tax at source were modified and tightened to ensure improved tax compliance. Similarly, the provisions relating to settlement of cases were modified so that the Settlement Commission is not used as an escape route by tax evaders.

6.25 In the interest of revenues and to make the tax system more progressive some new provisions were introduced. As certain companies making large profits and declaring substantial dividends were able to manage their affairs so as to avoid payment of income tax, a new Section 115J was introduced under which companies have been made liable to pay tax on a minimum of 30 per cent of their book profits. However, for determining the minimum taxable income, adjustment in respect of brought forward losses or unabsorbed depreciation, whichever is less, has been allowed.

6.26 Following the proposal in the Budget, an Expenditure Tax Act has been enacted which has come into force from November 1, 1987. It provides for levy of tax at the rate of 10 per cent of any expenditure incurred in a hotel where the room charges for any unit of residential accommodation are Rs. 400 or more per day per individual. The tax is to be levied on any expenditure for any accommodation, residential or otherwise, food or drinks either at the hotel or outside and any other services provided by the hotel. Where any other person provides food or drinks or other services at the hotel, expenditure incurred by customers will also be liable for expenditure tax. Foreign diplomats as well as payments made in foreign exchange have been exempted from the levy of expenditure tax. Further, in order to promote economy in the use of foreign exchange resources as also to raise revenues, the Budget proposed a 15 per cent tax on foreign exchange released for foreign travel, and this has been made applicable since October 15, 1987.

6.27 Certain measures in the Budget were directed to benefit workers and the common man. The Income Tax Act was amended to provide protection to the dues of workers such as provident fund, Employees State Insurance fund and gratuity. The benefit of exemption from tax was extended to payments made under voluntary retirement schemes for public sector employees. The expression 'owner of house property' was enlarged to make real owners, even if not legal owners of property, eligible for availing of tax concessions. Contributions to Regimental Funds or non-Public Funds also were made eligible for the tax concessions available to other funds of national importance like National Defence Funds. Special deduction available to the physically handicapped or totally blind was raised from Rs. 10,000 to Rs. 15,000. The limits upto which net tax is to be deducted at source were raised from Rs. 1,000 to Rs. 2,500 in respect of income from dividends and interest, and was fixed at Rs. 5,000 in respect of insurance commission, and the procedure was streamlined.

Indirect Taxes

6.28 In the area of indirect taxes also the structure of customs and excise duties was rationalised and several other changes effected to strengthen the industrial structure, to stimulate modernisation and upgradation of technology in key areas like capital goods; to quicken the pace of indigenisation and development in the dynamic sector of electronics and computers; and to promote export production. A package of measures was adopted to boost production in selected industries like cement, textiles, food processing, plastics and packaging. To mobilise additional resources, duties on certain items of affluent consumption were increased.

6.29 MODVAT was extended to cover all the remaining chapters of the Excise Tariff with a few exceptions like textiles, tobacco products, petroleum products, matches and cinematograph films. However, excise duty on final products was not raised, except in the case of a few items, with a view to reduce the effective incidence of duty and help expansion of the market and of production. This covered a large number of food products and would benefit farmers and horticulturists. However, duties were revised upwards for such items as electric motors, primary batteries and zinc oxide, wherein the duty set-off allowed in the previous year was found to be somewhat excessive. Certain procedural changes were also made to simplify the operation of the MODVAT scheme.

6.30 To accelerate the growth of capital goods industry and to promote greater self-reliance in this critical sector, a number of measures were adopted. Since the concessional rates of customs duty earlier prescribed in respect of project imports provided encouragement for excessive imports, and the differential rates vis-a-vis general machinery discriminated against modernisation of the existing units, the duty structure was rationalised and a uniform rate of 85 per cent was provided for both these categories of capital goods. Moreover, the concessional rate of import duty in case of project imports for fertilizers was increased from zero to 15 per cent, and in respect of power plants of 50 MW and below from 25 per cent to 35 per cent. For textile machinery and machine tools sector, concessional duty on components at the rate of 60 per cent was provided as against the rate of 70 per cent for components of general machinery. Further, to facilitate upgradation of technology, the rates of duty were reduced in respect of certain special quality steel used in machine building, stainless steel for textile machinery, capital goods for modernisation of foundries, and equipment required for conversion from mercury to membrane cell technology in case of caustic soda plants.

6.31 In order to give further stimulus to the expansion and growth of the computer and electronics industry, a mix of changes in customs and excise duties was effected. Import duties in respect of a number of specified equipment, sub-assemblies, components, parts and raw materials were rationalised. Import duty on electric sub-assemblies for computers was substantially reduced and the list of peripherals with a concessional duty of 60 per cent was enlarged. The import duty on specified data communication equipment as well as on mechanical parts of such equipment was lowered. A few more items were added to the list of computer peripherals for import of non-electronic parts for maintenance purpose at concessional rate of 75 per cent. Having regard to indigenous production, the customs duty on computer systems imported under OGL was reduced by 10 percentage points. However, import duty on certain specified electronics parts of computers was raised from 25 per cent to 75 per cent, and on non-electronic parts of computer peripherals from 5 to 45 per cent. Excise duty of 10 per cent was also levied on computers and peripherals.

6.32 In the case of electronics industry, to facilitate increased domestic production of capital goods required for this industry, the duty on mechanical components for capital goods was substantially reduced i.e. from 140 per cent to 45 per cent in case of a large number of machines. Further to strengthen the R&D base, customs duty on specified equipment required for R&D was also reduced considerably to 55 per cent. The coverage under the graded concessional duty structure for imports of raw-materials and piece parts was expanded. A graded structure of customs duty for silicon solar cells and photo voltaic systems at the rate of 30 per cent, 45 per cent and 75 per cent was introduced, and duty on silicon for electronics industry was fixed at 75 per cent. Excise duty was abolished on production of poly-silicon in all forms. As an anti-avoidance measure, excise duty or countervailing duty of Rs. 150 on black and white tubes for TV sets of size above 36 cms., and of Rs. 600 on all colour television tubes was imposed, without entailing additional duty burden on the consumer as the MODVAT facility is available for these inputs. Specific rates of excise duty were also fixed in respect of certain items of consumer electronics including VCRs, VCPs, combination sets of TVs with audio recorders, radios or clocks.

6.33 Customs duties were also rationalised in the case of parts of mechanical and quartz watches. Again, in the case of automobile industry, in order to give a push to the process of indigenisation, the list of sub-components required for manufacture of components for fuel efficient vehicles eligible for concessional duty was enlarged. On the other hand, the duty on import of spares for after-sales or warranty repairs for fuel efficient vehicles was increased. For the benefit of handicapped individuals, the customs duty was removed in respect of automatic transmission and other special equipment fitted to fuel efficient cars of engine capacity not exceeding 1000 cc. In the case of drug industry, a number of drug intermediates used exclusively or predominently in the manufacture of drugs were exempted from additional duty of customs, and customs duty on two specified drug intermediates required for manufacture of pyrazinamide, an anti-TB drug was removed.

6.34 Various concessions were given to promote production for exports. A concessional rate of customs duty was fixed for a number of additional items of tools, machinery, etc. used in processing gems and jewellery, marine products and leather. In addition, import duty was removed or reduced on polyurethane leather required for inflatable balls (including footballs) polyurethane film/foil used for improving finished leather, flax and ramie fibres, and on tyre moulds. Export duty was abolished on mica products except for mica waste and scrap.

6.35 Recognising the economics and wide ranging use of plastic materials for agricultural and industrial applications, as well as for various consumer goods and for packaging, the basic customs duty on imported inputs viz., PVC resins and LDPE was substantially reduced to bring down costs and prices. Moreover, excise duty was halved from 40 per cent to 20 per cent on products of regenerated cellulose as well as on certain varieties of industrial plastics. Excise duty was also reduced on cellulose acetate moulding granules. Import duty on specified items of machinery and aseptic packaging materials was substantially lowered.

6.36 In order to augment the production and availability of edible oils, the import duty on specified items of machinery required for use in solvent extraction industry was reduced. Moreover, the system of excise rebate for vanaspati and soaps linked to larger use of minor oils, was continued with some procedural changes. The ad valorem duty on vanaspati was changed to specific duty.

6.37 In order to stimulate production of cement, and to provide relief to new units with high capital costs, an excise rebate scheme was introduced and the levy obligation reduced in case of such units including mini-cement plants. An excise rebate at the rate of Rs. 50 per tonne was allowed in respect of portland cement manufactured by units commencing production of such cement on or after April 1, 1986, and at the rate of Rs. 20 per tonne to units which had commenced production between January 1, 1982 and March 31, 1986. The levy quota obligation was also reduced from 30 per cent to 15 and 20 per cent respectively.

The excise concession was made available for a period of 3 years from March 1, 1987 but only to units whose aggregate production is not less than 30 per cent of licenced capacity.

6.38 In the case of cotton textiles, the Small Scale Scheme for hand processed cotton fabrics was liberalised and the full exemption limit raised from 36 lakh sq. metres to 50 lakh sq. metres, and to 75 lakh sq. metres for screen printed fabrics. All hand processing units were made eligible for these exemptions irrespective of their turn-over. The duty rate on clearances in excess of the exemption limit was reduced to 25 per cent of the normal rate applicable to the mill sector. Excise duty structure in the case of power processing sector also, was rationalised by providing specific rates in respect of fabrics of value upto Rs. 25 per sq. metre. The excise duty on wool tops was removed and that on polyester wool blended yarn halved from Rs. 30 per kg. The customs duty on synthetic rags was slashed from 80 per cent to 30 per cent. On the other hand, the rates of excise duty in the case of viscose staple fibre and viscose filament yarn, which had remained unchanged for a number of years, were raised as a revenue measure. Specific rates of duty on processed synthetic and blended fabrics of value upto Rs. 25 per sq. metre were levied to raise AED, the yield of which goes to the States.

6.39 In order to provide relief to the common man, excise duties on a number of goods of common use were reduced or removed. The scheme of duty-free supply of raw-materials to NTC was extended for the manufacture of Soubhagya Sarees. The value limits were raised for duty exemption in case of footwear and shoddy woollen fabrics as well as for concessional rate of excise duty in case of Janta Soap. The excise duty on fluorescent tubes and their fittings and parts was reduced, and certain common goods such as bio-gas appliances, note-books, letter pads, registers, etc., were exempted.

6.40 On the other hand, to mobilise additional resources, excise duties were increased in respect of costlier Colour TV sets, fuel efficient motor vehicles not exceeding 1000 cc., expensive soaps, aerated soft drinks and certain relatively expensive packaged foods. The excise duty on cigarettes was rationalised and fixed in terms of specific rates based on length of cigarettes and was expected to yield an additional revenue of Rs. 200 crores. Customs and excise duties were rationalised or adjusted in the case of a number of other goods.

6.41 Further, to bring the surplus accruing to Oil Pool Account into tax revenues, the customs duty on imported crude petroleum was raised and the statutory rate (as also the effective rate) of cess on crude oil and on natural gas was increased. These increases were, however, to be absorbed fully by the Oil Pool Account, thus having no effect on consumer prices.

Additional Resource Mobilisation (1987-88 B.E.).

6.42 The additional Resource Mobilisation Measures (ARM) undertaken in the 1987-88 Central Budget were expected to yield Rs. 1,109 crores. However, the budget also provided concessions in excise and customs duties amounting to Rs. 595 crores. Thus, the ARM measures (net of concessions) would yield Rs. 514 crores. Out of this, Rs. 85 crores would be raised through direct and Rs. 429 crores through indirect tax proposals. The States' share in ARM would be Rs. 192 crores, leaving Rs. 322 crores for the Centre. Details are shown in Table 6.3.

1 After taking into account changes announced during the Budget debate.

6.43. The tax concessions announced during the budget debate would result in a revenue loss of Rs. 67 crores (centre's loss Rs. 55 crores); this has not been taken into account in framing the estimate as the loss was to be made good during the course of the year. The Railway Budget for 1987-88 did not contain any proposals for increase either in passenger fares or freight and parcel rates. Rather, some concessions were provided to the needy and deserving sections of society, such as the handicapped, the war widows, and the drought and flood affected (for fodder movement).

Revenue and Expenditure

6.44 The aggregate resources of the Central Government after taking into account the net receipts of Rs. 322 crores from additional resource mobilisation measures and including the internal and extra-budgetary resources of public sector undertakings, were expected to be Rs. 71,509 crores in 1987-88 (B.E.), about 14.5 per cent higher than Rs. 62,465 crores in 1986-87 (B.E.). While the tax revenues were estimated at Rs. 77,197 crores, 16.7 per cent higher than Rs. 66,168 crores in 1986-87 (B.E.). Thus, there was an uncovered deficit of Rs. 5,688 crores. Revenue receipts were estimated to grow by 21.6 per cent over 1986-87 (B.E.). While the tax revenues were estimated to grow by 22.4 per cent the non-tax revenues were expected to show a somewhat lower increase of 20.4 per cent. Domestic capital receipts were anticipated to grow by 4.0 per cent and external capital receipts by 9.1 per cent, so that total capital receipts were projected to rise by 4.6 per cent to Rs. 27,372 crores from the last year's budget estimates. On the disbursement side, allocation for non-developmental expenditures was 26.5 per cent higher than the level of last year's budget estimates. Developmental expenditures were budgeted at 10.1 per cent more than last year's budget estimates. Consequently, the proportion of developmental expenditures to aggregate expenditures declined from 60.1 per cent in 1986-87 (B.E) to 56.7 per cent in 1987-88 (B.E).

6.45 The Central Plan outlay for 1987-88 was stepped up by 12.3 per cent to Rs. 25,042 crores over the outlay of 1986-87 (B.E). in order to maintain the momentum of development and programmes aimed at alleviation of poverty. The total outlay during the first three years of Seventh Five Year Plan would have thus fulfilled over 60 per cent of total Seventh Plan in real terms (at 1984-85 prices), compared to only 45 per cent achieved in the first three years of the Sixth Plan. In qualitative terms, emphasis was given to education, the NREP, the IRDP, the RLEGP, rural water supply and use of food stocks for creating additional employment opportunities in rural areas. The outlay on rural development was enhanced by about Rs. 150 crores to Rs. 1651 crores. Housing, particularly for weaker sections of the society was given priority. In addition to an allocation of Rs. 125 crores for the Indira Awas Yojna, a new financial structure was visualised for providing funds for housing. At the apex level, a new National Housing Bank was programmed under the Reserve Bank of India with an initial equity capital of Rs. 100 crores.

6.46 The sectoral distribution of outlays in the Central Plan for 1987-88 exhibited high priority to human resources development including education, sports and youth affairs, health, family welfare, ecology and environment, art and culture, and broadcasting. The outlay of Rs. 2201 crores provided for these programmes marked an increase of about 53.0 per cent over the allocation of Rs. 1,374 crores in 1986-87 (B.E.). Within these programmes, education was accorded top priority in line with the new education policy. Outlay on education was raised to Rs. 800 crores as against Rs. 352 crores in the last year's budget estimates. Operation Black Board was to be undertaken to improve primary schools all over the country. Facilities to impart technical education in all areas were to be strengthened and 150 Navodaya Vidyalayas were to be set up during the year. The infrastructure sector was also given high priority in keeping with the objective and strategy of Seventh Plan. The outlay on key sectors like coal, power, petroleum, road transport, civil aviation, railways and telecommunications was stepped up to Rs. 12,632 crores, about 12.0 per cent higher than Rs. 11,311 crores in 1986-87 (B.E.) and accounting for over 50.0 per cent of the Central Plan outlay for 1987-88.

6.47 It may be pointed out that due to the shortfall in the internal and extra-budgetary resources to be generated by the public enterprises, the step-up in Central Plan outlay for 1987-88 required larger budgetary support. As against 47 per cent of budgetary support envisaged in the Seventh Plan, the support was 61 per cent in 1987-88, 63 per cent in 1986-87, and 66 per cent in 1985-86.

Saving and Capital Formation

6.48 The pressure on Central budget which has been building up for some time, got accentuated in recent years, with the result that savings of the Central Government which used to be positive, turned negative for the first time in 1984-85. Since then, the deterioration has continued and savings touched a negative figure of Rs. 3,710 crores in 1987-88 compared with the negative figure of Rs. 2,099 crores in 1986-87 (B.E.). Gross capital formation out of budgetary resources of the Central Government which had shown, on an average, an increase of 18.9 per cent per year during 1981-82 to 1985-86, witnessed considerable deceleration in 1986-87, when the increase was only 13.8 per cent (Table 6.4). In the current year, too, the increase in gross capital formation is estimated to be a bare 1.3 per cent over 1986-87 (R.E). and 4.9 per cent over 1986-87 (B.E). The gap between gross capital formation and gross savings of Central Government widened further to Rs. 28,462 crores from Rs. 26,603 crores in 1986-87 (R.E.) and was to be financed to the extent of 69.0 per cent through draft on domestic capital receipts and 11.0 per cent through draft on foreign savings leaving the balance to be covered through budgetary deficit.

Finances of States and Union Territories

6.49 The budgets of all the States and Union Territories for 1987-88 taken together put their aggregate expenditures at Rs. 53,239 crores, which was 16.8 per cent higher than the budget estimates of Rs. 45,563 crores and 10.4 per cent higher than the revised estimates of Rs. 48,228 crores in 1986-87. The current revenues were estimated at Rs. 41,489 crores, 16.7 per cent and 13.4 per cent higher than the budget estimates and revised estimates respectively in 1986-87. Their own tax revenues were projected to grow by 19.2 per cent, while their share in Central taxes was estimated to go up by 17.2 per cent over 1986-87 (B.E.). Non-tax revenues and grants from Centre were estimated to grow by 11.5 per cent and 13.5 per cent respectively. The overall budgetary deficit was placed at Rs. 559 crores as against Rs. 327 crores and Rs. 999 crores in the budget estimates and revised estimates of last year.

6.50 The break-up of aggregate expenditure of States and Union Territories show that development expenditure was to rise to Rs. 38,819 crores from the budget estimates of Rs. 33,261 crores last year; an increase of 16.7 per cent. On the other hand, non-development expenditure was to increase by 17.2 per cent to Rs. 14,420 crores from last year's budget estimates of Rs. 12,302 crores. The proportion of development expenditure to aggregate expenditure thus remained at about the level of 73 per cent in both the years.

6.51 The gap between current revenues and aggregate expenditures of the States and Union Territories was estimated at Rs. 11,750 crores, over 17.4 per cent higher than Rs. 10,011 crores in 1986-87 (B.E.). A little over 95 per cent of the gap was to be financed by capital receipts, about half of which were to be loans (net) from the Centre.

Centre and State Governments—Combined

6.52 Aggregate receipts of the Centre, the States, and the Union Territories taken together were budgeted to rise by 15.6 per cent to Rs. 1,03,141 crores in 1987-88 from Rs. 89,216 crores in 1986-87 (B.E.). Tax receipts were projected to increase by 19.5 per cent while non-tax revenues, including internal resources of public sector undertakings for their plans, were expected to move up by 17.6 per cent over 1986-87 (B.E.). Total expenditures were estimated to increase by 17.3 per cent from Rs. 93,246 crores in 1986-87 (B.E.) to Rs. 1,09,388 crores in 1987-88. Developmental expenditures were expected to rise by 12.9 per cent and non-developmental expenditures by a larger 25.1 per cent. As a consequence, the proportion of developmental expenditure to total expenditure slipped down to 61.6 per cent, from 64.0 per cent in 1986-87 (B.E.) and 63.6 per cent in 1986-87 (R.E.). The gap between total expenditure and current revenue estimated at Rs. 30,517 crores in 1986-87 (B.E.) was to widen by 13.8 per cent and was to be financed to the extent of 73.0 per cent from domestic capital receipts and 9.0 per cent from external receipts, leaving a balance of 18.0 per cent to be met through budgetary deficit.

Annual Plan 1987-88

6.53 The aggregate outlay for the Centre, the States and the Union Territories was stepped up by 14.5 per cent to Rs. 44,698 crores (Table 6.5) from the outlay of Rs. 39,052 crores for 1986-87 (B.E.). The allocation for the Central Plan was Rs. 25,042 crores and was 12.3 per cent higher than Rs. 22,300 crores in 1986-87 (B.E.). The allocation for the State and Union Territory Plans was Rs. 19,657 crores, which represented an increase of 17.3 per cent over that of Rs. 16,752 crores in 1986-87 (B.E.).

6.54 The pattern of financing indicated that domestic resources would finance 79.0 per cent of the plan outlay for 1987-88 and net inflow from abroad would contribute another 8.3 per cent. The remaining 12.7 per cent was expected to be met through budgetary deficit. The contribution of the balance from current revenues at 1984-85 rates of taxation was expected to be a negative figure (Rs. 1,599 crores), but the contribution of public enterprises was estimated at Rs. 5,242 crores at 1984-85 level of fares, freight rates, tariff and product prices. Additional resource mobilisation measures taken by the Central and State Governments and their enterprises in 1985-86 and 1986-87 and proposed to be taken in 1987-88 were to contribute Rs. 8,323 crores. The other sources of financing were to be : market borrowings (Rs. 8,371 crores), small savings (Rs. 5,400 crores), public sector bonds (Rs. 2,001 crores), provident funds (Rs. 1,689 crores), term loans from financial institutions (Rs. 952 crores), and miscellaneous capital receipts (Rs. 5,343 crores).

Post-Budget Developments

Supplementary Demands for Grants

6.55 Two supplementary demands for grants have so far been presented to the Parliament in August and November, 1987. The first supplementary demand for grants involved a gross expenditure, plan and non-plan, of Rs. 688 crores and, although the whole of it was to be matched by corresponding savings/improvement in receipts by concerned Ministries and Departments, only Rs. 291 crores were identified by that time. The main items of expenditure on the Plan side included additional foodgrains for drought relief (Rs. 176 crores), loans to shipping companies in respect of past commitments of Shipping Development Fund Committee (Rs. 122 crores), assistance to Punjab on account of natural calamities (Rs. 92 crores), special equipment for Bombay Off-shore project (Rs. 53 crores) and provision of drinking water to drought-hit areas (Rs. 50 crores).

6.56 The second supplementary demand for grants involved a gross expenditure of Rs. 1,780 crores. However, taking matching savings/increased receipts into account, the net additional expenditure was estimated at Rs. 1,381 crores, out of which Rs. 815 crores was related to drought and flood relief to be financed from the resources raised by the economy and additional resource measures recently undertaken. The balance of Rs. 565 crores mainly comprised of Rs. 300 crores for fertiliser subsidy, Rs. 182 crores for assistance to Punjab and Rs. 50 crores for subsidy to new industrial units in selected backward areas.

6.57 The performance of tax revenues, as revealed by the Centre's collections from major taxes during the period April-December 1987 has been fairly satisfactory. Total collections from major taxes compared favourably with the projected levels on pro-rata basis. Although the excise revenue lagged somewhat, the deficiency has been more than made up by higher collections from Customs duties and Income and Corporation Taxes.

Total . .	25723	22529	14.2	71.5 (70.4)

6.58 The experience of the Centre's tax collections in the drought years of 1972-73, 1979-80 and 1982-83 reveals that the Centre's total collections had been within 2 per cent (minus/plus) of budgeted levels in these years. This was owing to the relative insulation of industrial production from the effects of drought in the first half of the year, higher customs collections than the budgeted levels owing to larger imports, as well as special efforts made by the revenue administration. Although there has been a more severe and widespread drought this year, efforts have been stepped up to improve tax collections.

6.59 However, the total expenditure during the current year because of drought conditions, is anticipated to be substantially higher than the budgeted level. A package of measures aimed at economy in expenditure on one side, and mobilisation of additional resources through fiscal and other imposts on the other, has been taken during the course of the year. In September, the Government announced the following measures.

(i) A surcharge of 5 per cent for the assessment year 1988-89 on all income tax payers whose total income exceeds Rs. 50,000.

(ii) A similar surcharge on all corporate profits above Rs. 50,000 for a period of one year.

(iii) A surcharge of 10 per cent on wealth tax in regard to assessment year 1988-89.

(iv) A surcharge of 5 per cent ad valorem by way of increase in auxiliary duty of customs on all imports, except crude petroleum and items exempt from auxiliary duty, such as specified edible oils, fertilisers, life saving drugs, and some basic chemicals.

(v) A surcharge of 10 per cent on domestic air fares and on air-conditioned and first class railway fares.

The surcharge on railway fares was made effective from November 1, 1987. The surcharge on air fares has not yet been introduced because of certain procedural issues, which are under consideration.

6.60 During the current year, the additional yield from the above tax measures is estimated to be about Rs. 220 crores from direct taxes and Rs. 250 crores from indirect taxes. In designing these measures an attempt was made to ensure that the additional burden falls on the richer sections of society, which have the ability to pay, rather than on the poor or the middle income groups or on tiny and small scale units. No increase was made in case of excise or customs duties in respect of essential commodities so as to avoid any adverse impact on their prices.

6.61 To mobilize additional resources, a new 9% Relief Bond, 1987 was issued from December 1, 1987. Interest on these bonds would be exempt from income tax and these Bonds would be exempt from wealth tax provided these are owned from the date of subscription or for a period of at least six months ending with the relevant valuation date, whichever is shorter. Gift of the Bonds made by an initial subscriber will be exempt from Gift-Tax subject to a maximum of Rs. 5 lakhs in value in the aggregate in one or more years.

6.62 The information, intelligence, and enforcement measures have been pursued with vigour and were intensified to improve tax collections. To widen the coverage and to bring into the tax-net defaulter assessees as well as to detect tax evasion among those under-reporting their incomes, survey operations have been extended. The Directorate of Inspection, which was expanded, was put incharge of this function. During the period April-December 1987, 317,718 surveys were conducted bringing in 335,269 additional assessees compared to 99,456 surveys and 272,426 additional assessees in the corresponding period in the previous year. 6342 searches were conducted under the Income Tax Act during the period April—December, 1987. They were higher than the 5273 searches in the corresponding period of the previous year. The value of assets seized in those searches at Rs. 88.46 crores, also exceeded the value of assets seized in the last year, which were Rs. 73.05 crores. There has also been a substantial increase in the detection of the amount of excise duty evaded. This amounted to Rs. 1198 crores during January—December, 1987 against Rs. 540 crores in the corresponding period in the previous year. The drive against smuggling has also been continued with full vigour and the value of contraband goods seized was Rs. 205 crores during April—December, 1987, which compared favourably with Rs. 163 crores being the value of the seizures made in the corresponding period last year. 557 persons were detained under COFEPOSA between April—December, 1987 against 605 detained between April—December, 1986. The operation of Government's pre-emptive right to acquire immovable property has been extended to two more cities viz., Bangalore and Ahmedabad.

6.63 The structure of excise and customs duties has been reviewed during the post-Budget period in the light of emerging developments and the needs of the economy. Basic customs duty was reduced to 10 per cent on components for fuel-efficient two wheeled motor vehicles. Battery and electrically operated vehicles were provided relief on import duty (50 per cent reduced to 35 per cent) as well as on excise duty (10 per cent reduced to 5 per cent). To protect domestic production, the import duty on components for fork-lift trucks and earth-moving machinery was raised. Concessions in import duties were granted to aluminium ingots, copper items and plastic resins such as LDPE, HDPE, PVC and PP. In the interest of providing cheaper coking coal of low ash content to the steel industry, the concession of duty free import was extended for another year i.e. upto end June, 1988. To improve the supply of pulses, affected by the drought, the customs duty on pulses has been reduced from 25 per cent to 10 per cent. Export duty on coffee has been progressively reduced to Rs. 170 per quintal, in view of the fall in international prices.

6.64 As a follow up of the announcement made in the Budget Speech, a special programme for technological upgradation of selected capital goods industries has been launched by IDBI, and to provide fiscal support to the programme, a concessional customs duty of 35 per cent has been fixed for a large number of specified items of machinery and instruments imported under the scheme. To give further filip to the electronics and computer industry a uniform customs duty of 60 per cent has been fixed for all magnetic tapes, but to protect the interest of domestic industry the exemption from countervailing duty in case of magnetic tapes has been withdrawn. A concessional rate of duty has also been extended to a number of specified video soft-ware generation equipment. A few more items have also been added to the duty free list of life saving drugs and medicines.

6.65 The basic customs duty on DMT and PTA was reduced by Rs. 3 per kg. Further, excise duty has also been waived on Monoethylene Glycol (MEG) when used for the manufacture of polyester fibre or yarn. On the other hand, the excise duty has been increased by Rs. 2 per kg. in case of propylene staple fibre, tows and tops. In October, excise duty of 15 per cent on indigenously produced PTA has been withdrawn. Customs duty on import of N-paraffin, a raw material for manufacture of LAB has also been reduced. Excise duty has been substantially reduced in respect of nylon filament yarn used in the manufacture of nylon-cotton blended sarees under a programme approved by the Ministry of Textiles, to make sarees available at lower prices.

6.66 In order to increase the production of sugar, exemption from excise duty was allowed in respect of excess production of sugar during the period May 1, 1987 to June 30, 1987 and again for the period from October 1, 1987 to November 30, 1987 over the average level of production in the corresponding periods of the preceding three sugar years. Similarly, to augment the production of cement, new units (i.e. those having commenced production from January 1, 1982) whose production in the preceding month exceeded 2.5 per cent of the licensed capacity, have been allowed to avail a duty rebate in the particular month.

6.67 Certain modifications in the excise structure have been made as a measure of rationalisation. To promote the interest of small scale paper units, credit of excise duty on inputs e.g. paper and paper boards has been standardized at Rs. 800 per tonne or actual duty paid whichever is less. To avoid unintended benefit of the small scale excise concession scheme to certain manufacturers, the exemption available to small scale industries has, since October 1, 1987 been withdrawn for goods which are affixed with brand or trade name belonging to a company or person not otherwise eligible for small scale exemption. The benefit of MODVAT scheme in respect of aerated waters has been withdrawn from October 1, 1987.

6.68 Excise duty on molasses has been doubled to Rs. 60 per tonne and a scheme of grant of credit at the rate of Rs. 258 per kilo-litre for specified uses of ethyl alcohol under MODVAT has been introduced. Recently i.e. from October, 1987, the excise duty on black and white TV sets of size not exceeding 15 cms. has been prescribed at Rs. 200 per set, and effective rates have been fixed in respect of various combination sets of consumer electronic items which are generally used by the affluent sections.

Ninth Finance Commission

6.69 In pursuance of the provisions of article 280 of the Constitution of India and of the Finance Commission (Miscellaneous Provisions) Act, 1951, the Ninth Finance Commission was constituted on June 17, 1987 (Chairman : Shri N. K. P. Salve). The Commission has been charged with the duty of making recommendations as to :

- distribution between the Union and the States, and also the States inter se, of the net proceeds of Central taxes like income-tax (other than corporation tax) and Union excise duties, which are to be, or may be, divided between the Union and the States and
- the principles which should govern the grants-in-aid of the revenues of the States out of the Consolidated Fund of India.

The Commission will also determine and recommend the sums to be paid to the States, which are in need of assistance, by way of grants-in-aid of their revenues in pursuance of the substantive provision of article 275(1) of the Constitution.

6.70 In making its recommendations, the Commission has been requested to :

- adopt a normative approach in assessing the receipts and expenditures on the revenue account of the States and the Centre, and, in doing so, keep in view the special problems of each State, if any, and the special requirements of the Centre such as defence, security, debt servicing and other committed expenditure or liabilities;
- have due regard to the need for providing adequate incentives for better resource mobilisation and financial discipline as well as closer linking of expenditure and revenue-raising decisions;
- take into account the need for speed, efficiency and effectiveness of Government functioning and of delivery systems for Government programmes; and
- keep in view the objective of not only balancing the receipts and expenditure on revenue account of both the States and the Centre, but also generating surpluses for capital investment.

6.71 The Commission has also been requested to suggest changes, if any, to be made in the principles governing the distribution, among the States of (i) the net proceeds in any financial year of the additional duties of excise leviable under the Additional Duties of Excise (Goods of Special Importance) Act, 1957, and (ii) the grants to be made available to the States in lieu of the tax under the repealed Railway Passenger Fares Tax Act, 1957.

6.72 The Commission while making its recommendations on the various matters aforesaid, has to adopt the population figures of 1971 in all cases where population is regarded as a factor for determination of devolution of taxes and duties and grants-in-aid.

6.73 The Order constituting the Commission also provides that :

- the Commission may examine the feasibility of the merger of additional duties of excise in lieu of sale tax with basic duties of excise and evolve a suitable formula for allocating a part of the duties of excise in respect of the goods described in column (3) of the First Schedule to the Additional Duties of Excise (Goods of Special Importance) Act, 1957, for distribution among the States, in lieu of sales tax;
- the Commission may make an assessment of the debt position of the States as on 31st March, 1989, and suggest corrective measures as deemed necessary keeping in view the financial requirements of the Centre; and the Commission may review the policy and arrangement in regard to the financing of relief expenditure by the States affected by natural calamities, and suggest modifications as it considers appropriate, in the existing arrangements, having regard, among other considerations, to the need for avoidance of wasteful expenditures. In this connection, the Commission is being asked to examine, inter alia, the feasibility of establishing a national insurance fund to which the State Governments may contribute a percentage of their revenue receipts.

6.74 With a view to making the recommendations of the Commission co-terminus with the five year plans, the Commission has been requested to make two reports, the first report covering a period of one year viz., 1989-90, by the end of June, 1988, and the second report covering a period of five years of the Eighth Plan, viz. 1990—95, by the end of June, 1989.

The Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987

6.75 In August, 1986, a Discussion Paper on simplification and rationalisation of direct tax laws was placed before parliament. Following the consideration of suggestions made in this paper, the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Bill, 1987 was introduced in parliament in December, 1987, and received the President's assent in January, 1988.

6.76 An important feature of the Act is to shift from the concept of assessment of income to the concept of determination of additional tax or refund, as the case may be. In view of the amendments, no assessment order will generally be required to be passed once acknowledgement of the return of income is issued. To ensure that income earned during the same period by the same category of tax payers is subjected to tax at the same rate, the concept of a uniform accounting year, corresponding to the financial year, has been introduced.

6.77 The Act, inter alia, does away with the large number of artificial deductions on the one hand, while providing for revisions in existing ceilings on allowances of various categories of business expenditure, such as remuneration paid to directors and employees of companies and bonus payments. To provide an effective deterrent to evasion and also to increase the cost of avoidance, it provides for the imposition of a mandatory additional tax upto 30 per cent of the concealed income. It also provides for distincentives against formation of trusts and associations of persons, for the purpose of tax avoidance. However, the interest of smaller associations of persons has been protected. The earlier provisions which gave the assessing authorities discretionary powers to levy penalties as well as interest for the same default, have been replaced by a system of mandatory interest. It also provides for the extension of tax concessions to mutual funds by exempting the income and the capital gains of such funds from income and wealth tax subject to certain conditions, and also allows the investors the benefit of deduction under Income Tax and Wealth Tax Acts within the existing limits.

6.78 As some provisions of the Act have generated considerable concern, suggestions for further amendment are being examined by Government.

Study Group on Taxation of Expenditure

6.79 The Study Group on Taxation of Expenditure was constituted in December, 1985 under the Chairmanship of Dr. Raja J. Chelliah, Member, Planning Commission. The Study Group submitted its final report to the Government in April, 1987. The report concluded that, while restructuring the direct tax system on the basis of the expenditure tax principle could be advantageous in several ways, an expenditure tax proper would face insurmountable administrative problems and cause great hardships to the average taxpayer. According to the report, the next best alternative would be to retain formally the income tax structure and introduce into it the expenditure tax principle to the extent possible, subject to requirements of revenue. From this vantage point, the report examines the existing scheme of incentives to savings in the Income Tax Act.

6.80 The Study Group has observed that a basic guiding principle for the scheme of savings incentives should be to encourage and reward only net savings as far as possible, that is, if an investment or deposit (saving) is exempt, the disinvestment or withdrawal (dissaving) must be made subject to tax. Another principle guilding the Group's recommendations is that if tax deduction is allowed for making an investment, then the income from the same investment should not also be exempt. More broadly, the Group also recommended that variations in the net rates of return on the saving instruments covered by tax incentive schemes should be reduced to the minimum, having regard to such relevant factors as maturity period and the riskiness of the investment. The Study Group report was discussed in the Parliamentary Consultative Committee of the Ministry of Finance. Consistent with the paramount need to maintain the tempo of small savings, the Study Group's report is being kept in view in formulating policy.

Central Government Departmental Enterprises

Railways

6.81 The year 1986-87 witnessed an intensification of the 'traffic effort' on the part of railways to improve their financial performance. Due largely to this effort, as well as increases in freight and parcel rates with effect from December 1, 1986, it was possible for the railways to end up with a small net surplus of Rs. 11 crores, despite a substantial increase in wage bill (Rs. 563 crores) arising from the implementation of the recommendation of the Fourth Pay Commission. It was notable that the railways, without any appreciable increase in the coaching fleet, managed to introduce additional train facilities through improved utilisation by adopting various measures, like rationalising the rake links, minimising the lie-over period, decreasing the vehicle ineffectives, increasing the periodic overhaul output and establishing computerised coaching cabinets. The Net Tonne Kilometres per wagon per day (B.G.), which is the general efficiency indicator, touched an all time high of 1,321 during April—December, 1986 compared to 1,255 recorded in the same period of 1985.

6.82 The Budget Estimates for Railways for 1987-88, envisaged a net surplus of Rs. 69 crores, after discharging the full dividend obligation of Rs. 652 crores. A target of total freight transport output of 223 billion net tonne kilometres was set for the year. This target would mean an originating tonnage of 313 million tonnes of which 287 million tonnes would be revenue earning. Other traffic, including coaching traffic in terms of passengers, luggage and parcels, was projected to go up by about 3 per cent over the 1986-87 level. On these assumptions and at the existing fare and freight rates, gross traffic receipts were estimated to rise by 9.0 per cent over the revised estimates for 1986-87. The ordinary working expenses were estimated to increase by 6.6 per cent, owing to enhancement in amount required for staff increments, payment of dearness allowance and for fuel and maintenance related to proposed increase in activity. The contribution for Depreciation Reserve Fund was augmented by Rs. 100 crores to Rs. 1350 crores. The contribution to Pension Fund was, likewise, raised by Rs. 100 crores to Rs. 450 crores to meet the increasing quantum of withdrawals from the Fund due to liberalisation in pensionary benefits and the increase in number of pensioners.

6.83 It was noteworthy that the entire increase in gross traffic receipts during 1987-88 was projected to flow from intensification of traffic effort. The railways did not propose any increase in passenger fares and freight and parcel rates. On the other hand, concessions were allowed to the deserving sections of society such as the handicapped, the war widows, and the drought and flood affected (for fodder movements).

6.84 The Railways Plan for 1987-88 envisaged an outlay of Rs. 2,980 crores compared with Rs. 2,675 crores in 1986-87. The Plan outlay was to be financed to the extent of 41.3 per cent from the general budget. Another 48.6 per cent would come from railway's own internal resources and the remaining 10.1 per cent (Rs. 300 crores) from market borrowings. The railway's own contribution to their plan has shown continuous improvement from 25.0 per cent in Fifth Plan to 42.0 per cent in Sixth Plan and 50.0 per cent, on an average, in the first three years of the Seventh Plan. Railways continued to accord priority to rehabilitation and modernisation programme, keeping in view the need for a quantum jump in technology upgradation.

6.85 It may be noted that subsequent to the presentation of railway budget, the Planning Commission revised upwards the 1987-88 Plan outlay of railways by Rs. 420 crores to Rs. 3,400 crores. The plan outlay was, however, pruned by Rs. 100 crores to Rs. 3,300 crores as a part of effecting savings for drought relief.

Posts and Telecommunications

6.86 The gross receipts of Posts and Telecommunications amounted to Rs. 1,850 crores in the revised estimates of 1986-87, Rs. 70 crores less than in the budget estimates. At the same time, their net working expenses registered an increase of Rs. 223 crores to Rs. 1,901 crores, largely on account of the impact of the Fourth Pay Commission's recommendations. The dividend liability to General Revenues also moved upto Rs. 213 crores as against the budget estimates of Rs. 192 crores. The net outcome of these transactions was that there emerged a deficit of Rs. 264 crores as against a surplus of Rs. 50 crores in the budget estimates of 1986-87. The deficit arose on account of the widening of postal losses to Rs. 335 crores from Rs. 224 crores in the budget estimates, and the shrinking of surplus of telecommunications to Rs. 71 crores from Rs. 274 crores in the budget estimates.

Central Government Public Enterprises

6.87 The financial performance of Centre's public enterprises, as a whole, showed substantial improvement during 1986-87. The overall net profits of these enterprises touched an all time high figure of

Rs. 1,769 crores, showing an increase of about 51 per cent over the net profit of Rs. 1,172 crores during 1985-86 (Table 6.6). It was gratifying to note that while pre-tax profits earned by the profit-making enterprises had shown marked improvement from Rs. 3,857 crores to Rs. 4,804 crores, the total loss incurred by loss-making enterprises increased only marginally to Rs. 1,710 crores from Rs. 1,684 crores in 1985-86. During 1985-86, the losses of the loss-making units had widened by as much as 49 per cent from Rs. 1,112 crores in 1984-85. The ratio of gross profit to capital employed increased marginally from 12.3 per cent to 12.5 per cent. As in the past, the petroleum group of companies provided the bulk of the increase in net profits of Centre's public enterprises in 1986-87.

6.88 Along with the improvement in overall net profits of Centre's public enterprises in 1986-87, there was an increase of 19.6 per cent in gross margin (that is, profit before depreciation, interest and tax). In absolute terms, gross margin increased to Rs. 9,894 crores from Rs. 8,270 crores in 1985-86. Net internal resource generation also improved to Rs. 5,213 crores from Rs. 4,259 crores. Investment at the same time recorded an increase of Rs. 11,923 crores over the level of Rs. 45,479 crores in 1985-86.

6.89 At the sectoral level, out of 21 groups, as many as 11 had shown improvement by either increasing their profits or reducing their losses. As in the previous years, the petroleum sector provided the bulk of the net profits. The profits of this sector rose to Rs. 2,142 crores from Rs. 1,651 crores in 1985-86. Among the other sectors showing improved performance during 1986-87, the notable ones were minerals and metals, coal, power and telecommunication services. The top ten profit making enterprises included Oil and Natural Gas Commission, Indian Oil Corporation, National Thermal Power Corpn. Ltd., Bharat Heavy Electricals Ltd., Mahanagar Telephone Nigam Ltd. and Videsh Sanchar Nigam Ltd. In all, 10 sectors had shown deterioration in their financial performance during the period. The major ones were steel, textiles and contract and construction services. The top ten loss-making enterprises included Delhi Transport Corporation, Eastern Coalfields Ltd., The Fertilizer Corporation of India Ltd., Bharat Coking Coal Ltd., Hindustan Fertiliser Corporation Ltd. and the Indian Iron & Steel Co. Ltd.

6.90 The provisional data for the first half of the current financial year show net profits of Rs. 60 crores against net profits of Rs. 233 crores in the first half of the previous year. The disaggregated analysis of performance reveals a drop in the number of profit-making enterprises to 78 from 84 in the comparable period of the previous year. The net profits of profit-making enterprises show a marked improvement from Rs. 1,260 crores to Rs. 1,475 crores. The improved profits have, however, been more than offset by the increase in net losses of loss-making units from Rs. 1,027 crores to Rs. 1,415 crores.

State Governments' Commercial Undertakings

6.91 Among the departmentally run undertakings of States and Union Territories, only forests and mines and minerals have been showing net surplus while all the others have been incurring losses for quite sometime. These losses were to widen further during 1987-88. The largest amount of loss was anticipated in the case of commercial irrigation and multipurpose river projects—Rs. 1,272 crores as against Rs. 1,054 crores in 1986-87 (RE). The losses in respect of departmentally run power projects were estimated to be Rs. 51 crores as against Rs. 60 crores in the revised estimates of 1986-87. The combined losses of road and water transport services and dairy development were anticipated at Rs. 43 crores, somewhat lower than Rs. 50 crores in the revised estimates of the previous year. The losses in respect of industry were to be slightly higher (Rs. 13.7 crores) than in last year (Rs. 12.7 crores). Among the major surplus generating sectors, forest was expected to contribute Rs. 522 crores, about 9.0 per cent more than Rs. 480 crores in 1986-87 (RE). The net contribution of mines and minerals was, however, estimated to be Rs. 29 crores, lower than Rs. 36 crores in the previous year.

6.92 The dividends and profits from non-departmental undertakings of the States and Union Territories worked out at only Rs. 22.0 crores, on an average in the five years, 1981-82 to 1985-86. The revised estimates of 1986-87 showed improvement in dividends and profits to Rs. 76 crores and further improvement to Rs. 87 crores was expected in 1987-88. However, the two major non-departmental undertakings viz., the State Electricity Boards (SEBs) and the State Road Transport Corporations (SRTCs) continued to incur substantial losses in their operations. Contrary to expectations, the losses of the EEBs at current rates mounted to Rs. 1,546 crores in the revised estimates in 1986-87 as against Rs. 1,260 crores in the Annual Plan estimates of that year. The position was assumed to remain unchanged in 1987-88 and the losses were estimated at Rs. 1,583 crores (Annual Plan estimates). It may be recalled that as per the Seventh Plan document, the commercial losses of SEBs were projected at Rs. 4,757 crores including Rs. 7,000 crores of additional resource mobilisation for the entire Plan period. However, the actual and anticipated losses of SEBs in the first-three years of the Seventh Plan at Rs. 4,708 crores have almost touched the amount provided for the five year period of the Plan. However, in terms of the rate of return on capital (after depreciation and interest), which is also negative, there has been some improvement in that this negative ratio has declined from (—) 11.1 per per cent in 1985-86 to (—) 9.3 per cent in 1986-87 (R.E) and further to (—) 8.1 per cent in 1987-88. In this context, it may be recalled that the Electricity (Supply) Act, 1948, as amended in 1985, enjoins the SEBs to earn a return of not less than 3.0 per cent by way of net surplus after providing for depreciation and interest. An important factor contributing to the high level of commercial losses is the requirement for the Boards to supply electricity to rural/agricultural sector at low average tariff rates. The performance of SRTCs, the other major non-departmental undertakings, was no better. Their commercial losses turned out to be Rs. 198 crores in 1986-87 (latest estimates), a marginal improvement against the loss of Rs. 226 crores in 1985-86. The losses were expected to be somewhat lower at Rs.144 crores in 1987-88. Their rate of return on block capital was a negative 12.0 per cent in 1985-86 and a negative 9.1 per cent in 1986-87. It may be noted that during the Seventh Plan period as a whole, it was estimated that the SRTCs would incur a loss of Rs. 1,434 crores at 1984-85 rates of fares. At the same time, they were expected to raise additional revenue of about Rs. 2,200 crores, after allowing for cost over-runs. On the whole the SRTCs were required not only to wipe out their losses but also to make a positive contribution of Rs. 766 crores.

MONETARY AND CREDIT DEVELOPMENTS

A striking feature of monetary developments during the year has been the deceleration in the growth in money supply despite pressure on Government expenditure. The expansion in net Bank Credit to Government has also been slower than in the previous year. The sharp reduction in food credit pari passu with a large drawdown in foodgrains stocks provided room for expansion of other credit without affecting the overall monetary balance.

7.2 Early in the current year, the Statutory Liquidity Ratio (SLR) was raised from 37 to 37.5 per cent, effective from April 25, 1987, to facilitate the financing of plan expenditure without excessive creation of reserve money. Following the advent of drought, and as part of the overall strategy of aggregate demand management, the Cash Reserve Ratio (CRR) was raised from 9.5 per cent to 10 per cent effective from October 24, 1987. The SLR was also increased from 37.5 per cent to 38 per cent, effective January 2, 1988. While selective credit controls had been relaxed early in the financial year in view of positive price-output development, they were reimposed/tightened between July and October, 1987 in the case of oilseeds, vegetable oils, paddy/rice, "other foodgrains" (except wheat), cotton and kapas to combat inflationary pressures in sensitive commodities.

7.3 In July, 1987, the Credit Authorisation Scheme (CAS) was liberalized to allow for greater access to credit to meet genuine demands in production sectors without the prior sanction of the Reserve Bank. Banks were also advised to extend liberal credit facility to drought-affected farmers for second sowing or fodder cultivation as also facilities for credit rescheduling with a view to enabling them to prepare for rabi cultivation. The higher export credit refinance limits were also made available in the current year, as the base for determining export credit limit was not brought forward.

7.4 The most noteworthy feature in the evolution of sectoral credit patterns during the year was the sharp decline in food credit (by 38.9 per cent upto January 15, 1988) reflecting the policy of drawing down food stocks to augment supplies through the Public Distribution System. During this period non-food commercial credit increased by Rs. 5,944 crores as compared to Rs. 5,180 crores in the same period of 1986-87. These trends reflected the concern of monetary authorities to meet genuine credit needs of production and trade through appropriate expansion in non-food bank credit.

7.5 Effective April 1, 1987, important changes were made in the structure of interest rates of banks and postal deposits, bank credit as well as on other major financial instruments. The objectives guiding these changes were to reduce the overall cost of money in the economy and impart greater flexibility to interest rate policy.

7.6 The Working Group on Money Market, which was set up last year by the Reserve Bank to examine the possibilities of enlarging the scope of the money market and recommend specific measures for evolving other suitable money market instruments, submitted its report on January 13, 1987. The Reserve Bank has taken action to implement some of the major recommendations of the Group.

Monetary Trends during 1986-87

7.7 During 1986-87 both narrow money (M_1) and broad money (M_3) recorded faster growth than in 1985-86 (on 31st March basis). While the increase in M_1 was of the order of 16.8 per cent as compared to the increase of 10.5 per cent in 1985-86, the acceleration in the growth of M_3 was comparatively modest, from 15.9 per cent in 1985-86 to 18.6 per cent in 1986-87. The growth rate of time deposits was about the same (19.4 per cent and 19.6 per cent in the two respective periods). Among other components of M_3, currency with the public expanded by 13.3 per cent as against 10.5 per cent in the preceding year, but the growth in demand deposits was fairly substantial at 21.7 per cent as compared with the modest growth of 12.6 per cent recorded in 1985-86.

7.8 Among the sources of change in M_3, the sizeable expansion in net bank credit to Government was the leading contributory factor behind the acceleration in the growth rate of M_3 in 1986-87. Net Bank Credit to Government grew by Rs. 13,699 crores (23.5 per cent) as compared to an increase of Rs. 8,093 crores (16.1 per cent) in 1985-86, both on account of the increase in net RBI credit as well as other banks' credit to Government. In this context, it may be noted that more attractive coupon rate on Government securities, and stricter enforcement of SLR requirements on a daily basis by banks resulted in the sharp rise in banks' holdings of Government securities during 1986-87. As regards the net Reserve Bank credit to Central Government, the increase of Rs. 7,091 crores in 1986-87 was much larger than the increase of Rs. 4,561 crores (excluding Rs. 1,628 crores of medium-term loans given to States to clear their overdrafts with the RBI) recorded in 1985-86, mainly reflecting the sharp increase in the Centre's budgetary deficit in that year. As regards States, the net RBI credit to them expanded by Rs. 516 crores in 1986-87, which was in sharp contrast to a decline of Rs. 119 crores in the preceding year. Adjusted for Rs. 1,628 crores of medium-term loan given by the Centre to the States to clear their over-drafts with the RBI, the decline in net RBI credit to State Governments in 1985-86 was Rs. 1,747 crores. The increase in net foreign exchange assets of the banking sector was somewhat larger in absolute terms at Rs. 881 crores (22.8 per cent) as compared to the increase of Rs. 737 crores (23.5 per cent) in 1985-86. The growth rate in bank credit to the commercial sector decelerated to 14.4 per cent (Rs. 11,926 crores) from 16.7 per cent (Rs. 11,850 crores) in 1985-86.

NOTES : 1. Figures may not add up to totals because of rounding.

2. Figures in brackets are percentage variations.

3. Reserve Bank data are on the basis of closure of Government Accounts.

7.9 The scheduled commercial banks' data show that their aggregate deposits had risen by 20.1 per cent in 1986-87, which was 2 percentage points more than the increase of 18.1 per cent recorded in 1985-86. This was due to a marked acceleration in the growth of demand deposits in 1986-87 to 22.6 per cent from 12.2 per cent in 1985-86. The growth in time deposits, however, remained unchanged at 19.5 per cent. The rate of expansion in gross bank credit, on the other hand, decelerated to 13.5 per cent from 16 per cent in 1985-86, the main reason being a return flow of food credit of Rs. 1,295 crores into the banking system, following the grant of a loan of Rs. 1,200 crores by the Central Government to the Food Corporation of India (FCI) for the maintenance of buffer stocks of foodgrains. Non-food credit, however, increased by 17.6 per cent in 1986-87 which was marginally higher than the increase of 17.4 per cent recorded in the preceding year.

7.10 In the current year so far, (i.e. upto January 15, 1988) the growth in broad money (M_3) has been slightly lower (14.5 per cent) than the growth of 15.7

per cent in the corresponding period of 1986-87, though in absolute terms the expansion was larger. Component-wise, currency with the public rose at a higher rate of 14.0 per cent as against a rise of 10.2 per cent in 1986-87. On the other hand, time deposits recorded a growth rate of 16.9 per cent, which was somewhat lower than the increase of 18.1 per cent in 1986-87 (upto January 16, 1987). As regards demand deposits, there was a steep deceleration in its growth during the current financial year so far, the growth rate working out to only 6.0 per cent as against 14.3 per cent in the comparable period of 1986-87. The deceleration in the growth rate of demand deposits is apparently due to portfolio management being resorted to by the banks in the form of providing buy-back arrangements to the holders of Government securities.

7.11 The main factor responsible for a slightly lower rate of expansion in M_3 this year so far (upto January 15, 1988) is the relatively modest growth of 16.6 per cent (Rs. 11,991 crores) in net bank credit to Government against the increase of 22.0 per cent (Rs. 12,852 crores) in the corresponding period of 1986-87. The other factor moderating growth of M_3 in 1987-88, so far, has been the slower increase in bank credit to the commercial sector (7.1 per cent as against 8.4 per cent in 1986-87), due in large part to the sharp decline in food credit, resulting from the draw-down in food-stocks. However, the decline in net foreign exchange assets this year has so far been lower at Rs. 59 crores, as against the decline of Rs. 111 crores in the corresponding period of 1986-87. In other words, the moderating effect of declining foreign assets on M_3 growth has been lower this year so far relative to the same period of the previous year.

7.12 The lower increase in net bank credit to Government this year so far has been due to a comparatively smaller expansion in both the net Reserve Bank credit and other banks' credit to Government. The expansion in net RBI credit at Rs. 6,761 crores so far compares favourably with that of Rs. 6,997 crores between March 31, 1986 and January 16,1987. The increase in other banks' credit to Government was much lower at Rs. 5,230 crores in relation to the increase of Rs. 5,855 crores in 1986-87. While State Governments paid back to the Reserve Bank Rs. 792 crores of credit during March 31, 1987 and January 15, 1988, the Centre's indebtedness to Reserve Bank increased by Rs. 7,553 crores, which was marginally higher than the increase of Rs. 7,472 crores in the same period of 1986-87.

7.13 Selected indicators pertaining to scheduled commercial banks' financial operations are presented in Table 7.2. Their aggregate deposits have grown by 15.0 per cent between March 31, 1987 and January 15, 1988 as against 18.3 per cent in the comparable period of 1986-87. This lower rate of expansion in aggregate deposits is basically due to the substantially smaller rise of 5.4 per cent in demand deposits in the current year as against 15.4 per cent in the last year (upto January 16, 1987). Time deposits have also shown a lower expansion of 17.2 per cent this year as compared to 18.9 per cent last year. Total bank credit has also recorded a modest growth of 6.4 per cent relative to the growth of 8.0 per cent recorded in the same period last year. Because of the severe drought conditions this year, food procurement has been lower and the release of food stocks through the Public Distribution System has been stepped up, resulting in a sharp decline of Rs. 1,791 crores in food credit between March 31, 1987 and January 15, 1988, as compared to a decline of Rs. 596 crores in the same p ' d last year. The rate of expansion in non-food credit has also been a shade lower at 9.9 per cent in the current year so far, compared to the rise of 10.1 per cent in the same period of 1986-87 though there was a small rise in absolute terms.

7.14 As a result of relatively lower growth in bank credit, the credit-deposit ratio on January 15, 1988 has declined to 58.2 per cent from 60.8 per cent prevailing a year ago. The non-food credit-deposit ratio remains unchanged at around 56 per cent. Investment-deposit ratio has increased from 37.8 per cent to 39.0 per cent during this period.

Reserve Money

7.15 According to the Chakravarty Committee, a fairly stable and strong relationship is found between the reserve money and the money stock (M_3), especially if reserve money is adjusted for changes in cash-reserve ratio. Net RBI credit to Government, which is the most important source of reserve money and which is basically influenced by the budgetary deficit of the Central and State Governments constituted 83 per cent of the total reserve money at the end of March 1971. It has been almost continuously rising since then and as on 31st March 1987, the ratio stood at 103.3 per cent.

7.16 Reserve money recorded a rise of 17.4 per cent in 1986-87 (on 31st March basis) as against the increase of only 8.4 per cent in 1985-86. Source-wise, a larger expansion in net RBI credit to Government in 1986-87 (Rs. 7,607 crores) than in 1985-86 (Rs. 4,442 crores) was the main contributory factor to the higher growth in reserve money. Movements in RBI credit to banks also aggravated the growth in reserve money. In sharp contrast to a decline of Rs. 712 crores in 1985-86, RBI credit to banks recorded an increase of Rs. 298 crores in 1986-87. Component-wise, a large growth in currency held by the public (13.3 per cent increase in 1986-87, as against 10.5 per cent in 1985-86), as well as in the banks' deposits with the Reserve Bank (28.5 per cent and 5.6 per cent increase in the two periods respectively) mainly explain the faster growth in reserve money in 1986-87.

7.17 In the current year so far (i.e. between March 31, 1987 and January 15, 1988), reserve money has recorded a faster growth of 17.2 per cent compared to 14.3 per cent increase in the same period last year. Among the main factors contributing to this higher growth are : (i) expansion in RBI credit to banks in sharp contrast to a substantial decline in the same period last year; (ii) a lower decline in RBI's foreign exchange assets in comparison with last year; and (iii) a negligible growth in the non-monetary liabilities of RBI (0.7 per cent as against 14.3 per cent last year). However, the net RBI credit to Government in the current year so far has recorded an increase of 14.6 per cent (Rs. 6,761 crores) which is lower than the increase of 18.1 per cent (Rs. 6,997 crores) in the corresponding period of 1986-87.

Trends in Sectoral Deployment of Credit

7.18 Apart from regulating the overall level of credit in the economy, the objective of credit policy is to promote an effective use of credit and also to enlarge the spectrum of borrowers covered by bank credit keeping in view the national priorities laid down from time to time. One important criterion in this regard is the share of the priority sector in the total net bank credit at a given point of time. Table 7.4 presents the broad sectoral pattern of the incremental credit deployed by 50 scheduled commercial banks, which account for about 95 per cent of the total gross bank credit. The latest available data indicate that credit to priority sector, which constituted 40.8 per cent of the total net bank credit at the end of 1985-86 and had increased to 42.2 per cent by the end of 1986-87 moved up further to 44.0 per cent by end of September, 1987. This compares with the national target of 40 per cent. In 1986-87, the credit to the priority sector had risen by Rs. 3,493 crores, of which Rs. 1,530 crores (44 per cent) was accounted for by agriculture and Rs. 1,287 crores (36.8 per cent) by small scale industries. The other priority sectors, such as the weaker sections, small transport operators, rural artisans and self-employed persons claimed nearly a fifth of the increase in the total credit to the priority sector. A striking feature of the sectoral deployment of credit during 1986-87 was almost no growth in bank credit to the wholesale trade (other than food procurement), whereas a year earlier, this sector had recorded a growth of 15.7 per cent. The growth in bank credit to medium and large industries also decelerated from 16.8 per cent in 1985-86 to 15.7 per cent in 1986-87. However, the expansion in export credit was substantial (Rs. 737 crores) in 1986-87 as against the increase of Rs. 294 crores in 1984-85 and only Rs. 74 crores in 1985-86. It may be recalled that in 1986-87 uniform rates of interest on pre-shipment credit for all commodities for export came to replace the earlier varying rates according to commodities. As a measure for boosting exports, interest rates on export credit were lowered by 2.5 percentage points with effect from August 1, 1986. While the interest subsidy available to the banks was doubled from 1.5 per cent to 3 per cent, interest rate on Reserve Bank's export refinance was reduced from 10 to 9 per cent.

7.19 For the current year, the data for sectoral deployment of credit are available only upto September, 1987. Apart from the share of the priority sector, as stated earlier, registering an increase during this period another important feature was the continued expansion in export credit (11.0 per cent compared to 6.6 per cent in the first half year of 1986-87), which was in keeping with the policy objective of export promotion.

Developments in Credit Policy

7.20 Controlled monetary expansion continued to be the central theme of credit policy in the current year keeping in view the important role of money and credit in a developing economy such as ours. On the demand side, money supply creates liquid assets and generates demand for goods and services. Though there is no one to one correspondence between changes in money supply and the price level, it has been observed by the Chakravarty Committee that variations in money supply find reflection in the price level over a period of time, if expansion in money supply becomes disproportionate to real output growth. On the supply side, however, money plays an important role as credit (financial input) for production and if credit expansion is unduly restrained, it may have adverse consequences on production. Increasing monetisation of the economy also calls for some monetary and credit expansion.

7.21 The note of caution against the growth of excessive liquidity was struck at the beginning of the year when the Statutory Liquidity Ratio (SLR) was raised from 37 per cent to 37.5 per cent, effective from April 25, 1987. The upward revision in SLR was aimed at providing resources for public sector investment without excessive creation of reserve money. Earlier, effective from February 28, 1987, the Cash Reserve Ratio (CRR) on banks' net demand and time liabilities [excluding Foreign Currency (Non-Resident) (FCNR) Accounts and Non-Resident (External) (NRE) Rupee Accounts] had been raised from 9.0 per cent to 9.5 per cent. Moreover, the decision for release of the second instalment equivalent to Rs. 248 crores of impounded cash balances of scheduled commercial banks through incremental CRR between January 14, 1977 and October 31, 1980 was rescinded in March 1987. The CRR applicable on FCNR deposit liabilities was also raised from 3 per cent to 9.5 per cent, effective from May 23, 1987.

7.22 To impart flexibility in interest rate policy as also to reduce the cost of money, both lending and deposit rates were revised from April 1, 1987 (this is discussed in a separate Section elsewhere in this Chapter).

7.23 During the early part of the year, the process of rationalisation of selective credit controls was carried further and the minimum margins in respect of "other foodgrains", pulses, released stocks of sugar, gur and khandsari were reduced by 15 percentage points, effective from April 1, 1987. For commodities in respect of which there was a stipulation on the level of credit based on the three-year period 1981-82 to 1983-84 (November-October), the base was brought forward to 1982-83, 1983-84 and 1984-85, also from April 1, 1987.

7.24 After an exhaustive review of the Credit Authorisation Scheme (CAS), the Reserve Bank, in July 1987, decided that parties who broadly comply with the prescribed discipline should be treated differently from those who do not. Accordingly, banks were permitted to release the entire amount of additional limits sanctioned by their Board of Directors without prior approval of the Reserve Bank in respect of parties who comply with the requirements of CAS relating to (i) method of lending; (ii) information system; and (iii) inventory/receivable norms. Further, for parties who conform to the requirements (i) and (ii), banks will have the discretion of relaxing the norms upto 20 per cent of the standard norms/past trends and such cases also need not be referred to the Reserve Bank for prior approval of enhanced credit limits. These and other decisions are expected to reduce the number of CAS cases to be referred to the Reserve Bank by about 35 per cent. Where cases have still to be referred to the Reserve Bank, the existing limit for temporary accommodation by banks upto three months has been raised substantially, i.e., upto not exceeding 25 per cent of the existing packing credit limits and 10 per cent of the existing working capital (other than packing credit) limits, subject to an overall ceiling of Rs. 4 crores as against Rs. 2 crores hitherto. In addition to these discretionary powers, banks are permitted to sanction a separate additional inland bill limit for a period not exceeding 3 months upto an amount equivalent to 10 per cent of the existing bill limit, subject to a ceiling of Rs. 2 crores, as against Rs. 1 crore permitted since April 1, 1987.

7.25 Revised instructions were issued to banks for ensuring closer co-ordination between them and the financial institutions in dealing with sick industrial units with a view to expediting decisions on measures for their rehabilitation and their implementation.

Fresh guidelines were issued to strengthen lending under consortium arrangements which provide for automaticity about the selection of the lead bank under multiple financing arrangements and envisage a pivotal role to be played by the lead bank. While "Single Window Concept" which was initiated last year for rupee loans only, came to be extended to cover the opening of letters of credit for foreign currency loans as well, the matter of extending this concept for lending under consortium arrangements is being examined.

7.26 Following the drought in the current year, in August, 1987 the Reserve Bank advised the banks to provide financial assistance to the affected farmers/persons on a priority basis in order to enable them to undertake a second sowing, raise an alternative short duration crop or fodder cultivation. The banks were further advised to allow conversion of short-term loans into medium-term loans as also to reshedule investment credit in case of a complete loss of crops. In addition, banks were to provide loans for minor irrigation and setting up of fair price shops. The limit of consumption loans to small and marginal farmers and other weaker sections of the society was doubled from Rs. 250 to Rs. 500. The banks were also advised that in case a bank faces temporary resources constraint in extending assistance to affected persons, it may approach Reserve Bank of India for accommodation under the existing refinance facilities.

7.27 The banks were further advised in September, 1987 that in the case of farmers affected by drought for three or more years in sucession, they may defer, on merits of each case, recovery of the amounts falling due on account of principal and interest in the current year (July 1987-June 1988) for a period of 2 years or till the next normal year, whichever is earlier. Besides, banks should not charge penal interest in these cases nor should they compound the interest on dues postponed. Banks should also ensure that in the case of short-term loans the total interest payable by small and marginal farmers does not exceed the principal amount. Banks have also been advised that the lead bank machinery in the concerned districts should be activated and immediate meetings of the District Consultative Committee (DCC) should be held. The progress in implementing the action plan should be monitored closely by the standing committee by holding special mid-month meetings. This is to be reviewed by the DCC. In all the affected States, the nature of assistance to be extended to the affected persons would also be discussed on an urgent basis by the State Level Bankers Committee. Regional Managers of the banks have to pay special attention and oversee the performance of each of the branches under their control in rendering assistance on the basis of the agreed programme allotted to them. They should be able to visit all the bank branches in the affected areas and review the progress and provide necessary guidance.

7.28 In October, 1987 banks were advised to charge a rate of interest of 10 per cent on short-term loans upto Rs. 5,000 each in case of farmers who have suffered three or more consecutive droughts/floods and whose loans have been converted/rescheduled. This rate is applicable for each of the years converted/rescheduled in 1987-88 and to be repaid in future years as per the instalments fixed, within due dates.

7.29 After a review of price-output developments, selective credit controls on a number of sensitive commodities were tightened with a view to preventing the use of bank credit for speculative purposes. The minimum margins on bank advances against the stocks of oilseeds and vegetable oils (including vanaspati) were raised from July 15, 1987 and all advances against paddy/rice, and raw cotton and kapas which were exempted from selective credit controls, were brought under selective credit controls, effective from August 17, 1987. A minimum margin of 30 per cent was fixed for bank advances against paddy/rice in the case of mills/processing units and against warehouse receipts and 45 per cent in the case of 'others'. Margins on bank advances against all varieties of cotton and kapas were fixed at 30 per cent against warehouse receipts and 45 per cent in respect of 'others'. Mills, however, remained exempt from these controls. In addition to margin stipulations, credit ceilings were also imposed at the same time. Bank advances against oilseeds and vegetable oils were placed under a ceiling equivalent to 85 per cent (as against 100 per cent earlier) of the peak level of credit maintained by any party in any of the three years i.e., 1982-83, 1983-84 and 1984-85 (October-November). Similar ceiling for advances against paddy/rice and advances against cotton and kapas was fixed at 100 per cent. Banks were advised by the Reserve Bank in the third week of September, 1987 to exercise a greater caution while providing credit against turmeric and other condiments, like chillies. A further tightening of credit controls was effected in October, 1987 when the minimum margins in respect of paddy/rice, pulses and "other foodgrains" (excluding paddy/rice and wheat) were raised across the board by 15 percentage points. Cash credit to the sugar industry was limited to the last season's level, and the advances to wholesale and retail outlets under the fair price distribution system continued to be exempt from selective credit controls. Table 7.5 indicates the existing margins on advances against the commodities subject to selective credit controls.

7.30 The busy season credit policy for 1987-88 (announced on October 17, 1987) stressed the need for preventing excessive monetary expansion and for containing inflationary pressures, while at the same time fully meeting the credit requirements of agriculture, industry and exports. To achieve the former, the Cash Reserve Ratio (CRR) was raised from 9.5 per cent to 10 per cent of net demand and time liabilities with effect from October 24, 1987. The CRR in respect of NRE and FCNR Accounts was, however, unchanged. Banks which attain an overall CRR of 15 per cent (including the incremental CRR) are by law, not required to maintain a higher ratio.

7.31 In the field of export refinance, as a part of the busy season policy package it was decided not to bring forward the base for determining the level of such refinance. This means that the banks would continue to be provided refinance equivalent to 100 per cent of the increase in export credit over monthly average level of the year 1984. This implies that export refinance limits are Rs. 430 crores higher than the level of such limits if the base had been brought forward to the average monthly level of export credit for the year 1986.

7.32 An assessment of monetary and credit trends towards the end of 1987 revealed that there would continue to be some excess liquidity even after the seasonal credit requirements of the busy season are fully met. With a view to moderating the growth of liquidity without affecting the credit requirements necessary to support output, the SLR for scheduled commercial banks was raised from 37.5 per cent to 38 per cent on net demand and time liabilities, with effect from January 2, 1988. However, the SLR remained unchanged at 25 per cent for both Non-Resident (External) Rupee Accounts and Foreign Currency (Non-Resident) Accounts.

Structure of Interest Rates

7.33 While reviewing the level and structure of interest rates, the Chakravarty Committee had emphasised that in the present stage of development of the Indian money and capital markets, a fair degree of regulation of interest rates was required for an orderly mobilisation of financial savings for purposes of economic development as also for the viability of the operations of the banks. Even so, the Committee felt the need for modifications in the "administered" interest rate system so that the Government as a major borrower can raise substantial resources for plan investment in schemes/projects of rural development and infrastructural facilities with long gestation periods and the banks can also mobilise adequate financial savings from small savers, in particular, by offering them attractive real return on their deposits.

7.34 It may be recalled that in 1986-87 the interest rate structure was left untouched, except that in keeping with falling interest rates abroad, interest rates on Foreign Currency (Non-Resident) Accounts (FCNR) Accounts were reduced and that in order to promote exports, interest rates on both export credit and export refinance were revised downwards. In the current year, however, changes were made, effective from April 1, 1987 in the structure of interest rates with a view to reducing the cost of money and imparting flexibility to interest rate policy. The reduction in lending rates provided relief to many categories of borrowers for whom the interest rates had been raised sharply earlier. All lending rates of scheduled commercial banks prescribed at levels above 15 per cent were reduced by 1 percentage point, which will benefit agriculture, certain public sector procurement agencies and industry, including small industry. The maximum deposit rate was reduced from 11 per cent to 10 per cent and this was made applicable to deposits with a maturity of two years and above. Interest rate on deposits of one year and above but less than 2 years was consequently adjusted and raised from 8.5 per cent to 9.0 per cent. Thus, the shortening of the maturity structure should facilitate easier adjustment of bank interest rates in response to changing circumstances. Earlier, substantial deposits were for fixed three and five year terms, which introduced an element of rigidity in the structure of lending and deposit rates.

7.35 Changes were also made in the interest rates applicable to other financial instruments. The maximum interest rate payable on issues of convertible and non-convertible debentures, company deposits, and public sector bonds as well as the interest rates on National Savings Certificates were reduced by one percentage point. The maturity period of Indira Vikas Patra was extended to 5½ years from 5 years, implying thereby a reduction in yield from 14.9 per cent to 13.4 per cent per annum. In the case of Post Office Time Deposits, the reduction from 11.5 per cent to 11.0 per cent, was effected only in the case of five year deposits.

7.36 As regards FCNR Accounts, in line with the interest rate changes abroad the Reserve Bank effected changes from time to time-on April 7, May 25, October 12, November 30, 1987 and again on February 8, 1988. The interest rates on those deposits are kept at levels attractive for Non-Resident Indians to place deposits under the scheme. The interest rate on Non-Resident (External) Rupee (NRE) Accounts was revised only in respect of the maturity of 6 months and above but less than one year on October 12, 1987.

7.37 The comparative structure of interest rate for some important categories prior to and from April 1, 1987 is given in Table 7.6.

enlarging the scope of the money market and to recommend specific measures for evolving other suitable money market instruments. This Working Group which was chaired by Shri N. Vaghul submitted its Report in January, 1987. It has made several recommendations for activation and development of the money market. Some of the important recommendations include : (i) measures to improve the operation of the call money market; (ii) development of the bills rediscounting market with a view to facilitating the emergence of a genuine bill culture in the country; (iii) introduction of a short-term commercial paper; (iv) development of an active secondary market for Government paper, especially a "182 days Treasury Bill" Refinance Facility; (v) seting up of a Finance House to deal in short-term money market instruments; and (vi) encouraging banks and private non-bank financial institutions to provide factoring services. The Group also recommended that there should be continuing development and refinement of money market instruments, and each new instrument coming into the market must be specifically approved by the Reserve Bank.

7.39 Following detailed consultations with banks and financial institutions, the Reserve Bank has taken several steps during the current year to implement the recommendations of the Working Group. Some of these are :

— In order to make bill financing attractive to borrowers, from April 1, 1987, the effective interest rate on bill discounting for categories subject to the maximum lending rate has been fixed at a rate one percentage point lower than the maximum lending rate i.e., at a level equivalent to effective interest rate of 15.5 per cent.

— The ceiling on the bill rediscounting rate has been raised from 11.5 per cent to 12.5 per cent in order to attract additional funds into rediscount market.

— Access to bill rediscounting market has been increased by selectively increasing the number of participants in the market.

— Measures taken to promote bill financing include :—

  (i) only 75 per cent of the eligible receivables of all parties subject to the Credit Authorisation Scheme (CAS) would be taken into account for financing with effect from April 1, 1988; (ii) banks have been given the discretion to sanction additional ad-hoc inland bill limits to all parties subject to CAS; and (iii) it has been stipulated that all parties subject to CAS should attain a ratio of bill acceptance to credit purchases of 25 per cent by April 1, 1988.

— With a view to imparting greater liquidity to banks' holding of 182 days Treasury Bill, a "182 Days Treasury Bill" Refinance Facility has been introduced.

— A decision has been taken to set up a Finance House jointly by the Reserve Bank of India, public sector banks and the financial institutions. Its modalities are being worked out.

Follow up on the recommendations of the Committee to Review the Working of the Monetary System

7.40 As already discussed in the Economic Survey 1986-87, the Committee to Review the Working of the Monetary System (Chakravarty Committee) felt that the present definition of the budgetary deficit did not fully reflect the Government's reliance on the net Reserve Bank credit in a particular year, since Reserve Bank's holding of dated securities were not taken into consideration in this definition. The Committee, therefore, suggested a modification of the present concept to include the entire increase in net RBI credit to Government in a given year. This recommendation was considered by Government and accepted, in principle, in the Budget speech of 1986-87. It was then stated that the modalities for effecting the change will be worked out in consultation with the Reserve Bank. The technical issues involved in estimation of the change in net Reserve Bank credit to Central Government were considered in depth, and, as reported in last year's Survey, it was found that there were several problems in estimating the increased in net Reserve Bank credit to Central Government for the current as well as the ensuing financial year, especially at the time of the preparation of the Budget in January/February. These difficulties result from (a) wide swings in the transactions in long dated securities by parties other than the Reserve Bank, because of the buy-back arrangements in such securities, particularly by those institutions which keep their accounts exclusively with the Reserve Bank, and (b) pronounced volatility in the holdings of treasury bills by the States and the banks, depending upon variations in the liquid assets. Besides, the disparate practices in regard to the valuation of the treasury bills and the dated securities (by purchase price by RBI and the face value by the Government) contribute to the incompatibility of fiscal data with the monetary data.

7.41 Keeping in view the above technical problems in achieving one to one correspondence between the fiscal and the monetary accounts, as mentioned in the last year's Survey, a decision was taken to show the increase in net RBI credit to the Central Government as a memorandum item. This decision was implemented in the 1987-88 Central Budget documents by showing the actual increase in net RBI credit to Central Government for 1985-86, the Revised Estimates(RE) for this aggregate for 1986-87 and the Budget Estimates (BE) for 1987-88. It can be seen from the 1987-88 Budget documents that whereas for actuals 1985-86 and (RE) 1986-87 the increase in net RBI credit to Central Government differed from the budgetary deficit according to the established concept, with regard to (BE) 1987-88 they were shown as identical (i.e. Rs. 5,688 crores). This was done as a matter of convenience only because of the intrinsic difficulties, noted above, in estimating, before the start of the fiscal year, the anticipated variation in net RBI Credit to Central Government over the fiscal year for reasons other than the Government's need for such credit. Net RBI Credit to Central Government during the course of the fiscal year can fluctuate widely depending upon transactions of the State Governments, banks and others in respect of Central Government instruments. Even the holding of these securities by the Reserve Bank depends upon the timing of the floatation of market securities during the course of the year. Quite often the Reserve Bank subscribes substantially to the issue, and then unloads securities in the market over a period of time.

7.42 The experience during 1987-88 in regard to the behaviour of net Reserve Bank Credit to Central Government has confirmed that there are severe operational difficulties in estimating this variable for the year as a whole because of absence of any underlying trend in month to month fluctuations. Swings in the holdings of treasury bills by the State Governments have been particularly sharp. At the start of the current fiscal year, the States' total holdings of treasury bills were Rs. 1,268 crores, which had come down to Rs. 661 crores by end July, 1987. But thereafter, in one single month, they had risen to as high a figure as Rs. 2,179 crores. In the subsequent two months, i.e. by end October, 1987, their holdings of treasury bills again came down to Rs. 772 crores. Some measures have already been taken to reduce sharp fluctuations from week to week in the net Reserve Bank credit to Central Government. Volatility of the commercial banks' holdings of treasury bills has been substantially reduced. Further action may be necessary to reduce the volatility in the holdings of other parties.

7.43 Following the Chakravarty Committee's recommendation, and its acceptance, in principle, by the Government, regarding the setting of monetary targets at the aggregative level, the exercise to develop operationally meaningful targets and monitor them is being done in the Ministry of Finance on an experimental basis in consultation with the Reserve Bank of India. These targets are subject to revision upwards or downwards during the year to accommodate the impact of developments in the real sector of the economy, such as the one we faced during the current year. Last year's Economic Survey had elaborated the several technical problems that came in the way of developing this exercise and the criteria applied in selecting three monetary variables, namely, Aggregate Monetary Resources (M3), Net Reserve Bank Credit to Central Government (NRCCG), and Net Bank Credit to Government (NBCG), for early warning signals.

7.44 The exercise for setting the monetary targets is taken up immediately after the presentation of the Central Budget, when the two vital inputs necessary for the exercise, namely, the magnitude of the Centre's budgetary deficit as well as the level of its market borrowing programme become available. Estimates are made of credit requirements of the commercial sector. Requirements of food credit is based on the likely movements in the level of food stocks held by the public sector, while the increase in non-food credit is calculated on the expected growth in industrial output and movement in prices of industrial raw materials and final products. A view is also taken of the balance of payments position in order to determine the likely change in the net foreign exchange assets of the banking sector (net of repayment to IMF under the Extended Fund Facility).

7.45 It may be noted that since this exercise is done before the start of the fiscal year, it becomes imperative to effect suitable changes in the targets towards the end of May in the light of the availability of RBI data for March 31, after the closure of Government accounts, and of the partially revised data of the commercial banks on the last Friday of March basis. The exercise is still in an experimental stage. It has been found that while broad projections of M_3 and aggregate deposits and credit growth can be undertaken with a certain degree of confidence, the estimates of various other variables, such as change in net bank credit to Government, is fraught with several technical problems because of transactions in Central Government securities (including the treasury bills) by certain parties other than the Reserve Bank. There are also several uncertain factors. The behaviour of the monsoon becomes known only towards the end of August, and at times, there are substantial additional expenditure proposals later in the year, such as occurred last year when the Fourth Pay Commission's recommendations were implemented.

CHAPTER 8

THE EXTERNAL SECTOR

As anticipated in the Economic Surveys of the past several years, India's balance of payments continued to be under pressure from a number of adverse medium-term factors. These included an expected deceleration in the rate of growth of indigenous oil production, protectionist tendencies in international trade, the bunching of repayment obligations to the IMF and the unfavourable climate for concessional assistance. In 1987-88, to these medium-term pressures on balance of payments, was added the problem of severe country-wide drought, which entailed substantial additional imports of essential commodities, such as, edible oils and pulses.

8.2 In anticipation of emerging pressures on balance of payments, the Government had initiated a wide range of measures to accelerate the growth of exports and check the increase in imports. Further steps were also taken during the current year. According to the DGCI&S data on foreign trade, these measures have met with considerable success. In rupee terms, exports increased by 15.3 per cent in 1986-87 (comparing partially revised data for both periods) over 1985-86, while imports grew by only 2.2 per cent. The buoyancy in exports has continued in the first nine months of the current year with the rupee value of exports displaying an increase of 24.7 per cent over the comparable period of 1986-87 (both the data on provisional basis). While imports increased by 13.5 per cent in April—December, 1987, much of this growth can be attributed to the rebound in the international oil prices. The DGCI&S data show growth of non-oil imports of only 5 per cent in the first nine months of the current year. As a result, the provisional trade deficit for April—December, 1987 at Rs. 4913 crores was lower by Rs. 297 crores than the deficit of Rs. 5210 crores over the comparable period of 1986. As a per cent of current price GDP, the trade deficit is likely to have declined significantly. However, the trade data for the first three quarters of 1987-88 do not capture the full effects of the drought, whose adverse impact on foreign trade is likely to be more pronounced in the final quarter of the year.

Balance of Payments and Foreign Exchange Reserves

8.3 Full balance of payments data are available for the fiscal year as a whole only upto 1985-86, the first year of the Seventh Plan. Table 8.1 summarises trends in the key ratios (to GDP) in the present decade. Following the second oil shock of 1979-80, the trade deficit had attained a peak of 4.4 per cent of GDP in 1980-81. It declined steadily to 2.8 per cent of GDP in 1983-84, rose marginally in 1984-85 and sharply in 1985-86 to 3.7 per cent of GDP. Net earnings on invisibles account fell from a peak of 2.8 per cent of GDP in 1980-81 to 1.2 per cent in 1985-86 reflecting the declining importance of private transfer payments and the growth of interest payments on external loans and credits. As a consequence of these trends in trade and invisibles accounts, the current account deficit rose sharply in 1985-86 to 2.5 per cent of GDP. (The ratios of net invisibles and current account deficit to GDP may be slightly different from those shown in the balance of payments statistics published by the Reserve Bank of India, because of difference in treatment of official grant receipts and US Embassy expenditures in India out of PL-480 Rupee Fund. These items are taken as current account receipts in the latter, but form part of capital receipts in aid statistics compiled by the Ministry of Finance).

NOTE : The ratios have been computed on the basis of the country's balance of payments as given in Appendix Table 6.2 and the CSO estimates of GDP at current market prices (new series). The ratios of net invisibles and current account deficit to GDP indicated above may be slightly different from those shown in the balance of payments statistics published by the Reserve Bank of India, because of difference in treatment of official grant receipts and US Embassy expenditures in India out of PL-480 Rupee Fund. These items are taken as current account receipts in the latter, but form part of capital receipts in aid statistics compiled by the Ministry of Finance.

8.4 The balance of payments data for the full fiscal year 1986-87 are not available so far. The available information indicates that both trade and current account deficits reduced somewhat during the year. During the first six months of the 1986-87, for which balance of payments data are available, deficits in both trade and current accounts were lower than in the comparable period of 1985-86. According to the revised data of DGCI&S, Calcutta, exports at Rs. 12,566.6 crores have shown a healthy increase of 15.3 per cent in 1986-87 in contrast with a decline of 7.2 per cent in the preceding year. As imports rose at a low rate of 2.2 per cent against 14.7 per cent in 1985-86, the trade deficit declined from Rs. 8,763.1 crores in 1985-86 to Rs. 7,516.9 crores in 1986-87 according to DGCI&S data. The number of tourist arrivals in India rose by 23 per cent in 1986-87 to achieve a new record of 1.11 million. Consequently, travel receipts might have risen sharply during 1986-87. Payments under investment income, on the other hand, have continued to rise on account of past external borrowings. Net receipts in respect of other items of invisibles are not expected to be significantly different from those in 1985-86. Thus net invisibles receipts during 1986-87 might, perhaps, have been higher than in the preceding year. As a result, the current account deficit is expected to have been lower in 1986-87 than that in 1985-86. Net disbursement of external assistance as well as inflows into non-resident accounts increased in 1986-87. Nevertheless, trends in reserve movements point to continued pressure on the balance of payments during the year (Table 8.2). In SDR terms total foreign exchange reserves stood at SDR 5,113 million at the end of March 1987 as compared to SDR 5,728 million at the end of March 1986, indicating a decline of SDR 615 million during 1986-87.

8.5 The provisional DGCI&S data on foreign trade for April—December, 1987, partial information on invisibles and some items of capital account and trends in foreign exchange reserves indicate the continuing strain on balance of payments in the current year. Provisional trade data for the first nine months of the current financial year display a strong growth of exports and relatively modest increase in imports. However, net invisibles are unlikely to increase significantly in 1987-88 because of uncertain trends in net private transfers, especially from the oil exporting countries of West Asia, slower growth of tourism and steady increase in the interest payments on past borrowings. The continuation of pressure on balance of payments is reflected in the decline of foreign exchange reserves by Rs. 1338 crores between end-March, 1987 and end-January, 1988.

8.6 As compared to the turnout in foreign trade and balance of payments in a normal monsoon year, the principal effects of the drought on the current year's balance of payments are likely to be : additional requirements for imports of key commodities, such as edible oils, pulses and petroleum products, mainly to compensate for drought-induced shortfalls in domestic availability; possible increment in imports of certain categories of intermediate capital goods; a weaker export performance in drought-affected agricultural products such as coffee, cotton, rice and oilmeals; and an increase in capital inflows from several drought-specific external assistance initiatives. The overall impact is likely to be dominated by substantial incremental imports of essential commodities, which will lead to a higher trade and current account deficit than would otherwise have been the case. This additional pressure on the balance of payments will be partially offset by the speeding up of external assistance disbursements.

8.7 In order to attract deposits under different non-resident accounts, the interest rates offered on Non-Resident External Rupee (NRER) deposits continued to have a premium of 2 per cent over the rates applicable to domestic deposits of comparable maturities. The rates of interest on Foreign Currency Non-Resident (FCNR) deposits were revised four times, on May 25, October 12, November 30 and February 8, in the current financial year, keeping them in line with the interest rates in the international capital markets. The rates of interest prevailing on February 15, 1988 on deposits in NRER and FCNR Accounts are given in Table 8.3.

8.8 The inflows to the foreign accounts were Rs. 1370 crores during April—December, 1987 as against Rs. 1821 crores during the same period of 1986-87. About two-thirds of the inflows were accounted for by the dollar denominated deposits and accretion to NRER accounts amounted to Rs. 459 crores during April—December, 1987. As NRER deposits are inclusive of interest, if an adjustment is made for the interest included in these deposits, the inflows would be reduced to that extent. Table 8.4 shows the outstanding amounts under these accounts.

8.9 The external value of the Rupee continued to be determined in relation to a weighted basket of currencies of India's major trading partners and Pound Sterling remained the intervention currency. The exchange rate between Rupee and Pound Sterling has been adjusted from time to time in line with the changes in the exchange rates of currencies in the basket. The latest adjustment was made on February 15, 1988 when the middle rate was fixed at Rs. 22.80 per Pound Sterling.

Imports

8.10 The growth of imports decelerated from 14.7 per cent in 1985-86 to 2.2 per cent in 1986-87. In US dollars, imports in 1986-87 declined by 2.2 per cent as against an increase of 11.5 per cent in the preceding year. The major decline was in the imports of petroleum products which fell by 46.3 per cent on top of a decline of 7.8 per cent in 1985-86. This was due to the fall in international oil prices (relevant to India's purchases) by 43.3 per cent, on top of a fall of 4.4 per cent in 1985-86, caused by glut conditions in the world oil market. The decline in imports in 1986-87 was further contributed by falls in imports of other bulk commodities like fertilisers and fertiliser materials (by 46.1 per cent), sugar (by 49.7 per cent), non-ferrous metals (by 23.4 per cent), edible oils (by 16.7 per cent) and cereals and cereal preparations (by 57.3 per cent). Non-oil imports registered a smaller increase of 18.7 per cent in 1986-87 compared to an increase of 25.1 per cent in 1985-86. In US dollars the non-oil imports rose by 13.5 per cent.

8.11 In the first nine months of the current financial year 1987-88, imports have increased by 13.5 per cent, in sharp contrast to an increase of only 2.3 per cent in the corresponding period of 1986-87. In US dollars, the growth in imports amounts to 11.5 per cent compared to a decline of 1.6 per cent in the same period last year. The substantial rise in imports is largely attributable to a sharp rise in oil imports by 75.6 per cent due mainly to firming up of petroleum prices in the international market, and also to a higher level of imports necessitated, inter alia, by severe drought conditions in the country. Non-oil imports during this period have increased only by 5 per cent as against a rise of 24.5 per cent in the corresponding period last year. Thus, after a sharp rise in non-oil imports during the first two years of the Seventh Plan, growth of non-oil imports has slowed down in the first nine months of the current year.

8.12 During the first half of the current year, for which commoditywise details are available, imports of petroleum and related products have risen by 70.5 per cent, metalliferrous ores and metal scrap by 48.1 per cent, chemical materials and products by 45.3 per cent, textile yarn, fabrics and made-up articles by

116.5 per cent, artificial resins, plastic materials etc. by 26.3 per cent and sugar by 22 per cent. Machinery imports also increased significantly—the imports of electrical machinery were higher by 50.8 per cent and transport equipment by 48.7 per cent. Among other items that recorded growth in imports are non-ferrous metals (5 per cent), organic and inorganic chemicals (4.7 per cent), edible oils (3 per cent) and professional, scientific controlling instruments, photographic and optical goods, watches and clocks (3.5 per cent). The drought in the current year may further necessitate additional imports of some key commodities mainly to compensate for drought induced shortfalls in their domestic availability.

8.13 Table 8.5 shows the commodity composition of imports during 1985-86, 1986-87 and the first half of 1986-87 and 1987-88. The data compiled by the DGCI&S from custom's returns are likely to be revised as and when additional information is received.

8.14 A graphic presentation of the commodity composition of imports during the last three years is given in the chart. The share of the value of petroleum, oil and lubricants (POL) imports fell from 31.6 per cent in 1984-85 to 13.3 per cent in 1986-87.

The steep fall in international oil prices in 1986-87 resulted in a fall in the value of POL imports by about Rs. 2,300 crores during the year. The volume of POL imports in 1986-87 was also lower by 5.3 per cent. The decline in POL imports has unfortunately been reversed in the current year with the value of imports in the first half of the year rising by 70.5 per cent as against a decline of 58.1 per cent in the corresponding period of last year. While the rebound in import value is mainly due to higher unit values, import volume has also gone up.

8.15 Non-POL bulk imports (comprising edible oils, fertilisers and fertiliser materials, iron and steel, sugar, paper, paper board and manufactures thereof and non-ferrous metals) in 1986-87 declined by 23 per cent in value (as against an increase of 21.2 per cent in 1985-86), reflecting declines in the imports of edible oils, fertilisers, non-ferrous metals, sugar, and paper, paper board and manufactures thereof. Thus, the pressure on imports in 1986-87 has not been from bulk imports but rather from non-bulk imports of capital goods and various intermediate inputs for industries.

8.16 The share of edible oils in total imports declined further in 1986-87 to 3 per cent on account of a decline in value of imports by 16.7 per cent. Even though the quantum of edible oil imports increased sharply by 36.6 per cent, a substantial decline in unit value of imports by 39 per cent led to a fall in value of imports in 1986-87. Imports of edible oils in the first half of the current year were higher in value by 3 per cent over the corresponding period of last year. Increase in unit price contributed to rise in imports.

8.17 Imports of fertiliser and fertiliser materials showed a remarkable decline in 1986-87 of 46.1 per cent due to a fall in both the unit value by 17.3 per cent and in volume of imports by 34.9 per cent. The volume of imports was lower because of glut conditions in the domestic market caused by the increased supply from domestic production and imports, in conjunction with stagnant offtake following inclement weather during the year. The share of fertilisers and fertiliser materials in total imports, therefore, decreased to 3.9 per cent from a share of 7.3 per cent in 1985-86. This trend persisted in the first half of the current year also during which imports declined by 47.5 per cent over the corresponding period last year, reflecting a conscious policy of making better use of available indigenous capacity and, at the same time, running down accumulated inventory.

8.18 The share of iron and steel in total imports in 1986-87 has been almost maintained at the same level as last year. Even though the quantum of imports in 1986-87 was roughly similar to 1985-86, the value of iron and steel imports increased by 4 per cent due mainly to an increase in unit value by 4.7 per cent. However, during the first half of 1987-88, the imports of iron and steel registered a decline of 24 per cent over the corresponding period last year due, mainly, to a fall in the volume of imports which could be attributed to higher domestic production.

8.19 The share of non-ferrous metals in total imports declined from 2.8 per cent in 1985-86 to 2.1 per cent in 1986-87. There was a fall in their unit prices which resulted in the value of imports falling by 23.4 per cent in 1986-87. There was a substantial fall in the import of sugar by 49.7 per cent due to increased domestic production. The imports of paper, paper board and manufactures thereof in 1986-87 declined by 13.8 per cent as against an increase of 15.6 per cent in 1985-86. Although quantum imports during the year increased by 1.2 per cent, there was a decline in the value of imports due to a fall in unit prices by 14.8 per cent.

8.20 The imports of capital goods increased substantially by 27.6 per cent in 1986-87 on top of an increase of 35.3 per cent in 1985-86. As a result, its share in total imports grew from 18.5 per cent in 1984-85 to 27.2 per cent in 1986-87. The growth of capital goods imports in 1986-87 was mainly on account of an increase in imports of non-electrical machinery by 43.2 per cent, and of transport equipment by 19 per cent. During the first half of the current year also capital goods imports have recorded an increase of 21.4 per cent over the corresponding period last year. The buoyancy in the climate for industrial investment and the accent on modernisation and upgradation of technology explain the rising trend in the imports of capital goods in recent years. Also, a substantial proportion of these imports consists of imports of parts and components as against complete machinery/goods.

8.21 The share of pearls and precious, semi-precious stones in total imports increased from 5.6 per cent in 1985-86 to 7.4 per cent in 1986-87, as their imports registered an increase of 36 per cent in 1986-87. This was due mainly to the substantial rise in the exports of cut and polished diamonds. The share of cereals and cereal preparations in total imports declined further in 1986-87 to 0.2 per cent due to a decline in their value imports by 57.3 per cent, reflecting the comfortable stock position of foodgrains. The share of imports of chemical materials and products has been maintained at almost the same level as in 1985-86. Among the residual imports, the main items registering high growth rate include cashew nuts

(unprocessed), artificial resins and plastic material, dyeing, tanning and colouring materials and professional, scientific controlling instruments, photographic and optical goods, watches and clocks.

Sources of Imports

8.22 The composition of imports by source during the last three years is presented in the chart. The share of OECD countries in total imports increased from 48.7 per cent in 1984-85 to 64.5 per cent in 1986-87, following a sharp increase in the imports of capital goods from these countries. The share of OPEC during this period declined from 19.4 per cent to 8.8 per cent due, mainly, to a fall in imports from Iran, Iraq, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia and UAE in 1986-87 caused by the decline in oil prices. The share in total imports of Eastern Europe also declined from 12.6 per cent in 1984-85 to 7.5 per cent in 1986-87. However, the share of developing countries (Non-OPEC) during these years has remained steady around 18 to 19 per cent.

8.23 The United States, which was the single largest source of India's imports in 1985-86, recorded a drop in her share to 9.8 per cent in 1986-87 due to decline in imports by 4.9 per cent in 1986-87. The imports from the USSR during this year also declined by 36.1 per cent leading to a further fall in its share of total imports from 8.5 per cent in 1985-86 to 5.3 per cent in 1986-87, in large part because of lower petroleum prices. The highest decline in imports in 1986-87 (by 48.5 per cent) was registered in imports from OPEC countries. The share of imports from the U.K. moved up from 5.4 per cent in 1984-85 to 8.1 per cent in 1986-87 and that of the Federal Republic of Germany from 7.5 per cent to 9.6 per cent during the same period. Japan became the single largest source of India's imports in 1986-87 with its share in total imports increasing from 9 per cent in 1985-86 to 12.7 per cent in 1986-87, the substantial appreciation of the Yen being an important contributing factor.

Exports

8.24 Exports increased by 15.3 per cent in rupee terms (10.4 per cent in US dollars) in 1986-87 as against a decline of 7.2 per cent (9.9 per cent in US dollars) in 1985-86. The improved performance was significant in the face of a sluggish expansion in the volume of world trade in 1986 and declining world commodity prices for many export commodities. The principal commodities which contributed to this increase in exports include gems and jewellery, leather and leather manufactures, readymade garments, oilcakes, cashew kernels, marine products, tobacco, raw cotton and coffee. There was a decline in the exports of tea, engineering goods, chemicals and allied products, ores and minerals, rice and sugar. There were no exports of crude oil in 1986-87 as these exports ceased from April 1985 due to the commissioning of suitable domestic refining capacity.

8.25 During the first nine months of the current financial year exports, on a provisional basis, have shown a substantial growth of 24.7 per cent compared with an increase of 17.3 per cent in the same period last year. This is the highest increase in the first nine months of a year in the eighties. In terms of US dollars, exports were higher by 22.4 per cent as against an increase of 12.7 per cent in April—December, 1986. The commodities continuing to show good export growth during the first half of the current financial year (commoditywise details of which are available) are readymade garments, gems and jewellery, leather and leather manufactures, cashew kernel, iron and steel and marine products. The trend of declining exports of tea, iron ore, cotton fabrics, engineering goods and chemical and allied products during 1986-87 has been reversed during the current year. Exports of coffee, oil cakes, raw cotton, spices, unmanufactured tobacco, sugar and jute manufactures have declined during April—September, 1987.

8.26 The commoditywise composition of exports in recent years is shown in Table 8.6 and in the chart. In the plantation sector, the good performance in 1986-87 in coffee exports was largely offset by the fall in the earnings of tea. The exports of coffee in 1986-87 increased by 15.6 per cent on top of a rise of 26 per cent in 1985-86. While the increase in 1985-86 was effected through a larger volume of exports of 46.5 per cent, the growth in 1986-87 came from higher unit value realisation of 53.5 per cent in a buoyant world market. There was a fall in the value of exports of tea for the second year in succession in 1986-87. This was due to a decline in both the quantity exported (by 7.3 per cent) and lower unit value realisation in a stagnant world market (by 5.3 per cent). The share of tea in total exports thus declined from 6.5 per cent in 1984-85 to 4.4 per cent in 1986-87. In order to boost tea exports Government have constituted a committee to formulate a long term strategy for the tea industry. Initiative has also been taken to raise a 'special corpus' fund of Rs. 10 crores to help expansion of tea research activities in the country. The main effort is directed towards promotion of these exports in value-added form. The trend in the first half of the current financial year reveals a rise in tea exports by 28.6 per cent due both to increased quantity exported and 8.27 The share of exports of eight important agro-based commodities taken together (coffee, oil cakes, tobacco, cashew kernels, spices, sugar, raw cotton and rice) in total exports increased from 10 per cent in 1984-85 to 12.8 per cent in 1986-87. Exports of cashew kernels have more than doubled in the last three years from Rs. 150.8 crores in 1983-84 to Rs. 320.6 crores in 1986-87 due to both enhanced quantum of exports and higher unit prices over these years. During 1986-87, exports recorded an increase of 42.4 per cent contributed by a 25.6 per cent rise in volume of exports and 13.4 per cent increase in unit prices. After a decline of 2.1 per cent in 1985-86, exports of oilcakes registered an increase of 39.7 per cent in 1986-87, on account of increases in export volume by 22.7 per cent and unit prices by 13.9 per cent. There was almost a three-fold increase in the exports of raw cotton in 1986-87 attributable to an almost five-fold increase in its volume of exports. Exports of rice and sugar declined by 16 per cent and 94.5 per cent respectively, due to fall in the quantum of their exports.

8.28 In spite of a volume growth of 6.5 per cent, exports of spices have declined in 1986-87 by 3.1 per cent in value due to a drop in unit price realisation by 9.1 per cent. Growth in exports of spices had more than doubled in the two years from Rs. 116.7 crores in 1983-84 to Rs. 277.8 crores in 1985-86 due to a steady rise in volume of exports and higher price realisation. Tobacco exports in 1986-87 registered a growth of 2.8 per cent as against a decline of 4.9 per cent in 1985-86, due mainly to a rise in volume of exports by 10.7 per cent. Global consumption of tobacco continues to be restrained by demand-related factors like anti-smoking curbs and restrictions and manufacturing developments which lessen the amount of leaf required per unit of product. In the first half of 1987-88 these agro-based commodities have displayed a mixed trend. While a rising trend is witnessed in the exports of cashew kernels and rice whose exports have increased by 10.5 per cent and 70.3 per cent respectively, exports of spices, oil cakes, raw cotton, sugar and tobacco have declined by 10.1 per cent, 10.9 per cent, 0.4 per cent, 52.9 per cent and 20.2 per cent respectively.

8.29 Exports of marine products, a comparatively new and dynamic sector, recorded an impressive growth of 17 per cent in 1986-87 as against an increase of only 7.2 per cent in 1985-86. Its share in total exports has risen from 3.2 per cent in 1984-85 to 3.8 per cent in 1986-87. The quantum of exports from this sector has been rising steadily and the increase in 1986-87 has come from both higher volume of exports by 13.6 per cent and increased unit value realisation of 3 per cent. The decisions of the Government on deep sea fishing, specially for 100 per cent export oriented units, has thus elicited a good response from the exporters. In order to encourage exports of value-added products the Marine Products Exports Development Authority (MPEDA) has introduced a scheme for extending subsidy assistance (25 percent) to seafood processors for the acquisition of machinery and equipment required for production of value-added shrimp. The rising trend continued during April—September, 1987, with exports recording a substantial increase of 43 per cent.

8.30 Iron ore exports in 1986-87 declined by 6.1 per cent as compared to a rise of 26 per cent in 1985-86. The fall in the value of exports was mainly due to reduced volume of exports by 6.6 per cent. A major breakthrough was achieved by the Minerals and Metals Trading Corporation (MMTC) in securing a foothold in China in the exports of iron ore and in the exports of iron ore concentrates to Japan. The decline in world steel demand and output and technology shifts against the use of metals, in general, are factors militating against strong growth of export earnings from minerals and ores. A major problem of the iron ore exporters is the high cost of mining equipment which has affected the viability of mining operations and made exports uncompetitive. The Government is, therefore, working out a new strategy to boost the exports from this sector, which is an identified thrust sector. The strategy covers the development of new mines, improvement and expansion of mining operations as well as port facilities, exploration of new markets, increase in exports to the traditional markets and making long-term arrangements with the importers. The trend in exports during April—September, 1987 shows an increase in exports by 11 per cent over the same period last year, due mainly to an increase in the quantum of exports.

8.31 Exports of engineering goods recorded a marginal decrease of 2.6 per cent in 1986-87 as against an increase of an almost similar order in 1985-86. Exports at Rs. 875 crores in 1986-87 were thus lower than the peak level performance of Rs. 938.9 crores achieved in 1981-82. The share of engineering exports in total exports has declined from 8.2 per cent in 1985-86 to 7 per cent in 1986-87. The trend in the current financial year is quite encouraging with exports during April—September, 1987 rising by 29.8 per cent. To step up exports of this key sector, Government has identified 35 engineering industries as thrust industries on the basis of existing production capabilities and export potential.

Detailed export strategies for each of these products are being developed.

8.32 Exports of chemicals and allied products in 1986-87 decreased by 4.6 per cent, as against an increase of 3 per cent in 1985-86. The exports in 1986-87 at Rs. 474.5 crores were marginally lower than the highest level of Rs. 497.5 crores achieved in 1985-86. The exports in 1986-87 were restrained by lower exports of rubber manufactures due primarily to lower offtake from the USSR. There were lower exports also of refractory and processed minerals which is attributable to a sharp drop in baryte prices due to severe recession in the world drilling activities. Other factors which affected exports are import ban by Bangladesh on cycle tubes, and labour trouble and lockout in two major tyre manufacturing plants, affecting the overall exportable surpluses of the tyre industry. However, there has been retrieval of grounds in the current financial year with exports during April—September, 1987 recording an increase of 52.3 per cent over the corresponding period last year.

8.33 Leather and leather manufacture exports also showed commendable growth over the last four years when these exports increased from Rs. 414.6 crores in 1982-83 to Rs. 787.2 crores in 1986-87. Improved performance during the last few years was partly due to the changes brought about by the Government in providing improved access to imported inputs needed in this sector. The increasing trend has continued during April—September, 1987 with exports recording an impressive growth of 55 per cent over the corresponding period last year. A significant feature of the rise in exports of leather and leather manufactures has been the change in the composition of these exports with growing emphasis on finished leather and leather products. This has helped in realising higher unit prices for these exports. To give a fillip to these exports Government have set up a high powered committee for providing single window clearance for export-oriented proposals of finished leather products. It is also proposed to set up a hides and skin development fund to be financed and operated by the Leather Export Promotion Council for promoting development, fabrication and distribution of improved tools for tanning, etc.

8.34 The performance of readymade garments, another dynamic growth sector, has been remarkable in the recent years. Their exports in 1986-87 increased by 14.2 per cent on top of an increase of 31.4 per cent in 1984-85 and 11.9 per cent in 1985-86. Readymade garment exports in the last two years have increased from Rs. 953.3 crores in 1984-85 to Rs. 1218.3 crores in 1986-87. The world market for cotton garments has become active during the last few years, perhaps on account of emergence of renewed consumer preferences for cotton made clothing. This trend in revival of garment exports has continued in the first half of current year also when exports have recorded an increase of 55.6 per cent. Exports to the European Common Market and other quota countries have shown significant expansion, reflecting the more liberal market access as a result of the bilateral agreements negotiated under the latest Multi-Fibre Agreement (MFA) for 1987—92. It is hoped that the various innovative measures announced by the Government in October, 1987 under the revised quota distribution policy for garments will strengthen export performance.

8.35 Gems and jewellery is an important thrust sector in exports. These exports have more than doubled in the last four years from Rs. 1014.8 crores in 1982-83 to Rs 2069.3 crores in 1986-87, with exports in 1986-87 registering an increase of 37.7 per cent. The share of gems and jewellery in the total exports has thus gone up from 13.8 per cent in 1985-86 to 16.5 per cent in 1986-87. The rising trend has continued during April—September of the current financial year, when exports of gems and jewellery increased by 42.1 per cent. This impressive performance reflects, in part, good response of the industry to the measures aimed at improving access and terms for import of machinery and equipment. The facility for bulk import of diamonds has also been eased with bulk import licence being thrown open to the entire diamond trade. The first 100 per cent export-oriented gems and jewellery complex in the country in Santacruz Electronic Export Processing Zone (SEEPZ) went on stream and the publication of an international monthly magazine on gems and jewellery was started during the year. As cut and polished diamonds continue to play a dominant role in the exports of gems and jewellery, the move by the MMTC to enter into joint exploration and mining of rough diamonds with African states is a step in the right direction in view of the indigenous industry's vulnerability to price changes of rough diamonds. Steps are being taken to increase exports of jewellery because of their relatively high value-added nature. A jewellery school has been set up in Bombay, while free trade zones in Delhi and Bombay have now modern jewellery manufacturing units. Further, the Government are also taking a close look at the provisions of the Gold Control Act and its administrative machinery with a view to remove bottlenecks in exports of gold jewellery.

8.36 Projects and services have also been identified as one of the thrust industries having a good export potential. Exports of projects and services, which comprise construction and civil engineering projects, industrial turnkey projects and consultancy services, have been quite important in the recent past. However, the boom in construction projects experienced after the oil price increases of the seventies has declined, because of the fall in oil revenues of OPEC members, intense competition in the Gulf and African countries and foreign exchange problems faced by many African countries. Nevertheless, the value of projects secured in 1986 at Rs. 525 crores was almost double the value of contracts secured in 1985 at Rs. 265 crores.

8.37 For turnkey projects the market is more diversified but the total value of contracts secured by Indian companies is very small. One of the major problems faced by Indian companies has been their inability to offer credit terms in line with those offered by developed countries. Similarly, the share of India in consultancy services in the international market is very small, though our companies have made a beginning in developed countries also.

8.38 With a large endowment of technical manpower, India is in a position to offer total range of services, including process design, engineering, procurement, construction, supervision, commissioning, project management, training, etc. in diverse fields like power generation and transmission system, petrochemicals, steel plants, textiles, infrastructure, etc. There are about 200 consultancy organisations in the country, both in public and private sectors, which can provide consultancy for a very broad range of activities. Indian companies can also undertake operation and maintenance contracts. As a part of overall strategy to increase projects and consultancy exports, Government have announced various incentives like project assistance of 10 per cent of net foreign exchange earnings from service portion of the contract, market development assistance, information support and guidelines for export of services on deferred payment terms.

8.39 Overall export performance during 1986-87 and the first nine months of the current financial year has thus been very strong. The export-import ratio increased from 55.4 per cent in 1985-86 to 62.6 per cent in 1986-87. However, in view of the disappointing export performmnce in 1985-86, exports in subsequent years will have to rise at a rate even higher than stipulated in the Seventh Plan of 6.8 per cent per annum in volume terms. The drought in the current year may also affect adversely exports of certain agricultural commodities. This has to be countered by an export push in other sectors. Improvement in export performance is essential not only to finance critical imports but also to keep trade deficit within manageable limits.

Direction of Exports

8.40 The composition of exports by destination from 1984-85 to 1986-87 is given in the chart. The destination-wise pattern of exports over these years has remained almost unchanged except for the 'other' category which declined to 3.3 per cent in 1986-87 from 15.7 per cent in 1984-85 due to stoppage of crude oil exports which were not booked by destination. A little over half of the exports have gone to OECD countries in the last two years, a shade less than a fifth to Eastern Europe, about a seventh to developing countries (Non-OPEC) and a sixteenth to OPEC.

8.41 Exports to OECD countries increased from 50.8 per cent in 1985-86 to 56.7 per cent in 1986-87 due to increase in exports to these countries by 28.8 per cent in 1986-87. The share of exports to the USA in total exports increased to 18.8 per cent in 1986-87, reflecting growth in exports to the USA during the year by 19.5 per cent. Exports to the USSR in 1986-87 fell by 6.6 per cent leading to a decline in her share of exports from 18.4 per cent in 1985-86 to 14.9 per cent in 1986-87. Consequently, the share of Eastern Europe in total exports also showed a fall from 21 per cent to 18.4 per cent during the same period. Similarly, there was a fall in exports to the OPEC region by 6.9 per cent in 1986-87. On the other hand, exports to developing countries (Non-OPEC) increased by 31.6 per cent in 1986-87, thus increasing their share in total exports from 13.4 per cent in 1985-86 to 15.3 per cent in 1986-87.

Export Promotion Measures and Developments in Trade Policy

8.42 The Government have implemented a number of measures to facilitate capacity expansion for export production, to upgrade technology, to make export sector more competitive through improved access to capital goods and raw materials at or near international prices, and by providing fiscal and monetary incentives for exports. Greater attention is also being paid to strengthening the marketing capacity of exporters and the infrastructure necessary for the export effort. Also, vigorous efforts are being made to effect efficient import substitution particularly in the area of bulk imports of commodities and to discourage imports of non-essential items.

8.43 The Government's multi-pronged strategy for a renewed thrust to exports has adopted a certain degree of selectivity in identifying products, sectors and industries with good export potential and in providing a policy framework conducive to export growth. A series of new initiatives were taken to promote exports of various items, including those of 14 thrust commodities, by preparing action plans keeping in view their medium and long term prospects. These measures are designed to generate surpluses for exports, to induce the production of goods contemporary in technology and competitive in prices and to make exports profitable. Several changes have been made with these objectives in view in the areas of fiscal policy, industrial policy and import policy which are summarised below :

Fiscal and Financial Measures

(a) The Cash Compensatory Support Scheme, which allows a remission of unrebated indirect taxes on inputs of exported products, was modified in February 1987 with the revision of CCS for a number of items including some engineering goods, agricultural goods and cotton grey fabrics. The policy of making proportionate reduction in CCS rates in individual cases where advance/imprest licences are issued for a value higher than normal REP has been discontinued from July 1987. The existing policy of restricting the CCS ratio to the cut off point of 25 per cent of value-added was continued and strictly enforced during the year. During the current financial year CCS has been granted on nine additional items.

(b) A comprehensive review of the Duty Drawback schedule was made in April-May, 1987 and a new drawback rate schedule has been brought into effect from June 1, 1987. The new schedule gives special attention to thrust industries which have considerable exports or export potential and which suffer significant duties on their inputs. Some of the basic features of the revised drawback schedule are indicated below :

— significant improvements in rates have been effected for a number of export products taking into account the increased incidence of duties on various inputs suffered by a number of industries as compared to the average duties assessed last year. Items where enhanced rates have now been fixed (with increase of more than 10 per cent over the earlier rates) include a large number of products of engineering industry, a number of specified bulk drugs, certain paints and pigments and a number of other miscellaneous products.

— To give a boost to export of electronic items and for a number of identified products All Industry rates of Drawback have been fixed for the first time.

— A number of other new export products have been added to the list of items covered by All Industry Rates.

(c) The MODVAT introduced in 1986-87 Budget covered 38 chapters of the Excise Tariff. The Budget of 1987-88 has extended MODVAT to all the remaining chapters except those relating to textiles, tobacco and the petroleum products. The MODVAT has now been extended to cover food products, mineral products, leather and leather goods, footwear, paper and paper board, wood and cork products, asbestos, cement products and precious metals. The MODVAT system, which aims at minimising the incidence of taxation on inputs, would reduce the distortions in the production structure, mitigate the cascading effect of taxes on inputs, make the incidence of indirect taxation more transparent and help in reducing costs and prices which would make our exports more competitive in the international markets.

(d) Government have decided that units exporting 25 per cent or more of their production and which have installed captive power generating sets will be supplied diesel oil for this purpose at prices comparable to international prices. The compensation will be through reimbursement of the difference between the market price of diesel and its international price on a proportionate basis and will be provided to the exporting units at the end of the financial year after reckoning the export performance.

(e) Government has relaxed the debt-equity norms to finance projects upto 4 : 1 against the prevailing 2 : 1 for 'thrust' industries having a great export potential, economic viability and debt servicing capability.

(f) It has been decided to extend the Export Credit and Guarantee Corporation (ECGC) cover on concessional terms to 'deemed exports'. Exporters will now have the option of availing the ECGC insurance cover for deemed exports on deferred terms. The ECGC has also announced in August 1987 a reduction in the premium rate for export finance guarantee.

(g) A new Blanket Exchange Permit Scheme, replacing the two existing schemes, has been introduced since June 1987. The new scheme is more broadbased and flexible both as to eligibility of exporters and the purposes for which exchange can be drawn by holders against their blanket permits. The salient features of the scheme are as follows :

— The minimum qualifying annual amount of foreign exchange earning for issue of blanket exchange permit is not less than Rs. five lakhs for export of products in the select list and Rs. 20 lakhs for other products.

— For determination of quantum of exchange the products have been divided into three categories. Exporters engaged in the exports of products covered by list A (which contains 24 products/product groups under thrust area) will be eligible for release of foreign exchange upto 10 per cent, exporters of products covered by list B upto 2 per cent (on a discretionary basis) and exporters of products not covered under lists A and B will fall under list C and will be eligible for 5 per cent. The percentage entitlement in the three categories will be on the f.o.b. value of their annual exports realised and repatriated to India.

— The purposes for which blanket exchange permit can be utilised has been made more liberal and 18 items as approved purposes have been identified. Items include travel abroad, participation in trade fairs abroad, market studies, setting up/maintenance of branches/offices or warehousing outside India, legal charges in connection with exports, advertisements abroad, etc. Besides, exporters eligible for assistance from the Export Marketing Fund of EXIM Bank will also be permitted to draw exchange against the blanket permits issued to them for expenditure towards various purposes approved.

— The aggregate expenditure during the entire year towards travel abroad (including entertainment allowance where admissible) would normally be subject to a ceiling of 75 per cent of the amount of blanket permit in the case of permits for Rs. 50 lakhs or less and 50 per cent for amounts exceeding Rs. 50 lakhs. Expenditure on entertainment abroad, which has been made liberal, should not exceed 10 per cent of the amount of the blanket exchange permit or Rs. 5 lakhs, whichever is less, within the overall ceiling of 75 per cent or 50 per cent as the case may be.

(h) In a drive towards further liberalisation of exchange control procedures, RBI has permitted the EXIM Bank to grant pre-bid clearance upto Rs 20 crores (instead of prevailing limit of Rs. 5 crores) for bids/offers for export of engineering goods on deferred payment basis.

(i) Under the International Price Reimbursement Scheme (IPRS), the exporters of engineering goods are reimbursed the difference between domestic and international price of steel used in the manufacture of export items. This reimbursement, effected through the Joint Plant Committee (JPC) fund, involves a time lag. It has, therefore, been decided to permit banks to grant advances to exporters against such receivables from the Government. The advances will carry concessional rate of interest as applicable to short term credit and will be eligible for interest subsidy.

(j) The Government have announced liberalised norms with regard to agency commission payment by exporters—upto seven and half per cent in the case of non-select products and twelve and half per cent for select products. Even higher agency commission payments may be allowed on approval by the concerned export authority or the Government.

(k) Customs duty on goods imported for offshore drilling operations by ONGC or OIL or by service contractors on their behalf has been withdrawn as such operations are conducted in many cases outside the territorial limits of the country and require specialised equipment and services.

(l) The 1987-88 Budget included the following incentives for exports :

— Customs duties on 46 additional items of tools and machinery, etc. for gems and jewellery were reduced.

— Three additional items for marine products industry and 31 additional items of machinery for leather industry were allowed concessional import duty.

— Export duty on mica products was abolished, except for mica waste and scrap.

— Import duty on tyre moulds and flax and ramie fibres was reduced.

(m) Export duty on coffee was reduced from Rs. 6000 per tonne to Rs. 1700 per tonne in May 1987.

Measures relating to Industrial Licensing Policy

(a) It has been decided in principle that export production will not be taken into account for purposes of establishing dominance under the MRTP Act, and it will be kept outside the licensed capacity.

(b) IDBI has introduced in August, 1987 a Technology Upgradation Scheme for selected capital goods industries for a period of three years upto the end of current Plan with the objective to induct the latest technology in these sectors, improve indigenous R&D facilities for constant upgradation and reduce cost.

(c) To liberalise the industrial licencing policy for export of manufactures, Government have decided that undertakings who have a firm export order may be exempted from the requirement of obtaining industrial licence for fulfilment of a one-time export order.

Measures relating to Import-Export Policy

(a) Keeping in view Government's policy to promote exports, specially in the identified thrust areas, it has been decided to allow import of machinery and raw materials liberally. In 1987-88 so far, 19 items of machinery required for leather processing or leather goods manufacturing industry have been placed on Open General Licence (OGL). Twenty eight items of machinery for manufacture of sports goods and 27 items of machinery for manufacture of bicycle and bicycle components have also been placed on OGL. In addition, 5 items of machinery required for manufacture of garment/hosiery/made-ups, 10 items of machinery required for the manufacture of forged handtools and 9 items of machinery required for gem and jewellery industry have been placed on OGL. Thirteen items of life saving and anti-cancer drugs have been placed on OGL for stock and sale. Import of Polyurethane leather for manufacture of footballs has been placed under OGL.

(b) Exports made under the barter deals have been made eligible for grant of replenishment benefits. Supplies made to projects in Bhutan aided by the Asian Development Bank have also been made eligible to qualify for import replenishment purposes. Similarly, supplies made to the projects aided by the Asian Development Bank within the country would also now qualify as 'deemed exports' for import replenishment purposes.

(c) The value limit for grant of import licence for raw material and components to new/proposed units in the small scale sector has been raised from Rs. 50,000 to Rs. 2.5 lakhs.

(d) Additional licences granted to Export Houses/ Trading Houses have been made more attractive by allowing import of about 600 items of raw materials and components which were normally allowed for import by Actual Users (Industrial) only.

(e) For the promotion of exports of jewellery, besides the existing scheme for the promotion of export of gold jewellery, new schemes have been introduced for silver jewellery and articles. Under these schemes, silver jewellery and articles can be exported against the silver supplied by the foreign buyer in advance or to be replenished subsequently.

(f) The scope of Duty Exemption Scheme for Advance licence which was hitherto limited to only 145 groups of items, as specified in the policy, has been enlarged to cover all the items of inputs including consumables and spares required for export production. In order to service the needs of the smaller exporters, STC, MMTC and other public sector agencies as designated, have also been allowed the facility to import the inputs required for export production, duty free, in bulk, for off-the-shelf supply to individual advance licence holders. Further, the scheme has also been extended to cover export of plain and studded jewellery.

(g) The Import-Export Pass Book Scheme has been revamped to make the scheme simpler and wider in scope. Important modifications made are :

- The scheme, which was applicable only for manufacturer exporters who have been regularly exporting for a minimum period of three years, has been extended to Export/ Trading Houses who are otherwise eligible for issue of import licences.
- A special pass book known as 'Special Imprest Import-Export Pass Book' is to be issued for deemed exports. This will cover only the imports of raw materials and components.
- The pass book holder is to be allowed to import mandatory spares if he is a registered manufacturer—exporters subject to a ceiling of 5 per cent of the overall value of the pass book.
- Exports through third party to be allowed in which case manufacturer-exporters would be required to indicate in advance of the exports, the name of such exporters/trading houses.
- Flexibility has been introduced in the use of input-output norms.
- The pass book holder can obtain his supplies through designated public sector agencies also.
- Switch-over from Advance licence to pass book has also been made easier subject to certain conditions.
- For certain products, the rates of import entitlements have been increased.

(h) In cases where increase in c.i.f. value of an advance licence becomes necessary due to exchange fluctuations only, the licensing authority has been empowered to enhance the value of advance licence without insisting on a corresponding enhancement in the export obligation, provided the stipulated minimum addition is achieved.

(i) For making the 100 per cent Export-Oriented Units (EOU) and the Free Trade Zones (FTZ) units more attractive, following concessions were given in October, 1987 :

- Case by case, on merits, 100 per cent EOUs, including the units located in the Export Processing Zones, would be permitted to sell upto 25 per cent of their production in the domestic market in respect of items other than sensitive products, subject to payment of appropriate customs duties.
- 100 per cent EOUs would have the benefit of tax holiday as is admissible to the units located in the Export Processing Zones i.e. for a block of 5 years during the first 8 years from the commencement of production.
- 100 percent EOUs would be permitted to sub-contract part of their production for job work to units in the domestic tariff area, on a case by case basis, to establish linkages with industry and installed capacity in the domestic tariff area.
- 100 per cent EOUs may be exempted in suitable cases from operation of Export Control Order applicable to the domestic tariff area.
- In order to reduce the cost of bonding concessional charge will be made where there is cluster of EOUs. Elsewhere the charge will be reduced to 100 per cent of salaries and emoluments of the staff provided.

(j) Government have decided to fix a minimum annual export turnover of Rs. 5 crores for each project while clearing proposals for setting up 100 per cent EOUs. The only exception is software where the minimum export will be Rs. 2 crores annually.

(k) For the maximum utilisation of the annual restraint level and orderly development of export trade, the Export Entitlement Distribtuion Policy for garments and fabrics has been announced in October 1987. For the first time, the policy will be a long term policy applicable for three years as against an annual policy; this will bring about some stability in the export trade. The innovative features of this policy are :

- The allotment of past performance quota will be made on the basis of value instead of on the basis of quantity. This would result in allotment of a higher quota for exporters realising higher unit values and would encourage higher realisation of foreign exchange.
- In order to provide, inter alia, opportunities to new exporters, including small scale entrepreneurs, Government have introduced, on an experimental basis, an innovative 'Open Tender System' for superfast categories. A category will be identified as superfast if exports were consistently 91 per cent or more of the level earmarked during three years preceding the allotment year. Fifteen per cent of the superfast categories, which work out to roughly 5 per cent of the total garment exports at present, will be brought under the 'Open Tender System'. The remaining 85 per cent of the superfast categories will be allocated to other systems like past performance (PPE), Manufacturer Exporter (MEE), Non-Quota Experts (NQE), etc. The amount collected under the Open Tender System would be funded into a separate Export Promotion Fund and would be used for export promotion purposes. For categories other than superfast, First come First Served (FCFS) system along with other systems are being continued.
- A new direction has been given for manufacturer-exporter system with increased allocation and a minimum stipulation of number of machines in order to upgrade the technology of garment manufacturing.
- In order to diversify exports the allocation for non-quota exporters system has been increased substantially and exports of non-quota items exported to quota countries will also be counted for allocation under this system.
- The policy has been further simplified. Under the FCFS system, there is no need for providing the letter of credit at the time of application. The cut-off date for applying under the system has been removed. Under the Open Tender System, no restriction whatsoever is being placed on exporters applying under the system. The number of periods has been reduced to two from three.

— The policy for fabrics and made-ups is being continued more or less on the same lines as in the previous year. There will be three systems for allocations—PPE, FCFS contract reservation system and FCFS ready goods with allocation. As in the case of garments, the number of periods has been reduced to two. All the bank guarantees have been increased to ensure better performance. The base period for determining past performance will now be two years and the allotment will be done on the basis of value rather than quantity.

Other Measures

(a) An Agricultural and Processed Food Products Export Development Authority and a Spices Board have been set up in addition to the existing institutions for export promotion.

(b) Coordination committees have been set up with representatives of the Ministries, export promotion agencies and trade to look into operational and policy problems and boost exports for sectors such as agriculture, leather, engineering and chemicals.

(c) Government are evolving a package of measures for the Trading Houses to make their functioning more effective and to give them a key role in country's export drive.

(d) It has been decided in principle to set up export monitoring cells in the state capitals, under the Commerce Ministry, to ascertain to what extent import liberalisation and duty concessions and other incentives extended to the various industrial units all over the country have been utilised in boosting exports.

External Capital Flows

8.44 Gross disbursement of external assistance increased from Rs. 2938 crores in 1985-86 to Rs. 3596 crores in 1986-87. It is anticipated that during 1987-88 there may be a further increase in such flows to around Rs. 4500 crores. Net assistance (net of debt servicing) received by India, however, showed a marginal decline from Rs. 1571 crores in 1985-86 to Rs. 1567 crores in 1986-87. Net assistance is expected to increase sharply by around 50 per cent in 1987-88. The details are given in the Table 8.7.

8.45 The Consortium of Governments and institutions interested in development assistance to India met in Paris on June 22-23, 1987. The meeting reviewed the progress in the Seventh Five Year Plan, and the country's aid requirement for 1987-88. The consortium members applauded the country's economic achievements and acknowledged the efforts India is making towards the goals of full employment and poverty alleviation by maintaining the growth of the economy at 5 per cent a year achieved in recent years, which makes a significant step up over the historical growth rate of 3.5 per cent. The aid indications given at the meeting pointed to a commitment level of about US $ 5.4 billion in 1987-88 as against last year's indications of US$ 4.4 billion.

8.46 World Bank group lending to India during Bank's fiscal year 1987 (July 1986 to June 1987) was US$ 2806 million as against US $ 2368 million in the previous year (See Table 8.8). The IBRD lending to India in FY 1987 was US $ 2128 million against US $ 1743 million in FY 1986, and the IDA lending in these years was US $ 678 million and US $ 625 million respectively. India's share in total IDA credits, however, fell from 19.9 per cent in FY 1986 to 19.4 per cent in FY 1987 thus hardening the terms of over-all lending by the Bank.

External Commercial Borrowings

8.47. India has been enjoying excellent credit rating abroad, which has been earned through our prudent approach in the matter of external commercial borrowings, and excellent record in debt servicing. After peaking at Rs. 1906 crores in 1984-85, approvals for external commercial borrowings declined to Rs. 1700 crores in 1985-86 and further to Rs. 1396 crores in 1986-87. However, the trend may reverse during 1987-88 as in the first nine months of the year (April—December, 1987) approvals of external commercial borrowings have amounted to Rs. 1354 crores against Rs. 814 crores during the comparable period of 1986-87. It is to be noted that official approval of terms and conditions of a commercial borrowing proposal does not necessarily mean that it has fructified into actual borrowing in that year.

8.48 In view of the rising trend in India's debt service ratio, it is essential to continue the selective and prudent approach in contracting fresh external liabilities. It is estimated that the country's debt service in 1986-87 on external debts on Government account, non-Government account, IMF drawals and commercial borrowings (including supplier's credits) amounted to about 22 per cent of current receipts. This is likely to increase to 23 to 24 per cent in 1987-88 because of higher IMF repayments and debt service on commercial borrowings contracted in earlier years.

International Economic Developments

World Economic Situation

8.49 According to the projections made by the IMF staff in October, 1987 the industrial countries were likely to achieve an average growth rate of 2.4 per cent in 1987, while output in developing countries was expected to expand by 3.3 per cent. 1987 would thus be the third consecutive year of decelerating output growth for the industrial countries and second consecutive year for the developing countries. Their estimates also indicated that the outlook for 1988 is for growth to be somewhat higher than in 1987 in most of the major industrial countries and in many developing countries. The expectations for 1988 would have to be revised in view of the major upheavals that have taken place in the world stock and currency markets since these forecasts were made. Thus, according to the OECD Economic Outlook published in December 1987, real GNP growth rate in OECD countries was estimated at 2.8 per cent in 1986 and 2.75 per cent in 1987 while the growth rate is projected to substantially decline in 1988 and 1989 to 2.25 per cent and 1.75 per cent respectively.

8.50 The volume growth of world trade improved in 1986, according to OECD, to a level of about 4.5 per cent over the preceding year. However, it is estimated that in 1987 the growth rate may be significantly lower : 3.6 per cent according to IMF staff and 3.8 per cent according to the OECD Economic Outlook. Developing countries were estimated to have suffered heavy terms of trade loss of about 17 per cent in 1986. In 1987 they are estimated to enjoy marginal gains in terms of trade as prices of most primary commodities have posted increases during the year.

8.51 According to the World Bank, there has been no improvement in the third world debt situation in 1987. It has in fact worsened with the third world debt totalling US dollar 1.19 trillion. For the fourth year running the debtor countries are estimated to have spent more money in repayments and interest payments to the richer countries than they got in the form of new loans. According to World Bank estimates, such negative transfers amounted to US dollar 29 billion in 1987. The World Bank report points out that the banker's attitudes towards providing new loans were hardening and that consumption and investment in debtor developing countries had declined to the levels of 1970s.

Upheavals in Stock Markets

8.52 On 'Black Monday', the 19th October 1987, the New York stock market suffered an unprecedented decline in stock prices. The Dow Jones Index of leading industrial stocks fell by 508 points from 2246 to 1738, a drop of 22.6 per cent. Similar reaction took place in some of the leading markets of the world. The markets firmed up subsequently, but the near-term prospects for the major international stock markets remain uncertain. Policy initiatives of the major industrial economies for correcting their macro economic imbalances will shape the medium term prospects of these economies and will determine, in large measure, the extent to which the short and medium term trends in the production and international trade are affected by the upheavals in the stock market. The present market crash comes after a decade of rising protectionism practised by major industrial economies. If the response to the recent developments is further protectionist actions, it could gravely jeopardise the world economic environment. Developing countries cannot escape from the adverse consequences of any setback in the world trade that would follow the slow-down or recessionist trends in the major industrial economies. The severity of the impact of global economic difficulties on developing countries can be minimised if measures are taken by industrial countries and multi-lateral institutions to maintain or enhance the levels of real financial flows to these countries. Resumption of periodic allocations of SDRs would also be conducive to international financial liquidity and help restore stability.

8.53 At this early stage it is difficult to precisely assess the implications of the stock market crash in industrial countries on the rest of the world. In the short term, the financial crash of 1987 is likely to lead to slower growth in world output and trade. The consequences of this are likely to include lower prices for crude oil, and perhaps for machinery and metals in international markets than might otherwise have been the case. Such outcomes might, conceivably, result in modest terms of trade benefits for India in the short run. In the medium term, however, the international environment for economic development is likely to be less congenial Any significant slowdown in the growth of the world output and trade, because of turbulence in the world financial markets, is likely to entail adverse consequences for growth of exports of developing countries, including India, specially if such an outcome is accompanied by intensification of protectionist actions in industrial countries. Thus, in the medium term, such adverse volume effects on India's exports could outweigh any beneficial, short term terms of trade effects.

Exchange Rate Volatility

8.54 The 1980s have witnessed unprecedented volatility in the exchange rates of the major world currencies. The appreciation of the US dollar relative to other maior currencies which started in the third quarter of 1980 continued upto February 1985. During the month of February, 1985 the effective exchange rate of the dollar stood at a level 50 per cent higher than its average over the decade 1974—83. Beginning March 1985, the dollar started its downward plunge. Between early 1985—when it peaked—and April 1987, the US dollar had already depreciated in real effective terms by 35 per cent. The Plaza Accord of major industrial countries in September, 1985 emphasised the need to achieve exchange rate relationships that better reflects economic fundamentals. The Louvre Accord of February 1987 stated the participating countries' intention of stabilising exchange rates around the then prevailing levels. The Accord outlined the commitments of the surplus countries to strengthen domestic demand, reduce external surpluses and maintain price stability. It also outlined the commitments of deficit countries to encourage steady growth with low inflation while reducing domestic and external imbalances. Subsequent developments, however, raise doubts about the extent of active willingness on the part of G-7 countries to support the US dollar within the exchange rate ranges implicit in the Louvre Accord. In the event, the downward journey of US dollar has continued and the currency has gone below the 40 year low against the Yen.

8.55 The imbalances in the international financial system in recent years have been characterised by massive and persistent trade and budget deficits of the United States, and large current account surpluses of Japan and Germany. The current account imbalances of the three largest industrial countries have become a matter of increasing concern to the international community, as these are perceived to be the major underlying cause of volatility of exchange rates.

The World Bank

8.56 The issue of a general capital increase of the World Bank was discussed by the Development Committee at its meeting held in September, 1987. The Committee agreed that a general capital increase was urgently needed so as to support a growing lending programme and it called on the Executive Directors of the Bank to complete their deliberations on such an increase expeditiously.

8.57 The Eighth Replenishment of the International Development Association (IDA) is scheduled to cover the period July 1987—June 1990. Though the donors had initially agreed to provide resources for a basic replenishment of $ 11.5 billion, this was subsequently enlarged through commitments for supplementary contributions, bringing the total resources to over $ 12.4 billion. It is proposed to allocate a minimum of 45 per cent of these resources to Sub-Saharan African countries, stretching to 50 per cent, if warranted by progress with their economic adjustment programme. Allocations to China and India will not be reduced in nominal terms, though in percentage terms these would be reduced to about 30 per cent of the total IDA-8 resources as against 38 per cent under IDA-7. For projects approved from 1st July, 1987 onwards, the period of maturity of IDA credits has been reduced from 50 years to 40 years for least developed countries and to 35 years for other recepient countries. India will come under the latter category, with maturity of 35 years. This reduction in maturity period would entail a decline in the grant element of IDA credit, as conventionally computed, to 74 per cent from the existing level of 81 per cent.

The IMF

8.58 The Eighth General Review of IMF quotas which became effective on April 20, 1984 provided for an increase of 47.5 per cent in the Fund quotas, which would have raised the total quotas to SDR 90,035 million. The Ninth General Review of the IMF quotas is currently due and discussions are being held in the IMF on this issue.

8.59 The IMF had set up, in March 1986, a Structural Adjustment Facility (SAF) to provide additional balance of payments assistance on concessional terms to low-income members eligible for IDA credits. The SAF was to be financed by about SDR 2.7 billion of repayments becoming available during 1985—91 from loans previously made under the Trust Fund. In order to augment the availability of concessional resources to low income members, the IMF has established in December 1987 the Enhanced Structural Adjustment Facility (ESAF) which is expected to provide new concessional resources totalling SDR 6 billion, financed by special loans and contributions from a wide range of countries. The ESAF is designed, like SAF, to help poorest member countries undertake strong macro-economic and structural programmes to improve their balance of payments positions and foster growth. Financial terms applying under the ESAF will be the same as under SAF—repayments in ten semi-annual instalments beginning after five and half years of disbursements and interest rate of 0.5 per cent. At present, 62 members of the IMF, including India, are eligible to seek assistance under the ESAF.

Role of G-24

8.60 The Intergovernmental Group Of Twenty Four on International Monetary Affairs (G-24), of which India is a member, has from time to time been representing and projecting the views of the developing countries on various international monetary and financial issues. In 1985 the Group had submitted a report on the "Functioning and Improvement of the International Monetary System". In 1987, it presented another important report focusing on "Role of the IMF in Adjustment with Growth". The proposals and reforms advocated by G-24 have included "target zones" for major international currencies, a substantial fresh allocation of SDRs, better coordination of macro-economic policies by industrial countries and greater emphasis on growth in programmes and policies of the IMF.

8.61 With a view to reducing instability in the exchange rates of major currencies the G-24 has recommended the proposal of "target zones". The target zone proposal was devised to overcome the rigidities of a par value system and the destablising uncertainities of the floating exchange rates. Adoption of this proposal along with greater policy coordination among major industrial countries could help achieve the objectives of exchange rate stability and sustainable levels of payment balances. The Group has emphasised that there is at present a long term global need for a substantial allocation of SDRs in relation to expected growth of world trade, financial transactions and output. It has further pointed out that an allocation of SDRs at this time would relieve the stringency in the reserve position of a large number of developing countries, promote economic recovery in several low-income countries, reduce dependence on costly borrowed resources, help orderly adjustment and also go a long way in solving the current debt crisis. The G-24 has also reiterated the considerable impact of major industrial countries' national policies on the world economy and called for coordination of their policies with active participation of developing countries in discussions that affect them. In this connection, the Group has welcomed the move to introduce indicators as a guide in the process of Fund surveillance.

8.62 The G-24 report on "The Role of the IMF in Adjustment with Growth" notes that the IMF has generally insisted on heavy reliance on demand management policies for correcting maladjustments in external repayments leading to a substantial loss of output and severe curtailment of investment in many developing countries. Devaluation has also not served its intended purpose and has aggravated inflationary pressures. As an alternative, the report has recommended that in order to provide a growth perspective to Fund programmes, a set of growth exercises should be performed prior to the financial exercises. Foreign credit inflows and their terms should be consistent with growth targets, and also with a sustainable debt service burden that the country could bear over the long run. An assessment of debt servicing capacity should be an integral part of the growth exercises. The Report has stated that growth targets in developing countries should also be related to other objectives such as improving income distribution and alleviating poverty.

Uruguay Round of Multilateral Trade Negotiations

8.63 The Ministerial Meeting of the GATT (General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs) Contracting Parties held at Punta-del-Este (Uruguay) in September, 1986 decided to launch a new round of Multilateral Trade Negotiations encompassing both goods and services. The negotiations on services are being held outside the framework of the GATT. During 1987 India participated actively in the series of meetings held at Geneva to consider proposals made by participants for liberalisation of trade. The main interest of India and other developing countries in these negotiations is to seek ways and means of strengthening the multilateral trading system. For this purpose, they attach special importance to adherence to the commitment for a standstill on and rollback of measures, inconsistent with the principles of the GATT. They would also like early results to be obtained on systemic issues such as dispute settlement and safeguards in order to ensure that the major trading countries do not retreat from multilateralism. Additionally, they would like to secure liberalisation of trade in such sectors as textiles and tropical products in which they have significant export interest. However, the industrialised countries have been showing much greater interest in the new areas of negotiations, such as, trade in services, trade related investment measures and trade-related intellectual property rights. Industrialised countries as well as several developing countries, which export agricultural products, have been very active in seeking liberalisations of trade in these products.

UNCTAD-VII

8.64 The Seventh Session of the UN Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD) concluded at Geneva on August 3, 1987. The Conference recognised the serious problems confronting the present day world economy, such as increasingly unpredictable trading environment, mounting debt burden, high real interest rates, inadequate net flow of financial resources to the developing countries, volatility and misaligned exchange rates, etc. The Conference noted that many member countries proposed an international conference on money and finance for development with universal participation. It was agreed that major market economy countries would adopt co-ordinated policies to promote stable, sustainable, non-inflationary growth, consistent with their declared aims and strengthen the mechanism for on-going process of multilateral surveillance of economic policies. Developing countries, on their part, agreed to strengthen the policies and measures to mobilise domestic financial and human resources to provide a suitable policy environment for external financial resources, public and private, as appropriate. In regard to debt problem, the Conference recognised the shared responsibility of the main parties, and the need for a co-operative and growth oriented strategy, including flexibility in debt restructuring and rescheduling operations. It called for fully implementing the Trade and Development Board Resolution, 1978 in respect of ODA debt of 'poorer' developing countries.

8.65 On the question of external resources for development, the UNCTAD Conference agreed that the multilateral financial institutions should be strengthened by endowing them with adequate resources to fulfil their tasks. The Final Act also stated that members of World Bank should support a substantial and early general increase of its capital. It expressed concern about the plight of the low income countries, recognised the need for concessional finance and urged the conclusion of discussion on the proposal of the IMF's Managing Director to triple the resources of the Structural Adjustment Facility. The Conference also recognised the need for a stable exchange rate environment as conducive to balanced trade, investment and an open multilateral trade system. The Conference reaffirmed the Integrated Programme for Commodities (IPC) and noted the improved prospects for entry into force of the Agreement on Common Fund, following notifications and signatures by additional countries, including the USSR.

8.66 In the area of international trade, the role of the UNCTAD was reinforced. The Conference enunciated the principle that commitments with respect to trade in goods should not be made conditional on receiving concessions in other areas. The critical role of the Uruguay Round of Multilateral Trade Negotiations (MTN) in the world trading system was reaffirmed. The Conference called for respecting the commitments on 'standstill' and 'rollback'. It agreed on the need for full and expeditious implementation of the Substantial New Programme of Action (SNPA) for the Least Developed Countries (LDCs). In recommending the policies and measures, the Conference took care to protect the interests and concerns of the developing countries in all the areas.

The South Commission

8.67 The international economic situation that faces the developing countries is very adverse. The North-South dialogue is stalemating, though the South has shown its willingness for co-operative search of solutions. This situation has reinforced the need for South-South economic cooperation. The announcement to set up an independent international South Commission was made at the Non-Aligned Summit meeting in Harare in September 1986, under the Chairmanship of Shri Julius K. Nyerere, former President of Tanzania. The membership of the Commission was announced in July 1987 and it has begun functioning in Geneva with Dr. Manmohan Singh, former Deputy Chairman of India's Planning Commission, as member and Secretary General. The Commission is expected, according to the Chairman, to attend to specific issues of prime importance and unambiguous and positive proposals for action on some of the more urgent and fundamental questions confronting the developing countries. It is hoped the conclusions and recommendations of the Commission would be a significant input for work of the Non-Aligned countries and Group of 77. The Commission which is expected to undertake its work over the next three years had its first meeting in October 1987. The Commission's terms of reference and work programme are to be finalised at its next meeting scheduled to take place in March 1988.

South-South Cooperation : GSTP

8.68 India has played an important role in promoting the concept of Global System of Trade Preferences (GSTP) to encourage trade between developing nations. The country participated actively in the preparatory work for the drawing up the basic guidelines and principles of GSTP which resulted in the adoption of a declaration by the Ministerial Meeting of the Group-77 held at New York in October, 1982. The New Delhi Meeting of July, 1985 provided further political impetus to GSTP negotiations and the Ministerial Meeting of the participating countries in GSTP in May, 1986 at Brasillia marked the launching of the first round of GSTP negotiations. By common agreement it has been decided that participation in GSTP shall be reserved for the developing countries which are members of the Group-77. Mutual 'Request Lists' have so far been exchanged by 45 countries. Bilateral and multilateral consultations are taking place between these countries and a Ministrial Meeting is likely to be held at Belgrade in April, 1988 to finalise the first round negotiations of GSTP. India has received request lists from 26 countries and has filed requests on 27 countries. It has already been agreed that GSTP should be based on the principle of mutuality of advantages and should benefit equitably all participants.

SAARC

8.69 In the field of regional economic cooperation, an important development was the signing of the agreement establishing the SAARC Food Security Reserve, which marks a significant step towards collective self-reliance in the region. The reserve is to consist of 2,00,000 tonnes of foodgrains of which India's share will be 1,53,200 tonnes. A member country is entitled to draw on the reserve in an emergency, after notifying the other member countries directly about the existence of the emergency and requesting the foodgrains required. The terms of supply are to be negotiated bilaterally. A SAARC Food Security Reserve Board, consisting of a representative from each member country, is to monitor the organisation and operation of the reserve.

8.70 The Kathmandu Summit of the SAARC held in October 1987, decided that studies should be undertaken in the areas of trade regimes vis-a-vis industrial protection policies of the member countries, quantification of benefits of intra-regional trade, establishment of a mechanism for financing short duration trade imbalances, joint ventures and national systems of industrial regulation.

Outlook

8.71 More than any other aspect of the economy, the balance of payments is shaped by developments in the international economy. India's balance of payments difficulties in the last two and half years reflect, to some extent, the progressive slowing down in growth of world output leading to sluggishness in trade since 1985. It was earlier expected that after three years of deceleration, growth of world output and trade would pick up, at least marginally, in 1988. The stock market crisis of 1987 has undermined this expectation. Although it is too early to assess the impact of the stock market crisis of October 1987, some analysts believe that the world economy could suffer recessionary conditions in 1988 because of financial crisis. A global economy in recession would imply constraints on trade-related and other financial flows to developing countries leading to increased external problems.

8.72 The world foreign exchange market continues to be in turmoil with US dollar declining against majority of the currencies. Uncertainty in the exchange market is bad both for trade and investment. Exchange rate volatility generates destabilising uncertainity, discourages investment and trade, leads to misallocation of resources and increases reserve needs.

8.73 POL continues to be the single most important item in our import bill and the movement in its price plays a major part in determining the size of our trade deficit. In 1985-86, net imports of POL constituted 22.8 per cent of our total imports; the share fell to 11.5 per cent in 1986-87 owing to a sharp but temporary fall in international prices of POL. These imports accounted for as much as 42.4 per cent of our export earnings in 1985-86 and 18.7 per cent in 1986-87. Our dependence on imports of petroleum products (net) to meet domestic consumption needs which had declined progressively from about 76 per cent in 1980-81 to about 32 per cent in 1984-85, increased to about 41 per cent in 1985-86 and 37 per cent in 1986-87 following the slowing down in the domestic production of crude oil since the beginning of the Seventh Plan. In 1986, the average nominal price of crude oil was about US $ 13.8 a barrel. In 1987, it has been more than US $18 a barrel. Oil has been the one thing to show stability and quiet strength during the October stock market upheavals. In the near future, the price of oil is likely to remain potentially very unstable and will be influenced primarily by the degree of production restraints exercised by the major oil exporting countries, the growth in the world output and the exchange rate developments. In their Vienna meeting of December 1987 OPEC States agreed to keep their 18 dollar oil price for the first half of the 1988 and set a 15.05 million barrels per day ceiling on production to defend it. The pressure on our balance of trade will be reduced to the extent POL prices decline in 1988 from their existing levels.

8.74 The unprecedented drought of 1987 has caused additional strains on the balance of payments. It has necessitated additional imports of essential items like edible oils, pulses, POL, etc. On the other hand, it has potentially reduced exports of agro-based commodities. Additional disbursements of external assistance from multilateral and bilateral sources on account of drought relief are unlikely to fully compensate for the deterioration in the current account caused by the drought.

8.75 Balance of payments projections based even on fairly optimistic assumptions regarding growth of exports of goods and services point to a difficult outlook in the medium term. For a successful management of the external payments position in the medium term, we will have to ensure a substantial and sustained growth of exports of both goods and services. The balance of payments position is sensitive to the growth of imports also. The growth of imports would need to be moderated through efficient import substitution in key bulk commodities, energy conservation, reduced investment in import intensive projects and gradual reduction of imports of components in sectors like automobiles and electronics. It is also essential to keep borrowings on commercial terms within prudent limits. As indicated in last year's Economic Survey, adverse factors would continue to exert pressure on balance of payments during the rest of the present decade and the situation demands continuous and careful management

PROBLEMS AND PROSPECTS

The countrywide drought of 1987 caused a temporary setback to the momentum of development, posed fresh challenges to economic management and highlighted some of the underlying trends and features of the Indian economy. In the short run, the prime focus of economic and administrative management was, naturally, on programmes of drought relief and other emergency measures aimed at moderating the massive human and economic costs arising from the drought. At the same time, the sudden and abnormal strains imposed by the drought focussed attention on some of the longer-run strengths and weaknesses of the Indian economy, which are germane to an assessment of problems and prospects for the future.

9.2 The strong points of recent economic performance, which were brought into sharp relief against a background of natural calamities, included rapid and sustained growth of the industrial sector, the inherent strength of the agricultural economy despite successive years of bad weather, growing resilience of the industrial and other non-agricultural sectors to disruptions in agriculture, the ability to maintain the tempo of infrastructure development in the face of adversities, the emergence of healtry trends in the foreign trade account and a capacity for responsive economic management in the face of massive and unanticipated changes in the economic environment.

9.3 On the debit side, the drought also highlighted underlying weaknesses in certain sectors. Most important, it drew attention to the continued sensitivity of agricultural production, especially food production, to variations in weather. Other problems which were underlined in this year of natural adversities, included the vulnerability of the general price level to sudden shortages in agricultural supplies, secular pressure for high levels of Government expenditure which limits the scope of fiscal policy to contain inflation, continued strains on the balance of payments, high cost structure in substantial segments of industry and the persistence of excess capacity and low productivity in some capital-intensive sectors.

9.4 In the field of agriculture, the Government's short-term response to the drought included immediate measures to minimise kharif crop losses, augmented allocation of resources for irrigation, accelerated completion of ongoing projects and a campaign to maximise rabi crop production by ensuring adequate supplies of major inputs, including provision of power for agriculture use on a priority basis and supply of credit for raising a second crop. In the medium and long run, the solutions to the continued problems of instability in agricultural production must be based on a proper analysis of the factors responsible for such instability. Factors contributing to instability in agricultural output include the fact that about 70 per cent of total cropped area is still rainfed; that even out of 30 per cent of cropped area irrigated a large proportion of the irrigation potential is based on wells and tanks which are themselves sensitive to rainfall and get depleted in years of poor weather; the geographically skewed pattern of agricultural development, with much of the surplus production concentrated in a few regions and states, thus making total production significantly dependent on weather outcomes in these areas; and the fact that in recent years output gains have largely come from increases in yield rather than acreage and the associated feature that yields are highly sensitive to rainfall because of close complementarity between high yield seed varieties, fertilizers and water availability.

9.5 To overcome these problems, it is essential to pursue, with renewed vigour, a long term strategy for reducing the vulnerability of agriculture to adverse weather conditions, and for sustaining a higher growth path for the sector. First and foremost, the area under assured irrigation must be rapidly expanded with the early completion of ongoing projects and full utilisation of the irrigation potential created. In pursuit of this objective, allocations for major and medium irrigation projects are being reviewed and greater emphasis is being placed on maximising utilisation of the enhanced irrigation potential. The current large gap between irrigation potential and its utilisation must be rapidly closed through measures such as follow up work in command areas on field channels, land shaping and land levelling; improvement in water management systems; emphasis on appropriate cropping patterns and related extension work to maximise the benefits from water availability; improved availability of power for agricultural pumpsets and tubewells, greater attention to minor irrigation schemes and better maintenance of all irrigation assets. While wells and tanks provide valuable sources of irrigation in some areas, there is scope for better utilisation of ground water potential in high rainfall areas such as the Gangetic belt. In rainfed areas the reduction in weather-related output variations must come from improvements in water management and cropping patterns together with the stepping up of programmes of afforestation and ecological renewal. It is particularly important to reverse the growing loss of fertile top soils and soil moisture on account of declining vegetable cover and other factors. To reduce the fluctuation in agricultural output stemming from the concentration of recent agricultural growth in a few states and regions, it is essential to move towards a more dispersed pattern of agricultural development. To facilitate this, it will be necessary to lay special emphasis on provision of irrigation, land development and other agricultural infrastructure in those regions, where agriculture has lagged behind. Government agencies as well as financial institutions need to coordinate their activities to produce results at the field level in terms of improved operational plans for irrigation systems, and provision of seeds, other inputs and working capital to the farmer, particularly after a year of drought.

9.6 The robust performance of infrastructure sectors in the past year was a key positive factor contributing to strong industrial growth inspite of drought and facilitating the implementation of various measures in the fields of energy and transportation aimed at reducing the economic costs of drought. Nevertheless, the scope for further improvements in utilisation of existing infrastructure assets remains substantial. Shortages of power continue to constrain industrial production in many states, a problem which was aggravated during the past year's drought by shortfalls in hydel generation and the need to divert power to priority agricultural uses. Productivity increases in infrastructure sectors are of special value in the context of scarce investible resources, since these sectors tend to be highly capital intensive. There has already been a significant improvement in stepping up the capacity utilisation in the power sector. Further improvements in plant load factors of our power stations can bring about very substantial savings in additional investment needed to meet our growing demand for electrical energy. Similarly, while there have been substantial improvements in the operational efficiency of the railways, a further improvement can lead to significant savings in investment requirements. Furthermore, since India is likely to face a growing gap between domestic demand and supply of mineral oil, further improvements in the efficiency of energy use in the transport sector are essential for curbing the rapid growth in the consumption of petroleum products, such as high speed diesel oil. To ensure adequate growth of infrastructure services in the context of a tight resources situation, it is vital to secure high rates of economic return per unit of investment as well as to generate enough investible surpluses for financing further necessary expansions. Better performance in non-tradable sectors such as power and transport is also necessary for improving the competitiveness of our exports.

9.7 The resilience of our industrial growth in the face of a sharp decline in agricultural output has been a remarkable positive feature of industrial developments in the past year. Compared to earlier years of serious drought, this substantially improved performance of industry can be attributed to a combination of robust performance of infrastructure, the policy initiatives taken in recent years to enhance industrial productivity and the long-term change in the structure of industry, which has reduced its dependence on agriculture. However, the contractionary demand effects of the drought are likely to make themselves felt more fully, with a lag, in the first half of calender 1988, though such trends would be reversed by a rebound in agricultural output and incomes with a better monsoon in the coming year. The task ahead is to ensure that the virtuous combination of industrial policies and infrastructural performance, that have generated four years of rapid industrial growth, is maintained and that measures are taken to bring about further improvements in industry's international competitiveness, which is necessary for sustained growth of our manufactured exports.

9.8 The tendency, in recent years, for the growth of current Government expenditures to outstrip the growth of current revenues has been noted in previous Economic Surveys. The secular pressure for high levels of Government expenditure has led to successive deficits on revenue account and reduced Government savings. Faced by the sharply expanded responsibilities for relief expenditures due to drought and floods, the Government acted swiftly to increase revenues and institute economies in other heads of non-Plan expenditure. The basic goal was to find enough resources to finance the additional relief expenditures without cutting back on the public investment programme or risking a massive increase in the budget deficit. Looking ahead, the continued rapid increase in current Government expenditures poses serious risks for inflation and our availability to attain public investment goals in real terms. A durable solution to the underlying fiscal problem must be pursued vigorously on three fronts : curbs on the growth of expenditures, measures to broaden the base of revenues and steps to improve further the financial performance of public sector enterprises.

9.9 A strategy for reducing the growth of Government expenditure must encompass several elements, including, ruthless pruning of programmes of doubtful economic and social merit, moderation in the growth of wages and salaries, reduction in the growing bill of subsidies through better efficiency and a clear priority in favour of completing ongoing programmes in time as compared with the launching of new schemes. To broaden the base of revenues, the Government has taken a number of measures in recent years, including, the reduction of special tax exemptions and deductions, the pursuit of a multi-pronged anti-evasion strategy and the institution of the MODVAT system in excise taxation. Considerable scope remains for eliminating unnecessary tax exemptions and deductions and for taking further steps to improve tax compliance and collections. In the arena of public sector enterprises, improvements in financial performance must go hand in hand with gains in operational efficiency. While prices charged by public enterprises need to be adjusted in line with unavoidable increases in costs, they should not become a soft option to the more arduous quest for real gains in productivity. To reduce inflationary pressures and generate more investible surpluses for expanding output and employment, increases in wages and salaries would have to bear closer relationship with growth in productivity. Improvements in operational performance of public sector enterprises have to be sought at many levels and in many ways. The Government has already initiated measures to foster an environment of greater effective autonomy and accountability. This process must be pursued with vigour and determination. These priorities are as relevant for State Governments as for the Central Government. Indeed, some of these issues demand even more urgent attention in respect of municipal finances. The growing pace of urbanisation has spawned rapid growth in demand for urban infrastructure, which can only be financed through far reaching reforms in existing systems of municipal taxation and cost recovery for services provided to better off sections of society.

9.10 For prudent economic management, sound fiscal policy has to be coupled with appropriate monetary and credit policies. Over the past year, the monetary and credit stance of the authorities has been conditioned by two major sets of considerations: on the one hand, monetary growth should not be so high as to aggravate the inflationary pressures stemming from the sharp drought-induced fall in agricultural production; on the other hand, it has been necessary to avoid the unduly recessionary consequences of excessive monetary restraint, which could compound the reduction in demand likely to occur anyway because of the drought-induced fall in rural incomes. Looking ahead, it is clear that these balancing considerations must continue to govern the evolution of monetary and credit policy. In particular, it is essential to avoid excessive monetary growth at a time when underlying inflationary trends are strong. At the same time, it will be necessary to provide for increases in commercial credit sufficient to meet the genuine requirements of the recovery in production that is likely to occur, especially in the latter part of the coming year, with the return of more normal weather conditions.

9.11 Despite the drought, trends in India's foreign trade, as indicated by provisional DGCI&S data, were quite favourable during the past year. Exports increased by nearly 25 per cent in April—December, 1987 as compared to the same period of 1986, while imports increased at a much lower pace of about 14 per cent. The overall balance of payments continued to be under strain, as anticipated in successive Economic Surveys of the past several years. The adverse medium term factors included an expected deceleration in the growth of indigenous oil production, growing protectionist tendencies in international trade, the bunching of repayment obligations to the IMF and other creditors and the unfavourable climate for concessionel assistance. In 1987-88, these medium-term pressures were aggravated by a rebound in international oil prices from the low levels of the previous year and the occurrance of widespread drought, which entailed substantial additional imports of essential commodities and constrained the exports of some agricultural products. In the short run, some of the adverse effects of the drought on the balance of payments were mitigated by initiatives which increased the flow of external assistance during the year.

9.12 In the medium term, successful management of the balance of payments situation is critically dependent on rapid and sustained growth in exports. Export performance over the past two years gives good grounds for optimism. However, given the strength of the pressures and the uncertainties of the international situation, there is no scope for complacency. Efforts to promote and accelerate the growth of exports and tourism earnings must continue without let up. For such efforts to succeed it is essential to improve the quality and price competitiveness of India's manufactured production. In this crucial sense the long term viability of India's balance of payments depends on the growth and efficiency of India's industry. Efforts must also continue to seek savings in imports through efficient import substitution. In the field of energy, special efforts are necessary to curb the rapid growth of consumption of petroleum products, especially since the growth of indigenous petroleum production is expected to decelerate in the years ahead. While management of the balance of payments will continue to require substantial financing from external sources, it is imperative that the recourse to commercial sources is kept within prudent limits.

9.13 While economic policy will, of necessity, focus on short and medium term issues, we must not lose sight of long term trends and forces which influence the scope and character of India's economic development. Three such issues demand special attention : urbanisation, population and education. The recent report of the National Commission on Urbanisation has drawn pointed attention to the problems posed by the rapid growth of India's urban population and has suggested a number of remedies. To master this new set of challenges we must act soon and decisively. The rapid expansion of cities and towns has sharpened the need for commensurate growth in productive urban employment opportunities. The rate of growth of overall population remains higher than anticipated at the beginning of the Seventh Plan. Special efforts are necessary to reduce population growth. Particular emphasis should be given to measures aimed at improving female literacy as well as the general status of women. Studies suggest that improvements in the health delivery systems can be very important in reducing the birth rate through feedback effects via reduced infant mortality rates. In line with the new education policy, we must also take steps to accelerate the spread of literacy and improvement in quality and relevance of education available to the population at large. Experience has shown that a well educated population is the best guarantor of sustained and equitable economic development. Above all, education offers the invaluable key to advancement to those trapped in the cycle of poverty. More broadly, the spread of low-cost, high-quality social services is essential, both for immediate enhancement of the living standards of poor people today and for strengthening the human capital base for long-term development.

NOTES : 1. Population figures from 1971 to 1980 are based on the latest projections made by the office of the Registrar General of India. Estimates from 1981 onwards are based on the Expert Committee's population projections as approved by the Planning Commission.

2. Production figures relate to agricultural year July—June : 1951 figures correspond to the production of 1950-51 and so on for subsequent years.

3. Net production has been taken as 87.5% of the gross production, 12.5% being provided for feed, seed requirements and wastage. During 1987 1.7 million tonnes of wheat in Punjab was lost due to unseasonal rains.

4. Figures in respect of change in stocks with traders and producers are not known. The estimates of net availability above should not, therefore, be taken to be strictly equivalent to consumption.

5. Per capita net availability for 1987 has been calculated taking into consideration the figure of the net imports and change in stocks as on 1-12-1987.

6. The figures of net imports from 1981 onwards are based on imports and exports on Govt. of India account only.

(a) Includes plan expenditure of Railways, P&T and Non-departmental commercial undertakings financed out of their internal and extra-budgetary resources, including market borrowings and term loans from financial institutions to State Government public enterprises. Also includes developmental loans given by the Central and State Governments to non-departmental undertakings, local bodies and other parties. However, it excludes a notional amount of Rs. 45 crores in 1980-81, Rs. 69 crores in 1981-82, Rs. 2 crores in 1982-83, Rs. 17 crores in 1983-84, Rs. 461 crores in 1984-85, and Rs. 97 crores in 1985-86 on account of conversion of loan capital given to non-departmental commercial undertakings into equity capital.

(b) Includes general administration, pensions and exgratia payments to former rulers, famine relief (only non-plan portion), subsidies on food and controlled cloth, grants and loans to foreign countries, and loans for non-developmental purposes to other parties, but excludes contingency fund transactions. It also excludes notional transactions in respect of subscriptions to International Monetary Fund of Rs. 559 crores in 1980-81, Rs. (—)44 crores in 1981-82, Rs. 140 crores in 1982-83, Rs. 636 crores in 1983-84, Rs. 368 crores in 1984-85, Rs. 520 crores in 1985-86, Rs. 756 crores in 1986-87 (B.E.), Rs. 1134 crores in 1986-87 (R.E.) and Rs. 876 crores in 1987-88 (B.E.).

(c) Includes internal resources of Railways, Posts and Telegraphs and non-departmental commercial undertakings for the plan. Because of the change in the concept from the Sixth Plan period, the data for 1980-81 onwards are not comparable with those of the earlier years.

(d) Includes market borrowings of State Government public enterprises.

(e) Excludes the notional receipts on account of repayments of loans by non-departmental commercial undertakings due to their conversion into equity capital. It also excludes notional transactions in respect of International Monetary Fund and contingency fund transactions.

NOTES : Figures shown in this table for some items do not correspond to the similar statistics published by the Reserve Bank of India. The difference is due to adjustments made in the above table in receipts and payments in respect of PL—480 assistance which have been grouped together under External Assistance and imports respectively, and excluded from other heads of accounts. The presentation of balance of payments statistics in the table above also differs from adjusted balance of payments table in issues of the Economic Survey prior to 1966-67. In the table above, interest and service payments on foreign loans and credits (unlike in those issues) are inclusive of payments in respect of loans repayable in rupees.

*The rupee equivalent of all foreign currency transactions up to end May 1966 has been arrived at by applying the pre-devaluation exchange rates and of those during the subsequent period by using the current exchange rates.

PL-480 Title I shown under imports item 1(a) and under external assistance item 10(c) represents the commodity assistance which is payable in rupees. PL-480 convertible currency assistance is included in item 10(a) and imports thereof against in item 1(b).

NOTES : 1. Amounts of authorisation and utilisation in donor currencies have been converted into rupees at the pre-devaluation exchange rates upto the end of the Third Plan : at the post devaluation rates for the subsequent years upto 1970-71 : at pre-May 1971 rates for 1971-72 : at Central rates (which prevailed following the currency realignment of December 1971) for 1972-73. Figures of authorisation from 1973-74 onwards have been arrived at by applying the annual average exchange rate of the rupee with individual donor currencies. Figures of utilisation for 1973-74 have been arrived at by applying the quarterly average exchange rate of the rupee with individual donor currencies to the utilisation during the corresponding quarter : for 1974-75 at average exchange rate for the respective month, and for subsequent years at current rates applicable to the dates of transactions.

2. Loan amounts are net of surrenders, de-obligations and cancellations, etc. In case of PL-480, amounts are net of lapsed agreement.

3. Figures for utilisation are inclusive of suppliers' credits, and non-government loans upto 1977-78 which may not be fully reflected in authorisation figures. Subsequent data are exclusive of suppliers' credits, but inclusive of non-government loans.

4. Constituent items may not add up to totals because of rounding.

Bill No. 15 of 1988

THE FINANCE BILL, 1988

A

to give effect to the financial proposals of the Central Government for the financial year 1988-89.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Thirty-ninth Year of the Republic of India as follows:–

CHAPTER I

PRELIMINARY

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Finance Act, 1988.

(2) Save as otherwise provided in this Act, sections 2 to 75 and sections 86 to 88 shall be deemed to have come into force on the 1st day of April, 1988.

CHAPTER II

RATES OF INCOME-TAX

Income-tax.

2. (1) Subject to the provisions of sub-sections (2) and (3), for the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1988, income-tax shall be charged at the rates specified in Part I of the First Schedule and shall be increased,—

(a) in the cases to which Paragraphs A, B, C and D of that Part apply, by a surcharge for purposes of the Union; and

(b) in the cases to which Paragraph E of that Part applies, by a surcharge, calculated in each case in the manner provided therein.

(2) In the cases to which Sub-Paragraph I or Sub-Paragraph II of Paragraph A of Part I of the First Schedule applies, where the assessee has, in the previous year, any net agricultural income exceeding six hundred rupees, in addition to total income, and the total income exceeds,–

(i) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph I applies, eighteen thousand rupees, and

(ii) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph II applies, twelve thousand rupees,

then,–

(a) the net agricultural income shall be taken into account, in the manner provided in clause (b) [that is to say, as if the net agricultural income were comprised in the total income after,–

(i) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph I applies, the first eighteen thousand rupees, and

(ii) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph II applies, the first twelve thousand rupees, of the total income but without being liable to tax], only for the purpose of charging income-tax in respect of the total income; and

(b) the income-tax chargeable shall be calculated as follows:–

(i) the total income and the net agricultural income shall be aggregated and the amount of income-tax shall be determined in respect of the aggregate income at the rates specified in Sub-Paragraph I or, as the case may be, Sub-Paragraph II of the said Paragraph A, as if such aggregate income were the total income;

(ii) the net agricultural income shall be increased,–

(A) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph I applies, by a sum of eighteen thousand rupees; and

(B) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph II applies, by a sum of twelve thousand rupees,

and the amount of income-tax shall be determined in respect of the net agricultural income as so increased at the rates specified in Sub-Paragraph I or, as the case may be, Sub-Paragraph II of the said Paragraph A, as if the net agricultural income as so increased were the total income;

(iii) the amount of income-tax determined in accordance with sub-clause (i) shall be reduced by the amount of income-tax determined in accordance with sub-clause (ii) and the sum so arrived at shall be the income-tax in respect of the total income:

Provided that the amount of income-tax so arrived at shall, in the case of every person having a total income exceeding fifty thousand rupees, be increased by a surcharge for purposes of the Union calculated at the rate of five per cent. of such income-tax and the sum so arrived at shall be the income-tax in respect of the total income.

(3) In cases to which the provisions of Chapter XII or Chapter XII-A or sub-section (1A) of section 161 or section 164 or section 164A or section 167A of the Income-tax Act, 1961 (hereinafter referred to as the Income-tax Act) apply, the tax chargeable shall be determined as provided in that Chapter or that section, and with reference to the rates imposed by sub-section (1) or the rates as specified in that Chapter or section, as the case may be: 43 of 19

Provided that in respect of any income chargeable to tax under section 115B or section 115BB of the Income-tax Act, the income-tax computed under section 115B or section 115BB shall be increased by a surcharge for purposes of the Union calculated at the rate of five per cent. of such income-tax.

(4) In cases in which tax has to be deducted under sections 193, 194, 194A, 194B, 194BB, 194D and 195 of the Income-tax Act at the rates in force, the deduction shall be made at the rates specified in Part II of the First Schedule and shall be increased,—

(a) in the cases to which the provisions of sub-item (a) of item 1 of that Part apply, by a surcharge for purposes of the Union; and

(b) in the cases to which the provisions of sub-item (a) of item 2 of that Part apply, by a surcharge, calculated in each case in the manner provided therein.

(5) In cases in which tax has to be deducted under section 194C of the Income-tax Act, the deduction shall be made at the rates specified in that section and shall be increased by a surcharge for purposes of the Union calculated at the rate of five per cent. of such deduction.

(6) In cases in which tax has to be collected under section 206C of the Income-tax Act, the collection shall be made at the rate specified in that section and shall be increased by a surcharge for purposes of the Union calculated at the rate of five per cent. of such collection.

(7) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (8), in cases in which income-tax has to be calculated under the first proviso to sub-section (5) of section 132 of the Income-tax Act or charged under sub-section (4) of section 172 or sub-section (2) of section 174 or section 175 or sub-section (2) of section 176 of the said Act or deducted under section 192 of the said Act from income chargeable under the head "Salaries" or deducted under sub-section (1) of section 194E of the said Act from any payment referred to in the said sub-section (1) or in which the "advance tax" payable under Chapter XVII-C of the said Act has to be computed, at the rate or rates in force, such income-tax or, as the case may be, "advance tax" shall be so calculated, charged, deducted or computed at the rate or rates specified in Part III of the First Schedule and shall be increased,—

(a) in the cases to which Paragraphs A, B and C of that Part apply, by a surcharge for purposes of the Union; and

(b) in the cases to which Paragraph D of that Part applies, by a surcharge,

calculated in each case in the manner provided therein:

Provided that in cases to which the provisions of Chapter XII or Chapter XII-A or sub-section (1A) of section 161 or section 164 or section 164A or section 167A or section 167B of the Income-tax Act apply, "advance tax" shall be computed with reference to the rates imposed by this sub-section or the rates as specified in that Chapter or section, as the case may be:

Provided further that in respect of any income chargeable to tax under section 115B of the Income-tax Act, the "advance tax" computed under the first proviso shall be increased by a surcharge for purposes of the Union calculated at the rate of five per cent. of such "advance tax".

(8) In the cases to which Sub-Paragraph I or Sub-Paragraph II of Paragraph A of Part III of the First Schedule applies, where the assessee has, in the previous year or, if by virtue of any provision of the Income-tax Act, income-tax is to be charged in respect of the income of a period other than the previous year, in such other period, any net agricultural income exceeding six hundred rupees, in addition to total income and the total income exceeds,–

(i) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph I applies, eighteen thousand rupees, and

(ii) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph II applies, twelve thousand rupees, then, in calculating income-tax under the first proviso to sub-section (5) of section 132 of the Income-tax Act or in charging income-tax under sub-section (2) of section 174 or section 175 or sub-section (2) of section 176 of the said Act or in computing the "advance tax" payable under Chapter XVII-C of the said Act, at the rate or rates in force,–

(a) the net agricultural income shall be taken into account, in the manner provided in clause (b) [that is to say, as if the net agricultural income were comprised in the total income after,–

(i) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph I applies, the first eighteen thousand rupees, and

(ii) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph II applies, the first twelve thousand rupees, of the total income but without being liable to tax], only for the purpose of calculating, charging or computing such income-tax or, as the case may be, "advance tax" in respect of the total income; and

(b) such income-tax or, as the case may be, "advance tax" shall be so calculated, charged or computed as follows:–

(i) the total income and the net agricultural income shall be aggregated and the amount of income-tax or "advance tax" shall be determined in respect of the aggregate income at the rates specified in Sub-Paragraph I or, as the case may be, Sub-Paragraph II of the said Paragraph A, as if such aggregate income were the total income;

(ii) the net agricultural income shall be increased,—

(A) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph I applies, by a sum of eighteen thousand rupees; and

(B) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph II applies, by a sum of twelve thousand rupees,

and the amount of income-tax or "advance tax" shall be determined in respect of the net agricultural income as so increased at the rates specified in the said Sub-Paragraph I or, as the case may be, the said Sub-Paragraph II as if the net agricultural income as so increased were the total income;

(iii) the amount of income-tax or "advance tax" determined in accordance with sub-clause (i) shall be reduced by the amount of income-tax or, as the case may be, "advance tax" determined in accordance with sub-clause (ii) and the sum so arrived at shall be the income-tax or, as the case may be, "advance tax" in respect of the total income:

Provided that the amount of income-tax or "advance tax" so arrived at shall, in the case of every person having a total income exceeding fifty thousand rupees, be increased by a surcharge for purposes of the Union calculated at the rate of five per cent. of such income-tax or, as the case may be, "advance tax" and the sum so arrived at shall be the income-tax or, as the case may be, "advance tax" in respect of the total income.

(9) For the purposes of this section and the First Schedule,—

(a) "company in which the public are substantially interested" means a company within the meaning of clause (18) of section 2 of the Income-tax Act, and includes a subsidiary of such company if the whole of the share capital of such subsidiary company has been held by the parent company or by its nominees throughout the previous year;

(b) "domestic company" means an Indian company, or any other company which, in respect of its income liable to income-tax under the Income-tax Act for the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1988, has made the prescribed arrangements for the declaration and payment within India of the dividends (including dividends on preference shares) payable out of such income in accordance with the provisions of section 194 of the Act;

(c) "insurance commission" means any remuneration or reward, whether by way of commission or otherwise, for soliciting or procuring insurance business (including business relating to the continuance, renewal or revival of policies of insurance);

(d) "investment company" means a company whose gross total income (as defined in section 80B of the Income-tax Act) consists mainly of income which is chargeable under the heads "Interest on securities", "Income from house property", "Capital gains" and "Income from other sources";

(e) "net agricultural income", in relation to a person, means the total amount of agricultural income, from whatever source derived, of that person computed in accordance with the rules contained in Part IV of the First Schedule;

(f) "tax-free security" means any security of the Central Government issued or declared to be income-tax free, or any security of a State Government issued income-tax free, the income-tax whereon is payable by the State Government;

(g) "trading company" means a company whose business consists mainly in dealing in goods or merchandise manufactured, produced or processed by a person other than that company and whose income attributable to such business included in its gross total income (as defined in section 80B of the Income-tax Act) is not less than fifty-one per cent. of the amount of such gross total income;

(h) all other words and expressions used in this section or in the First Schedule but not defined in this sub-section and defined in the Income-tax Act shall have the meanings respectively assigned to them in that Act.

CHAPTER III
DIRECT TAXES

Insertion of new section 10B.

6. After section 10A of the Income-tax Act, the following section shall be inserted with effect from the 1st day of April, 1989, namely:–

Special provision in respect of newly established hundred per cent. export-oriented undertakings.

'10B. (1) Subject to the provisions of this section, any profits and gains derived by an assessee from a hundred per cent. export-oriented undertaking (hereafter in this section referred to as the undertaking) to which this section applies shall not be included in the total income of the assessee.

(2) This section applies to any undertaking which fulfils all the following conditions, namely:–

(i) it manufactures or produces any article or thing;

(ii) it is not formed by the splitting up, or the reconstruction, of a business already in existence:

Provided that this condition shall not apply in respect of any undertaking which is formed as a result of the re-establishment, reconstruction or revival by the assessee of the business of any such industrial undertaking as is referred to in section 33B, in the circumstances and within the period specified in that section;

(iii) it is not formed by the transfer to a new business of machinery or plant previously used for any purpose.

Explanation.— The provisions of Explanation 1 and Explanation 2 to sub-section (2) of section 80-I shall apply for the purposes of clause (iii) of this sub-section as they apply for the purposes of clause (ii) of that sub-section.

(3) The profits and gains referred to in sub-section (1) shall not be included in the total income of the assessee in respect of any five consecutive assessment years, falling within a period of eight years beginning with the assessment year relevant to the previous year in which the undertaking begins to manufacture or produce articles or things, specified by the assessee in his option:

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall be construed to extend the aforesaid five assessment years to cover any period after the expiry of the said period of eight years.

(4) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other provision of this Act, in computing the total income of the assessee of the previous year relevant to the assessment year immediately succeeding the last of the relevant assessment years, or of any previous year relevant to any subsequent assessment year, —

(i) section 32, section 32A, section 33 and clause (ix) of sub-section (1) of section 36 shall apply as if every allowance or deduction referred to therein and relating to or allowable for any of the relevant assessment years, in relation to any building, machinery, plant or furniture used for the purposes of the business of the undertaking in the previous year relevant to such assessment year or any expenditure incurred for the purposes of such business in such previous year had been given full effect to for that assessment year itself and accordingly sub-section (2) of section 32, clause (ii) of sub-section (3) of section 32A, clause (ii) of sub-section (2) of section 33 or the second proviso to clause (ix) of sub-section (1) of section 36, as the case may be, shall not apply in relation to any such allowance or deduction;

(ii) no loss referred to in sub-section (1) of section 72 or sub-section (1) or sub-section (3) of section 74, in so far as such loss relates to the business of the undertaking, shall be carried forward or set off where such loss relates to any of the relevant assessment years;

(iii) no deduction shall be allowed under section 80HH or section 80HHA or section 80-I in relation to the profits and gains of the undertaking; and

(iv) in computing the depreciation allowance under section 32, the written down value of any asset used for the purposes of the business of the undertaking shall be computed as if the assessee had claimed and been actually allowed the deduction in respect of depreciation for each of the relevant assessment years.

(5) Where the undertaking has begun to manufacture or produce articles or things in any previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing before the 1st day of April, 1989, the assessee may, at his option, before the due date for furnishing the return of his income under sub-section (1) of section 139 for the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1989, furnish to the Assessing Officer a declaration in writing that the provisions of sub-section (1) may be made applicable to him for each of the relevant assessment years as reduced by the number of assessment years which expired before the 1st day of April, 1989, and if he does so, then, the provisions of sub-section (1) shall apply to him for each of such relevant assessment years and the provisions of sub-section (4) shall also apply in computing the total income of the assessee for the assessment year immediately succeeding the last of the relevant assessment years and any subsequent assessment year.

(6) The provisions of sub-section (8) and sub-section (9) of section 80-I shall, so far as may be, apply in relation to the undertaking referred to in this section as they apply for the purposes of the industrial undertaking referred to in section 80-I.

(7) Notwithstanding anything contained in the foregoing provisions of this section, where the assessee, before the due date for furnishing the return of his income under sub-section (1) of section 139, furnishes to the Assessing Officer a declaration in writing that the provisions of this section may not be made applicable to him, the provisions of this section shall not apply to him for any of the relevant assessment years.

Explanation.– For the purposes of this section,—

(i) "hundred per cent. export-oriented undertaking" means an undertaking which has been approved as a hundred per cent. export-oriented undertaking by the Board appointed in this behalf by the Central Government in exercise of the powers conferred by section 14 of the Industries (Development and Regulation) Act, 1951, and the rules made under that Act; 65 of 1951.

(i) deposited any amount in accordance with such scheme as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, specify in this behalf (hereafter in this section referred to as the National Savings Scheme); or

(ii) paid any amount to effect or to keep in force a contract for such deferred annuity plan of the Life Insurance Corporation as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, specify, out of his income chargeable to tax, he shall, in accordance with, and subject to, the provisions of this section, be allowed a deduction in the computation of his total income of the whole of the amount deposited or paid (excluding interest or bonus accrued or credited to the assessee's account, if any) as does not exceed the amount of twenty thousand rupees in the previous year:

Provided that in relation to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1989 and subsequent assessment years, this sub-section shall have effect as if for the words "twenty thousand rupees", the words "thirty thousand rupees" had been substituted.

(2) Where any amount—

(a) standing to the credit of the assessee under the National Savings Scheme in respect of which a deduction has been allowed uner sub-section (1) together with the interest accrued on such amount is withdrawn in whole or part in any previous year, or

(b) is received on account of the surrender of the policy or as annuity or bonus in accordance with the deferred annuity plan of the Life Insurance Corporation in any previous year, an amount equal to the whole of the amount referred to in clause (a) or clause (b) shall be deemed to be the income of the assessee of that previous year in which such withdrawal is made or, as the case may be, amount is received, and shall, accordingly, be chargeable to tax as the income of that previous year.

Explanation I. —For the removal of doubts, it is hereby-declared that interest on the deposits made under the National Savings Scheme shall not be chargeable to tax except in the manner and to the extent specified in sub-section (2).

Explanation II.— For the purposes of this section, "Life Insurance Corporation" shall have the same meaning as in clause (a) of sub-section (8) of section 80C.'.

24. In section 80HHC of the Income-tax Act, with effect from the 1st day of April, 1989,— Amendment of section 80HH C.

(a) for sub-section (1), the following sub-sections shall be substituted, namely:—

"(1) Where an assessee, being an Indian company or a person (other than a company) resident in India, is engaged in the business of export out of India of any goods or merchandise to which this section applies, there shall, in accordance with and subject to the provisions of this section, be allowed, in computing the total income of the assessee, a deduction of the whole of the income derived by the assessee from the export of such goods or merchandise:

Provided that if the assessee, being a holder of an Export House Certificate or a Trading House Certificate, (hereafter in this section referred to as an Export House or a Trading House, as the case may be,) issues a certificate referred to in clause (b) of sub-section (4A), that in respect of the amount of the export turnover specified therein, the deduction under this sub-section is to be allowed to a supporting manufacturer, then the amount of deduction in the case of the assessee shall be reduced by such amount which bears to the total profits of the export business of the assessee the same proportion as the amount of export turnover specified in the said certificate bears to the total export turnover of the assessee.

(1A) Where the assessee, being a supporting manufacturer, has during the previous year, sold goods or merchandise to any Export House or Tading House in respect of which the Export House or Trading House has issued a certificate under the proviso to sub-section (1), there shall, in accordance with and subject to the provisions of this section, be allowed in computing the total income of the assessee, a deduction of the whole of the income derived by the assessee from the sale of goods or merchandise to the Export House or Trading House in respect of which the certificate has been issued by the Export House or Trading House.";

(b) after sub-section (3), the following sub-section shall be inserted, namely:—

'(3A) For the purposes of sub-section (1A), profits derived by a supporting manufacturer from the sale of goods or merchandise shall be,—

(a) in a case where the business carried on by the supporting manufacturer consists exclusively of sale of goods or merchandise to one or more Export Houses or Trading Houses, the profits of the business as computed under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession";

(b) in a case where the business carried on by the supporting manufacturer does not consist exclusively of sale of goods or merchandise to one or more Export Houses or Trading Houses, the amount which bears to the profits of the business (as computed under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession") the same proportion as the turnover in respect of sale to the respective Export House or Trading House bears to the total turnover of the business carried on by the assessee.';

(c) after sub-section (4), the following sub-section shall be inserted, namely:—

"(4A) The deduction under sub-section (1A) shall not be admissible unless the supporting manufacturer furnishes in the prescribed form along with his return of income,—

(a) the report of an accountant, as defined in the Explanation below sub-section (2) of section 288, certifying that the deduction has been correctly claimed on the basis of the income of the suporting manufacturer in respect of his sale of goods or merchandise to the Export House or Trading House; and

(b) a certificate from the Export House or Trading House containing such particulars as may be prescribed and verified in the manner prescribed that in respect of the export turnover mentioned in the certificate, the Export House or Trading House has not claimed the deduction under this section:

Provided that the certificate specified in clause (b) shall be duly certified by the auditor auditing the accounts of the Export House or Trading House under the provisions of this Act or under any other law.";

(d) in the Explanation, after clause (c), the following clauses shall be inserted, namely:—

'(d) "Export House Certificate" or "Trading House Certificate" means a valid Export House Certificate or Trading House Certificate, as the case may be, issued by the Chief Controller of Imports and Exports, Government of India;

(e) "supporting manufacturer" means a person being an Indian company or a person (other than a company) resident in India, manufacturing goods or merchandise and selling such goods or merchandise to an Export House or a Trading House for the purposes of export.'.

Excise

Amendment of Act 5 of 1986.

81. The Central Excise Tariff Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as the Central Excise Tariff Act), shall be amended in the manner specified in the Third Schedule.

Special duties of excise.

82. (1) In the case of goods chargeable with a duty of excise under the Central Excises and Salt Act, 1944 (hereinafter referred to as the Central Excises Act), as amended from time to time, read with any notification for the time being in force issued by the Central Government in relation to the duty so chargeable (not being a notification providing for any exemption for giving credit with respect to, or reduction of duty of excise under the said Act on such goods equal to, any duty of excise under the said Act, or the additional duty under section 3 of the Customs Tariff Act, already paid on the raw material or component parts used in the production or manufacture of such goods), there shall be levied and collected a special duty of excise equal to five per cent. of the amount so chargeable on such goods. 1 of 1944.

(2) Sub-section (1) shall cease to have effect after the 31st day of March, 1989, except as respects things done or omitted to be done before such cesser; and section 6 of the General Clauses Act, 1897, shall apply upon such cesser as if the said sub-section had then been repealed by a Central Act. 10 of 1897.

(3) The special duties of excise referred to in sub-section (1) shall be in addition to any duties of excise chargeable on such goods under the Central Excises Act, or any other law for the time being in force.

(4) The provisions of the Central Excises Act, and the rules made thereunder, including those relating to refunds and exemptions from duties, shall, as far as may be, apply in relation to the levy and collection of the special duties of excise leviable under this section in respect of any goods as they apply in relation to the levy and collection of the duties of excise on such goods under that Act or those rules, as the case may be.

Amendment of Act 58 of 1957.

83. The Additional Duties of Excise (Goods of Special Importance) Act, 1957 (hereinafter referred to as the Additional Duties of Excise Act), shall be amended in the manner specified in the Fourth Schedule.

Provision as to additional duties of excise on certain varieties of sugar in relation to a certain period and validation.

84. (1) The notification of the Government of India in the Ministry of Finance (Department of Revenue) No. G.S.R. 97(E), dated the 23rd day of February, 1988, which was issued in exercise of the powers conferred by sub-rule (1) of rule 8 of the Central Excise Rules, 1944, read with sub-section (3) of section 3 of the Additional Duties of Excise Act, providing for withdrawal of exemptions from additional duty of excise in relation to certain varieties of sugar (hereafter in this section referred to as sugar), shall be deemed to have, and to have always had, effect on and from the 10th day of September, 1986.

(2) Any action or thing taken or done or purported to have been taken or done on or after the 10th day of September, 1986 and before the 23rd day of February,1988, in relation to sugar under the Additional Duties of Excise Act, shall be deemed to be, and to have always been, for all purposes as validly and effectively taken or done as if the provisions of sub-section (1) had been in force at all material times and such action or thing had been taken or done under the Additional Duties of Excise Act read with the notification dated the 23rd day of February, 1988, referred to in sub-section (1), and, accordingly, notwithstanding anything contained in any judgment, decree or order of any court, tribunal or other authority,—

(a) all additional duties of excise levied, assessed or collected or purporting to have been levied, assessed or collected on or after the 10th day of September, 1986 and before the 23rd day of February, 1988, on sugar, shall be deemed to be, and shall be deemed to have always been, as validly levied, assessed or collected as if the provisions of this section had been in force at all material times;

(b) no suit or other proceeding shall be maintained or continued in any court, tribunal or other authority, for the refund of, and no enforcement shall be made by any court, tribunal or other authority, of any decree or order directing the refund of, any such additional duties of excise which have been collected and which would have been validly collected if the provisions of this section had been in force at all material times;

(c) recovery shall be made of all such additional duties of excise which have not been collected or, as the case may be, which have been refunded but which would have been collected or, as the case may be, would not have been refunded, if the provisions of this section had been in force at all material times.

Explanation.— For the removal of doubts, it is hereby declared that no act or omission on the part of any person shall be punishable as an offence which would not have been so punishable if this section had not come into force.

PART IV

[See section 2 (9) (e)]

RULES FOR COMPUTATION OF NET AGRICULTURAL INCOME

Rule 1. –Agricultural income of the nature referred to in sub-clause (a) of clause (1) of section 2 of the Income-tax Act shall be computed as if it were income chargeable to income-tax under that Act under the head "Income from other sources" and the provisions of sections 57 to 59 of that Act shall, so far as may be, apply accordingly:

Provided that sub-section (2) of section 58 shall apply subject to the modification that the reference to section 40A therein shall be construed as not including a reference to sub-sections (3) and (4) of section 40A.

Rule 2. –Agricultural income of the nature referred to in sub-clause (b) or sub-clause (c) of clause (1) of section 2 of the Income-tax Act [other than income derived from any building required as a dwelling house by the receiver of the rent or revenue or the cultivator or the receiver of rent-in-kind referred to in the said sub-clause (c)] shall be computed as if it were income chargeable to income-tax under that Act under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession" and the provisions of sections 30, 31, 32, 36, 37, 38, 40, 40A [other than sub-sections (3) and (4) thereof], 41, 43, 43A and 43B of the Income-tax Act shall, so far as may be, apply accordingly.

Rule 3. –Agricultural income of the nature referred to in sub-clause (c) of clause (1) of section 2 of the Income-tax Act, being income derived from any building required as a dwelling house by the receiver of the rent or revenue or the cultivator or the receiver of rent-in-kind referred to in the said sub-clause (c) shall be computed as if it were income chargeable to income-tax under that Act under the head "Income from house property" and the provisions of sections 23 to 27 of that Act shall, so far as may be, apply accordingly:

Provided that sub-section (2) of the said section 23 shall apply subject to the modifications that the references to "total income" therein shall be construed as references to net agricultural income and that the words, figures and letter "and before making any deduction under Chapter VI-A" shall be omitted.

Rule 4. –Notwithstanding anything contained in any other provisions of these rules, in a case where the assessee derives income from sale of tea grown and manufactured by him in India, such income shall be computed in accordance with rule 8 of the Income-tax Rules, 1962, and sixty per cent. of such income shall be regarded as the agricultural income of the assessee.

Rule 5. –Where the assessee is a partner of a registered firm or an unregistered firm assessed as a registered firm under clause (b) of section 183 of the Income-tax Act, which in the previous year has any agricultural income, or is a partner of an unregistered firm which has not been assessed as a registered firm under clause (b) of the said section 183 and which in the previous year has either no income chargeable to tax under the Income-tax Act or has total income not exceeding the maximum amount not chargeable to tax in the case of an unregistered firm but has any agricultural income, then, the agricultural income or loss of the firm shall be computed in accordance with these rules and his share in the agricultural income or loss of the firm shall be computed in the manner laid down in sub-section (1)., sub-section (2) and sub-section (3) of section 67 of the Income-tax Act and the share so computed shall be regarded as the agricultural income or loss of the assessee.

Rule 6. –Where the assessee is a member of an association of persons or a body of individuals (other than a Hindu undivided family, a company or a firm) which in the previous year has either no income chargeable to tax under the Income-tax Act or has total income not exceeding the maximum amount not chargeable to tax in the case of an association of persons or a body of individuals (other than a Hindu undivided family, a company or a firm) but has any agricultural income, then, the agricultural income or loss of the association or body shall be computed in accordance with these rules and the share of the assessee in the agricultural income or loss so computed shall be regarded as the agricultural income or loss of the assessee.

Rule 7. –Where the result of the computation for the previous year in respect of any source of agricultural income is a loss, such loss shall be set off against the income of the assessee, if any, for that previous year from any other source of agricultural income:

Provided that where the assessee is a partner of an unregistered firm which has not been assessed as a registered firm under clause (b) of section 183 of the Income-tax Act or is a member of an association of persons or a body of individuals and the share of the assessee in the agricultural income of the firm, association or body, as the case may be, is a loss, such loss shall not be set off against any income of the assessee from any other source of agricultural income.

Rule 8. –Any sum payable by the assessee on account of any tax levied by the State Government on the agricultural income shall be deducted in computing the agricultural income.

Rule 9. –(1) Where the assessee has, in the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1988, any agricultural income and the net result of the computation of the agricultural income of the assessee for any one or more of the previous years relevant to the assessment years commencing on the 1st day of April, 1980 or the 1st day of April, 1981 or the 1st day of April, 1982 or the 1st day of April, 1983 or the 1st day of April, 1984 or the 1st day of April, 1985 or the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987, is a loss, then, for the purposes of sub-section (2) of section 2 of this Act,–

(i) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1980 to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1981 or the 1st day of April, 1982 or the 1st day of April, 1983 or the 1st day of April, 1984 or the 1st day of April, 1985 or the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987,

(ii) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1981, to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1982 or the 1st day of April, 1984 or the 1st day of April, 1984 or the 1st day of April, 1985 or the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987,

(iii) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1982, to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1983 or the 1st day of April, 1984 or the 1st day of April, 1985 or the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987,

(iv) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1983, to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1984 or the 1st day of April, 1985 or the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987,

(v) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1984, to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1985 or the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987,

(vi) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1985, to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987,

(vii) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1986, to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1987, and

(viii) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1987,

shall be set off against the agricultural income of the assessee for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1988.

(2) Where the assessee has, in the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1989 or, if by virtue of any provision of the Income-tax Act, income-tax is to be charged in respect of the income of a period other than that previous year, in such other period, any agricultural income and the net result of the computation of the agricultural income of the assessee for any one or more of the previous years relevant to the assessment years commencing on the 1st day of April, 1981 or the 1st day of April, 1982 or the 1st day of April, 1983 or the 1st day of April, 1984 or the 1st day of April, 1985 or the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987 or the 1st day of April, 1988, is a loss, then, for the purposes of sub-section (8) of section 2 of this Act,–

(i) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1981, to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1982 or the 1st day of April, 1983 or the 1st day of April, 1984 or the 1st day of April, 1985 or the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987 or the 1st day of April, 1988,

(ii) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1982, to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1983 or the 1st day of April, 1984 or the 1st day of April, 1985 or the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987 or the 1st day of April, 1988,

(iii) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1983, to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1984 or the 1st day of April, 1985 or the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987 or the 1st day of April, 1988,

(iv) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1984, to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1985 or the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987 or the 1st day of April, 1988,

(5) in Chapter 26, for NOTE 2, the following NOTES shall be substituted, namely:—

"2. For the purposes of heading Nos. 26.01 to 26.17, the term "Ores" means minerals of mineralogical species actually used in the metallurgical industry for the extraction of mercury, of the metals of heading No. 28.44 or of the metals of Section XIV or XV, even if they are intended for non-metallurgical purposes. Heading Nos. 26.01 to 26.17 do not, however, include minerals which have been submitted to processes not normal to the metallurgical industry.

3. Heading No. 26.20 applies only to ash and residues of a kind used in industry either for the extraction of metals or as a basis for the manufacture of chemical compounds of metals.";

(6) in Chapter 27,—

(a) in NOTE 3, for the figures and word "2707.91, 2707.92, 2707.93, 2707.94 and 2707.95", the figures and word "2707.10, 2707.20, 2707.30, 2707.40 and 2707.50" shall be substituted;

(b) in sub-heading Nos. 2701.00, 2702.00, 2703.00, 2704.00, 2705.00, 2707.40, 2708.19 and 2709.00, for the entry in column (4), the entry "15%" shall be substituted;

(c) in sub-heading No. 2710.50, for the entry in column (4), the entry "Rs. 145 per kilolitre at 15^0 C" shall be substituted;

(d) in sub-heading No. 2710.94, for the entry in column (4), the entry "Rs. 620 per tonne" shall be substituted;

(e) in sub-heading No. 2711.11 and 2711.21, for the entry in column (4), the entry "15%" shall be substituted;

(f) in sub-heading No. 2713.21, for the entry in column (4), the entry "Rs.160 per tonne" shall be substituted;

(g) in sub-heading No. 2713.22, for the entry in column (4), the entry "Rs. 110 per tonne" shall be substituted;

(h) in sub-heading No. 2714.11, for the entry in column (4), the entry "Rs. 160 per tonne" shall be substituted;

(i) in sub-heading No. 2714.12, for the entry in column (4), the entry "Rs. 110 per tonne" shall be substituted;

(j) in sub-heading No. 2714.90, for the entry in column (4), the entry "15%" shall be substituted;

(k) in sub-heading No. 2715.11, for the entry in column (4), the entry "Rs. 160 per tonne" shall be substituted;

(l) in sub-heading No. 2715.90, for the entry in column (4), the entry "15%" shall be substituted;

(7) in Chapter 29, in sub-heading Nos. 2941.10, 2941.20, 2941.30, 2941.40, 2941.50 and 2941.90, for the entry in column (4), the entry "15%" shall be substituted;

(8) in Chapter 30, NOTE 6 shall be omitted;

(9) in Chapter 36, in sub-heading No. 3602.00, for the entry in column (4), the entry "20%" shall be substituted;

(10) in Chapter 37,—

(a) in sub-heading Nos. 3701.20 and 3702.20, for the entry in column (4), the entry "Rs. 1.50 per metre" shall be substituted ;

(b) in sub-heading No. 3702.90, for the entry in column (4), the entry "20% plus Rs. 24 per square metre" shall be substituted;

(11) in Chapter 39,—

(a) for NOTE 6, the following NOTE shall be substituted, namely:—

'6. (a) In heading Nos. 39.01 to 39.14, the expression "primary forms" applies only to the following forms:--

(i) Liquids and pastes, including dispersions (emulsions and suspensions) and solutions;

(ii) Blocks of irregular shape, lumps, powders (including moulding powers), granules, flakes and similar bulk forms.

(b) Notwithstanding anything contained in NOTE 3 to this Chapter, heading Nos. 39.01 to 39.14 shall also include primary forms obtained from conversion of another primary form, falling under the same heading, and such conversion shall amount to "manufacture". ';

(b) for NOTE 13, the following NOTE shall be substituted, namely:—

'13. Notwithstanding anything contained in NOTE 12 to this Chapter, in heading Nos. 39.09, 39.21, 39.23, 39.24, 39.25 and 39.26, "rigid polyurethane foam" means cellular polyurethane with compressive strength of 0.418 to 28.14 Kg./Cm^2 and flexural strength of 1.05 to 28.14 Kg./Cm^2 when tested in accordance with American Standard (Designation ASTM-D-2341).';

(c) after NOTE 14, the following NOTE shall be inserted, namely:—

'15. For the purposes of heading Nos. 39.19, 39.20 and 39.21, the expression "film" means sheetings of thickness not exceeding 0.25 millimetres.';

(d) in sub-heading Nos. 3909.60 and 3926.10, in column (4), for the figures and abbreviation "75%", the figures, abbreviations and words "60% plus Rs. 40 per kilogram" shall be substituted,

(12) in Chapter 40, in sub-heading No. 4011.10, for the entry in column (4), the entry "60%" shall be substituted;

(13) in Chapter 48,—

(a) for NOTE 3, the following NOTE shall be substituted, namely:—

'3. In this Chapter "newsprint" means paper intended for the printing of newspapers.';

(b) for NOTE 8, the following NOTES shall be substituted, namely:—

"8. Heading No. 48.20 does not cover loose sheets or cards, cut to size, whether or not printed, embossed or perforated.

9. Heading No. 48.23 applies, inter alia, to perforated paper or paperboard cards for jacquard or similar machines and paper lace.

10. Except for the goods of heading No. 48.14 or 48.21, paper, paperboard, cellulose wadding and articles thereof, printed with motifs, characters or pictorial representations, which are not merely incidental to the primary use of the goods, fall in Chapter 49.";

(c) in sub-heading No. 4811.90, in column (4), for the figures, abbreviations and word "10% plus Rs. 2,000", the figures, abbreviations and word "35% plus Rs. 2,000" shall be substituted;

(14) in Chapter 52, —

(a) NOTES 3 and 4 shall be omitted;

(b) NOTES 5 and 6 shall be renumbered as NOTES 3 and 4, respectively;

(c) in sub-heading No. 5203.33, for the entry in column (4), the entry "26.40 paise plus 3.52 paise per count per kilogram exceeding 35" shall be substituted;

(d) in sub-heading No. 5203.34, for the entry in column (4), the entry "61.60 paise plus 5.28 paise per count per kilogram exceeding 45" shall be substituted;

(e) in sub-heading No. 5203.35, for the entry in column (4), the entry "114.40 paise plus 2.64 paise per count per kilogram exceeding 55" shall be substituted;

(f) in sub-heading No. 5203.43, for the entry in column (4), the entry "114.40 paise plus 5.28 paise per count per kilogram exceeding 35" shall be substituted;

(g) sub-heading Nos. 5206.10 and 5206.20 and the entries relating thereto shall be omitted;

(h) sub-heading Nos. 5206.31, 5206.32, 5206.33, 5206.34, 5206.35 and 5206.36 shall be renumbered as sub-heading Nos. 5206.11, 5206.12, 5206.13, 5206.14, 5206.15 and 5206.16, respectively;

(15) in Chapter 70,—

(a) in NOTE 1, in item (c), for the words "fittings or insulating material", the words "fittings of insulating material" shall be substituted;

(b) in heading No. 70.14, in column (4), for the figures and abbreviation "30%", the figures and abbreviation "35%" shall be substituted;

(16) in Section XV, for the NOTE, the following NOTES shall be substituted, namely :—

'NOTES

1. This Section does not cover :

(a) Prepared paints, inks or other products with a basis of metallic flakes or powder (heading Nos. 32.07 to 32.10, 32.12, 32.13 or 32.15);

(b) Ferro-cerium or other pyrophoric alloys (heading No. 36.06);

(c) Headgear or parts thereof of Chapter 65;

(d) Umbrella frames or other articles of Chapter 66;

(e) Goods of Chapter 71 (for example, precious metal alloys, base metal clad with precious metal, imitation jewellery);

(f) Articles of Section XVI (machinery, mechanical appliances and electrical goods);

(g) Assembled railway or tramway track (heading No. 86.08) or other articles of Section XVII (vehicles, ships and boats, aircraft);

(h) Instruments or apparatus of Section XVIII, including clock or watch springs;

(ij) Lead shot prepared for ammunition (heading No. 93.06) or other articles of Section XIX (arms and ammunition);

(k) Articles of Chapter 94 (for example, furniture, mattress supports, lamps and lighting fittings, illuminated signs, prefabricated buildings);

(l) Articles of Chapter 95 (for example, toys, games, sports requisites); or

(m) Hand sieves, buttons, pens, pencil-holders, pen nibs or other articles of Chapter 96 (miscellaneous manufactured articles).

2. Throughout this Schedule, the expression "parts of general use" means:

(a) Articles of heading No. 73.07, 73.12, 73.15, 73.17 or 73.18 and similar articles of other base metal;

(b) Springs and leaves for springs, of base metal, other than clock or watch springs (heading No. 91.14); and

(c) Articles of heading Nos. 83.01, 83.02, 83.08, 83.10 and frames and mirrors, of base metal, of heading No. 83.06.

In Chapters 73 to 76 and 78 to 82 (but not in heading No. 73.15) references to parts of goods do not include references to parts of general use as defined above.

Subject to the preceding paragraph and to NOTE 1 to Chapter 83, the articles of Chapter 82 or 83 are excluded from Chapters 72 to 76 and 78 to 81.

3. Classification of alloys (other than ferro-alloys and master alloys as defined in Chapters 72 and 74):

(a) An alloy of base metals is to be classified as an alloy of the metal which predominates by weight over each of the other metals;

(b) An alloy composed of base metals of this Section and of elements not falling within this Section is to be treated as an alloy of base metals of this Section if the total weight of such metals equals or exceeds the total weight of the other elements present;

(c) In this Section the term "alloys" includes sintered mixtures of metal powders, heterogeneous intimate mixtures obtained by melting (other than cermets) and intermetallic compounds.

4. Unless the context otherwise requires, any reference in this Schedule to a base metal includes a reference to alloys which, by virtue of NOTE 3 above, are to be classified as alloys of that metal.

5. Classification of composite articles:

Except where the headings otherwise require, articles of base metal (including articles of mixed materials treated as articles of base metal under the Interpretative Rules) containing two or more base metals are to be treated as articles of the base metal predominating by weight over each of the other metals. For this purpose:

(a) Iron and steel, or different kinds of iron or steel, are regarded as one and the same metal;

(b) An alloy is regarded as being entirely composed of that metal as an alloy of which, by virtue of NOTE 3, it is classified; and

(c) A cermet of heading No. 81.13 is regarded as a single base metal.

6. In this Section, the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(a) WASTE AND SCRAP:

Metal waste and scrap from the manufacture or mechanical working of metals, and metal goods definitely not usable as such because of breakage, cutting-up, wear or other reasons.

(b) POWDERS:

Products of which 90% or more by weight passes through a sieve having a mesh aperture of 1 mm.';

(17) in Chapter 72, for the NOTES, the following NOTES shall be substituted, namely:—

'NOTES

1. In this Chapter and, in the case of Notes (d), (e) and (f) throughout this Schedule, the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(a) PIG IRON:

Iron-carbon alloys not usefully malleable, containing more than 2% by weight of carbon and which may contain by weight one or more other elements within the following limits:

- not more than 10% of chromium
- not more than 6% of manganese
- not more than 3% of phosphorus
- not more than 8% of silicon
- a total of not more than 10% of other elements.

(b) SPIEGELEISEN:

Iron-carbon alloys containing by weight more than 6% but not more than 30% of manganese and otherwise conforming to the specification at (a) above.

(c) FERRO-ALLOYS:

Alloys in pigs, blocks, lumps or similar primary forms, in forms obtained by continuous casting and also in granular or powder forms, whether or not agglomerated, commonly used as an additive in the manufacture of other alloys or as de-oxidants, de-sulphurising agents or for similar uses in ferrous metallurgy and generally not usefully malleable, containing by weight 4% or more of the element iron and one or more of the following:

- more than 10% of chromium
- more than 30% of manganese
- more than 3% of phosphorus
- more than 8% of silicon
- a total of more than 10% of other elements, excluding carbon, subject to a maximum content of 10% in the case of copper.

(d) STEEL:

Ferrous materials other than those of heading No. 72.03 which (with the exception of certain types produced in the form of castings) are usefully malleable and which contain by weight 2% or less of carbon. However, chromium steels may contain higher proportions of carbon.

(e) STAINLESS STEEL:

Alloy steels containing, by weight, 1.2% or less of carbon and 10.5% or more of chromium, with or without other elements.

(f) OTHER ALLOY STEEL:

Steels not complying with the definition of stainless steel and containing by weight one or more of the following elements in the proportion shown:

- 0.3% or more of aluminium
- 0.0008% or more of boron
- 0.3% or more of chromium
- 0.3% or more of cobalt
- 0.4% or more of copper
- 0.4% or more of lead
- 1.65% or more of manganese
- 0.08% or more of molybdenum
- 0.3% or more of nickel
- 0.06% or more of niobium
- 0.6% or more of silicon
- 0.05% or more of titanium
- 0.3% or more of tungsten (wolfram)
- 0.1% or more of vanadium
- 0.05% or more of zirconium
- 0.1% or more of other elements (except sulphur, phosphorus, carbon and nitrogen), taken separately.

(g) REMELTING SCRAP INGOTS OF IRON OR STEEL:

Products roughly cast in the form of ingots without feeder-heads or hot tops, or of pigs, having obvious surface faults and not complying with the chemical composition of pig iron, spiegeleisen or ferro-alloys.

(h) GRANULES:

Products of which less than 90% by weight passes through a sieve with a mesh aperture of 1 mm and of which 90% or more by weight passes through a sieve with a mesh aperture of 5 mm.

(ij) SEMI-FINISHED PRODUCTS:

Continuous cast products of solid section, whether or not subjected to primary hot-rolling; and

Other products of solid section, which have not been further worked than subjected to primary hot-rolling or roughly shaped by forging, including blanks for angles, shapes or sections.

These products are not presented in coils.

(k) FLAT-ROLLED PRODUCTS:

Rolled products of solid rectangular (other than square) cross-section, which do not conform to the definition at (ij) above in the form of:

- coils of successively superimposed layers, or
- straight lengths, which if of a thickness less than 4.75 mm are of a width measuring at least ten times the thickness or if of a thickness of 4.75 mm or more are of a width which exceeds 150 mm and measures at least twice the thickness.

Flat-rolled products include those with patterns in relief derived directly from rolling (for example, grooves, ribs, chequers, tears, buttons, lozenges) and those which have been perforated, corrugated or polished, provided that they do not thereby assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

Flat-rolled products of a shape other than rectangular or square, of any size are to be classified as products of a width of 600 mm or more, provided that they do not assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

(l) BARS AND RODS, HOT-ROLLED, IN IRREGULARLY WOUND COILS:

Hot-rolled products in irregularly wound coils, which have a solid cross-section in the shape of circles, segments of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), triangles or other convex polygons. These products may have indentations, ribs, grooves or other deformations produced during the rolling process (reinforcing bars and rods);

(m) OTHER BARS AND RODS:

Products which do not conform to any of the definitions at (ij), (k) or (l) above or to the definition of wire, which have a uniform solid cross-section along their whole length in the shape of circles, segments of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), triangles or other convex polygons. These products may:

- have indentations, ribs, grooves or other deformations produced during the rolling process (reinforcing bars and rods);
- be twisted after rolling.

(n) ANGLES, SHAPES AND SECTIONS:

Products having a uniform solid cross-section along their whole length which do not conform to any of the definitions at (ij), (k), (l) or (m) above or to the definition of wire.

Chapter 72 does not include products of heading No. 73.01 or 73.02.

(o) WIRE:

Cold-formed products in coils, of any uniform solid cross-section along their whole length, which do not conform to the definition of flat-rolled products.

(p) HOLLOW DRILL BARS AND RODS:

Hollow bars and rods of any cross-section, suitable for drills, of which the greatest external dimension of the cross-section exceeds 15 mm but does not exceed 52 mm, and of which the greatest internal dimension does not exceed one half of the greatest external dimension. Hollow bars and rods of iron or steel not conforming to this definition are to be classified in heading No. 73.04.

(q) SKELP:

Hot-rolled narrow strip of width not exceeding 600mm with rolled (square, slightly round or bevelled) edge.

2. Ferrous metals clad with another ferrous metal are to be classified as products of the ferrous metal predominating by weight.

3. Iron or steel products obtained by electrolytic deposition, by pressure casting or by sintering are to be classified, according to their form, their composition and their appearance, in the headings of this Chapter appropriate to similar hot-rolled products.

SUB - HEADING NOTE

In this Chapter the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(a) Non-alloy free-cutting steel

Non-alloy steel containing, by weight, one or more of the following elements in the specified proportions:

- 0.08% or more of sulphur
- 0.1% or more of lead
- more than 0.05% of selenium
- more than 0.01% of tellurium
- more than 0.05% of bismuth.

(b) Silicon-electrical steel

Alloy steels containing by weight at least 0.6% but not more than 6% of silicon and not more than 0.08% of carbon. They may also contain by weight not more than 1% of aluminium but no other element in a proportion that would give the steel the characteristics of another alloy steel.

(c) High speed steel

Alloy steels containing, with or without other elements, at least two of the three elements molybdenum, tungsten and vanadium with a combined content by weight of 7% or more, 0.6% or more of carbon and 3 to 6% of chromium.

(d) Silicon-manganese steel

Alloy steels containing by weight:
- 0.35% or more but not more than 0.7% of carbon,
- 0.5% or more but not more than 1.2% of manganese, and
- 0.6% or more but not more than 2.3% of silicon, but not containing any other element in a proportion that would give the steel the characteristics of another alloy steel.';

(18) in Chapter 73, for the NOTES, the following NOTES shall be substituted, namely:—

'NOTES

1. In this Chapter the expression "cast iron" applies to products obtained by casting in which iron predominates by weight over each of the other elements and which do not comply with the chemical composition of steel as defined in Note 1*(d)* to Chapter 72.

2. In this Chapter the word "wire" means hot or cold-formed products of any cross-sectional shape, of which no cross-sectional dimension exceeds 16 mm.';

(19) in Chapter 74, for the NOTES, the following NOTE shall be substituted, namely:—

'NOTE

In this Chapter the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(a) REFINED COPPER:

Metal containing at least 99.85% by weight of copper; or Metal containing at least 97.5% by weight of copper, provided that the content by weight of any other element does not exceed the limit specified in the following table:

TABLE—OTHER ELEMENTS

Element		Limiting content % by weight
Ag	Silver	0.25
As	Arsenic	0.5
Cd	Cadmium	1.3
Cr	Chromium	1.4
Mg	Magnesium	0.8
Pb	Lead	1.5
S	Sulphur	0.7
Sn	Tin	0.8
Te	Tellurium	0.8
Zn	Zinc	1
Zr	Zirconium	0.3
	Other elements*, each	0.3

* Other elements are, for example, Al, Be, Co, Fe, Mn, Ni, Si.

(b) COPPER ALLOYS:

Metallic substances other than unrefined copper in which copper predominates by weight over each of the other elements, provided that:

(i) the content by weight of at least one of the other elements shall be greater than the limit specified in the foregiong table; or

(ii) the total content by weight of such other elements exceeds 2.5%.

(c) MASTER ALLOYS:

Alloys containing with other elements more than 10% by weight of copper, not usefully malleable and commonly used as an additive in the manufacture of other alloys or as de-oxidants, de-sulphurising agents or for similar uses in the metallurgy of non-ferrous metals. However, copper phosphide (phosphor copper) containing more than 15% by weight of phosphorus falls in heading No 28.48.

(d) BARS AND RODS:

Rolled, extruded, drawn or forged products, not in coils, which have a uniform solid cross-section along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons (including "flattened circles", and "modified rectangles", of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel). Products, with a rectangular (including square), triangular or polygonal cross-section may have corners rounded along their whole length. The thickness of such products which have a rectangular (including "modified rectangular") cross-section exceeds one-tenth of the width. The expression also covers cast or sintered products, of the same forms and dimensions, which have been subsequently worked after production (otherwise than by simple trimming or de-scaling), provided that they have not thereby assumed the character of articles or products of other headings.

Wire-bars and billets with their ends tapered or otherwise worked simply to facilitate their entry into machines for converting them into, for example, drawing stock (wire-rod) or tubes, are however to be taken to be unwrought copper of heading No. 74.03.

(e) PROFILES:

Rolled, extruded, drawn, forged or formed products, coiled or not, of a uniform cross-section along their whole length, which do not conform to any of the definitions of bars, rods, wire, plates, sheets, strip, foil, tubes or pipes. The expression also covers cast or sintered products, of the same forms, which have been subsequently worked after production (otherwise than by simple trimming or de-scaling), provided that they have not thereby assumed the character of articles or products of other headings.

(f) WIRE:

Rolled, extruded or drawn products, in coils, which have a uniform solid cross-section along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons (including "flattened circles" and "modified rectangles", of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel). Products with a rectangular (including square), triangular or polygonal cross-section may have corners rounded along their whole length. The thickness of such products which have a rectangular (including "modified rectangular") cross-section exceeds one-tenth of the width.

In the case of heading No. 74.14, however, the term "wire" applies only to products, whether or not in coils, of any cross-sectional shape, of which no cross-sectional dimension exceeds 6 mm.

(g) PLATES, SHEETS, STRIP AND FOIL:

Flat-surfaced products (other than the unwrought products of heading No. 74.03), coiled or not, of solid rectangular (other than square) cross-section with or without rounded corners (including "modified rectangles" of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel) of a uniform thickness, which are:

- of rectangular (including square) shape with a thickness not exceeding one-tenth of the width,
- of a shape other than rectangular or square, of any size provided that they do not assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

Heading Nos. 74.09 and 74.10 apply, inter alia, to plates, sheets, strips and foil with patterns (for example, grooves, ribs, chequers, tears, buttons, lozenges) and to such products which have been perforated, corrugated, polished or coated, provided that they do not thereby assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

(h) TUBES AND PIPES:

Hollow products, coiled or not, which have a uniform cross-section with only one enclosed void along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons, and which have a uniform wall thickness. Products with a rectangular (including square), equilateral triangular or regular convex polygonal cross-section, which may have corners rounded along their whole length, are also to be taken to be tubes and pipes provided the inner and outer cross-sections are concentric and have the same form and orientation. Tubes and pipes of the foregoing cross-sections may be polished, coated, bent, threaded, drilled, waisted, expanded, cone-shaped or fitted with flanges, collars or rings.

SUB-HEADING NOTE

In this Chapter the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(a) Copper-zinc base alloys (brasses) :

Alloys of copper and zinc, with or without other elements. When other elements are present:
- zinc predominates by weight over each of such other elements;
- any nickel content by weight is less than 5% [see copper-nickel-zinc alloys (nickel silvers)]; and
- any tin content by weight is less than 3% [see copper-tin alloys (bronzes)].

(b) Copper-tin base alloys (bronzes) :

Alloys of copper and tin, with or without other elements. When other elements are present, tin predominates by weight over each of such other elements, except that when the tin content is 3% or more the zinc content by weight may exceed that of tin but must be less than 10%.

(c) Copper-nickel-zinc base alloys (nickel silvers) :

Alloys of copper, nickel and zinc, with or without other elements. The nickel content is 5% or more by weight [see copper-zinc alloys (brasses)].

(d) Copper-nickel base alloys :

Alloys of copper and nickel, with or without other elements but in any case containing by weight not more than 1% of zinc. When other elements are present, nickel predominates by weight over each of such other elements.";

(20) in Chapter 75, below the title of the Chapter, the following NOTE shall be inserted, namely:—

'NOTE

In this Chapter the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(a) BARS AND RODS:

Rolled, extruded, drawn or forged products, not in coils, which have a uniform solid cross-section along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons (including "flattened circles" and "modified rectangles", of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel). (c) WIRE:

Rolled, extruded or drawn products, in coils, which have a uniform solid cross-section along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons (including "flattened circles" and "modified rectangles", of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel). Products with a rectangular (including square), triangular or polygonal cross-section may have corners rounded along their whole length. The thickness of such products which have a rectangular (including "modified rectangular") cross-section exceeds one-tenth of the width.

(d) PLATES, SHEETS, STRIP AND FOIL:

Flat-surfaced products (other than the unwrought products of heading No. 75.02), coiled or not, of solid rectangular (other than square) cross-section with or without rounded corners (including "modified rectangles" of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel) of a uniform thickness, which are:

- of rectangular (including square) shape with a thickness not exceeding one-tenth of the width,

- of a shape other than rectangular or square, of any size provided that they do not assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

Heading No. 75.06 applies, inter alia , to plates, sheets, strip and foil with patterns (for example, grooves, ribs, chequers, tears, buttons, lozenges) and to such products which have been perforated, corrugated, polished or coated, provided that they do not thereby assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

(e) TUBES AND PIPES:

Hollow products, coiled or not, which have a uniform cross-section with only one enclosed void along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons, and which have a uniform wall thickness. Products with a rectangular (including square), equilateral triangular or regular convex polygonal cross-section, which may have corners rounded along their whole length, are also to be considered as tubes and pipes provided the inner and outer cross-sections are concentric and have the same form and orientation. Tubes and pipes of the foregoing cross-sections may be polished, coated, bent, threaded, drilled, waisted, expanded, cone-shaped or fitted with flanges, collars or rings.

SUB-HEADING NOTE

In this Chapter the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(a) Nickel, not alloyed :

Metal containing by weight at least 99% of nickel plus cobalt, provided that:

(i) the cobalt content by weight does not exceed 1.5%, and

(ii) the content by weight of any other element does not exceed the limit specified in the following table:

TABLE—OTHER ELEMENTS

Element		Limiting content % by weight
Fe	Iron	0.5
O	Oxygen	0.4
Other elements, each		0.3

(b) Nickel alloys :

Metallic substances in which nickel predominates by weight over each of the other elements provided that:

(i) the content by weight of cobalt exceeds 1.5%,

(ii) the content by weight of at least one of the other elements is greater than the limit specified in the foregoing table, or

(iii) the total content by weight of elements other than nickel plus cobalt exceeds 1%.';

(21) in Chapter 76, for the NOTES, the following NOTE shall be substituted, namely:—

'NOTE

In this Chapter the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(a) BARS AND RODS:

Rolled, extruded, drawn or forged products, not in coils, which have a uniform solid cross-section along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons (including "flattened circles" and "modified rectangles", of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel). Products with a rectangular (including square), triangular or polygonal cross-section may have corners rounded along their whole length. The thickness of such products which have a rectangular (including "modified rectangular") cross-section exceeds one-tenth of the width. The expression also covers cast or sintered products, of the same form and dimensions, which have been subsequently worked after production (otherwise than by simple trimming or de-scaling), provided that they have not thereby assumed the character of articles or products of other headings.

(b) PROFILES:

Rolled, extruded, drawn, forged or formed products, coiled or not, of a unifrom cross-section along their whole length, which do not conform to any of the definitions of bars, rods, wire, plates, sheets, strip, foil, tubes or pipes. The expression also covers cast or sintered products, of the same forms, which have been subsequently worked after production (otherwise than by simple trimming or de-scaling), provided that they have not thereby assumed the character of articles or products of other headings.

(c) WIRE:

Rolled, extruded or drawn products, in coils, which have a uniform solid cross-section along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons (including "flattened circles" and "modified rectangles", of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel). Products with a rectangular (including square), triangular or polygonal cross-section may have corners rounded along their whole length. The thickness of such products which have a rectangular (including "modified rectangular") cross-section exceeds one-tenth of the width.

(d) PLATES, SHEETS, STRIP AND FOIL:

Flat-surfaced products (other than the unwrought products of heading No. 76.01), coiled or not, of solid rectangular (other than square) cross-section with or without rounded corners (including "modified rectangles" of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel) of a uniform thickness, which are:

- of rectangular (including square) shape with a thickness not exceeding one-tenth of the width,

- of a shape other than rectangular or square, of any size provided that they do not assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

Heading Nos. 76.06 and 76.07 apply, inter alia, to plates, sheets, strip and foil with patterns (for example, grooves, ribs, chequers, tears, buttons, lozenges) and to such products which have been perforated, corrugated, polished or coated, provided that they do not thereby assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

(e) TUBES AND PIPES:

Hollow products, coiled or not, which have a uniform cross-section with only one enclosed void along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons, and which have a uniform wall thickness. Products with a rectangular (including square), equilateral triangular or regular convex polygonal cross-section, which may have corners rounded along their whole length, are also to be considered as tubes and pipes provided the inner and outer cross-sections are concentric and have the same form and orientation. Tubes and pipes of the foregoing cross-sections may be polished, coated, bent, threaded, drilled, waisted, expanded, cone-shaped or fitted with flanges, collars or rings.

SUB-HEADING NOTE

In this Chapter the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(a) Aluminium, not alloyed:

Metal containing by weight at least 99% of aluminium, provided that the content by weight of any other element does not exceed the limit specified in the following table:

TABLE – OTHER ELEMENTS

Element	Limiting content % by weight
Fe + Si (iron plus silicon)	1
Other elements (1), each	0.1 (2)

(1) Other elements are, for example, Cr, Cu, Mg, Mn, Ni, Zn.

(2) Copper is permitted in a proportion greater than 0.1% but not more than 0.2%, provided that neither the chromium nor manganese content exceeds 0.05%.

(b) Aluminium alloys:

Metallic substances in which aluminium predominates by weight over each of the other elements, provided that:

(i) the content by weight of at least one of the other elements or of iron plus silicon taken together is greater than the limit specified in the foregoing table;

(ii) the total content by weight of such other elements exceeds 1%.';

(22) in Chapter 78, for the NOTE, the following NOTE shall be substituted, namely:—

two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel). Products with a rectangular (including square), triangular or polygonal cross-section may have corners rounded along their whole length. The thickness of such products which have a rectangular (including "modified rectangular") cross-section exceeds one-tenth of the width.

(d) PLATES, SHEETS, STRIP AND FOIL:

Flat-surfaced products (other than the unwrought products of heading No. 78.01), coiled or not, of solid rectangular (other than square) cross-section with or without rounded corners (including "modified rectangles" of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel) of a uniform thickness, which are:

- of rectangular (including square) shape with a thickness not exceeding one-tenth of the width,

- of a shape other than rectangular or square, of any size provided that they do not assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

Heading No.78.04 applies, inter alia, to plates, sheets, strip and foil with patterns (for example, grooves, ribs, chequers, tears, buttons, lozenges) and to such products which have been perforated, corrugated, polished or coated, provided that they do not thereby assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

SUB-HEADING NOTE

In this Chapter the expression "refined lead" means:

Metal containing by weight at least 99.9% of lead, provided that the content by weight of any other element does not exceed the limit specified in the following table:

TABLE — OTHER ELEMENTS

	Element	Limiting content % by weight
Ag	Silver	0.02
As	Arsenic	0.005
Bi	Bismuth	0.05
Ca	Calcium	0.002

SUB-HEADING NOTE

In this Chapter the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(a) Zinc, not alloyed:

Metal containing by weight at least 97.5% of zinc.

(b) Zinc alloys:
Metallic substances in which zinc predominates by weight over each of the other elements, provided that the total content by weight of such other elements exceeds 2.5%.

(c) Zinc dust:

Dust obtained by condensation of zinc vapour, consisting of spherical particles which are finer than zinc powders. At least 80% by weight of the particles pass through a sieve with 63 micrometres (microns) mesh. It must contain at least 85 % by weight of metallic zinc.';

The thickness of such products which have a rectangular (including "modified rectangular") cross-section exceeds one-tenth of the width.

(d) PLATES, SHEETS, STRIP AND FOIL:

Flat-surfaced products (other than the unwrought products of heading No. 80.01), coiled or not, of solid rectangular (other than square) cross-section with or without rounded corners (including "modified rectangles" of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel) of a uniform thickness, which are:

- of rectangular (including square) shape with a thickness not exceeding one-tenth of the width,

- of a shape other than rectangular or square, of any size provided that they do not assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

Headings Nos. 80.04 and 80.05 apply, inter alia ,to plates, sheets, strip and foil with patterns (for example, grooves, ribs, chequers, tears, buttons, lozenges) and to such products which have been perforated, corrugated, polished or coated, provided that they do not thereby assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

SUB-HEADING NOTE

In this Chapter the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(a) Tin, not alloyed :

Metal containing by weight at least 99% of tin, provided that the content by weight of any bismuth or copper is less than the limit specified in the following table:

TABLE — OTHER ELEMENTS

	Element	Limiting content % by weight
Bi	Bismuth	0.1
Cu	Copper	0.4

(b) Tin alloys :

Metallic substances in which tin predominates by weight over each of the other elements, provided that:

(i) the total content by weight of such other elements exceeds 1%; or

(ii) the content by weight of either bismuth or copper is equal to or greater than the limit specified in the foregoing table.';

(25) in Chapter 81, below the title of the Chapter, the following NOTE shall be inserted, namely:—

'NOTE

Note 1 to Chapter 74, defining "bars and rods", "profiles", "wire" and "plates, sheets, strip and foil" applies, mutatis mutandis, to this Chapter.';

(26) in Chapter 82, after NOTE 2, the following NOTE shall be inserted, namely:—

"3. Sets consisting of one or more knives of heading No. 82.11 and at least an equal number of articles of heading No. 82.15 are to be classified in heading No. 82.15.";

(27) in Chapter 83, for the NOTES, the following NOTES shall be substituted, namely:—

'NOTES

1. For the purposes of this Chapter, parts of base metal are to be classified with their parent articles. However, articles of iron and steel of heading No. 73.12, 73.15, 73.17, 73.18 or 73.20, or similar articles of other base metal (Chapters 74 to 76 and 78 to 81) are not to be taken as parts of articles of this Chapter.

2. For the purposes of heading No. 83.02, the word "castors" means those having a diameter (including, where appropriate, tyres) not exceeding 75 mm, or those having a diameter (including, where appropriate, tyres) exceeding 75 mm provided that the width of the wheel or tyre fitted thereto is less than 30 mm.' ;

(28) in Section XVI, in NOTE 1, for item (h) , the following item shall be substituted, namely :--

"(h) Drill Pipe (heading No.73.04);":

(29) in Chapter 84,—

(a) for NOTE 1, for item (d) , the following item shall be substituted, namely:—

"(d) Articles of heading No. 73.21 or 73.22 or similar articles of other base metals (Chapters 74 to 76 or 78 to 81);";

(b) for NOTE 6, the following NOTE shall be substituted , namely:—

"6. Heading No. 84.82 applies, inter alia ,to polished steel balls, the maximum and minimum diameters of which do not differ from the nominal diameter by more than 1% or by more than 0.05 mm, whichever is less. Other steel balls are to be classified in heading No. 73.26.";

(30) in Chapter 87, in heading No. 87.16, in column (4), for the figures and abbreviation "15%", the figures and abbreviation "20%" shall be substituted;

(31) in Chapter 89,—

(a) for the word "NOTE", occurring below the title of the Chapter, the word "NOTES" shall be substituted;

(b) the existing NOTE shall be numbered as NOTE 1, and after NOTE 1, as so numbered, the following NOTE shall be inserted, namely:—

'2. In heading No. 89.08, "Light Displacement Tonnage (LDT)" means LDT in metric tonnes as per Builder's Register LDT referred to in the Stability Book or the builder's certificate at the time of initial commissioning of the vessel or the floating structure:

Provided that in case of any change in the LDT, the highest of the LDT indicated in any of the documents referred to above shall be taken for the purpose of levy of duty.';

(32) in Chapter 94, in heading No. 94.03, in column (4), for the figures and abbreviation "25%", the figures and abbreviation "30%" shall be substituted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The object of the Bill is to give effect to the financial proposals of the Central Government for the financial year 1988-89. The notes on clauses explain the various provisions contained in the Bill.

NEW DELHI;
The 29th February, 1988.

NARAYAN DATT TIWARI.

PRESIDENT'S RECOMMENDATION UNDER ARTICLES 117 AND 274 OF THE CONSTITUTION OF INDIA

[Copy of letter No. F. 3(1)-B(D)/88, dated the 29th February, 1988 from Shri Narayan Datt Tiwari, Minister of Finance, to the Secretary-General, Lok Sabha.]

The President, having been informed of the subject matter of the proposed Bill, recommends under clause (1) of article 117, read with clause (1) of article 274, of the Constitution of India, the introduction of the Finance Bill, 1988, to the Lok Sabha.

2. The Bill will be introduced in the Lok Sabha immediately after the presentation of the Budget on the 29th February, 1988.

Notes on clauses

Clause 2, read with the First Schedule to the Bill, seeks to prescribe the rates at which income-tax (including surcharge thereon) is to be levied on income chargeable to tax for the assessment year 1988-89. Further, it lays down the rates at which tax is to be deducted at source during the financial year 1988-89 from income subject to such deduction under the Income-tax Act; and the rates at which "advance-tax" is to be paid and tax is to be calculated and charged in special cases for the financial year 1988-89.

Rates of income-tax for the assessment year 1988-89:

Part I of the First Schedule to the Bill specifies the rates of income-tax on incomes liable to tax for the assessment year 1988-89. These rates are the same as those specified in Part III of the First Schedule to the Finance Act, 1987, as amended by the Finance (Amendment) Act, 1987, for the purposes of deduction of tax at source from "Salaries" and for computation of "advance-tax" payable during the financial year 1987-88.

As provided by the Finance (Amendment) Act, 1987, the amount of income-tax computed in accordance with the provisions of this Part shall in the case of every person having income exceeding fifty thousand rupees be increased,–

(i) in the case of every person, being a resident, not being an Indian company, by a surcharge for purposes of the Union, and
(ii) in the case of an Indian company, by a surcharge, calculated at the rate of 5 per cent. of such income-tax.

Rates for deduction of tax at source during the financial year 1988-89 from income other than "Salaries" and any payment referred to in sub-section (1) of section 194E :

Part II of the First Schedule to the Bill specifies the rate at which income-tax is to be deducted at source during the financial year 1988-89 from incomes other than "Salaries" and payments made as interest, salary, bonus, commission or remuneration, by whatever name called, by a firm to its partner. These rates are the same as those specified in Part II of the First Schedule to the Finance Act, 1987, as amended by the Finance (Amendment) Act, 1987, for the purposes of deduction of tax at source during the financial year 1987-88.

During the financial year 1988-89, on any income by way of winnings from lotteries and crossword puzzles and income by way of winnings from horse races, accruing to a non-resident or a company (both domestic as well as non-domestic companies), tax shall be deducted at source at the rate of 40 per cent. of the amount of income.

This provision is in line with the existing provision for deduction of tax at source on such incomes where the payment is made to a person resident in India.

The amount of tax so deducted at source shall be increased–

(i) in the case where the payment is made to a person, other than a company, resident in India, by a surcharge for purposes of the Union, and
(ii) in the case of a person, being a domestic company, by a surcharge, calculated at the rate of 5 per cent. of such income-tax.

Rates for deduction of tax at source from "Salaries" and interest, salary, bonus, commission or remuneration, by whatever name called, paid by a firm to its partners, computation of "advance-tax" and charging of income-tax in special cases during the financial year 1988-89 :

Part III of the First Schedule to the Bill specifies the rates at which income-tax is to be deducted at source from "Salaries" and any income by way of interest, salary, bonus, commission or remuneration, by whatever name called, where such income is paid by a firm to its partners in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (1) of section 194E of the Income-tax Act and also the rates at which "advance-tax" is to be paid and income-tax is to be calculated or charged in special cases for the financial year 1988-89.

Rates of income-tax in respect of individuals, Hindu undivided families, certain categories of associations of persons and body of individuals specified in Paragraphs A and B are the same as specified in the corresponding Paragraphs of Part III of the Finance Act, 1987, as amended by the Finance (Amendment) Act, 1987.

The Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987, has made substantial amendments in the provisions of the Income-tax Act relating to the assessment of firms. The taxable income in the case of every firm, as arrived at after allowing deduction in respect of any payment of interest, salary, bonus, commission or remuneration, by whatever name called, to the partners as admissible under the Act shall now be taxed at the maximum marginal rate. Also, advance tax shall be paid by the firms during the financial year at the maximum marginal rate. Accordingly, no rate of income-tax has been prescribed in respect of firms in this Part.

The amount of income-tax computed in accordance with the provisions of this Part shall, in the case of every person being an individual, Hindu undivided family, association of persons or body of individuals, being resident in India, cooperative society and local authority, having the income during the year on which the tax is deducted at source or on which "advance tax" is payable, exceeding fifty thousand rupees, be increased by a surcharge for purposes of the Union calculated at the rate of five per cent. of such income-tax. In the case of domestic companies, the amount of income-tax computed in accordance with the provisions of this Part shall, in the case of every domestic company having a total income exceeding fifty thousand rupees, be increased by a surcharge calculated at the rate of five per cent. of such income-tax.

Clause 3 seeks to insert a new clause (28B) in section 2 of the Income-tax Act to define the expression "interest on securities" since the said separate head of income is proposed to be omitted from the Act.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Clause 4 seeks to amend section 10 of the Income-tax Act.

Sub-clause (a)(i) proposes to substitute a new sub-clause (ii) for sub-clauses (ii) to (v) of clause (6) relating to exemption of remuneration received by diplomatic personnel of foreign missions and their staff. The proposed amendment is by way of simplification of the existing provisions contained in sub-clauses (ii) to (v) of clause (6) by incorporating them into a single sub-clause.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Sub-clause (a)(ii) seeks to amend sub-clause (viia) of clause (6).

Under the existing provision, the exemption from total income of remuneration upto an amount calculated at the rate of Rs.4,000 per month received by a foreign technician in the employment of Government or of a local authority or of any corporation set up under any special law or of any such institution or body established in India for carrying on scientific research as is approved for the purposes of this sub-clause by the prescribed authority is given, and if the remuneration exceeds Rs.4,000 per month, the tax paid to the Central Government by the employer on such excess is exempt.

Under the proposed amendment, the scheme of exemption being given, as mentioned above, to the remuneration received by a foreign technician is proposed to be dispensed with and a uniform exemption on the tax paid by the employer to the Government is sought to be retained.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1988.

Sub-clause (b) seeks to make a consequential amendment in clause (6A) of this section to provide that the Explanation below that clause will also be applicable to the new clause (6B) proposed to be inserted by sub-clause (c) of this clause.

Sub-clause (c) seeks to insert a new clause (6B) to provide that the amount of tax paid by Government or an Indian concern on behalf of a non-resident or a foreign company in respect of its income will not be included in computing the total income of such non-resident or foreign company where such income is arising to a non-resident or foreign company in pursuance of an agreement entered between the Central Government and the Government of a foreign State or an international organisation under the terms of that agreement or of any related agreement which has been approved by the Central Government.

These amendments will take effect from 1st April, 1988, and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1988-89 and subsequent years.

Sub-clause (d) seeks to amend clause (15) by inserting a new sub-clause (iic). Under the proposed amendment, interest payable to an individual or a Hindu undivided family on such Relief Bonds as may be notified in this behalf by the Central Government will not be included in computing the total income of such individual or family.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989, and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Sub-clauses (e), (f) and (h) seek to amend clauses (20), (23A) and (24) to omit references to the head "Interest on securities".

These amendments will take effect from 1st April, 1989.

Sub-clause (g) seeks to amend clause (23D) which exempts the income of such Mutual Fund set up by a public sector bank or a public financial institution as the Central Government may specify.

The amendments made by items (i) and (ii) of this sub-clause are clarificatory in nature.

These amendments will take effect from 1st April, 1988, and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1988-89 and subsequent years.

Sub-clause (i) seeks to insert a new clause (31). The new clause seeks to provide that the amount of any subsidy received by an assessee engaged in the business of growing and manufacturing rubber, coffee, cardamom or other specified commodity in India, from or through the Rubber Board, Coffee Board, Spices Board or any other Board, in respect of any other commodity under any scheme for replantation or replacement of rubber, coffee, cardamom or other plants, or for rejuvenation or consolidation of areas used for cultivation of all such commodities will be exempt from income-tax. Under the proviso to the new clause, the aforesaid exemption will be available only if the assessee furnishes to the Assessing Officer with his return for the relevant assessment year (or within the extended time allowed by the Assessing Officer) a certificate from the concerned Board as to the amount of subsidy received by him during the previous year.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Clause 5 seeks to amend section 10A of the Income-tax Act relating to special provision in respect of newly established industrial undertakings in free trade zones.

Sub-clause (a) seeks to amend sub-section (7) of section 10A in view of the amendment made in new sub-section (1) of section 139 for furnishing the return of income on or before the due date specified therein and the omission of sub-section (2) of that section by the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987.

Sub-clause (b) seeks to amend sub-section (8) of section 10A to remove the difficulties which may arise in implementing the provisions of sub-section (5) of that section consequent upon the amendment made in section 139 of the Income-tax Act by the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987.

These amendments will take effect from 1st April, 1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Clause 6 seeks to insert a new section 10B in the Income-tax Act relating to special provision in respect of income from a hundred per cent. export-oriented undertaking.

Sub-section (1) of section 10B seeks to provide that any profits and gains derived by an assessee from a hundred per cent. export-oriented undertaking to which the section applies will not be included in the total income of the assessee.

Sub-section (2) of section 10B provides that the section will apply to a hundred per cent. export-oriented undertaking which fulfils certain conditions, namely, that it manufactures or produces any article or thing during the previous year, it has not been formed by the splitting up, or the reconstruction of, a business already in existence; and it is not formed by the transfer to a new business of machinery or plant previously used for any purpose. For the purpose of the section, reconditioned imported machinery or plant will be regarded as new. Further, where the total value of the machinery or plant transferred to the new business does not exceed 20 per cent. of the total value of the machinery or plant used in that business, the condition mentioned in clause (ii) of sub-section (2) of section 10B will be deemed to have been complied with.

Sub-section (3) of section 10B seeks to provide that the benefit of the section will be available to the assessee in respect of any five consecutive assessment years falling within a period of eight years beginning with the initial assessment year in which the undertaking begins to manufacture or produce articles or things. The period of five consecutive assessment years will be as specified by the assessee at his option subject to the condition that it will not in any case cover any period after the expiry of the said eight year period.

Sub-section (4) of section 10B seeks to provide that, notwithstanding anything contained in any other provision of the Income-tax Act, in computing the total income of the assessee of the previous year relevant to the last assessment year immediately succeeding the last of the relevant assessment years (or of the previous year relevant to any subsequent assessment year), the unabsorbed depreciation allowance, the unabsorbed investment allowance, the unabsorbed development rebate, the unabsorbed capital expenditure on family planning relating to the relevant assessment years will not be taken into consideration. Similarly, unabsorbed business losses or loss under the head "Capital gains" relating to the relevant assessment years will not be taken into account. Where the assessee was entitled to a deduction in the relevant assessment years in respect of the profits and gains from the newly established industrial undertakings in backward areas or small-scale industrial undertakings in rural areas or the tax holiday, no deduction will be admissible in the assessment years subsequent to the relevant assessment years. Further, in computing the depreciation allowance on any assets in the assessment years following the relevant assessment years, the written down value of the assets will be computed as if the assessee had claimed and been allowed the depreciation in accordance with the provisions of the Income-tax Act during each one of the relevant assessment years.

Sub-section (5) of section 10B seeks to provide that where a hundred per cent. export-oriented undertaking has begun to manufacture or produce articles or things during any previous year relevant to the assessment year prior to the assessment year commencing on and from the 1st day of April, 1989, such assessee may, at his option, before the due date of furnishing his return of income under sub-section (1) of section 139 for the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1989, furnish to the Assessing Officer, a declaration in writing that the provisions of this section may be made applicable to him for the relevant assessment years other than the assessment years commencing before the assessment year 1989-90; and if he does so, then the provisions of complete tax holiday specified in this section will apply for such assessment years and the provisions of new sub-section (4) will also apply in relation to any assessment year following the relevant assessment years.

Sub-section (6) of section 10B seeks to apply the provisions of sub-section (8) and sub-section (9) of section 80-I relating to tax holiday, to the hundred per cent. export-oriented undertakings.

Explanation to section 10B defines certain expressions for the purposes of that section.

The expression "hundred per cent. export-oriented undertaking" means an undertaking which has been approved as a hundred per cent. export-oriented undertaking by the Board appointed in this behalf by the Central Government in exercise of the powers conferred by section 14 of the Industries (Development and Regulation) Act, 1951, and the rules made under that Act. The expression "relevant assessment year" means the five consecutive assessment years specified by the assessee at his option under sub-section (3) of section 10B. The expression"manufacture" for this section shall also include any processing, or assembling, or recording of programmes on any disc, tape, perforated media or other information storage device.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989, and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Clause 7 seeks to amend section 13A of the Income-tax Act regarding special provision relating to income of political parties so as to omit the reference to the head "Interest on securities".

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989.

Clauses 8 and 10 seek to omit the head "B. Interest on securities" from section 14 of the Income-tax Act, and the related sections 18, 19, 20 and 21 of the Income-tax Act, respectively, consequent upon the omission of the said head.

These amendments will take effect from 1st April, 1989.

Clause 9 seeks to make an amendment in clause (i) of section 16 of the Income-tax Act relating to standard deduction in the case of salaried assessees.

Under the existing provisions, a standard deduction is granted to salaried assessees at a rate of thirty per cent. of the salary subject to a maximum of Rs.10,000.

Under the proposed amendment, the standard deduction will be allowed at the rate of thirty-three and one-third per cent. of the salary subject to an enhanced ceiling of Rs.12,000.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989, and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent assessment years.

Clause 11 seeks to amend section 40 of the Income-tax Act relating to the disallowability of an amount as deductible in computing the income chargeable under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession".

Sub-clause (i) seeks to amend clause (a) of section 40 by substituting sub-clause (i) of the clause by a new sub-clause.

Under the existing provisions of sub-clause (i), any interest, not being an interest on a loan issued for public subscription before the 1st day of April, 1938, payable outside India shall not be allowed as deduction if tax thereon has not been either paid or deducted at source and in respect of which there is no person in India who may be treated as an agent under section 163 of the Income-tax Act on behalf of the person receiving the amount.

The proposed amendment seeks to enlarge the provision and provide that any amount of interest, not being an interest on a loan issued for public subscription before the 1st day of April, 1938, royalty, fees for technical services or other sum chargeable under the Act which is payable outside India shall not be allowed as deduction if tax thereon has not either been paid or deducted at source, irrespective of whether an agent on behalf of the non-resident has been appointed or not.

The proviso to the new sub-clause (i), however, seeks to provide that in respect of such amount if tax is paid or deducted in any subsequent year, the amount will be allowed as deduction in the subsequent year in which the tax is paid or deducted.

The expressions "royalty" and "fees for technical services" shall have the same meanings as assigned to them respectively in Explanation 2 to clause (vi) and clause (vii) of sub-section (1) of section 9.

Sub-clause (ii) seeks to omit clause (d) of section 40 relating to disallowance in computing the income chargeable under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession" of any amount in the case of a banking company, which has been allowed as deduction in computing its income chargeable under the head "Interest on securities", consequent upon the deletion of this head from the heads of income, referred to in section 14. These amendments will take effect from 1st April, 1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Clause 12 seeks to amend section 43B of the Income-tax Act relating to allowability of certain sums only on actual payment.

Sub-clause (i) seeks to substitute existing clause (a) by a new clause so as to extend the scope of the section to cover any cess or fee, by whatever name called, payable by the assessee under any law for the time being in force.

Sub-clause (iii) seeks to insert a new clause (d) in section 43B of the Act to provide that any sum payable as interest on any loan or borrowing from any public financial institution, in accordance with the terms and conditions of the agreement governing such loan or borrowing, shall not be allowed as a deduction in the computation of the profits and gains from business or profession if the same is not actually paid by the assessee before the due date applicable in his case for furnishing the return of income. Further, a new Explanation 3 is being inserted by sub-clause (v) to provide that "public financial institution" shall have the meaning assigned to it in section 4A of the Companies Act, 1956. Sub-clauses (ii) and (iv) seek to make certain consequential amendments.

These amendments will take effect from 1st April, 1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Clause 13 seeks to insert a new section 43C in the Income-tax Act for making special provision for the computation of the cost of acquisition of certain assets.

Sub-section (1) of the proposed new section provides that where an asset, which has become the property of an amalgamated company under a scheme of amalgamation, is sold after the 29th day of February, 1988, as stock-in-trade, then, in computing the income from such transfer, the cost of acquisition of the asset to the amalgamated company shall be the cost of acquisition of the asset to the amalgamating company, as increased by the cost, if any, of any improvement made thereto and the expenditure incurred wholly and exclusively in connection with such transfer.

Sub-section (2) of the proposed new section provides that when an asset which has been acquired by the assessee on transfer, either by way of total or partial partition of a Hindu undivided family or under a gift or will or an irrevocable trust, is sold after the 29th day of February, 1988, as stock-in-trade, then, in computing the income from such transfer, the cost of acquisition shall be the cost of acquisition in the hands of the transferor or the donor, as increased by the cost, if any, of any improvement made and the expenditure incurred wholly and exclusively in connection with such transfer including the payment of gift-tax, by the transferor or the donor, as the case may be.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1988, and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1988-89 and subsequent years.

Clause 14 seeks to amend section 44AB of the Income-tax Act, relating to audit of accounts of certain persons.

Under the existing provisions, it is obligatory for a person carrying on business or profession to get his accounts audited before the "specified date" by an accountant, if the sales turnover or the professional receipts exceed the prescribed limit. The "specified date" in relation to the accounts of the previous year means the date of expiry of four months from the end of that year or where there is more than one previous year, from the end of the previous year which expired last before the commencement of the assessment year or the 30th June of such assessment year, whichever date falls later.

Under sub-clause (a), the references to assessment year commencing from 1st April, 1985 and subsequent assessment years are proposed to be omitted in clauses (a) and (b) of this section so as to change the reference to any previous year.

Under the proposed amendment, the "specified date" in relation to the accounts of the previous year will be–

(a) where the assessee is a company - 31st December of the assessment year,
(b) where the assessee is a person other than a company - 31st October of the assessment year.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989, and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Clause 15 seeks to insert a new section 44AC in the Income-tax Act.

The new section provides for determination of the income of an assessee, being a buyer of any goods in the nature of alcoholic liquor for human consumption (other than Indian-made foreign liquor) or any forest produce, scrap or waste, whether industrial or non-industrial, or such other goods as may be notified by the Central Government, in any sale by way of auction, tender or any other mode, conducted by the seller as a sum equal to sixty per cent. of the amount paid or payable by the buyer. The Central Government is also proposed to be empowered to exempt certain sales from the operation of this section, having regard to the amount involved in such sales, the nature of the goods and other factors. It is also being provided that the section shall not apply to a buyer in the further sale of any goods obtained under, or in pursuance of, the said sale.

The Explanation to the section defines the expression "seller" to mean the Central Government, a State Government or any local authority or corporation or authority established by or under a Central, State or Provincial Act, or any company.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April 1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Clause 16 seeks to amend section 44BB of the Income-tax Act, relating to computation of profits and gains in connection with the business of exploration, etc., of mineral oils.

Under the existing provisions, the income of an assessee engaged in the business of providing services and facilities in connection with, or supplying plant and machinery on hire used or to be used in, the exploration for and exploitation of mineral oils will be determined at 10 per cent. of the aggregate of certain amounts. The provision applies both to residents as well as non-residents.

The proposed amendment seeks to provide that the provision shall be and shall be deemed always to have been applicable only in respect of non-resident assessees.

This amendment will take effect retrospectively from 1st April, 1983 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1983-84 and subsequent years.

Clause 17 seeks to amend section 47 of the Income-tax Act, relating to certain transactions which are not treated as transfer for the purposes of capital gains.

Under the existing provision profits and gains arising from the transfer of a capital asset shall not be treated as capital gains chargeable to income-tax, in cases where the transfer of the capital asset is made by a holding company to its subsidiary company or vice versa, referred to in clauses (iv) and (v), subject to the fulfilment of the conditions laid down.

The proposed amendment seeks to provide that such exemption will not be available in respect of transfers effected after 29th February, 1988, as stock-in-trade.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1988, and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1988-89 and subsequent years.

Clauses 18, 19 and 20 seek to amend sections 56, 57 and 58 of the Income-tax Act falling under the head "Income from other sources" so as to make provision for taxing of income, at present covered by the head "Interest on securities", under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession" or under the head "Income from other sources".

These amendments will take effect from 1st April, 1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Clause 21 seeks to omit clause (b) of section 79 of the income-tax Act relating to carry forward and set off of losses in the case of certain companies.

Under the existing provision, in the case of a closely held company where a change in the share-holding has taken place in a previous year, no loss incurred in any year prior to the previous year shall be carried forward and set off against the income of the previous year unless the conditions mentioned in that section are satisfied and the Income-tax Officer is satisfied that the change in the share-holding was not effected with a view to avoiding or reducing any tax liability. By the proposed amendment, the provision relating to satisfaction of the Income-tax Officer is sought to be omitted.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Clause 22 seeks to amend section 80CC of the Income-tax Act relating to deduction in respect of investment in certain new shares.

The proposed amendment seeks to extend the benefit of deduction to investment in the units of any Mutual Fund specified under clause (23D) of section 10 of the Act provided that such Fund subscribes only to eligible issue of capital.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989, and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Clause 23 seeks to substitute a new section for section 80CCA of the Income-tax Act. Under the new section it is proposed to increase the deduction to hundred per cent. in respect of —

(i) deposits in the National Savings Scheme, and
(ii) amounts paid to effect or to keep in force any contract for a deferred annuity plan of the Life Insurance Corporation of India, upto a maximum of twenty thousand rupees in the assessment year commencing on 1st April, 1988, and will be increased to thirty thousand rupees in the assessment year commencing on 1st April, 1989 and subsequent years.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1988 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1988-89 and subsequent years.

Clause 24 seeks to amend section 80HHC of the Income-tax Act relating to deduction in respect of profits retained for export business.

Sub-clause (a) seeks to substitute sub-section (1) of the section by new sub-sections (1) and (1A) .

Under the existing provisions of sub-section (1), an assessee, being an Indian company or a person (other than a company) who, being resident in India, exports out of India during the previous year any goods or merchandise to which the section applies, is allowed a deduction of an amount equal to the aggregate of 4% of the net foreign exchange realisation and 50% of the balance profit.

The proposed new sub-section (1) seeks to provide that the deduction will be allowed on the whole of the income derived from exports of such goods or merchandise by the assessee. The proviso to this sub-section seeks to provide that if the assessee being a holder of an Export House Certificate or a Trading House Certificate certifies in the prescribed form that in respect of the amount of export turnover specified therein, the deduction under the sub-section is to be allowed to a supporting manufacturer, then the amount of deduction available to the Export House or the Trading House shall be reduced by such amount which is calculated proportionately.

The new sub-section (1A) provides for deduction in relation to a supporting manufacturer. Under the new sub-section, if an assessee being a supporting manufacturer has sold goods or merchandise to any Export House or Trading House, in computing his income chargeable to tax, he will be allowed a deduction of the whole of the income earned on the sale of goods or merchandise to the Export House or the Trading House in respect of which a certificate has been issued under the proviso to sub-section (1).

Sub-clause (b) seeks to insert a new sub-section (3A) in the section specifying the basis for computation of the profits derived from the sale of goods or merchandise in the case of a supporting manufacturer. The new sub-section provides that in a case where the business of the supporting manufacturer consists exclusively of sale of goods or merchandise to one or more Export Houses or Trading Houses, the whole of the profit of the business of such manufacturer shall be the profits derived from the sale of goods or merchandise in respect of which the deduction is allowed. In a case where the business carried on by the supporting manufacturer does not consist exclusively of sale of goods or merchandise to one or more Export Houses or Trading Houses, the amount of profit eligible for deduction shall be determined on the proportionate basis.

Sub-clause (c) seeks to insert a new sub-section (4A) laying down conditions for the admissibility of deduction under sub-section (1A) in the case of a supporting manufacturer. The new sub-section provides that the deduction shall not be allowed to a supporting manufacturer unless he furnishes in the prescribed form along with the return of income,-

(i) a report of the accountant certifying that the deduction has been correctly claimed on the basis of the income of the supporting manufacturer in respect of his sale of goods or merchandise to the Export House or the Trading House, and
(ii) a certificate from the Export House or the Trading House certifying that in respect of the export turnover mentioned in the certificate, the Export House or Trading House has not claimed the deduction under the provisions of this section.

Sub-clause (d) seeks to insert two new clauses in the Explanation below this section to define the terms "Export House Certificate" or "Trading House Certificate" and "supporting manufacturer". For the purposes of this section, "Export House Certificate" or "Trading House Certificate" shall mean a valid Export House Certificate or a Trading House Certificate issued by the Chief Controller of Imports and Exports of the Government of India.

"Supporting manufacturer" shall mean a person being an Indian company or a person (other than a company), resident in India manufacturing goods or merchandise and selling such goods or merchandise to an Export House or a Trading House, for the purpose of export.

These amendments will take effect from 1st April, 1989 and will , accordingly, appl, in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Clause 25 seeks to amend sub-section (1) of section 80L of the Income-tax Act which provides for deductions in respect of interest on certain securities, dividends, etc.

Sub-clause (a) seeks to insert a new clause (iiia) so as to allow deduction within the ceiling of Rs.7,000 interest on deposits under the Post Office (Monthly Income Account) Rules, 1987.

Sub-clause (b) (i) of this clause seeks to omit the reference to 'a public company formed and registered in India with the main object of carrying on the business of providing long-term finance for construction or purchase of houses in India for residential purposes' from clause (vii). Sub-clause (b) (ii) makes a consequential amendment to omit the approval being obtained in respect of such public company.

Sub-clause (c) of this clause seeks to insert a new clause (x) in this sub-section. Clause (x) deals with interest on deposits with, or dividend from, any public company formed and registered in India with the main object of carrying on the business of providing long-term finance for construction or purchase of houses in India for residential purposes and for the time being approved by the Central Government for the purposes of clause (viii) of sub-section (1) of section 36.

Sub-clause (d) seeks to substitute the existing two provisos at the end of this sub-section to provide that —

(i) where the gross total income of the assessee includes any income of the nature referred to in clauses (iia), (v), (va) or (x) of that sub-section, there shall be allowed in compting the total income of the assessee, a further deduction of an amount equal to so much of such income as has not been allowed by way of deduction under the provisions of the said sub-section. However, the amount of such further deduction shall not exceed three thousand rupees; and
(ii) where any income of the nature referred to in clauses (iia) and (iv) remains unallowed after the deduction under the provisions of sub-section (1), an additional deduction of an amount equal to so much of such income as has remained unallowed shall be allowed upto a maximum of three thousand rupees.

These amendments will take effect from 1st April, 1989, and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Clause 26 seeks to amend section 80-O of the Income-tax Act relating to deduction in respect of royalties, etc., received from foreign Governments or foreign enterprises.

Under the existing provisions, where the income of an assessee, being an Indian company includes any sum received as royalty, commission, fees or any similar payment from the Government of a foreign State or a foreign enterprise, under an agreement approved by the Board in this behalf, a deduction of an amount equal to fifty per cent. of the income so received in convertible foreign exchange in India is allowed.

The amendment proposed vide sub-clause (a) (i) seeks to provide that the Chief Commissioner or the Director General will give approval to the agreement.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

The amendment proposed vide sub-clause (a)(ii) seeks to provide that the deduction under this section will be allowed even in respect of income which has been received in convertible foreign exchange outside India, or having been converted into convertible foreign exchange outside India, is brought into India in accordance with any law for the time being in force for regulating payments and dealings in foreign exchange.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1988 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1988-89 and subsequent years.

The amendment proposed vide sub-clause (b) seeks to provide that the application for the approval of the agreement shall be submitted in the prescribed form and verified in the prescribed manner. However, in respect of agreements already approved by the Central Government prior to 1st April, 1972 or by the Board prior to 1st April, 1989, no fresh approval of the Chief Commissioner or the Director General is required. Also, every application pending for approval under this section with the Board immediately before 1st April, 1989 shall stand transferred to the concerned Chief Commissioner or the Director General for disposal.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Clause 27 seeks to amend clause (f) of sub-section (2) of section 80P of the Income-tax Act so as to omit the reference to section 18 which is being omitted vide clause 10.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989.

Clause 28 seeks to omit section 86A of the Income-tax Act which provides for a rebate on interest on tax-free Government securities as the system of working out the rebate has been found to be quite cumbersome.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989.

Clause 29 seeks to omit sub-section (2) of section 89 of the Income-tax Act relating to relief when salary or income from interest on securities is paid in arrears or in advance in view of the omission of the head "Interest on securities".

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989.

Clause 30 seeks to omit section 112A of the Income-tax Act which relates to tax on interest on National Savings Certificates (First Issue) as it is no longer in vogue.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989.

Clause 31 seeks to amend section 115B of the Income-tax Act relating to tax on profits and gains of life insurance business.

Under the existing provisions, where the total income of an assessee includes any profits and gains from life insurance business, income-tax is calculated on such profit and gains at the rate of twelve and one-half per cent.

The clause seeks to renumber the existing section as sub-section (1) thereof and insert a new sub-section (2). The new sub-section provides that the assessee shall, in addition to the tax computed under sub-section (1), deposit during the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1989, an amount equal to thirty-three and one-third per cent. of income-tax computed under clause (i) of sub-section (1) in such social security fund as may be notified by the Central Government.

The proviso to new sub-section (2) makes a provision to enable the assessee to deposit during such previous year an amount not less than two and one-half per cent. of the profits and gains of life insurance business in such security fund, whereupon the amount of income-tax payable by the assessee under the said clause (i) shall be reduced by an amount equal to two and one-half per cent. of such profits and gains. In such a case the deposit of thirty-three and one-third per cent. required to be made under sub-section (1) shall also be calculated on the income-tax as so reduced.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989, and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90.

Clause 32 seeks to amend section 115F of the Income-tax Act.

Under the existing provisions, any amount of capital gains arising to a non-resident Indian from the transfer of a foreign exchange asset is exempt from tax, if the amount of the net consideration received on the transfer is invested or deposited in any specified asset or savings certificates or, as the case may be, deposited in a Non-resident (External) Account within a period of six months from the date of such transfer.

The proposed amendment seeks to exclude deposit in a Non-resident (External) Account as a ground for claiming exemption from capital gains under section 115F.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989, and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Clause 33 seeks to amend section 131 of the Income-tax Act relating to vesting of certain powers of a civil court on various income-tax authorities.

Sub-clause (a) seeks to amend sub-section (1A) to vest such powers also on the Director General, Director, Deputy Director, Assistant Director and an authorised officer referred to in sub-section (1) of section 132 of the Act.

Sub-clause (b) seeks to amend clause (b) of the proviso to sub-section (3) to provide that an Assistant Director can retain the impounded books of account for a period beyond fifteen days with the prior approval of the Chief Commissioner or Commissioner or Director General or Director, as the case may be.

These amendments will take effect from 1st June, 1988.

Clause 34 seeks to amend section 132 of the Income-tax Act relating to search and seizure.

Under the existing provisions of sub-section (1) of this section, the authorised officer, who is conducting the search, may seize the books of account, documents, money, bullion, jewellery or other valuable articles or things found during the search, if the same are unaccounted for. Sub-section (3) empowers the authorised officer to issue a prohibitory order on a person in control of such documents, valuable articles etc., directing him not to remove, part with or otherwise deal with them without his permission if he finds it not practicable to seize them.

Sub-clause (a) seeks to insert a second proviso to sub-section (1) to empower the authorised officer to take constructive possession of any valuable article or thing where it is not possible or practicable to seize it by taking its physical possession due to its volume, weight or other physical characteristics or due to its being of a dangerous character, by serving an order on the person who is in immediate possession or control thereof, not to remove, part with, or otherwise deal with it without the permission of the authorised officer. Such action shall be deemed to be seizure of such valuable article or thing.

Sub-clause (b) seeks to make an amendment of a consequential nature in sub-section (3).

These amendments will take effect from 1st April, 1989.

Clause 35 seeks to amend section 139 of the Income-tax Act relating to the return of income.

Under the existing provisions of sub-section (6A) of section 139, in the case of an assessee engaged in any business or profession, he is required to furnish along with the return of income certain particulars.

Sub-clause (a) of the clause seeks to amend that sub-section to provide that the assessee engaged in any business or profession will also have to file the report of audit obtained under section 44AB along with his return of income.

Under the Explanation below sub-section (9), a return of income shall be regarded as defective unless the conditions mentioned therein are fulfilled.

Sub-clause (b) of the clause seeks to amend the Explanation to indicate that a return of income shall also be regarded as defective if the report of the audit of accounts obtained under section 44AB is not furnished with the return of income.

These amendments will take effect from 1st April, 1989, and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Clause 36 seeks to omit section 181 of the Income-tax Act which relates to interest on tax-free securities of a State Government since no State Government has issued any such security for some time now.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989.

Clause 37 seeks to amend section 193 of the Income-tax Act.

Sub-clause (a) seeks to substitute the words 'chargeable under the head "Interest on securities" ' by the words "by way of interest on securities".

Sub-clause (b) seeks to omit clause (ii) of the proviso consequent upon the omission of section 112A of the Income-tax Act, vide clause 30.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Clause 38 seeks to amend section 194C of the Income-tax Act to insert an Explanation which seeks to secure that for the purposes of sub-sections (1) and (2) of that section, any sum credited to a "Suspense account" or any other account as credits to the account of the payee shall be deemed to be a credit for the purpose of deduction of tax at source.

This amendment will take effect from 1st June, 1988.

Clause 39 seeks to amend sub-section (2) of section 195 of the Income-tax Act, relating to deduction of tax at source on certain payments to non-residents so as to provide that the Income-tax Officer may determine by a general or special order the proportion of sum chargeable to tax.

This amendment will take effect retrospectively from 1st March, 1988.

Clause 40 seeks to insert a new sub-heading "BB-Collection at source" and a new section 206C after section 206B of the Income-tax Act.

The new section provides that every person, being a seller referred to in section 44AC, shall, at the time of debiting of the amount payable by the buyer referred to in that section to the account of the buyer or at the time of receipt of such amount from the buyer, collect from him a sum equal to twenty per cent. of such amount as income-tax on income comprised therein.

Sub-section (2) provides that the power to recover income-tax by collection will be without prejudice to any other mode of recovery.

Sub-sections (3) and (4) provide that the income-tax collected by the seller shall be paid within seven days of the amount so collected to the credit of the Central Government or as the Board directs. The tax so paid to the credit of the Central Government shall be treated as tax paid on behalf of the person from whom the amount has been collected and credit shall be given for such amount in the assessment made under this Act on production of a certificate.

Sub-section (5) provides that the seller shall within ten days from the time of debit or receipt of the sum furnish to the buyer a certificate to the effect that tax has been collected.

Sub-section (6) provides that any person responsible for collecting the tax who fails to collect it shall, notwithstanding such failure, be liable to pay the tax to the credit of the Central Government.

Sub-section (7) provides that if a seller does not collect, or after collecting fails to pay the tax, he will be required to pay simple interest at the rate of two per cent. per month or part thereof on the amount of such tax.

Sub-section (8) provides that if the tax collected is not paid to the credit of the Central Government, the amount of tax together with the amount of simple interest shall be a charge upon all the assets of the seller.

This amendment will take effect from 1st June, 1988.

Clause 41 seeks to amend sub-section (1) of section 230A of the Income-tax Act relating to the issue of a certificate by the Assessing Officer for registration of transfer of immovable property.

Under the existing provisions, such a certificate is required for properties valued at more than rupees fifty thousand. The proposed amendment seeks to liberalise the provision and the production of such a certificate will now be required in respect of properties valued at more than rupees two lakhs.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1988.

Clause 42 seeks to insert a new section 245DD in the Income-tax Act.

Under the new section, the Settlement Commission has been given the power of provisional attachment on the lines of section 281B of the Act. The new section also provides that where a provisional attachment under section 281B is pending immediately before the application for settlement, the Settlement Commission may continue the provisional attachment upto the date upto which the provisional attachment would be in force under section 281B and thereafter any order made by the Settlement Commission will have the same force as an original order made by it and the provisions of that section will apply accordingly.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1988.

Clause 43 seeks to amend section 246 of the Income-tax Act relating to appeals to be filed before the first appellate authorities.

Sub-clause (a) seeks to amend sub-clause (iva) of clause (o) of sub-section (1) to provide for an appeal against an order of penalty made under section 272BB of the Income-tax Act.

This amendment is proposed to be made retrospectively from the 1st June, 1987, the date when this section was brought into force.

Under sub-clause (b), clause (a) of sub-section (2) of this section is being amended to include an order made under section 104 of the Income-tax Act as it stood before the 1st April, 1988 in respect of any assessment for the assessment year commencing on the 1st April, 1987 or any earlier assessment years.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1988.

Clause 44 seeks to amend section 263 of the Income-tax Act relating to revision by Commissioner of orders prejudicial to revenue. It seeks to substitute the existing Explanation by a new Explanation.

Sub-clauses (i) and (ii) of clause (a) of the Explanation clarify that the Commissioner can also revise any assessment order passed by the Deputy Commissioner or any order passed by the Assistant Commissioner or the Income-tax Officer on the basis of directions issued by the Deputy Commissioner under section 144A of the Act.

Clause (b) of the Explanation clarifies that the Commissioner may revise any order passed by the Assessing Officer after examining all the material available with the Assessing Officer, even if such material has been collected after passing of such order, provided such an order is erroneous and prejudicial to the revenue.

Clause (c) of the new Explanation clarifies that where any order passed by the Assessing Officer has merged with the order of Commissioner (Appeals) or the Appellate Tribunal, the Commissioner can revise that part of the order which has not been considered and pronounced upon by the appellate authority.

These amendments will take effect from 1st June, 1988.

Clause 45 seeks to amend section 271B of the Income-tax Act relating to penalty on failure to get the accounts audited.

Under the existing provisions, if any person fails to get his accounts audited in respect of any year or obtain a report of such audit as required under section 44AB, the Income-tax Officer may impose a penalty equal to one-half per cent. of the total sales, turnover or gross receipts in business or profession, in the relevant year, subject to a maximum of Rs.1 lakh.

Under the proposed amendment, such penalty will also be levied in the case of failure on the part of the assessee to furnish the report of such audit along with the return of income filed under sub-section (1) of section 139, or along with the return of income filed in response to a notice under clause (i) of sub-section (1) of section 142, of the Act.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989, and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Clause 46 seeks to insert a new section 276BB in the Income-tax Act.

The new section provides for prosecution of a person who fails to pay to the credit of the Central Government, the tax collected by him as required under the provisions of section 206C, and punishment for a term which shall not be less than three months but which may extend to seven years and with fine.

This amendment will take effect from 1st June, 1988.

Clause 47 seeks to amend section 279 of the Income-tax Act relating to the powers of the Commissioner for prosecuting any person for certain offences and for compounding of any such offence.

Under the existing provisions of sub-section (1), the prosecution in respect of the offences mentioned in the sub-section is to be launched at the "instance of the Commissioner".

Sub-clause (a) seeks to substitute a new sub-section (1) for the existing sub-section so as to -

(i) omit references to section 276AA (omitted by the Finance Act, 1986), sections 276DD and 276E [omitted by the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987] and section 278A (which is not an offence by itself);

(ii) insert references to section 276 [inserted by the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987] and section 276BB (proposed to be inserted by this Bill);
(iii) provide that the prosecution shall be launched with the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner or Director General or Commissioner;
(iv) provide that if the prosecution is at the instance of the Commissioner (Appeals) or the appropriate authority referred to in section 269UA, the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner or Director General or Commissioner will not be necessary.

Under the existing provisions of sub-section (2), the Commissioner may, either before or after the institution of proceedings, compound any offence, as is specified in sub-section (1) of the section.

Sub-clause (b) seeks to substitute a new sub-section (2) with a view to provide for the compounding—

(i) of all the offences under Chapter XXII instead of only the offences specified in the existing sub-section (1);
(ii) by the Board or a Chief Commissioner or a Director General authorised by the Board in this behalf, in a case where the prosecution would lie at the instance of the Commissioner (Appeals) or the appropriate authority, and by the Chief Commissioner or Director General or Commissioner in any other case.

These amendments will take effect from 1st April, 1989.

Clause 48 seeks to omit Chapter XXIIA of the Income-tax Act (containing sections 280A to 280X) relating to Annuity Deposits.

The annuity deposit scheme which came into existence from the assessment year 1964-65 has been discontinued with effect from 1st April, 1969. Under the scheme, the repayment of the deposits with interest was made in ten equal instalments and the last of which fell due in 1979. Thereafter, this Chapter ceased to be operative and it is no longer necessary to be retained in the Act.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1988.

Clause 49 seeks to amend section 281B of the Income-tax Act relating to provisional attachment to protect revenue in certain cases.

Sub-clause (a) specifies that any proceedings under sub-section (5) of section 132 of the Income-tax Act shall be deemed to be proceedings pending for the assessment of any income or for the assessment or re-assessment of any income which has escaped assessment for the purposes of this section.

Sub-clause (b) specifies that where an application under section 245C is made to the Settlement Commission when a provisional attachment under section 281B is pending, the time taken by the Settlement Commission in making an order under sub-section (1) of section 245D would be excluded from the period of operation of the provisional attachment under sub-section (2) of this section.

These amendments will take effect from 1st April, 1988.

Clause 50 seeks to omit section 285A of the Income-tax Act which requires contractors to furnish information relating to contracts exceeding fifty thousand rupees.

With the insertion of section 194C in the Act under which one to two per cent. of the sums paid to contractors are deducted towards income-tax, section 285A is no longer necessary.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1988.

Clause 51 seeks to amend section 293 of the Income-tax Act.

Under the existing provisions, it has been provided that no suit shall lie in any civil court to set aside or modify any order made under the Act. The proposed amendment seeks to clarify that no suit shall lie in any civil court to set aside or modify any proceeding taken or order made under the Act.

This amendment will take effect retrospectively from 1st March, 1988.

Clause 52 seeks to amend rule 5 of the First Schedule to the Income-tax Act relating to the computation of profits and gains of insurance business other than life insurance business. Under the existing provisions, in computing the profits and gains of any business of insurance, other than the life insurance business, certain adjustments including the adjustment of any amount written off or reserved in the account to meet depreciation of or loss on the realisation of investment is to be allowed as a deduction and any sum taken to the credit of the account on account of appreciation of or gains on the realisation of investment shall be treated as a part of the profits and gains subject to the satisfaction of the Assessing Officer regarding the reasonableness of the amount written off or reserved in the accounts, as the case may be, to meet depreciation of or loss on the realisation of investments.

The proposed amendment seeks to omit clause (b) and the proviso thereunder so as to exempt profits and gains on investments made by the General Insurance Corporation of India and the four companies formed under section 16 of the General Insurance Business (Nationalisation) Act, 1972.

This amendment will take effect on 1st April, 1989, and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Clause 53 seeks to amend the Eleventh Schedule to the Income-tax Act relating to the list of non-priority articles and things.

Under item 9 of the Eleventh Schedule, cinematograph films and projectors are included among the non-priority items or things to which section 32AB and other sections of the Act would not be applicable in certain cases.

The proposed amendment seeks to exclude cinematograph films from the non-priority list of articles or things from the Schedule.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Clause 54 seeks to make certain amendments of a consequential nature in different provisions of the Income-tax Act.

Clause 55 seeks to amend section 5 of the Wealth-tax Act.

Sub-clause (a)(i) seeks to insert a new clause (xvif) in sub-section (1) so as to provide that the investments made by an individual or a Hindu undivided family in such Relief Bonds as may be notified by the Central Government shall be exempt from wealth-tax without any monetary limits.

Sub-clause (a)(ii) seeks to substitute clause (xxxa) of sub-section (1) of section 5.

Under clause (xxxa), value of a building which is used solely for the purpose of residence of the assessee's employees working in a plantation or an industrial undertaking is exempt from wealth-tax provided each such employee earns annual salary up to Rs.10,000. In order to make the provision more rational, the reference to income limit will be removed and the exemption will now be available to one or more dwelling units each having a plinth area of eighty square metres or less.

Sub-clause (b) seeks to amend sub-section (1A) of section 5 in order to provide that the exemption available to an assessee on his investment in debentures, etc., issued by a public sector company shall be restricted to the exemption limit of Rs. 5 lakhs along with other assets mentioned in that sub-section.

The amendments vide sub-clause (a)(ii) and sub-clause (b) will take effect from 1st April, 1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent assessment years.

Sub-clause (c) seeks to amend sub-section (3) of section 5 so as to provide that the Relief Bonds referred to in clause (xvif) of sub-section (1) of that section should also satisfy the conditions relating to ownership from the date on which the said Bonds were subscribed to by the assessee or for a period of at least six months ending with the relevant valuation date, whichever is shorter, as are applicable in the case of Capital Investment Bonds.

The amendments vide sub-clause(a)(i) and sub-clause (c) will take effect from 1st April, 1988 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1988-89 and subsequent years.

Clause 56 seeks to insert a new section 22DD in the Wealth-tax Act.

Under the new section, the Settlement Commission has been given the power of provisional attachment on the lines of section 34C of the Act. The new section also provides that where a provisional attachment under section 34C is pending immediately before the application for settlement, the Settlement Commission may continue the provisional attachment upto the date upto which the provisional attachment would be in force under section 34C and thereafter any order made by the Settlement Commission will have the same force as an original order made by it and the provisions of that section will apply accordingly.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1988.

Clause 57 seeks to amend section 25 of the Wealth-tax Act relating to the powers of Commissioner to revise orders of sub-ordinate authorities. It seeks to amend sub-section (2) of this section so as to broadly bring it on the lines of section 263 of the Income-tax Act.

This amendment will take effect from 1st June, 1988.

Clause 58 seeks to amend section 34AB of the Wealth-tax Act to provide that the Register of Valuers shall be maintained by the Chief Commissioner or Director General instead of the Board as at present.

This amendment will take effect from 1st June, 1988.

Clause 59 seeks to make a consequential amendment in section 34ACC of the Wealth-tax Act so as to provide that the intimation as specified in the section will now be sent to the Chief Commissioner or Director General instead of to the Board.

This amendment will take effect from 1st June, 1988.

Clause 60 seeks to amend section 34AD of the Wealth-tax Act which provides for removal from the Register of the names of valuers and restoration of names therein.

Sub-clauses (a) and (b) seek to change the reference to the word "Board" by the words "Chief Commissioner" or "Director General" in sub-sections (1) and (2) of this section.

Sub-clause (c) seeks to insert new sub-sections (3) and (4).

Under the proposed sub-section (3), the Chief Commissioner or Director General is being given the power to review the performance of registered valuers once in three years and to remove any person from the Register of Valuers if his performance is such that his name should not be retained in the Register of Valuers.

Under the proposed sub-section (4), it is being provided that the Chief Commissioner or Director General may himself conduct an inquiry referred to in sub-section (1) or the new sub-section (3) of section 34AD or he may appoint an Inquiry Officer not below the rank of a Commissioner for conducting such inquiry. The Chief Commissioner or Director General and the Inquiry Officer so appointed shall have the same powers as are vested in a court under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 when trying a suit for discovery and inspection, enforcing the attendance of any person and issuing commissions.

These amendments will take effect from 1st June, 1988.

Clause 61 seeks to insert a new section 34AE in Chapter VIIB of the Wealth-tax Act. The new section requires all the existing registered valuers to make an application to the Chief Commissioner or Director General for fresh registration as valuers and the provisions of Chapter VIIB relating to registration of valuers and other matters shall be applicable to all the applications. It has also been provided that all the pending applications on the commencement of this new section shall be deemed to be new applications for the purposes of this section.

This amendment will take effect from 1st June, 1988.

Clause 62 seeks to amend section 34C of the Wealth-tax Act relating to provisional attachment to protect revenue in certain cases.

Sub-clause (a) specifies that any proceedings under sub-section (5) of section 37A of the Wealth-tax Act shall be deemed to be proceedings pending for the assessment of any net wealth or for the assessment or reassessment of any net wealth which has escaped assessment for the purposes of this section.

Sub-clause (b) specifies that where an application under section 22C is made to the Settlement Commission when a provisional attachment under section 34C is pending, the time taken by the Settlement Commission for making an order under sub-section (1) of section 22D would be excluded from the period of operation of the provisional attachment under sub-section (2) of this section.

These amendments will take effect from 1st April, 1988.

Clause 63 seeks to substitute a new section 35-I of the Wealth-tax Act relating to prosecution of offences under that Act and the compounding of such offences (on the lines of the amendment proposed to section 279 of the Income-tax Act) to provide that where the prosecution is at the instance of the Commissioner (Appeals), the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner or Director General or Commissioner will not be necessary. The new section further provides for the compounding of offences by the Board or a Chief Commissioner or Director General as may be authorised by the Board in that behalf in cases where the prosecution would lie at the instance of the Commissioner (Appeals) and by the Chief Commissioner or Director General or Commissioner in any other case.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989.

Clause 64 seeks to amend section 37 of the Wealth-tax Act relating to vesting of certain powers of a civil court on wealth-tax authorities.

Sub-clause (a) seeks to insert a new sub-section (1A) to vest the said powers on the Director General, Director, Deputy Director and Assistant Director on the lines of similar provisions in sub-section (1A) of section 131 of the Income-tax Act.

Sub-clause (b) seeks to amend clause (b) of the proviso to sub-section (3) to provide that an Assistant Director can retain the impounded books of account for a period beyond fifteen days with the prior approval of the Chief Commissioner or Commissioner or Director General or Director, as the case may be.

These amendments will take effect from 1st June, 1988.

Clause 65 seeks to amend section 43 of the Wealth-tax Act.

Under the existing provisions, it has been provided that no suit shall lie in any civil court to set aside or modify any order made under the Act. The proposed amendment seeks to clarify that no suit shall lie in any civil court to set aside or modify any proceeding taken or order made under the Act.

This amendment will take effect retrospectively from 1st March, 1988.

Clause 66 seeks to amend Schedule I relating to the rates of wealth-tax.

The proposed amendment seeks to provide that in relation to the assessment year commencing on 1st April, 1988, the wealth-tax payable under Part I of the Schedule shall be increased by a surcharge calculated at the rate of ten per cent. of such wealth-tax.

This amendment will apply in relation to the assessment year 1988-89 only.

Clause 67 seeks to amend sub-section (I) of section 5 of the Gift-tax Act by inserting a new clause (iiid).

The new clause seeks to provide that gifts made by an individual or a Hindu undivided family, being the initial subsciber of such Relief Bonds as may be notified in this behalf by the Central Government, up to a maximum of rupees five lakhs in value in the aggregate in one or more previous years, shall be exempt from gift-tax.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1988 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1988-89 and subsequent years.

Clause 68 seeks to amend section 24 of the Gift-tax Act relating to the powers of Commissioner to revise orders of subordinate authorities. It seeks to substitute the Explanation below sub-section (2) of this section so as to broadly bring it on the lines of section 263 of the Income-tax Act.

This amendment will take effect from 1st June, 1988.

Clause 69 seeks to amend section 35 of the Gift-tax Act relating to prosecution for the offences specified in that section and the compounding of such offences on the lines of the amendment proposed in section 279 of the Income-tax Act so as to provide that if the prosecution is at the instance of the Commissioner (Appeals), the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner or Director General or Commissioner will not be necessary. It further provides for the compunding of such offences by the Board or a Director General or Chief Commissioner as may be authorised by the Board in that behalf, in cases where the prosecution would lie at the instance of the Commissioner (Appeals) and by the Chief Commissioner or Director General or Commissioner in any other case.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989.

Clause 70 seeks to amend section 36 of the Gift-tax Act relating to vesting of certain powers of a civil court on various gift-tax authorities by inserting a new sub-section (1A) which provides for vesting of the said powers on the Director General, Director, Deputy Director and Assistant Director on the lines of similar provisions in sub-section (1A) of section 131 of the Income-tax Act.

This amendment will take effect from lst June, 1988.

Clause 71 seeks to amend section 42 of the Gift-tax Act.

Under the existing provisions, it has been provided that no suit shall lie in any civil court to set aside or modify any order made under the Act. The proposed amendment seeks to clarify that no suit shall lie in any civil court to set aside or modify any proceeding taken or order made under the Act.

This amendment will take effect retrospectively from 1st March, 1988.

Clause 72 seeks to substitute new authorities in the Expenditure-tax Act, 1987 consequent upon the redesignation of those authorities in section 116 of the Income-tax Act.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1988.

Clause 73 seeks to amend section 6 of the Expenditure-tax Act.

Sub-clause (a) seeks to substitute sub-section (1) of section 6 of the Act by a new sub-section which seeks to insert new authorities and redesignate some of the existing authorities in order to bring the designations, powers and functions of the tax authorities under the Expenditure-tax Act in line with the designations, powers and functions of the tax authorities under the Income-tax Act.

Sub-clause (b) of this clause makes an amendment in sub-section (3) of this section to substitute the references to some of the authorities by their new designations.

These amendments will take effect from 1st April, 1988.

Clause 74 seeks to amend section 13 of the Expenditure-tax Act to give effect to the changed designations of certain authorities specified therein.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1988.

Clause 75 seeks to amend section 24 of the Expenditure-tax Act relating to application of the provisions of the Income-tax Act to the Expenditure-tax Act consequent upon the amendment of certain provisions and deletion of some other provisions of the Income-tax Act by the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1988.

The new section seeks to secure that no deduction of tax will be made at source under section 193 or section 194 of the Income-tax Act in respect of any interest or dividend payable to the General Insurance Corporation of India or to any of the companies referred to in the section.

This section will take effect from 1st June, 1988.

Clause 87 seeks to amend section 40 of the Finance Act, 1983, relating to levy of wealth-tax on certain assets held by closely-held companies.

Sub-clause (i) of the clause seeks to amend sub-section (1) by inserting a proviso.

Sub-section (1) of section 40 provides that wealth-tax under the Wealth-tax Act, at the rate of two per cent. shall be charged on the net wealth of closely held companies.

The proposed proviso seeks to provide that for the assessment year commencing on the 1st April, 1988, the amount of wealth-tax computed under sub-section (1) shall be increased by a surcharge calculated at the rate of ten per cent. of such wealth-tax.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1988.

Sub-clause (ii) of the clause seeks to amend sub-section (3) of section 40 in relation to the assets on which the wealth-tax is levied.

Item (a) of sub-clause (ii) seeks to amend clause (i) of sub-section (3) to provide that where any precious metal or alloy is held for use as a raw-material in industrial production, such asset shall not be treated as part of the net wealth for the purposes of levy of wealth-tax.

Item (b) seeks to amend clause (v) of sub-section (3) which specifies land other than agricultural land as one of the assets for the purposes of levy of wealth-tax. The proposed amendment seeks to provide that in a case where any unused land is held by the assessee for industrial purposes, the said land shall not be taken to be part of the asset for purposes of levy of wealth-tax for a period of two years from the date of its acquisition.

Item (c) seeks to substitute clause (vi) of sub-section (3) which specifies the building or land appurtenant thereto, other than building or part thereof used by the assessee as factory, godown, warehouse, hotel or office for the purposes of its business or as residential accommodation for its employees or as a hospital, creche, school, canteen, library, recreational centre, shelter, rest-room or lunch room mainly used for the welfare of its employees and the land appurtenant to such building or part, as one of the assets for purposes of levy of wealth-tax.

The proposed amendment seeks to exclude the building or part thereof and land appurtenant thereto used by the assessee as cinema house also, from the scope of clause (vi).

It further seeks to provide that building or part thereof used for residential accommodation specified in the newly inserted clauses (via) and (vib) shall form part of the asset, included in net wealth.

New clauses (via) and (vib) in sub-section (3) specify that any building used as residential accommodation in the nature of guest house or any building used as residential accommodation by any director, manager, secretary or any other employee of the company, such employee holding not less than one per cent. of the equity share of the company or by any relative of any person who holds not less than one per cent. of such equity share as assets for the purposes of levy of wealth-tax. The Explanation to clause (vib) seeks to provide that for the purposes of the clause the term 'relative' will have the same meaning as assigned to it in clause (b) of Explanation 1 of section 80F of the Income-tax Act.

Item (d) seeks to insert a new proviso to sub-section (3) so as to provide that where any item referred to in clause (i), (ii), (iii), (iv), (v) or (vi) is held by the assessee as stock-in-trade in a business carried on by it, or in the case of motor-cars held by it as stock-in-trade, or registered as taxies and used as such in the business of running motor-cars on hire carried on by the assessee, such asset shall not form part of the net wealth of the assessee for purposes of levy of wealth-tax.

The item also seeks to insert an Explanation to provide that in respect of any gold, silver, platinum or any other precious metal or alloy containing one or more of such precious metals, precious or semi-precious stones, ornaments made of gold, silver, platinum or any other precious metal, utensils made of gold, silver, platinum or any other precious metal or alloy, the question whether such assets are held by the assessee as stock-in-trade of the business carried on by it will be decided in accordance with such directions which the Board may by general or special order issue for the guidance of the Assessing Officers, having regard to the ratio which the yearly turnover of business bears to the average stock of such assets held by the assessee.

The proposed amendments by sub-clause (ii) will take effect from 1st April, 1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Clause 88 seeks to make amendments of a consequential nature in sections 36, 37, 38, 92, 128, 153, 154, 155, 158, 162 and 182 of the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987 so as to bring the amendments, other than the omission of clause (xvii) of section 2 of the Gift-tax Act, made by those sections into force with effect from 1st April, 1988.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Sub-clauses (d) and (i) of clause 4, clause 6, clause 15, clause 23, clause 24, clause 26, clause 39, clause 40, clause 47, clause 55, clause 58, clause 59, clause 60, clause 61, clause 63, clause 67, clause 69 and clause 87 of the Bill seek to amend certain provisions of, or insert new provisions in, the Income-tax Act, the Wealth-tax Act, the Gift-tax Act and the Finance Act, 1983. The said provisions are new sub-clause (iic) of clause (15) of section 10, clause (31) of section 10, clause (i) of the Explanation to new section 10B, clause (b) of, and the proviso to, sub-section (1) of new section 44AC, clauses (i) and (ii) of sub-section (1) of new section 80CCA, clauses (a) and (b) of new sub-section (4A) of section 80HHC, the first proviso to section 80-O, sub-section (2) of section 195, sub-sections (3) and (5) of new section 206C and sub-section (2) of section 279, of the Income-tax Act; new clause (xvif) of sub-section (1) of section 5, sub-sections (1) and (2) of section 34AB, section 34ACC, section 34AD, section 34AE and sub-section (2) of section 35-I, of the Wealth-tax Act; new clause (iiid) of sub-section (1) of section 5 and sub-section (4) of section 35 of the Gift-tax Act; and the Explanation to sub-section (3) of section 40 of the Finance Act, 1983.

The said provisions of the Income-tax Act, the Wealth-tax Act, the Gift-tax Act and the Finance Act, 1983 empower the Central Government to issue notifications, specify schemes or, as the case may be, make rules for the purposes specified in the relevant provisions. The matters in respect of which notifications may be issued or the schemes may be specified or the rules may be made in accordance with the aforesaid provisions are matters of procedure and detail and it is not practicable to provide for them in the Bill itself.

The delegation of legislative powers is, therefore, of a normal character.

LOK SABHA

to give effect to the financial proposals of the Central Government for the financial year 1988-89.

(Shri Narayan Datt Tiwari, Minister of Finance.)

Memorandum explaining the Provisions in the Finance Bill 1988

FINANCE BILL, 1988

PROVISIONS RELATING TO DIRECT TAXES

The provisions in the Finance Bill, 1988, in the sphere of direct taxes relate to the following matters:

(i) Prescribing the rates of income-tax on incomes liable to tax for assessment year 1988-89; the rates at which tax will be deductible at source during the financial year 1988-89 from interest (including interest on securities), dividends, salaries paid to employees, winnings from lotteries or crossword puzzles, winnings from horse-races, insurance commission, payment to a partner of a firm by way of interest, salary, bonus, commission or remuneration, by whatever name called, and other categories of income liable to deduction to tax under the Income -tax Act; rates for computation of "advance tax" and charging of income-tax on current incomes in certain cases for the financial year 1988-89.

(ii) The Finance (Amendment) Act, 1987, has amended the Finance Act, 1987, to provide that in the case of any income chargeable to tax under the head "Salaries" or in respect of which advance tax is to be paid, where the total income in such cases exceeds fifty thousand rupees, the amount of income-tax deducted or the advance tax paid, is to be increased by a surcharge calculated at the rate of 5 per cent. of such income-tax. Further, in respect of any payment by way of interest, dividend, winnings from lotteries or crossword puzzles, winnings from horse-races or payments to contractors and sub-contractors, the amount of tax deducted at source had to be increased by a surcharge calculated at the rate of 5 per cent . of the tax so deducted. However, surcharge was not to be paid or deducted at source in respect of any income or any payment made to a non-resident or a foreign company. The provision for levy of surcharge has, therefore, been incorporated in Part I of the First Schedule.

In view of the continued effect of drought, it is proposed to retain the provisions for levy of surcharge at the existing rate in respect of :-

(a) any payment made during the financial year 1988-89, on which tax is deductible at source; and
(b) any income on which advance tax is payable or any income charged to tax, during the financial year 1988-89.

However, no surcharge will be levied on incomes in respect of which payment is made to a non-resident or a foreign company, or incomes on which advance tax is payable by the non-resident or the foreign company.

(iii) Amendment of Income-tax Act, 1961 with a view to incorporating certain incentives for increasing earnings in foreign exchange, encouraging savings, stimulating capital market, providing certain anti-tax evasion measures, rationalising certain provisions and certain other matters.
(iv) Amendment of the Wealth-tax Act, 1957 with a view to make certain provisions more effective.
(v) Amendment of certain provisions of the Gift-tax Act, 1958 basically to bring them in line with those of the Income-tax Act.
(vi) Amendment of certain provisions of the Expenditure-tax Act, 1987 to bring them in line with those of the Income-tax Act.
(vii) Amendment of the General Insurance Business (Nationalisation) Act, 1972 for administrative convenience.
(viii) Amendment of the Finance Act, 1983, with a view to rationalise certain provisions.

2. Subject to certain exceptions, which have been indicated while dealing with the relevant provisions, the Bill follows the principle that changes in the rates of tax, as also in the provisions of the tax laws, should ordinarily be made operative prospectively in relation to current incomes and not in relation to income of past years. The provisions relating to deduction of tax at source have been generally made applicable with effect from 1st June, 1988. The substance of the main provisions in the Bill relating to direct taxes is explained in the following paragraphs:-

INCOME-TAX

1. Rates of income-tax in respect of incomes liable to tax for the assessment year 1988-89.

3. In respect of incomes of all categories of taxpayers (corporate as well as non-corporate) liable to tax for the assessment year 1988-89, the rates of income-tax (including surcharge thereon) have been specified in Part I of the First Schedule to the Bill. These rates are the same as those laid down in Part III of the First Schedule to the Finance Act, 1987, as amended by the Finance (Amendment) Act, 1987, for the purposes of computation of "advance tax", deduction of tax at source from salaries and retirement annuities payable to partners of registered firms engaged in specified profession and computation of tax payable in certain cases during the financial year.

II. Rates for deduction of tax at source during the financial year from income other than "Salaries", interest, bonus, commission or remuneration by whatever name called paid by a firm to its partners or credited to their accounts.

4. The rates for deduction of income-tax at source during the financial year 1988-89 from incomes, other than "Salaries" and income of a partner from a firm by way of interest, salary, bonus, commission or remuneration, by whatever name called, paid to them or credited to their accounts have been specified in Part II of the First Schedule to the Bill. These rates apply to income by way of interest on securities, other categories of interest, dividends, insurance commission, winnings from lotteries, crossword puzzles and horse-races and income of non-residents (including non-reisdent Indians) other than salary income. These rates are basically the same as those specified in Part II of the First Schedule to the Finance Act, 1987, as amended by the Finance (Amendment) Act, 1987, for purposes of deduction of tax at source during the financial year 1987-88.

5. During the financial year 1988-89, any income by way of winnings from lotteries, crossword puzzles and horse-races , tax shall be deducted at source in respect of such payment made to a non-resident (including non-resident Indian) as also to a company at the rate of 40 per cent. of such income . This provision is in line with the existing provision applicable to a person resident in India, not being a company.

6. In respect of payments referred to in the preceding paragraph as also to the payment made to a contractor or a sub-contractor where tax is deducted at source, the amount of tax so deducted shall be increased by a surcharge calculated at the rate of 5 per cent. of the amount of tax deducted. However, deduction in respect of surcharge will not be made, where the payment is made to a non-resident (including non-resident Indian) or to a foreign company.

III. Rates for deduction of tax at source from "Salaries" and any amount of income by way of interest, salary, bonus, commission or remuneration paid by a firm to its partners or credited to their accounts, computation of "advance tax" and charging of income-tax in special cases during the financial year 1988-89.

7. The rates for deduction of tax at source from "Salaries", on income by way of interest, salary, bonus, commission or remuneration by whatever name called, paid by a firm to its partners, or credited to their accounts, in the case of individuals during the financial year 1988-89 and also for the computation of "advance tax" payable during that year in the case of all categories of taxpayers have been specified in Part III of the First Schedule to the Bill. These rates are also applicable for charging income-tax during the financial year 1988-89 on current incomes in cases where accelerated assessments have to be made, e.g., provisional assessment of shipping profits arising in India to non-residents, assessment of persons leaving India for good during the financial year 1988-89, assessment of persons who are likely to transfer property to avoid tax or where an order has to be passed in a case of search and seizure for calculating the amount of tax on the estimated undisclosed income, etc.

8. In the case of a person whose income exceeds fifty thousand rupees, the amount of income-tax deductible or advance tax payable or income-tax payable, as the case may be, shall be increased by a surcharge calculated at the rate of five per cent. of the tax so deducted or advance tax or income-tax so paid. However, no such surcharge shall be levied in a case where the payment is made to or advance tax or income-tax is payable on the income of, a non-resident (including non-resident Indians) or a foreign company.

IV. Individuals, Hindu undivided families, associations of persons , bodies of individuals, co-operative societies and local authorities .

9. In the case of individuals, Hindu undivided families, associations of persons etc. the rates of income-tax have been specified in Paragraph A of Part III of the First Schedule to the Bill. In the case of co-operative societies and local authorities, the rates of income-tax have been specified in Paragraph B and Paragraph C respectively of Part III of the First Schedule to the Bill. These rates are the same as those specified in Paragraph A, Paragraph B and Paragraph D respectively of Part I of the Schedule.

10. The existing provisions of the Income-tax Act relating to assessment of firms have been substituted by the new provisions contained in the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987. In view of the new provisions , the taxable income in the case of every firm as arrived at after deducting payments of interest and remuneration, by whatever name called, to partners will now be liable to tax at the maximum marginal rate applicable in the case of individuals. Consequently, the progressive rate of taxation in the case of unregistered and registered firms provided separately in Paragraph C of Part III of the First Schedule has been discontinued.

Companies

11. In the case of companies, the rates of income-tax have been specified in paragraph D of Part III of the First Schedule to the Bill. These rates are the same as specified in paragraph E of Part I of the First Schedule.

Partially integrated taxation of non-agricultural income with income derived from agriculture.

12. As in the past, the Finance Bill provides that in the case of individuals, Hindu undivided families, other associations of persons etc. the net agricultural income will be taken into account for the computation of "advance tax" and charging of income-tax. These provisions are broadly on the same lines as those in earlier years.

(Clause 2 and the First Schedule)

INCENTIVES FOR GROWTH AND MODERNISATION

Withdrawal of the benefit of exemption of remuneration paid to foreign technicians.

13. Under the existing provisions as contained in section 10(6)(viia) of the Income-tax Act, the remuneration of a foreign technician who is in employment of Government, or an approved scientific research institution or in any business is exempt upto an amount of Rs.4,000/- per month subject to fulfilment of certain specified conditions for a maximum period of 24 months. Further, if the employer pays the tax on the taxable remuneration to the Central Government, the perquisite represented by the tax so paid is also exempt from further taxation in the hands of the foreign technician.

The objective sought to be achieved by section 10(6)(viia), at the time of its introduction in the Income-tax Act by the Taxation Laws (Amendment) Act, 1970, was to extend tax incentive so that services of foreign technicians may be available to the country for rapid industrialisation, as the local scientific and technical manpower was not found adequate for the purpose. The situation has now considerably changed for the better. India possesses the third largest pool of scientific and technical manpower and it is important that adequate opportunities be provided to this class of highly qualified personnel within the country so as to check the brain drain from this country. Further, the existing provisions are against the avowed policy of achieving self-reliance in the field of science and technology and also provide for a disincentive to the employer to employ Indian technicians.

With a view to encourage employment of local technicians, the Bill proposes to amend section 10(6)(viia) of the Income-tax Act to withdraw the benefit of exemption with regard to remuneration as is presently available.

This amendment will be applicable in the case of foreign technician employed on or after 1st April, 1988.

[Clause 4]

Tax paid by Government or an Indian concern not to form part of the income of non-residents.

14. Under the existing provisions of section 10(6A) of the Income-tax Act the income of a foreign company by way of royalty or fees for technical services received from Government or an Indian concern in pursuance of an approved agreement made by the foreign company with the Government or the Indian concern, on which tax is payable by the Government or the Indian concern to the Central Government, the tax so paid is not included in computing the total income of the foreign company. Where the non-resident taxpayer is not a foreign company and the income received is not in the nature of royalty or fees for technical services, and in pursuance of an agreement, the tax is to be borne by the Government or an Indian concern, the amount of tax paid on behalf of non-resident is treated as part of its income and the income of the non-resident is grossed up. This increases the liability of the Government or the Indian concern who pays the tax on the income of the non-resident, thereby increasing the cost of the project in respect of which an agreement has been entered into.

With a view to reduce the overall cost of such projects, it is proposed to provide that the amount of tax paid by Government or an Indian concern on behalf of a non-resident or a foreign company in respect of its income will not be included in computing the total income of such non-resident or foreign company. This exemption will be available where such income arises to a non-resident or a foreign company in pursuance of an agreement entered between the Central Government and the Government of a foreign State or an international organisation under the terms of that agreement or of any related agreement which has been approved by the Central Government.

The above amendment will come into force from 1st April, 1988, and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1988-89 and subsequent assessment years.

[Clause 4]

Modification of provisions relating to investment and income therefrom.

15. Under the existing provisions of section 80CC of the Income-tax Act, a deduction of 50 per cent. of the cost of equity shares forming part of any eligible issue of capital, is allowed upto a maximum investment of Rs.20,000/- in such shares.

The existing provisions of section 80L of the Income-tax Act provide for deductions in respect of interest on certain securities, dividends etc. upto a maximum of seven thousand rupees. However, where the gross total income of a taxpayer includes any income by way of interest on deposits in National Deposit Scheme or income in respect of units from the Unit Trust of India, a further deduction of an amount upto three thousand rupees is allowed. An additional deduction of two thousand rupees in respect of any income by way of interest on any deposits in the National Deposit Scheme is also admissible.

In the recent past, the Indian capital market has been sluggish. This has resulted in slackening the pace of industrial development on account of lack of financial resources. It is, therefore, necessary to devise ways and means to stimulate the market.

With a view to encouraging investment in the industrial sector for increasing the pace of growth and modernisation, the Bill seeks:

(i) to amend section 80CC of the Income-tax Act to extend the benefit of deduction to investment in the Units of any Mutual Fund set up by public sector banks or other financial institutions, provided that such funds subscribe only to "eligible issue of capital" as defined in sub-section (3) of section 80CC.

(ii) to amend section 80L of the Income-tax Act,-

(a) to provide for deduction in respect of interest on deposits under the Post Office (Monthly Income Account) Rule, 1987 within the existing ceiling of Rs.7,000;

(b) to provide for a further deduction of an amount equal to Rs.3,000 also in respect of income received from units of a Mutual Fund set up by public sector banks or other financial institutions and interests on deposits with or dividends from, any public company formed and registered in India with the main objective of carrying on the business of providing long term finance for construction or purchase of houses in India for residential purposes;

(c) to provide for an additional deduction of an amount equal to a maximum of Rs.3,000 in respect of any dividend income from any Indian Company.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989 and will, accordingly, apply to assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

[Clauses 22 & 25]

Modification of the provisions relating to the determination of tax liability of the Life Insurance Corporation and for setting up a social security fund.

16. Under the existing provisions of section 44 of the Income-tax Act, the profits and gains of life insurance business are computed in accordance with the rules contained in the First Schedule. The profits and gains so computed are charged to tax at the rate of 12.5 per cent. as provided in section 115B of the Income-tax Act.

In order to introduce a scheme for social security for the weaker and vulnerable sections of society, it has been decided to create a 'Social Security Fund', so that the premium to be paid for socially-oriented group insurance schemes could be partly subsidised from this Fund.

With a view to generate resources for setting up this Fund, it is proposed to amend the Income-tax Act to provide the following:-

(i) The Life Insurance Corporation of India would deposit during the previous year relevant for the assessment year commencing on 1st April, 1989 an amount not less than two and one half per cent. of the profits and gains of life insurance business in such security fund, whereupon the amount of income-tax payable by it shall be reduced by an amount equal to two and one half per cent. of such profits and gains.

(ii) In addition to the above amount of deposit, the Corporation will be liable to contribute a sum equal to thirty-three and one -third per cent. of the tax so determined. In other words, the deposit of thirty-three and one third per cent. required to be made by the Corporation is to be calculated on the income-tax payable by it as reduced by two and one half per cent. of its profits and gains.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April,1989 and will be applicable only for one year, i.e. for the assessment year 1989-90.

[Clause 31]

Liberalisation of provisions in respect of taxation of profits and deduction of tax at source applicable to the General Insurance Corporation and its subsidiaries.

17. Under the existing provisions of section 44 of the Income-tax Act, the profits and gains of any insurance business is computed in accordance with the rules contained in the First Schedule to the Act. In rule 5 of this Schedule, profits and gains of any business of insurance, other than life insurance, are taken to be balance of profits disclosed in the annual accounts furnished to the Controller of Insurance subject to certain adjustments. One of the adjustments provided therein is in respect of any amount either written off or reserved in the accounts to meet depreciation or loss on the realisation of investment which is allowed as deduction. Similarly, any sum taken credit for in the account on account of appreciation of or gain on the realisation of investments is taken as part of the profits and gains of the business.

With a view to enable the General Insurance Corporation and its subsidiaries to play a more active role in capital markets for the benefit of policy holders, it is proposed to provide for exemption of the profits earned by them on the sale of investments. As a corollary, it is proposed to provide that the losses incurred by the General Insurance Corporation on the realisation of investment shall not be allowed as deduction in computing the profits chargeable to tax. To achieve this objective, clause (b) of rule 5 of the First Schedule to the Income-tax Act is proposed to be deleted.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April,1989, and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Under the provisions of section 193 and 194 of the Income-tax Act, tax is deducted at source at the time of payment of interest on securities or dividend, inter alia, to the General Insurance Corporation or its subsidiaries.

As a measure of administrative convenience, it is proposed to amend the General Insurance Business (Nationalisation) Act, 1972, to provide that in respect of any payment of dividend or interest on securities made to the General Insurance Corporation or its subsidiaries, no tax shall be deducted at source.

The proposed amendment will come into effect from 1st June,1988.

[Clauses 52 & 86]

Exclusion of cinematograph films from the Eleventh Schedule.

18. Eleventh Schedule to the Income-tax Act, contains a list of non-priority articles or things to which the benefits of the provisions of section 32AB and other sections of the Act are not applicable. Serial No.9 of this Schedule relates to 'Cinematograph films and projectors'.

The items that fall under the head ' cinematograph films' cater to the priority needs of the country in various vital fields like medicine, communication and education. It is, therefore, proposed to exclude cinematograph films from the non-priority list of articles or things from the Eleventh Schedule. "Projectors" would continue to be included as an item in the Schedule.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April,1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

[Clause 53]

INCENTIVES FOR EARNING FOREIGN EXCHANGE

New provision to extend tax holiday to hundred per cent. export oriented units.

19. Under the existing provisions of section 10A of the Income-tax Act, a five year tax holiday is allowed to industrial undertakings manufacturing or producing articles or things in a Free Trade Zone subject to certain conditions. Similar benefit is not available to hundred per cent. export orinted units. With a view to providing further incentive for earning foreign exchange, it is proposed to exempt such Units also from tax for a consecutive period of five years out of eight years in the same manner as is the income of a newly established industrial undertaking in Free Trade Zone.

The amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

[Clause 6]

Exemption of income of exporters and incentives to supporting manufacturers exporting goods through "Export/Trading Houses"

20. Under the existing provisions of section 80HHC of the Income-tax Act, taxpayers exporting goods or merchandise are allowed a deduction of an amount equal to 4 per cent. of the net foreign exchange realisation and 50 per cent of the balance profit.

With a view to provide a further incentive to our export efforts, it is proposed that the deduction will be allowed to the taxpayers exporting goods or merchandise of the whole of the income derived from the export of such goods or merchandise.

The existing provisions of this section apply only to a taxpayer who exports goods or merchandise. The benefit of the deduction under section 80HHC is not available to supporting manufacturers who export goods through Export or Trading Houses. With a view to providing an incentive to export, it is proposed to extend the export linked benefit available under section 80HHC to supporting manufacturers also. In computing the income chargeable to tax in the case of a supporting manufacturer, a deduction of the whole of the income earned on the sale of goods or merchandise to the Export/Trading House would be allowed if a certificate in a prescribed form has been issued by an Export/Trading House, certifying that in respect of the amount of export turnover specified therein, the deduction under section 80HHC is to be allowed to the supporting manufacturer. Consequently, the amount of deduction available to the Export/Trading House shall be reduced by such an amount which is calculated proportionately.

The deduction will not be allowed to the supporting manufacturer unless he furnishes in the prescribed form along with the return of income, -

(a) a report of an accountant certifying that the deduction has been correctly claimed on the basis of the income of the supporting maufacturer in respect of his sale of goods or merchandise to the Export/Trading House; and

(b) a certificate from the Export/Trading House certifying that in respect of the export turnover mentioned in the certificate, the Export/Trading House has, itself, not claimed deduction under the provisions of this section.

For the purposes of this section, Export/Trading House will mean a person holding an Export House Certificate or a Trading House Certificate, issued by the Chief Controller of Imports and Exports, Government of India.

Supporting manufacturer will mean a person being an Indian company or a person (other than a company) resident in India manufacturing goods or merchandise and selling such goods and merchandise to anExport/Trading House for the purposes of export.

The proposed amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989, and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

[Clause 24]

INCENTIVES FOR SAVINGS

Modification of the provisions relating to National Savings Scheme to provide more incentives for savings.

21. Under the existing provisions of section 80CCA of the Income-tax Act, deduction is allowed to an individual, a Hindu undivided family and certain categories of associations of persons or bodies of individuals, in respect of deposits made under the National Savings Scheme. The amount that qualifies for deduction is limited to Rs.20,000 in a year. The deduction is admissible equal to fifty per cent. of the amount deposited. If withdrawals are made under this scheme, an amount equal to fifty per cent. of the sum withdrawn, representing the deposit and interest accruing thereon, is deemed to be the income of the taxpayer of the previous year in which such withdrawal is made. The interest on the deposits made under this scheme is taxable in the year of withdrawal and to the extent of fifty per cent. thereof.

With a view to provide further incentive for savings, it is proposed to amend this section to increase the deduction to hundred per cent. and the maximum amount which would qualify for such a deduction is being enhanced to Rs.30,000.

As a social security measure, it is also proposed to extend the scope of this section to the deferred annuity plans of the Life Insurance Corporation as prescribed by the Central Government in this behalf. However, the overall limit of investment for both deductions has been fixed at Rs.30,000.

The increased rate of deduction will be available from the assessment year 1988-89 for which year the maximum amount qualifying for deduction would be Rs.20,000/- only. The increased ceiling of Rs.30,000/- can be availed of only from the assessment year 1989-90 onwards.

[Clause 23]

MEASURES FOR RAISING RESOURCES FOR DROUGHT RELIEF

Exemption from income-tax in respect of interest on Relief Bonds.

22. Under the existing provisions of sections 10(15) (iib) of the Income-tax Act, income by way of interest on such Capital Investment Bonds, as the Central Government may specify by notification in the Official Gazette, qualify for exemption from income-tax without any monetary ceiling.

With a view to raise additional resources to provide relief to drought affected farmers and persons in rural areas, a new Bond titled as "9 per cent. Relief Bond, 1987" has been issued. This Bond has a maturity period of five years and carries a simple interest of 9 per cent. per annum. It is proposed to exempt the interest on the 9 per cent. Relief Bond, 1987, from income-tax without any ceiling limit. Accordingly, the interest on the 9 per cent. Relief Bond, 1987, will not be includible in computing the total income of a taxpayer.

The proposed amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989, and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

[Clause 4]

MEASURES TO COMBAT TAX EVASION AND AVOIDANCE

Provisions for disallowance of interest etc. paid to non-residents if no deduction of tax at source.

23. Under the existing provisions of section 40 of the Income-tax Act, any amount which is payable outside India as interest is not allowable as deduction for computing profits and gains from business or profession unless tax has been paid or deducted at source in respect of such payment and there is no person who can be treated as an agent under section 163 of the Act.

In order to ensure effective compliance of the provisions of section 195 relating to deduction of tax at source from the payment of interest etc. to a non-resident, it is proposed to provide that any amount of such interest, royalty, fees for technical services or similar sum shall not be allowed as deduction in computing the profits and gains from business or profession unless tax has been deducted or paid on such payment. It has, however, been provided that if in any subsequent year, tax is deducted at source or paid, such sum will be allowed as deduction in computing the income chargeable to tax of that year.

These amendments will take effect from 1st April, 1989, and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years. [Clause 11]

Measures to check tax avoidance in cases of transfer

24. Under the existing provisions of section 47 of the Income-tax Act, any transfer of a capital asset from a holding company to its wholly-owned subsidiary company or vice-versa is exempt from the charge of capital gains tax, subject to certain conditions. The exemption is, however, withdrawn under section 47A of the Act, if such capital asset is converted by the transferee company into, or is treated by it as stock-in-trade of its business; or the parent company or its nominee or the holding company ceases to hold the whole of the share capital of the subsidiary company, before expiry of a period of 8 years from the date of transfer. To circumvent the operation of section 47A of the Act, transferee holding/subsidiary companies are resorting to the device of converting the capital asset as stock-in-trade at the time of transfer itself.

With a view to plug this loophole, it is proposed to bring to tax under the head "capital gains" any transfer of a capital asset by a holding company to its wholly-owned subsidiary company or vice-versa, in cases where the capital asset is taken over as stock-in-trade at the time of transfer.

The above amendment will apply to any transfer made after 29th February,1988.

Another device resorted to by the taxpayers to avail of the exemption from capital gains tax under the provisions of section 47 of the Income-tax Act is to revalue the stock-in-trade of an amalgamating company or consequent to a total or partial partition of a Hindu undivided family or in cases where there is a transfer either by way of gift or under a will or an irrevocable trust. The revaluation of the stock-in-trade at a higher value not only reduces the profit of the transferee company but also the profit on the sale of the stock-in-trade.

With a view to counteract the above devices for tax avoidance, it is proposed that where an asset acquired under a scheme of amalgamation, is sold by an amalgamated company after the 29th day of February,1988 as stock-in-trade, then in computing the income from such transfer, the cost of acquisition of the asset to the amalgamated company shall be the cost of the acquisition of the asset to the amalgamating company, as increased by the cost, if any, of any improvement thereto and the expenditure incurred wholly and exclusively in connection with such transfer. A similar provision is also proposed in cases where an asset has been acquired by the assessee on transfer,either by way of total or partial partition of a Hindu undivided family or under a gift or will or an irrevocable trust,is sold after the 29th day of February,1988.

The above amendments will come into force from 1st April,1988 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to assessment year 1988-89, and subsequent years. [Clause 13 & 17]

New provisions to counteract tax evasion by liquor contractors, scrap dealers , dealers in forest products, etc.

25. Considerable difficulty has been felt in the past in making assessment of incomes in the case of persons who take contracts for sale of liquor, scrap, forest products, etc. It has been the Department's experience that for taking such contracts, firms or associations of persons are specifically constituted and very often no trace is left regarding them or their members after the contract has been executed. Persons have also been found to have taken contracts in benami names by floating undertakings or associations for short periods. Since tax is payable in the assessment years in respect of the incomes of the previous years, the time by which the incomes from such sources become assessable, such persons are not traceable. At the time of assessment in these cases, either the accounts are not available or they are grossly incorrect or incomplete. Thus, even if assessments could be made on ex parte basis, it becomes almost impossible to collect the tax found due, either because it becomes difficult to establish the identity of the persons and trace them or because of the fact that the persons in whose names contracts are taken are men of no means.

With a view to combat large-scale tax evasion by persons deriving income from such businesses, the Bill seeks to insert, a new section 44AC to provide for determination of income in such cases. Taking into account the experience gained in the past regarding the ratio of profit to the sale consideration the proposal is to provide that sixty per cent. of the amount paid or payable by such persons on sale would constitute income of the taxpayers, i.e. the buyer.

The provisions of this section will apply only to an assessee, being a buyer of any goods in the nature of alcoholic liquor for human consumption (other than Indian-made foreign liquor) or any forest produce, scrap or waste, whether industrial or non-industrial, or such other goods, as may be notified by the Central Government, at the point of first sale. The word 'seller' connotes the Central Government, State Government or any local authority or corporation or authority established by or under a Central Act or any company. The provisions of this section shall not apply to any buyer in the second or subsequent sale of such goods.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989 and will, accordingly, apply to assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

Further, with a view to facilitate collection of taxes from such assessees, it is proposed to introduce a new section 206C to provide that any person, being a seller, referred to in section 44AC, shall collect income-tax of a sum equal to twenty per cent. of the amount paid or payable by the buyer, as increased by a surcharge for purposes of the Union calculated on the income-tax at the rates in force. Such sum is required to be collected either from the buyer at the time of debiting the said amount to the account of the buyer or at the time of the receipt of that amount from the buyer, whichever is earlier. This mode of recovery of tax shall be without prejudice to any other mode of recovery. The tax so collected by the seller shall be paid to the credit of the Central Government or as the Board directs, within seven days from the date of collection. It will be treated as tax paid on behalf of the person from whom the amount has been collected and credit shall be given for such amount in the assessment made under this Act on production of a certificate.

The new section also provides that if a seller does not collect or after collecting fails to pay the tax, he shall be deemed to be an assessee in default in respect of the tax and the amount of the tax together with the amount of simple interest, calculated at the rate of two per cent. per month or part thereof, shall be a charge upon all the assets of the seller.

A new section 276BB provides for prosecution of a person who fails to pay the tax collected at source for a period which shall not be less than three months but which may extend upto seven years and with fine.

These amendments will be made effective from 1st June, 1988.

[Clauses 15, 40, & 46]

Modification of the provisions relating to carry forward and set off of losses in the case of certain companies.

26. Under the existing provisions of section 79 of the Income-tax Act, no loss incurred by a closely-held company in any year prior to the previous year in which a change in its shareholding took place, is allowed to be carried forward and set off against its income, unless on the last day of the previous year, there is no change in the beneficial holding of shares of the company, carrying not less than 51 per cent. of the voting power.

Clause (b) of the section requires that where 51 per cent. of the voting power in the company is not held by the same shareholders, the benefit of carry forward and set off of losses may not be denied if the Assessing Officer is satisfied that the change in the shareholding was not effected with a view to avoiding or reducing any liability to tax.

There has been controversy in the past regarding the interpretation of clause (b). Some courts have held that conditions (a) and (b) of section 79 are cumulative and therefore for invoking section 79, both the conditions must be satisfied. Thus, the burden of proof has been shifted by the courts on the Assessing Officer which is extremely difficult to be discharged, specially when all the facts are exclusively in the knowledge of the taxpayer only. Therefore, to set at rest the judicial controversy in this regard, it is proposed to delete clause (b) of the section.

This amendment will take effect from the 1st April, 1989.

Amendment of provisions concerning power regarding discovery, production of evidence, etc.

27. Under the existing provisions of section 131(1A) of the Income-tax Act, the powers of a civil court in certain matters like issuing of commissions, enforcing attendance of witnesses, etc. have been conferred on Income-tax authorities including the Director-General and the Director. Similar powers have also been conferred on authorised officers under section 132 of the Act to enable them to record a statement before the commencement of search. The amendment made in this section by the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987, however, does not extend the powers embedded in the section to a Deputy Director and an Assistant Director even though they could also be associated with investigation of cases and search and seizure work. It is, therefore, proposed to amend this section to extend the powers vested in the section to a Deputy Director and an Assistant Director also.

Further, under the existing provisions of section 131(3) of the Act, an Assistant Director is not empowered to retain the books of accounts and documents impounded by him beyond a period of fifteen days without approval of the Chief Commissioner or the Commissioner of Income-tax. Experience has indicated that during the course of investigation, sometimes it becomes necessary to impound books of account and other documents of persons who fall within the jurisdiction of Chief Commissioners or Commissioners who are not located in the same city. Accordingly, lot of time is lost in obtaining their prior approval. In order to overcome the present long drawn procedure, it is proposed to amend sub-section (3) by amending clause (b) in the proviso [as amended by section 2 of the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment)Act, 1987], by substituting the words"the Chief Commissioner or Commissioner therefor" by the words"the Chief Commissioner or Commissioner or Director-General or Director therefor" '. The effect of the amendment would be that in those cases where it becomes necessary to retain the books of account and documents beyond a period of 15 days by the Assistant Director, he can, in cases where the Chief Commissioner or Commissioner cannot be approached without loss of time etc., get the approval for retention from Director-General or Director, as the case may be, who are of the same rank as Chief Commissioner and Commissioner of Income-tax.

Similar amendments are proposed to be carried out in the corresponding provisions of section 37 of the Wealth-tax Act and section 36 of the Gift-tax Act.

These amendments will take effect from 1st June, 1988. [Clauses 33, 64 & 70]

Modification of the provisions relating to tax deduction at source.

28. Under the existing provisions of section 194C of the Income-tax Act, deduction of tax at source is required to be made from payment of any sum to a resident contractor or sub-contractor for carrying out any work, at the time of payment or credit of such sum to the account of such person.

This provision was being circumvented by a large number of persons by adopting the device of crediting such a sum to a 'suspense account'.

In order to prevent, through this device, the postponement of liability to deduct tax and credit it to the account of the Central Government, it is proposed to provide, by amending section 194C, that the tax will be deducted at source either on accrual or at the time of credit to the account of the payee or at the time of payment, whichever event occurs first. It is also proposed to clarify that any sum credited to suspense account or any other account, by whatever name, shall be deemed to be a credit for the purpose of tax deduction at source under section 194C.

This amendment will take effect from the 1st June, 1988. [Clause 38]

Modification of the provisions regarding provisional attachment of properties to protect revenue in certain cases.

29. Under the existing provisions of section 281B of the Income-tax Act, an Assessing Officer, with the prior approval of the Commissioner, can provisionally attach any property belonging to the assessee to protect the interest of revenue during the pendency of any assessment or reassessment proceeding.

This provision is being circumvented by a large number of persons by alienating their properties during the pendency of proceedings under section 132(5) of the Act relating to searches and seizures which are not assessment proceedings. Further, some assessees file an application with the Settlement Commission so that, on admission of such an application, the jurisdiction of an Assessing Officer to make provisional attachment may get ousted. During the pendency of such an application, the taxpayers very often alienate their properties.

In order to provide for such situations, it is proposed to,–

(i) amend section 281B of the Income-tax Act to extend the powers of provisional attachment so that these could be exercised even during the pendency of proceedings under section 132(5) of the Act; and

(ii) insert a new section 245DD to extend the powers of provisional attachment to the Settlement Commission as well.

Similar amendments are proposed in the Wealth-tax Act by amending the provisions of section 34C and by inserting a new section 22DD in the Wealth-tax Act.

These amendments will take effect from 1st April, 1988.

[Clause 42 & 49]

Bar of suits in civil court to set aside or modify any proceeding taken or order made.

30. Under the existing provisions of section 293 of the Income-tax Act, no suit shall lie in any civil court to set aside or modify any order made under the Act. Similar provisions are contained in section 43 of the Wealth-tax Act and section 42 of the Gift-tax Act.

Some courts have interpreted section 293 to say that the bar of suits in civil courts is confined to orders only and not to other proceedings under the Income-tax Act and on this basis have started giving stay orders in respect of proceedings before the Income-tax authorities. This interpretation is not in conformity with the legislative intent. It is, therefore, proposed to amend section 293 of the Income-tax Act to provide that no suit shall lie in any civil court to set aside or modify any order made or any proceeding taken under the Act.

Similar amendments have been proposed in the corresponding provisions in the Wealth-tax Act and the Gift-tax Act.

These amendments will take effect from 1st March, 1988.

[Clauses 51, 65 & 71]

MEASURES FOR RATIONALISATION

Exemption of subsidies received by planters

31. The existing provisions of section 10(30) of the Income-tax Act provide for exemption from tax of any subsidy received from the Tea Board by an assessee who carries on business of growing and manufacturing tea in India. As a measure of rationalisation, a similar exemption is proposed in respect of the assessees engaged in the business of growing and manufacturing rubber, coffee, cardamom or such other commodities as the Central Government may, by notification, specify. The subsidy which will qualify for exemption should be received from or through the concerned Board under any scheme for replantation or replacement of rubber plants etc. or for rejuveration or consolidation of areas used for their cultivation. To obtain this exemption, an assessee will be required to furnish to the Assessing Officer along with his return of income for the assessment year concerned or within such further period as the Assessing Officer may allow, a certificate from the concerned Board, as to the amount of such subsidy received during the previous year.

This amendment will come into effect from 1st April, 1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

[Clause 4]

Modification of provisions relating to exemption of remuneration received by diplomatic personnel of foreign countries.

32. Under the existing provisions of sub-clauses (ii) to (v) of clause (6) of section 10 of the Income-tax Act, exemption is provided for remuneration received by diplomatic personnel and members of the staff of the representatives of foreign countries, from their gross total income.

With a view to rationalise and simplify the provisions, it is proposed to club together the provisions of these clauses into a single clause.

This amendment will take effect from the 1st April,1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

[Clause 4]

Amendent of provisions relating to exemption to the income of a Mutual Fund.

33. Under the existing provisions of section 10(23D) of the Income-tax Act, the income of a Mutual Fund set up by a public sector bank or a public financial institution is exempt. However, some doubts might arise on the interpretation of the phrase "income from such Mutual Fund".

In order to make the legislative intent clear, it is proposed to amend section 10(23D) of the Income-tax Act to provide that the income "of" such Mutual Fund will be exempt.

This amendment will take effect from the 1st April, 1988.

[Clause 4]

Modification of the provisions relating to industrial undertakings in free trade zones.

34. Under the existing provisions of section 10A of the Income-tax Act, profits and gains derived by an assessee from a newly established industrial undertaking in free trade zones are not included in his total income subject to certain conditions, from the assessment year 1981-82.

Sub-section (5) of this section gives concessional treatment available under this section for the industries set up during the previous years relevant to assessment years 1977-78 to 1980-81, at the option of the assessee.

Sub-section (7) of this section gives the option to the assessee not to avail the concession given in this section.

The Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987 has amended, with effect from 1st April, 1989, the provisions of section 139 of the Income-tax Act relating to return of income. By the amendment, the provisions regarding issue of notice by the Assessing Officer requiring the assessees to file their returns of income have been deleted. Further, the power of the Assessing Officer to extend the time for filing the return of income has also been taken away. However, there are references to the provisions of this section in sub-sections (5) and (7) of section 10A.

It is proposed to amend the provisions of section 10A(7) as a consequence of the aforesaid amendment of the provisions of section 139.

It is also proposed to amend the provisions of sub-section (8) of this section to provide that the amendments in section 139 will not have any effect on the provisions of sub-section (5) of this section.

These amendments will take effect from the 1st April, 1989.

[Clause 5]

Modification of the provisions relating to deduction in respect of certain liabilities

35. Under the existing provisions of section 43B of the Income-tax Act, deduction for any amount payable by the assessee by way of tax or duty under any law or any sum payable as an employer by way of contribution to any provident fund or superannuation fund is allowed as a deduction in computing the income of that person in the year in which such sum is actually paid by him. The objective behind these provisions is to provide for a tax disincentive by denying deduction in respect of statutory liability or fund money etc. which is not paid in time. The benefit of deduction is thus available only to those persons who do not use Government money for their own purposes.

There has been a legal controversy whether the words 'tax' and 'duty' cover within their fold certain statutory levies like cess, fees, etc. It has been held by some appellate authorities that such amounts could not be covered under the expressions 'tax' or 'duty'. Such interpretations are against the legislative intent.

Therefore, as a matter of clarification, the Bill provides that cess or fees by whatever name called, which have been imposed by any statutory authority, including a local authority, will also be allowed as a deduction only if these are actually paid.

In recent years, it has been noticed that there is a tendency on one pretext or the other to postpone the payment of interest due to various financial institutions on loans etc. provided by them and thus the money due to financial institutions is used for business purposes even though it has been claimed as a deduction in the income-tax assessment. The phenomenon has the effect of straining the cash flow and liquidity of the public financial institutions, thereby reducing their ability to extend new credits. Further, a grave consequence of this tendency is that in cases where the sickness of the unit is self-managed, the financial institution is ultimately faced with a situation where it has to write off the accumulated balance of interest. This affects adversely the economy as a whole.

With a view to improving the liquidity position of the public financial institutions and to prevent the misuse of limited resources of finance available to trade and industry through the medium of financial institutions, the Bill seeks to amend section 43B of the Act to provide that any sum payable as interest on any loan or borrowing from any public financial institution in accordance with the terms and conditions of the agreement governing such loan or borrowing , shall not be allowed as a deduction if the same is not actually paid by the assessee before the due date applicable in his case for furnishing the return of income.

For the purposes of this provision, the term "public financial institution" will have the same meaning as in section 4A of the Companies Act, 1956.

The above amendment will take effect from the 1st April,1989 and will, accordingly, apply to assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

[Clause 12]

Modifications of provisions in respect of audit of accounts.

36. The existing provisions of section 44AB of the Income-tax Act make it obligatory for a person carrying on business or profession to get his accounts audited by the "specified date" by an accountant, if the sales turnover or professional receipts exceed the prescribed monetary limit. The "specified date" in relation to the accounts of the previous year means the date of expiry of four months from the end of that year and in case where there is more than one previous year, from the end of the previous year which expired last before the commencement of the assessment year or the 30th June of the assessment year, whichever is later.

After the enactment of the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987, the due dates provided for furnishing of returns of income in section 139(1) of the Income-tax Act have changed. Therefore it is proposed that the "specified date" in relation to the accounts of the previous year should similarly be changed as under :-

(a) where the assessee is a company	31st December of the assessment year .
(b) where the assessee is a person other than a company	31st October of the assessment year.

Sub-section (6A) of section 139 of the Income-tax Act provides that an assessee engaged in any business or profession should furnish along with the return of income certain particulars. It is proposed to amend the aforesaid sub-section so as to provide that an assessee engaged in any business or profession who is required to get his accounts audited under section 44AB should also file an audit report obtained under this section along with the return of income.

Presently, a return of income is regarded as defective unless all the conditions mentioned in the Explanation below section 139 (9) of the Income-tax Act are fulfilled. The Bill seeks to provide a further condition whereby a return of income shall be regarded as defective if the audit report obtained under section 44AB of the Income-tax Act is not furnished with the return of income.

Under the existing provisions of section 271B of the Income-tax Act, penalty is leviable in a case where any person fails to get his accounts audited in respect of his income in any year or to obtain a report as required under section 44AB of the Act. It is proposed that such penalty should be leviable also in case of failure on the part of the assessee to furnish the report of such audit along with the return of income filed under section 139(1) of the Act or along with the return of income filed in response to a notice under section 142(1) of the Act.

The above amendments will take effect from 1st April,1989, and will, accordingly apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent assessment years.

[Clauses 14, 35, 45]

Modification of special provision relating to income from the business of exploration etc. of mineral oils.

37. Under the existing provisions of section 44BB of the Income-tax Act, the income of a taxpayer whether resident or non-resident, who is engaged in the business of providing services or facilities in connection with, or supplying plant and machinery on hire used or to be used in the exploration for and exploitation of, mineral oils is computed at ten per cent. of the aggregate of the amounts paid or payable to the taxpayer or to any person on his behalf, whether in or out of India on account of the provision of such services or facilities.

The provision which provides for a simplified method of computation of tax has been found to cause unintended hardship to the resident taxpayers by eroding their financial base even though their efforts result in substantial savings in foreign exchange. These taxpayers instead of being taxed under the normal provisions of the Income-tax Act whereby deduction in respect of expenditure incurred in earning the income is allowable, are taxed at a flat rate of their gross receipts.

As an incentive for indigenisation and saving of foreign exchange, it is proposed to restrict the application of these provisions to the cases of only non-resident taxpayers. In respect of resident taxpayers, their income will be computed under the other provisions of the Income-tax Act.

The proposed amendment shall come into force retrospectively from the 1st April,1983, i.e. the date from which the provisions of the section have come into force, and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1983-84 and subsequent years.

[Clause 16]

Modification in the provisions relating to deduction in respect of royalty etc. from certain foreign enterprises

38. Under the existing provisions of section 80-0 of the Income-tax Act, an Indian company deriving income by way of royalty, commission, fees or any similar payment from the Government of a foreign State or a foreign enterprise is entitled to a deduction of fifty per cent. of such income received in convertible foreign exchange. This tax concession is available if the agreement under which such an income is derived, is approved by the Central Board of Direct Taxes. Prior to 1st April,1972, this approval was required to be given by the Central Government. It is now proposed, by amending this section, to delegate the power of the Board , to give approval to the agreement, to the Chief Commissioner or the Director General.

The agreements already approved by the Central Government prior to 1st April, 1972 or by the Board prior to 1st April, 1989 will not require fresh approval of the Chief Commissioner or the Director General. Every application pending for approval under this section with the Board immediately before 1st of April, 1989 shall stand transferred to the concerned Chief Commissioner or Director General for disposal.

The above amendments will take effect from 1st April, 1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

It is also proposed to provide by way of clarification that the deduction under this section shall be allowed even in respect of income which has been received in convertible foreign exchange outside India, or having been converted into covertible foreign exchange outside India, is brought into India in accordance with any law for the time being in force for regulating payments and dealings in foreign exchange.

This amendment will take effect retrospectively from 1st April, 1988 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1988-89 and subsequent years.

[Clause 26]

Modification of the provisions relating to tax deduction at source on payments to non-residents.

39. Under the existing provisions of section 195(2) of the Income-tax Act, a person responsible for paying to a non-resident any sum other than interest on securities, dividend and salary, may make an application to the Assessing Officer to determine, in the prescribed manner the appropriate proportion of such sum to be chargeable under the Act for the purposes of tax deduction at source.

Under the existing rule 10 of the Income-tax Rules, 1962, it is provided as to how the income component of the payments to non-residents as mentioned above can be computed for the purposes of this section. Further, Part II of the First Schedule to the Finance Act provides the appropriate rates of tax on various forms of income payable to non-residents for purposes of tax deduction at source.

In order to rationalise the provisions, it is proposed to amend section 195(2) of the Income-tax Act to authorise an Assessing Officer to determine the income component of the payments to non-residents by general or special order in any case which may arise, rather than giving a general power to determine the income in a prescribed manner.

This amendment will take effect from 1st March, 1988.

[Clause 39]

Liberalisation of the provisions relating to income-tax clearance certificate

40. Under the existing provisions of section 230A of the Income-tax Act, a document of transfer of immovable property valued at more than one lakh rupees shall not be registered unless a certificate is obtained from the Assessing Officer in respect of payment or satisfactory arrangement for payment of tax liability of the transferor. The limit of fifty thousand rupees in this regard has been raised to one lakh rupees by the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987. The Bill seeks to liberalise this limit further by raising it to Rs.2 lakhs.

The amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1988.

Modification of the provisions relating to filing of first appeal.

41. Under the existing provisions of section 246(1) of the Income-tax Act, no appeal has been provided against the order of penalty passed by an Assessing Officer under section 272BB of the Income-tax Act. This penalty is leviable for failure to make an application for allotment of a tax-deduction account number under section 203A of the Act.

With a view to provide an appeal against the order passed by the Assessing Officer in such cases, it is proposed to amend section 246(1) of the Income-tax Act.

This amendment will take effect from 1st June, 1987.

Further, under the existing provisions of section 246(2) of the Income-tax Act as amended by the Finance Act, 1987, no appeal is provided against an order passed by an Assessing Officer under section 104 of the Income-tax Act levying additional income-tax on certain companies if their distributed profits fell short of a certain percentage envisaged therein. However, there may be cases where appeals may lie after 31st March, 1988 against the orders passed by the Assessing Officers under section 104 in respect of assessment year 1987-88 or any earlier assessment year.

In view of the above, it is proposed to amend section 246(2) of the Income-tax Act so as to provide appeals against the orders passed by the Assessing Officers under section 104 of the Income-tax Act in respect of assessment year 1987-88 or earlier assessment years.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1988.

[Clause 43]

Omission of Chapter XXII-A of the Income-tax Act relating to annuity deposits.

42. Chapter XXII-A of the Income-tax Act contains provisions relating to annuity deposits. This was introduced in 1964 with the object of mopping up of resources for the Government. The Scheme came into existence from the assessment year 1964-65 and was discontinued with effect from 1-4-1969. The repayments under the Scheme were taxable in the years of repayment of the annuity deposit. The last of such payments fell due in 1979. Thus, these provisions have ceased to be operative with effect from the assessment year 1980-81. Therefore, as a measure of rationalisation, it is proposed to delete the Chapter containing these provisions with effect from the 1st day of April, 1988.

[Clause 48]

Omission of the provisions relating to furnishing of information by contractors.

43. Under the existing provisions of section 285A of the Income-tax Act, a contractor is required to file particulars of the contract in the prescribed form to the Assessing Officer in a case where the value of contract exceeds Rs.50,000/-.

In view of the provisions of section 194C of the Income-tax Act providing for deduction of tax at source by a person making payment to a contractor, the requirement of obtaining information under section 285A of the Act is no longer considered to be necessary.

Therefore, as a measure of rationalisation, it is, proposed to delete section 285A of the Income-tax Act.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1988.

[Clause 50]

Omission of 'Interest on securities' as a separate head of income.

44. 'Interest on securities' is a separate head of income as enumerated in section 14 of the Income-tax Act. The existing provisions of sections 18 to 21 of the Act deal with definition of, deduction from and amounts not deductible in determining the taxable income under the head 'Interest on securities'. In practice, however, the securities are held either as stock-in-trade or as investments.

As a measure of rationalisation, the Bill seeks to omit 'Interest on securities' as a separate head of income. Such an income would now be assessed either under the head 'profit and gains of business or profession' or 'income from other sources' depending on whether the securities are held as stock-in-trade or as an investment. As a consequential measure, sections 18 to 21 of the Income-tax Act will be deleted and suitable amendments are proposed to sections 56 and 57 of the Income-tax Act relating to income from other sources. Further, sections 86A and 181 of the Income-tax Act relating to interest on tax free Government securities are proposed to be deleted since these provisions have outlived their relevance because no State Government has issued tax-free securities in the recent years. Section 112A relating to interest free National Saving Certificate (First Issue) is also being deleted since this series of NSC had matured in 1975.

The definition of 'Interest on securities', however, is now proposed to be provided in a new section 2(28B) of the Income-tax Act.

These amendments will take effect from 1st April, 1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

[Clauses 3, 4, 7, 8, 10, 18, 19, 20, 27, 28, 29, 30, 36 and 37]

Modifications of provisions relating to offences and prosecutions.

45. Under the existing provisions of Section 279 of the Income-tax Act, prosecution for offences mentioned in sub-section (1) of the section can be launched at the instance of the Commissioner of Income-tax. This section also empowers the Commissioner to compound offences mentioned in Section 279 either before or after the institution of prosecution proceedings.

The existing provisions empower only the Commissioner of Income-tax to authorise launching of prosecution. There may be cases where an offence is committed before an Appropriate Authority under Chapter XXC of the Income-tax Act or a Commissioner (Appeals). As both these authorities are of the same rank as the Commissioner, it should not be necessary for them to approach the Commissioner for sanction for launching a prosecution. Hence, the Bill seeks to provide that where the prosecution is to be launched by a Commissioner (Appeals) or an Appropriate Authority, the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner or Commissioner will not be necessary.

The words used in the sub-section (1) are that no prosecution for offences committed under various sections mentioned therein can be launched "except at the instance of the Commissioner". In chapters relating to prosecution under other enactments, the word "sanction" is normally used. Therefore, to bring the provisions of the section in line with those contained in other enactments, the expression "except at the instance of" is proposed to be substituted by the expression, "except with the previous sanction of ".

The Bill also seeks to omit references to section 276AA, which has already been deleted by the Finance Act, 1986 and sections 276DD and 276E, which have been deleted by the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987, and insert reference to section 276, which has been inserted by the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987, in sub-section (1) of the section.

The existing provisions of sub-section (2) of the section provide for the compounding of an offence mentioned in sub-section (1) with the sanction of the Commissioner, either before or after the institution of the prosecution proceedings. This means that where an offence is committed before the Commissioner (Appeals) or the Appropriate Authority, they will also have to approach the Commissioner for compounding the offence. This situation is anomalous for the same reason as discussed above.

The Bill, therefore, seeks to provide that an offence, prosecution for which is to be launched by the Commissioner (Appeals) or the Appropriate Authority, can be compounded by the Board or by any income-tax authority, not below the rank of a Director General or a Chief Commissioner authorised by the Board in this behalf, while in other cases an offence can be compounded by the Chief Commissioner or Commissioner.

Futher, the existing sub-section (2) authorises compounding of an offence under various sections mentioned in sub-section (1) of the section. Section 276AB of the Income-tax Act dealing with offences committed before the Appropriate Authority in connection with the provisions of Chapter XXC of the Income-tax Act is not mentioned in sub-section (1) of the section. Thus, under the existing provisions, offences committed under section 276AB of the Income-tax Act cannot be compounded. To remove this situation, the Bill seeks to provide that offences under Chapter XXC of the Income-tax Act can be compounded.

The corresponding provisions contained in section 35-I of the Wealth-tax Act and sub-sections (3) and (4) of section 35 of the Gift-tax Act are also proposed to be amended on the same lines.

The proposed amendments will take effect from 1st April, 1989.

[Clauses 47, 63 &69]

Exclusion of deposit in a Non-resident (External) Account for purposes of exemption from capital gains.

46. Under the existing provisions of sections 115F of the Income-tax Act, any amount of long-term capital gains arising to a non-resident Indian from the transfer of 'foreign exchange assets' is exempt if the net consideration received on the transfer is invested for a period of three years in any 'specified asset' or savings certificates or is deposited in a Non-resident (External) Account within a period of six months from the date of such transfer. The amounts deposited in this account are freely transferable and hence it becomes difficult to ensure that the invested amount has remained in the account for a minimum period of three years. For better monitoring, it is, therefore, proposed to exclude the Non-resident (External) Account from the prescribed modes of investment under section 115F of the Income-tax Act. The non-resident Indian would, however, be entitled to invest the sale proceeds in other specified assets for getting the exemption.

The above amendment will take effect from 1st April,1989 and will, accordingly,apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

[Clause 32]

Modification of provisions relating to searches and seizures.

47. Under the existing provisions of section 132(1) of the Income-tax Act relating to search and seizure, the authorised officer has the power to seize the books of account, other documents, money, bullion, jewellery or other valuable articles or things representing undisclosed income or wealth. Sometimes, such officers come across certain articles or things which cannot be seized and taken possession of, due to their volume, weight or other physical characteristics or due to their being of a dangerous nature. The Bill seeks to insert a second proviso to sub-section (1) of section 132 to enable the authorised officers to take constructive possession by directing the person who is in immediate possession or control thereof, not to remove, part with or otherwise deal with these, without the permission of the authorised officer. Such an order shall be deemed to be seizure of such valuable articles or things.

A consequential amendment is also proposed to be made in section 132(3) of the Income-tax Act dealing with the issue of a prohibitory order by the authorised officer, to clarify that the issue of prohibitory order under that sub-section will be for reasons other than those for which constructive possession can be taken by the authorised officer.

These amendments will take effect from 1st April,1989.

Amendment of provisions relating to revision of orders prejudicial to revenue.

48. Under the existing provisions of section 263 of the Income-tax Act and corresponding provisions under the Wealth-tax Act and the Gift-tax Act, the Commissioner of Income-tax is empowered to call for and examine records of any proceedings and if he considers that the order passed by the Assessing Officer is erroneous insofar as it is prejudicial to the interest of revenue, he may pass an order enhancing or modifying the assessment or cancelling the same or give directions to make a fresh assessment.

The provisions, as presently worded, have given rise to judicial controversies in respect of the following:

(a) On the interpretation of the term 'record': It has been held in some cases that the word 'record' in section 263(1) could not mean the record as it stood at the time of examination by the Commissioner but it meant the record as it stood at the time when the order was passed by the Assessing Officer. Such an interpretation is against the legislative intent and defeats the very objective sought to be achieved by such provisions, since the purpose is to revise the order on the basis of the record as is available to the Commissioner at the time of examination.

(b) Regarding the circumstances under which the order of an Assessing Officer merges with that of an appellate authority: Here again, there have been conflicting decisions on the questions as to whether the entire order of assessment passed by an Assessing Officer merges with the order of the first appellate authority or the merger is only with respect to that part of the order of the Assessing Officer which relates to the matters considered and decided by the appellate authority. Some High Courts have held that there is complete merger once an appeal is decided against an order even on one or two points alone, while a number of High Courts have held that there is only partial merger and not the merger of the whole order in cases where only one or some particular aspects have been contested.

To eliminate litigation and to clarify the legislative intent in respect of the provisions in the three Direct Tax Acts, it is proposed to clarify the legal position in this regard in the Explanation to the relevant sections. The proposed amendments are intended to make it clear that 'record' would include all records relating to any proceedings under the concerned direct tax laws available at the time of examination by the Commissioner. Further, as held by several High Courts, the Commissioner will be competent to revise an order of assesssment passed by an Assessing Officer on all matters except those that have been considered and decided in appeal.

Amendments on the above lines have been proposed in section 263 of the Income-tax Act, section 25 of the Wealth-tax Act and section 24 of the Gift-tax Act.

These amendments will take effect from 1st June, 1988. [Clauses 44, 57 & 68]

Modification of certain provisions introduced by the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987.

49. Certain provisions of the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987, which have been made effective from 1st April, 1989, need to be made effective from 1st April, 1988 for the following reasons:-

(i) Amendments are proposed in respect of income-tax and wealth-tax authorities mentioned in the provisions relating to search and seizure and powers to requisition books of accounts etc. These are consequent to changes in the designation and jurisdiction of income-tax and wealth-tax authorities, which are coming into effect from 1st April, 1988.

(ii) These relate to deletion, insertion or amendments of definitions of wealth-tax and gift-tax authorities, which are in line with the changes made in the Income-tax Act with effect from 1st April, 1988.

(iii) Exemption is to be given to the net wealth of a Mutual Fund specified under section 10(23D) of the Income-tax Act with effect from 1st April, 1988.

The Bill, therefore, seeks to make amendments of consequential nature in the provisions of the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987, so as to make the provisions effective from 1st April, 1988.

The Bill also seeks to omit the new provisions of the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987 relating to powers of the income tax, wealth tax and gift tax authorities to take evidence on oath etc. This is consequent to amendments of these provisions, with effect from 1st June, 1988, by Clauses 33, 64 and 70 of this Bill.

Further, the Bill also seeks to omit the new provisions in the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987 relating to issue of a tax clearance certificate by the Assessing Officer for registration of transfer of an immovable property. This is consequent to amendment of these provisions, with effect from 1st April, 1988, by Clause 41 of this Bill.

[Clause 88]

MEASURES TO GRANT RELIEF TO SALARIED TAXPAYERS

Raising of standard deduction

50. Under the existing provisions of section 16(i) of the Income-tax Act, salaried taxpayers are entitled to a standard deduction in the computation of the taxable salary. This deduction is allowed on an amount equal to thirty per cent. of the salary subject to a ceiling of Rs.10,000/-. With a view to providing relief to salaried taxpayers, the Bill proposes to raise the standard deduction to thirty-three and one-third per cent. of the salary subject to an enhanced ceiling of Rs.12,000/-.

The following table brings out the comparative incidence of tax at the selected levels of salary income:-

TABLE

The proposed amendment will take effect from 1st April,1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

[Clause 9]

WEALTH-TAX

Exemption from wealth-tax on Relief Bonds

51. With a view to raise additional resources to provide relief to drought affected farmers and persons in rural areas the Government has decided to issue Relief Bonds.

In order to stimulate investment in such Relief Bonds, it is proposed to provide for exemption from wealth-tax, the value of new Relief Bonds without any monetary ceiling. The exemption will be allowed only to the initial subscriber, or to a person, being an individual or Hindu undivided family if the Relief Bond is held for a minimum period of six months on the valuation date.

The proposed amendment will take effect from the 1st April,1988 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1988-89 and subsequent years.

[Clause 55]

Modification of provisions relating to exemption of assets under the Wealth-tax Act.

52. Under the existing provisions of Section 5(1) (xxxa) of the Wealth-tax Act, the value of a building used for the residence of employees of an assessee, who are employed in any plantation or industrial undertaking and have annual salary income of Rs.10,000 or less, is exempt.

The Bill seeks to enlarge this benefit by deleting the reference to the income limit of the employees. Any dwelling unit having plinth area of 80 square metres or less and used for the aforesaid purposes will now be exempt from the levy of wealth-tax.

Under the existing provisions of section 5(1)(xvie) of the Wealth-tax Act, debentures etc. issued by a public sector company is exempt in the hands of an assessee. As a measure of rationalisation the Bill seeks to provide that this exemption will be restricted to the existing limit of Rs.5 lakhs along with the value of other specified assets as provided in section 5(1A) of Wealth-tax Act. This will bring public sector bonds at par with specified assets like any Government security and units of Unit Trust of India.

These provisions will come into effect from 1st April, 1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

[Clause 55]

Modification of provisions relating to registered valuers.

53. Under the existing provisions of section 34AB of the Wealth-tax Act, the procedure for registration of valuers has been set forth. It has been provided that the Central Board of Direct Taxes shall maintain the Register of Valuers in which the names and addresses of persons registered as valuers will be entered. For this purpose, any person who possesses the requisite qualification prescribed in this behalf in rule 8A of the Wealth-tax Rules may apply to the Board for being registered as a valuer. As a measure of decentralization of work and rationalisation, the Bill seeks to provide that the Register of Valuers shall be maintained by the Chief Commissioners or the Directors General instead of the Board as at present. By making a consequential amendment in section 34ACC of the Wealth-tax Act, it is proposed that the intimation by a registered valuer as to whether he was convicted of any offence or sentenced to a term of imprisonment or was found guilty of misconduct in his professional capacity will now be sent to the Chief Commisioner or the Director General instead of the Board.

The existing provisions of section 34AD of the Wealth-tax Act provide for the removal of the names of the valuers from the Register and also for their restoration. The Board has been empowered to remove the name of any person from the Register subject to the fulfilment of the conditions envisaged in this behalf. By making an amendment in these provisions, this power of the Board is also proposed to be delegated to the Chief Commissioners or the Directors General. Further, under the proposed new provisions of sub-section (3) of this section, the Chief Commissioner or the Director General is being given the power to review the performance of registered valuers once in three years and to remove any person from the Register under certain conditions. As per the proposed new sub-section (4) of this section, the Chief Commissioner or the Director General may himself conduct an enquiry or may appoint an Enquiry Officer not below the rank of a Commissioner for conducting an inquiry against a registered valuer. The person conducting the enquiry shall have the powers as are vested in a court under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 when trying a suit etc.

By inserting a new section 34AE in the Wealth-tax Act, it is proposed to provide that all the existing registered valuers will be required to make an application to the Chief Commissioner or the Director General for fresh registration as valuers. Further, all the pending applications on the commencement of the new provisions shall be deemed to be new applications.

These amendments will take effect from 1st June,1988.

Exclusion of certain assets from the net wealth in the case of closely - held companies.

54. Under the existing provisions of section 40 of the Finance Act, 1983, wealth-tax is levied in respect of the net wealth of all closely-held companies. For the purposes of determining the net wealth of the company, the value of only specified assets like building , land (other than agricultural land), gold , silver, platinum, ornaments or utensils made of gold, silver etc. are taken into account.

The rationale underlying the revival of levy of wealth-tax on companies was to curb the tendency of avoidance of personal wealth-tax liability by forming closely-held companies and transferring the unproductive assets like real estate, jewellery etc. to such companies.

Under the existing provisions, wealth-tax is leviable even in cases, where the assets specified in the section are held as stock-in-trade or are used for industrial purposes.

With a view to remove this unintended hardship and provide incentive for growth and modernisation, it is proposed to amend this section to provide that the following assets shall not form part of the net wealth for the purposes of levy of wealth-tax under the section:-

(i) Precious metals used as raw-material in industrial production;
(ii) Land other than agricultural land proposed to be utilised for industrial purposes, for a period of two years from the date of its acquisition;
(iii) Cinema house;
(iv) Gold, silver, platinum or other precious metals, precious and semi-precious stones and utensils made of gold, silver, platinum, buildings and motor-cars, if held as stock-in-trade. In the case of gold, silver, platinum or other metals, precious or semi-precious stones and buildings and land appurtenant thereto, on the question as to whether these items are held as investment or stock-in-trade, guidelines by way of general or specific order will be issued by the Board. In issuing such guidelines, the Board will, inter alia, take into account the ratio of the yearly turn-over to the average value of stock of such assets held from time to time during the year and other relevant factors.
(v) Motor cars registered as taxis and used for the business of running of motor cars on hire.

The amendment also seeks to provide that in respect of a residential accommodation it will form part of the net wealth, only if it is used (i) as residential accommodation in the nature of guest house or (ii) as residential accommodation of any Director, Manager, Secretary or any employee of the company holding not less than one per cent. of the equity shares of the assessee company or (iii) as residential accommodation of any relative of a person holding not less than one per cent. of the equity shares of the company. For this purpose, relative shall have the same meaning as assigned to it in clause (b) of Explanation (1) to section 80F of the Income-tax Act.

This amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1989 and will, accordingly, apply in relation to the assessment year 1989-90 and subsequent years.

[Clause 87]

Measures for raising resources for drought relief.

55. It is proposed to amend Schedule I to the Wealth-tax Act to levy a surcharge at the rate of ten percent. of wealth-tax on all wealth-tax assessees for the assessment year 1988-89. The object is to raise funds for drought relief measures.

[Clause 66]

GIFT-TAX

Exemption from gift tax in respect of gifts of Relief Bonds.

56. As a measure to raise additional resources to provide relief to drought affected farmers and persons in rural areas, the Government has decided to issue Relief Bonds. With a view to provide an incentive for increased investment in such Relief Bonds, it is proposed to provide for exemption from gift tax in respect of gifts of the Relief Bonds upto a maximum of Rs.5 lakhs in one or more previous years in the hands of the original subscriber.

The proposed amendment will take effect from 1st April, 1988, and will, accordingly, apply in relation to assessment year 1988-89 and subsequent years.

[Clause 67]

EXPENDITURE TAX

Modifications of the provisions relating to authorities - their powers and functions.

57. Under the existing provisions of section 6 of the Expenditure -tax Act, every Director of Inspection, Commissioner of Income-tax, Commissioner of Income-tax (Appeals), Inspecting Assistant Commissioner of Income-tax, Income-tax Officer and Inspector of Income-tax has the same powers and performs like functions as those provided in the Income-tax Act. Similarly, the jurisdiction of these authorities for the exercise of their powers and performance of their functions are the same as they are under the Income-tax Act.

The Direct Tax Laws(Amendment) Act, 1987 has inserted certain new authorities and re-designated some of the existing authorities specified in the Income-tax Act.

With a view to ensuring uniformity , it is proposed to amend section 6 of the Expenditure-tax Act to provide that the designations, powers and functions of the tax authorities under this Act will be in line with those of the Income-tax Act.

Under the existing provisions of section 24 of the Expenditure-tax Act, the provisions of certain sections and Schedules to the Income-tax Act and the Income-tax (Certificate Proceedings) Rules, 1962, as they are enforced from time to time, apply , with necessary modifications, to the Expenditure-tax Act. The Direct Tax Laws(Amendment) Act, 1987, has omitted and amended some of these provisions of the Income-tax Act. With a view to ensure that the provisions of these sections which have been omitted are not made applicable to expenditure tax, certain amendments of consequential nature are proposed to be made in the Expenditure -tax Act.

These amendments will come into effect from 1st April,1988.

THE FINANCE ACT, 1988

No. 26 OF 1988

[13th May, 1988.]

An Act to give effect to the financial proposals of the Central Government for the financial year 1988-89.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Thirty-ninth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

CHAPTER I

PRELIMINARY

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Finance Act, 1988.

(2) Save as otherwise provided in this Act, sections 2 to 75 and sections 86 to 88 shall be deemed to have come into force on the 1st day of April, 1988.

CHAPTER II

RATES OF INCOME-TAX

Income-tax.

2. (1) Subject to the provisions of sub-sections (2) and (3), for the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1988, income-tax shall be charged at the rates specified in Part I of the First Schedule and shall be increased,—

(a) in the cases to which Paragraphs A, B, C and D of that Part apply, by a surcharge for purposes of the Union; and

(b) in the cases to which Paragraph E of that Part applies, by a surcharge,

calculated in each case in the manner provided therein.

(2) In the cases to which Sub-Paragraph I or Sub-Paragraph II of Paragraph A of Part I of the First Schedule applies, where the assessee has, in the previous year, any net agricultural income exceeding six hundred rupees, in addition to total income, and the total income exceeds,—

(i) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph I applies, eighteen thousand rupees, and

(ii) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph II applies, twelve thousand rupees,

then,—

(a) the net agricultural income shall be taken into account, in the manner provided in clause (b) [that is to say, as if the net agricultural income were comprised in the total income after,—

(i) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph I applies, the first eighteen thousand rupees, and

(ii) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph II applies, the first twelve thousand rupees, of the total income but without being liable to tax], only for the purpose of charging income-tax in respect of the total income; and

(b) the income-tax chargeable shall be calculated as follows:—

(i) the total income and the net agricultural income shall be aggregated and the amount of income-tax shall be determined in respect of the aggregate income at the rates specified in Sub-Paragraph I or, as the case may be, Sub-Paragraph II of the said Paragraph A, as if such aggregate income were the total income;

(ii) the net agricultural income shall be increased,—

(A) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph I applies, by a sum of eighteen thousand rupees; and

(B) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph II applies, by a sum of twelve thousand rupees,

and the amount of income-tax shall be determined in respect of the net agricultural income as so increased at the rates specified in Sub-Paragraph I or, as the case may be, Sub-Paragraph II of the said Paragraph A, as if the net agricultural income as so increased were the total income;

(iii) the amount of income-tax determined in accordance with sub-clause (i) shall be reduced by the amount of income-tax determined in accordance with sub-clause (ii) and the sum so arrived at shall be the income-tax in respect of the total income:

Provided that the amount of income-tax so arrived at shall, in the case of every person having a total income exceeding fifty thousand rupees, be increased by a surcharge for purposes of the Union calculated at the rate of five per cent. of such income-tax and the sum so arrived at shall be the income-tax in respect of the total income.

(3) In cases to which the provisions of Chapter XII or Chapter XII-A or sub-section (1A) of section 161 or section 164 or section 164A or section 167A of the Income-tax Act, 1961 (hereinafter referred to as the Income-tax Act) apply, the tax chargeable shall be determined as provided in that Chapter or that section, and with reference to the rates imposed by sub-section (1) or the rates as specified in that Chapter or section, as the case may be: 43 of 1961.

Provided that in respect of any income chargeable to tax under section 115B or section 115BB of the Income-tax Act, the income-tax computed under section 115B or section 115BB shall be increased by a surcharge for purposes of the Union calculated at the rate of five per cent. of such income-tax.

(4) In cases in which tax has to be deducted under sections 193, 194, 194A, 194B, 194BB, 194D and 195 of the Income-tax Act at the rates in force, the deduction shall be made at the rates specified in Part II of the First Schedule and shall be increased,—

(a) in the cases to which the provisions of sub-item (a) of item 1 of that Part apply, by a surcharge for purposes of the Union; and

(b) in the cases to which the provisions of sub-item (a) of item 2 of that Part apply, by a surcharge,

calculated in each case in the manner provided therein.

(5) In cases in which tax has to be deducted under section 194C of the Income-tax Act, the deduction shall be made at the rates specified in that section and shall be increased by a surcharge for purposes of the Union calculated at the rate of five per cent. of such deduction.

(6) In cases in which tax has to be collected under section 206C of the Income-tax Act, the collection shall be made at the rate specified in that section and shall be increased by a surcharge for purposes of the Union calculated at the rate of five per cent. of such collection.

(7) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (8), in cases in which income-tax has to be calculated under the first proviso to sub-section (5) of section 132 of the Income-tax Act or charged under sub-section (4) of section 172 or sub-section (2) of section 174 or section 175 or sub-section (2) of section 176 of the said Act or deducted under section 192 of the said Act from income chargeable under the head "Salaries" or in which the "advance tax" payable under Chapter XVII-C of the said Act has to be computed, at the rate or rates in force, such income-tax or, as the case may be, "advance tax" shall be so calculated, charged, deducted or computed at the rate or rates specified in Part III of the First Schedule and shall be increased,—

(a) in the cases to which Paragraphs A, B, C and D of that Part apply, by a surcharge for purposes of the Union; and

(b) in the cases to which Paragraph E of that Part applies, by a surcharge,

calculated in each case in the manner provided therein:

Provided that in cases to which the provisions of Chapter XII or Chapter XII-A or sub-section (1A) of section 161 or section 164 or section 164A or section 167B of the Income-tax Act apply, "advance tax" shall be computed with reference to the rates imposed by this sub-section or the rates as specified in that Chapter or section, as the case may be:

Provided further that in respect of any income chargeable to tax under section 115B of the Income-tax Act, the "advance tax" computed under the first proviso shall be increased by a surcharge for purposes of the Union calculated at the rate of five per cent. of such "advance tax".

(β) In the cases to which Sub-Paragraph I or Sub-Paragraph II of Paragraph A of Part III of the First Schedule applies, where the assessee has, in the previous year or, if by virtue of any provision of the Income-tax Act, income-tax is to be charged in respect of the income of a period other than the previous year, in such other period, any net agricultural income exceeding six hundred rupees, in addition to total income and the total income exceeds,—

(i) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph I applies, eighteen thousand rupees, and

(ii) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph II applies, twelve thousand rupees,

then, in calculating income-tax under the first proviso to sub-section (5) of section 132 of the Income-tax Act or in charging income-tax under sub-section (2) of section 174 or section 175 or sub-section (2) of section 176 of the said Act or in computing the "advance tax" payable under Chapter XVII-C of the said Act, at the rate or rates in force,—

(a) the net agricultural income shall be taken into account, in the manner provided in clause (b) [that is to say, as if the net agricultural income were comprised in the total income after,—

(i) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph I applies, the first eighteen thousand rupees, and

(ii) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph II applies, the first twelve thousand rupees, of the total income but without being liable to tax], only for the purpose of calculating, charging or computing such income-tax or, as the case may be, "advance tax" in respect of the total income; and

(b) such income-tax or, as the case may be, "advance tax" shall be so calculated, charged or computed as follows:—

(i) the total income and the net agricultural income shall be aggregated and the amount of income-tax or "advance tax" shall be determined in respect of the aggregate income at the rates specified in Sub-Paragraph I or, as the case may be, Sub-Paragraph II of the said Paragraph A, as if such aggregate income were the total income;

(ii) the net agricultural income shall be increased,—

(A) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph I applies, by a sum of eighteen thousand rupees; and

(B) in a case to which the said Sub-Paragraph II applies, by a sum of twelve thousand rupees,

and the amount of income-tax or "advance tax" shall be determined in respect of the net agricultural income as so increased at the rates specified in the said Sub-Paragraph I or, as the case may be, the said Sub-Paragraph II as if the net agricultural income as so increased were the total income;

(iii) the amount of income-tax or "advance tax" determined in accordance with sub-clause (i) shall be reduced by the amount of income-tax or, as the case may be, "advance tax" determined in accordance with sub-clause (ii) and the sum so arrived at shall be the income-tax or, as the case may be, "advance tax" in respect of the total income:

Provided that the amount of income-tax or "advance tax" so arrived at shall, in the case of every person having a total income exceeding fifty thousand rupees, be increased by a surcharge for purposes of the Union calculated at the rate of five per cent. of such income-tax or, as the case may be, "advance tax" and the sum so arrived at shall be the income-tax or, as the case may be, "advance tax" in respect of the total income.

(a) in sub-section (7), for the words, brackets and figures "before the expiry of the time allowed under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) of section 139, whether fixed originally or on extension, for furnishing the return of income", the words, brackets and figures "before the due date for furnishing the return of income under sub-section (1) of section 139" shall be substituted;

(b) in sub-section (8) [as inserted by section 12C of the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987], 4 of 1988.—

(i) for the words "in this section", the words, brackets and figure "in sub-section (5)" shall be substituted;

(ii) for the words "purposes of this section", the words "purposes of that sub-section" shall be substituted.

Insertion of new section 10B.

6. After section 10A of the Income-tax Act, the following section shall be inserted with effect from the 1st day of April, 1989, namely:—

Special provisions in respect of newly established hundred per cent. export-oriented undertakings.

'10B. (1) Subject to the provisions of this section, any profits and gains derived by an assessee from a hundred per cent. export-oriented undertaking (hereafter in this section referred to as the undertaking) to which this section applies shall not be included in the total income of the assessee.

(2) This section applies to any undertaking which fulfils all the following conditions, namely:—

(i) it manufactures or produces any article or thing;

(ii) it is not formed by the splitting up, or the reconstruction, of a business already in existence:

Provided that this condition shall not apply in respect of any undertaking which is formed as a result of the re-establishment, reconstruction or revival by the assessee of the business of any such industrial undertaking as is referred to in section 33B, in the circumstances and within the period specified in that section;

(iii) it is not formed by the transfer to a new business of machinery or plant previously used for any purpose.

Explanation.—The provisions of Explanation 1 and Explanation 2 to sub-section (2) of section 80-I shall apply for the purposes of clause (iii) of this sub-section as they apply for the purpcses of clause (i) of that sub-section.

(3) The profits and gains referred to in sub-section (1) shall not be included in the total income of the assessee in respect of any five consecutive assessment years, falling within a period of eight years beginning with the assessment year relevant to the previous year in which the undertaking begins to manufacture or produce articles or things, specified by the assessee at his option:

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall be construed to extend the aforesaid five assessment years to cover any period after the expiry of the said period of eight years.

(4) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other provision of this Act, in computing the total income of the assessee of the previous year relevant to the assessment year immediately succeeding the last of the relevant assessment years, or of any previous year relevant to any subsequent assessment year,—

(i) section 32, section 32A, section 33 and clause (ix) of sub-section (1) of section 36 shall apply as if every allowance or deduction referred to therein and relating to or allowable for any of the relevant assessment years, in relation to any building, machinery, plant or furniture used for the purposes of the business of the undertaking in the previous year relevant to such assessment year or any expenditure incurred for the purposes of such business in such previous year had been given full effect to for that assessment year itself and accordingly sub-section (2) of section 32, clause (ii) of sub-section (3) of section 32A, clause (ii) of sub-section (2) of section 33 or the second proviso to clause (ix) of sub-section (1) of section 36, as the case may be, shall not apply in relation to any such allowance or deduction;

(ii) no loss referred to in sub-section (1) of section 72 or sub-section (1) or sub-section (3) of section 74, in so far as such loss relates to the business of the undertaking, shall be carried forward or set off where such loss relates to any of the relevant assessment years;

(iii) no deduction shall be allowed under section 80HH or section 80HHA or section 80-I in relation to the profits and gains of the undertaking; and

(iv) in computing the depreciation allowance under section 32, the written down value of any asset used for the purposes of the business of the undertaking shall be computed as if the assessee had claimed and been actually allowed the deduction in respect of depreciation for each of the relevant assessment years.

(5) Where the undertaking has begun to manufacture or produce articles or things in any previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing before the 1st day of April, 1989, the assessee may, at his option, before the due date for furnishing the return of his income under sub-section (1) of section 139 for the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1989, furnish to the Assessing Officer a declaration in writing that the provisions of sub-section (1) may be made applicable to him for any five consecutive assessment years falling within a period of eight years beginning with the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1989 and if he does so, then, the provisions of sub-section (1) shall apply to him for each of such assessment years and the provisions of sub-section (4) shall also apply in computing the total income of the assessee for the assessment year immediately succeeding the last of such assessment years and any subsequent assessment year.

(6) The provisions of sub-section (3) and sub-section (9) of section 80-I shall, so far as may be, apply in relation to the undertaking referred to in this section as they apply for the purposes of the industrial undertaking referred to in section 80-I.

(7) Notwithstanding anything contained in the foregoing provisions of this section, where the assessee, before the due date for furnishing the return of his income under sub-section (1) of section 139, furnishes to the Assessing Officer a declaration in writing that the provisions of this section may not be made applicable to him, the provisions of this section shall not apply to him for any of the relevant assessment years.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section,—

(i) "hundred per cent. export-oriented undertaking" means an undertaking which has been approved as a hundred per cent. export-oriented undertaking by the Board appointed in this behalf by the Central Government in exercise of the powers conferred by section 14 of the Industries (Development and Regulation) Act, 1951, and the rules made under that Act; 65 of 1951.

(ii) "relevant assessment years" means the five consecutive assessment years specified by the assessee at his option under sub-section (3) or sub-section (5), as the case may be;

(iii) "manufacture" includes any—

(a) process, or

(b) assembling, or

(c) recording of programmes on any disc, tape, perforated media or other information storage device.'.

10. Sections 18 to 21 of the Income-tax Act and the sub-heading '"B.—Interest on securities"' above section 18 shall be omitted with effect from the 1st day of April, 1989.

Amendment of section 40.

11. In section 40 of the Income-tax Act, with effect from the 1st day of April, 1989,—

(i) in clause (a), for sub-clause (i), the following sub-clause shall be substituted, namely:—

'(i) any interest (not being interest on a loan issued for public subscription before the 1st day of April, 1938), royalty, fees for technical services or other sum chargeable under this Act, which is payable outside India, on which tax has not been paid or deducted under Chapter XVII-B:

Provided that where in respect of any such sum, tax has been paid or deducted under Chapter XVII-B in any subsequent year, such sum shall be allowed as a deduction in computing the income of the previous year in which such tax has been paid or deducted.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this sub-clause,—

(A) "royalty" shall have the same meaning as in Explanation 2 to clause (vi) of sub-section (1) of section 9;

(B) "fees for technical services" shall have the same meaning as in Explanation 2 to clause (vii) of sub-section (1) of section 9;';

(ii) clause (d) shall be omitted.

Amendment of section 43B.

12. In section 43B of the Income-tax Act [as amended by section 15 of the Direct Tax Laws (Amendment) Act, 1987], with effect from the 1st day of April, 1989,— 4 of 1938.

(i) for clause (a), the following clause shall be substituted, namely:—

"(a) any sum payable by the assessee by way of tax, duty, cess or fee, by whatever name called, under any law for the time being in force, or";

(ii) in clause (c), the word "or" shall be inserted at the end;

(iii) after clause (c), the following clause shall be inserted, namely:—

"(d) any sum payable by the assessee as interest on any loan or borrowing from any public financial institution, in accordance with the terms and conditions of the agreement governing such loan or borrowing.";

(iv) in the first proviso, after the word, brackets and letter "clause (c)", the words, brackets and letter "or clause (d)" shall be inserted;

(v) in Explanation 2, after the word, brackets and letter "clause (c)", the words, brackets and letter "or clause (d)" shall be inserted;

(vi) after Explanation 2, the following Explanation shall be inserted, namely:—

'Explanation 3.—For the purposes of this section, the expression "public financial institution" shall have the meaning assigned to it in section 4A of the Companies Act, 1956.'.

1 of 1956.

Insertion of new section 43C.

12. After section 43B of the Income-tax Act, the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

Special provision for computation of cost of acquisition of certain assets.

"43C. (1) Where an asset [not being an asset referred to in sub-section (2) of section 45] which becomes the property of an amalgamated company under a scheme of amalgamation, is sold after the 29th day of February, 1988, by the amalgamated company as stock-in-trade of the business carried on by it, the cost of acquisition of the said asset to the amalgamated company in computing the profits and gains from the sale of such asset shall be the cost of acquisition of the said asset to the amalgamating company, as increased by the cost, if any, of any improvement made thereto, and the expenditure, if any, incurred, wholly and exclusively in connection with such transfer by the amalgamating company.

(2) Where an asset [not being an asset referred to in sub-section (2) of section 45] which becomes the property of the assessee on the total or partial partition of a Hindu undivided family or under a gift or will or an irrevocable trust, is sold after the 29th day of February, 1988, by the assessee as stock-in-trade of the business carried on by him, the cost of acquisition of the said asset to the assessee in computing the profits and gains from the sale of such asset shall be the cost of acquisition of the said asset to the transferor or the donor, as the case may be, as increased by the cost, if any, of any improvement made thereto, and the expenditure, if any, incurred, wholly and exclusively in connection with such transfer (by way of effecting the partition, acceptance of the gift, obtaining probate in respect of the will or the creation of the trust), including the payment of gift-tax, if any, incurred by the transferor or the donor, as the case may be.".

Amendment of section 44AB.

14. In section 44AB of the Income-tax Act, with effect from the 1st day of April, 1989,—

(a) in clauses (a) and (b), the words, figures and letters "or years relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1985, or any subsequent assessment year" shall be omitted;

(b) for the words "such previous year or years", the words "such previous year" shall be substituted;

(c) in the Explanation, for clause (ii), the following clause shall be substituted, namely:—

'(ii) "specified date", in relation to the accounts of the previous year relevant to an assessment year means,—

(a) where the assessee is a company, the 31st day of December of the assessment year;

(b) in any other case, the 31st day of October of the assessment year.'.

Insertion of new section 44AC.

13. After section 44AB of the Income-tax Act, the following section shall be inserted with effect from the 1st day of April, 1989, namely:—

Special provision for computing profits and gains from the business of trading in certain goods.

'44AC. (1) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in sections 28 to 43C, in the case of an assessee, being a person other than a public sector company (hereinafter in this section referred to as the buyer), obtaining in any sale by way of auction, tender or any other mode, conducted by any other person or his agent (hereafter in this section referred to as the seller),—

(a) any goods in the nature of alcoholic liquor for human consumption (other than Indian-made foreign liquor), a sum equal to forty per cent. of the amount paid or payable by the buyer as the purchase price in respect of such goods shall be deemed to be the profits and gains of the buyer from the business of trading in such goods chargeable to tax under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession";

(b) the right to receive any goods of the nature specified in column (2) of the Table below, or such goods, as the case may be, a sum equal to the percentage, specified in the corresponding entry in column (3) of the said Table, of the amount paid or payable by the buyer in respect of the sale of such right or as the purchase price in respect of such goods shall be deemed to be the profits and gains of the buyer from the business of trading in such goods chargeable to tax under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession".

TABLE

Sl. No.	Nature of goods	Percentage
(1)	(2)	(3)
(i)	Timber obtained under a forest lease	Thirty-five per cent.
(ii)	Timber obtained by any mode other than under a forest lease	Fifteen per cent.
(iii)	Any other forest produce not being timber	Thirty-five per cent.

(2) For the removal of doubts, it is hereby declared that the provisions of sub-section (1) shall not apply to a buyer (other than a buyer who obtains any goods from any seller which is a public sector company) in the further sale of any goods obtained under or in pursuance of the sale under sub-section (1).

(3) In a case where the business carried on by the assessee does not consist exclusively of trading in goods to which this section applies and where separate accounts are not maintained or are not available, the amount of expenses attributable to such other business shall be an amount which bears to the total expenses of the business carried on by the assessee the same proportion as the turnover of such other business bears to the total turnover of the business carried on by the assessee.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this section, "seller" means the Central Government, a State Government or any local authority or corporation or authority established by or under a Central, State or Provincial Act, or any company or firm.'.

Amendment of section 44BB.

16. In section 44BB of the Income-tax Act, in sub-section (1), in the opening paragraph, for the words "in the case of an assessee", the words "in the case of an assessee, being a non-resident," shall be substituted and shall be deemed to have been substituted with effect from the 1st day of April, 1983.

Amendment of section 47.

17. In section 47 of the Income-tax Act, after clause (v), the following proviso shall be inserted, namely:—

"Provided that nothing contained in clause (iv) or clause (v) shall apply to the transfer of a capital asset made after the 29th day of February, 1988, as stock-in-trade.".

Amendment of section 56.

18. In section 56 of the Income-tax Act, in sub-section (2), after clause (ic) (as inserted by section 26 of the Finance Act, 1987), the following clause shall be inserted with effect from the 1st day of April, 1989, namely:— 11 of 1987.

'(id) income by way of interest on securities, if the income is not chargeable to income-tax under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession";'.

19. In section 57 of the Income-tax Act, with effect from the 1st day of April, 1989,—

(a) in clause (i),—

(1) after the word "dividends", the words "or interest on securities" shall be inserted;

(2) after the words "such dividend", the words "or interest" shall be inserted;

(b) the Explanation shall be omitted.

Amendment of section 58.

20. In section 58 of the Income-tax Act, in sub-section (1), with effect from the 1st day of April, 1989,—

(a) in clause (a), in sub-clause (ii), the words and figures "and in respect of which there is no person in India who may be treated as an agent under section 163" shall be omitted;

(b) clause (b) shall be omitted.

Amendment of section 79.

21. In section 79 of the Income-tax Act, with effect from the 1st day of April, 1989,—

(a) in clause (a),—

(i) the word "or" occurring at the end shall be omitted;

(ii) the following proviso shall be added at the end, namely:—

"Provided that nothing contained in this section shall apply to a case where a change in the said voting power takes place in a previous year consequent upon the death of a shareholder or on account of transfer of shares by way of gift to any relative of the shareholder making such gift.";

(b) clause (b) shall be omitted.

Amendment of section 80CC.

22. In section 80CC of the Income-tax Act, in sub-section (1), after the words "eligible issue of capital,", the words, brackets, figures and letter "or units of any Mutual Fund specified under clause (23D) of section 10 if such Fund subscribes only to eligible issue of capital," shall be inserted with effect from the 1st day of April, 1989.

Substitution of new section for section 80CCA.

23. For the section 80CCA of the Income-tax Act (as inserted by section 34 of the Finance Act, 1987), the following section shall be substituted, namely:— 11 of 1987.

Deduction in respect of deposits under National Savings Scheme or payment to an annuity plan.

'80CCA. (1) Where an assessee, being—

(a) an individual, or

(b) a Hindu undivided family, or

(c) an association of persons or a body of individuals consisting, in either case, only of husband and wife governed by the system of community of property in force in the State of Goa and the Union territories of Dadra and Nagar Haveli and Daman and Diu, has in the previous year—

(i) deposited any amount in accordance with such scheme as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, specify in this behalf (hereafter in this section referred to as the National Savings Scheme); or

(ii) paid any amount to effect or to keep in force a contract for such annuity plan of the Life Insurance Corporation as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, specify, out of his income chargeable to tax, he shall, in accordance with, and subject to, the provisions of this section, be allowed a deduction in the computation of his total income of the whole of the amount deposited or paid (excluding interest or bonus accrued or credited to the assessee's account, if any) as does not exceed the amount of twenty thousand rupees in the previous year:

Provided that in relation to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1989 and subsequent assessment years, this sub-section shall have effect as if for the words "twenty thousand rupees", the words "thirty thousand rupees" had been substituted.

(2) Where any amount—

(a) standing to the credit of the assessee under the National Savings Scheme in respect of which a deduction has been allowed under sub-section (1) together with the interest accrued on such amount is withdrawn in whole or part in any previous year, or

(b) is received on account of the surrender of the policy or as annuity or bonus in accordance with the annuity plan of the Life Insurance Corporation in any previous year,

an amount equal to the whole of the amount referred to in clause (a) or clause (b) shall be deemed to be the income of the assessee of that previous year in which such withdrawal is made or, as the case may be, amount is received, and shall, accordingly, be chargeable to tax as the income of that previous year.

Explanation I.—For the removal of doubts, it is hereby declared that interest on the deposits made under the National Savings Scheme shall not be chargeable to tax except in the manner and to the extent specified in sub-section (2).

Explanation II.—For the purposes of this section, "Life Insurance Corporation" shall have the same meaning as in clause (a) of sub-section (8) of section 80C.'.

Amendment of section 80 HHC.

24. In section 80HHC of the Income-tax Act, with effect from the 1st day of April, 1989,—

(a) for sub-section (1), the following sub-sections shall be substituted, namely:—

"(1) Where an assessee, being an Indian company or a person (other than a company) resident in India, is engaged in the business of export out of India of any goods or merchandise to which this section applies, there shall, in accordance with and subject to the provisions of this section, be allowed, in computing the total income of the assessee, a deduction of the whole of the income derived by the assessee from the export of such goods or merchandise:

Provided that if the assessee, being a holder of an Export House Certificate or a Trading House Certificate, (hereafter in this section referred to as an Export House or a Trading House, as the case may be,) issues a certificate referred to in clause (b) of sub-section (1A), that in respect of the amount of the export turnover specified therein, the deduction under this sub-section is to be allowed to a supporting manufacturer, then the amount of deduction in the case of the assessee shall be reduced by such amount which bears to the total profits of the export business of the assessee the same proportion as the amount of export turnover specified in the said certificate bears to the total export turnover of the assessee.

(1A) Where the assessee, being a supporting manufacturer, has, during the previous year, sold goods or merchandise to any Export House or Trading House in respect of which the Export House or Trading House has issued a certificate under the proviso to sub-section (1), there shall, in accordance with and subject to the provisions of this section, be allowed in computing the total income of the assessee, a deduction of the whole of the income derived by the assessee from the sale of goods or merchandise to the Export House or Trading House in respect of which the certificate has been issued by the Export House or Trading House.";

'(3A) For the purposes of sub-section (1A), profits derived by a supporting manufacturer from the sale of goods or merchandise shall be,—

(a) in a case where the business carried on by the supporting manufacturer consists exclusively of sale of goods or merchandise to one or more Export Houses or Trading Houses, the profits of the business as computed under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession";

(b) in a case where the business carried on by the supporting manufacturer does not consist exclusively of sale of goods or merchandise to one or more Export Houses or Trading Houses, the amount which bears to the profits of the business (as computed under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession") the same proportion as the turnover in respect of sale to the respective Export House or Trading House bears to the total turnover of the business carried on by the assessee.";

(c) after sub-section (4), the following sub-section shall be inserted, namely:—

"(4A) The deduction under sub-section (1A) shall not be admissible unless the supporting manufacturer furnishes in the prescribed form along with his return of income,—

(a) the report of an accountant, as defined in the Explanation below sub-section (2) of section 288, certifying that the deduction has been correctly claimed on the basis of the income of the supporting manufacturer in respect of his sale of goods or merchandise to the Export House or Trading House; and

(b) a certificate from the Export House or Trading House containing such particulars as may be prescribed and verified in the manner prescribed that in respect of the export turnover mentioned in the certificate, the Export House or Trading House has not claimed the deduction under this section:

Provided that the certificate specified in clause (b) shall be duly certified by the auditor auditing the accounts of the Export House or Trading House under the provisions of this Act or under any other law.";

(d) in the Explanation, after clause (c), the following clauses shall be inserted, namely:—

'(d) "Export House Certificate" or "Trading House Certificate" means a valid Export House Certificate or Trading House Certificate, as the case may be, issued by the Chief Controller of Imports and Exports, Government of India;

(e) "supporting manufacturer" means a person being an Indian company or a person (other than a company) resident in India, manufacturing goods or merchandise and selling such goods or merchandise to an Export House or a Trading House for the purposes of export.'.

Excise

Amendment of Act 5 of 1986.

81. The Central Excise Tariff Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as the Central Excise Tariff Act), shall be amended in the manner specified in the Third Schedule.

Special duties of excise.

82. (1) In the case of goods chargeable with a duty of excise under the Central Excises and Salt Act, 1944 (hereinafter referred to as the Central Excises Act), as amended from time to time, read with any notification for the time being in force issued by the Central Government in relation to the duty so chargeable (not being a notification providing for any exemption for giving credit with respect to, or reduction of duty of excise under the said Act on such goods equal to, any duty of excise under the said Act, or the additional duty under section 3 of the Customs Tariff Act, already paid on the raw material or component parts used in the production or manufacture of such goods), there shall be levied and collected a special duty of excise equal to five per cent. of the amount so chargeable on such goods. 1 of 1944.

(2) Sub-section (1) shall cease to have effect after the 31st day of March, 1989, except as respects things done or omitted to be done before such cesser; and section 6 of the General Clauses Act, 1897, shall apply upon such cesser as if the said sub-section had then been repealed by a Central Act. 10 of 1897.

(3) The special duties of excise referred to in sub-section (1) shall be in addition to any duties of excise chargeable on such goods under the Central Excises Act, or any other law for the time being in force.

(4) The provisions of the Central Excises Act, and the rules made thereunder, including those relating to refunds and exemptions from duties, shall, as far as may be, apply in relation to the levy and collection of the special duties of excise leviable under this section in respect of any goods as they apply in relation to the levy and collection of the duties of excise on such goods under that Act or those rules, as the case may be.

Amendment of Act 58 of 1957.

83. The Additional Duties of Excise (Goods of Special Importance) Act, 1957 (hereinafter referred to as the Additional Duties of Excise Act), shall be amended in the manner specified in the Fourth Schedule.

Provision as to additional duties of excise on certain varieties of sugar in relation to certain period and validation

84. (1) The notification of the Government of India in the Ministry of Finance (Department of Revenue) No. G.S.R. 97(E), dated the 23rd day of February, 1988, which was issued in exercise of the powers conferred by sub-rule (1) of rule 8 of the Central Excise Rules, 1944, read with sub-section (3) of section 3 of the Additional Duties of Excise Act, providing for withdrawal of exemptions from additional Duty of excise in relation to certain varieties of sugar (hereafter in this section referred to as sugar), shall be deemed to have, and to have always had, effect on and from the 10th day of September, 1986.

(2) Any action or thing taken or done or purported to have been taken or done on or after the 10th day of September, 1986 and before the 23rd day of February, 1988, in relation to sugar under the Additional Duties of Excise Act, shall be deemed to be, and to have always been, for all purposes as validly and effectively taken or done as if the provisions of sub-section (1) had been in force at all material times and such action or thing had been taken or done under the Additional Duties of Excise Act read with the notification dated the 23rd day of February, 1988, referred to in sub-section (1), and, accordingly, notwithstanding anything contained in any judgment, decree or order of any court, tribunal or other authority,—

(a) all additional duties of excise levied, assessed or collected or purporting to have been levied, assessed or collected on or after the 10th day of September, 1986 and before the 23rd day of February, 1988, on sugar, shall be deemed to be, and shall be deemed to have always been, as validly levied, assessed or collected as if the provisions of this section had been in force at all material times;

(b) no suit or other proceeding shall be maintained or continued in any court, tribunal or other authority, for the refund of, and no enforcement shall be made by any court, tribunal or other authority, of any decree or order directing the refund of any such additional duties of excise which have been collected and which would have been validly collected if the provisions of this section had been in force at all material times;

(c) recovery shall be made of all such additional duties of excise which have not been collected or, as the case may be, which have been refunded but which would have been collected or, as the case may be, would not have been refunded, if the provisions of this section had been in force at all material times.

Explanation.—For the removal of doubts, it is hereby declared that no act or omission on the part of any person shall be punishable as an offence which would not have been so punishable if this section had not come into force.

PART IV

[See section 2(9) (e)]

RULES FOR COMPUTATION OF NET AGRICULTURAL INCOME

Rule 1.—Agricultural income of the nature referred to in sub-clause (a) of clause (1) of section 2 of the Income-tax Act shall be computed as if it were income chargeable to income-tax under that Act under the head "Income from other sources" and the provisions of sections 57 to 59 of that Act shall, so far as may be, apply accordingly:

Provided that sub-section (2) of section 58 shall apply subject to the modification that the reference to section 40A therein shall be construed as not including a reference to sub-sections (3) and (4) of section 40A.

Rule 2.—Agricultural income of the nature referred to in sub-clause (b) or sub-clause (c) of clause (1) of section 2 of the Income-tax Act [other than income derived from any building required as a dwelling house by the receiver of the rent or revenue or the cultivator or the receiver of rent-in-kind referred to in the said sub-clause (c)] shall be computed as if it were income chargeable to income-tax under that Act under the head "Profits and gains of business or profession" and the provisions of sections 30, 31, 32, 36, 37, 38, 40, 40A [other than sub-sections (3) and (4) thereof], 41, 43, 43A and 43B of the Income-tax Act shall, so far as may be, apply accordingly.

Rule 3.—Agricultural income of the nature referred to in sub-clause (c) of clause (1) of section 2 of the Income-tax Act, being income derived from any building required as a dwelling house by the receiver of the rent or revenue or the cultivator or the receiver of rent-in-kind referred to in the said sub-clause (c) shall be computed as if it were income chargeable to income-tax under that Act under the head "Income from house property" and the provisions of sections 23 to 27 of that Act shall, so far as may be, apply accordingly.

Rule 4.—Notwithstanding anything contained in any other provisions of these rules, in a case where the assessee derives income from sale of tea grown and manufactured by him in India, such income shall be computed in accordance with rule 8 of the Income-tax Rules, 1962, and sixty per cent. of such income shall be regarded as the agricultural income of the assessee.

Rule 5.—Where the assessee is a partner of a registered firm or an unregistered firm assessed as a registered firm under clause (b) of section 183 of the Income-tax Act, which in the previous year has any agricultural income, or is a partner of an unregistered firm which has not been assessed as a registered firm under clause (b) of the said section 183 and which in the previous year has either no income chargeable to tax under the Income-tax Act or has total income not exceeding the maximum amount not chargeable to tax in the case of an unregistered firm but has any agricultural income, then, the agricultural income or loss of the firm shall be computed in accordance with these rules and his share in the agricultural income or loss of the firm shall be computed in the manner laid down in sub-section (1), sub-section (2) and sub-section (3) of section 67 of the Income-tax Act and the share so computed shall be regarded as the agricultural income or loss of the assessee.

Rule 6.—Where the assessee is a member of an association of persons or a body of individuals (other than a Hindu undivided family, a company or a firm) which in the previous year has either no income chargeable to tax under the Income-tax Act or has total income not exceeding the maximum amount not chargeable to tax in the case of an association of persons or a body of individuals (other than a Hindu undivided family, a company or a firm) but has any agricultural income, then, the agricultural income or loss of the association or body shall be computed in accordance with these rules and the share of the assessee in the agricultural income or loss so computed shall be regarded as the agricultural income or loss of the assessee.

Rule 7.—Where the result of the computation for the previous year in respect of any source of agricultural income is a loss, such loss shall be set off against the income of the assessee, if any, for that previous year from any other source of agricultural income:

Provided that where the assessee is a partner of an unregistered firm which has not been assessed as a registered firm under clause (b) of section 183 of the Income-tax Act or is a member of an association of persons or a body of individuals and the share of the assessee in the agricultural income of the firm, association or body, as the case may be, is a loss, such loss shall not be set off against any income of the assessee from any other source of agricultural income.

Rule 8.—Any sum payable by the assessee on account of any tax levied by the State Government on the agricultural income shall be deducted in computing the agricultural income.

Rule 9.—(1) Where the assessee has, in the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1988, any agricultural income and the net result of the computation of the agricultural income of the assessee for any one or more of the previous years relevant to the assessment years commencing on the 1st day of April, 1980 or the 1st day of April, 1981 or the 1st day of April, 1982 or the 1st day of April, 1983 or the 1st day of April, 1984 or the 1st day of April, 1985 or the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987, is a loss, then, for the purposes of sub-section (2) of section 2 of this Act,—

(i) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1980 to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1981 or the 1st day of April, 1982 or the 1st day of April, 1983 or the 1st day of April, 1984 or the 1st day of April, 1985 or the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987,

(ii) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1981, to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1982 or the 1st day of April, 1983 or the 1st day of April, 1984 or the 1st day of April, 1985 or the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987,

(iii) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1982, to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1983 or the 1st day of April, 1984 or the 1st day of April, 1985 or the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987,

(iv) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1983, to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1984 or the 1st day of April, 1985 or the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987,

(v) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1984, to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1985 or the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987,

(vi) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1985, to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987,

(vii) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1986, to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1987, and

(viii) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1987, shall be set off against the agricultural income of the assessee for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1988.

(2) Where the assessee has, in the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1989 or, if by virtue of any provision of the Income-tax Act, income-tax is to be charged in respect of the income of a period other than that previous year, in such other period, any agricultural income and the net result of the computation of the agricultural income of the assessee for any one or more of the previous years relevant to the assessment years commencing on the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987 or the 1st day of April, 1988 or the 1st day of April, 1984, or the 1st day of April, 1985 or the 1st day of April, 1981 or the 1st day of April, 1982 or the 1st day of April, 1988, is a loss, then, for the purposes of sub-section (8) of section 2 of this Act,—

(i) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1981, to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1982 or the 1st day of April, 1983 or the 1st day of April, 1984 or the 1st day of April, 1985 or the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987 or the 1st day of April, 1988,

(ii) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1982, to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1983 or the 1st day of April, 1984 or the 1st day of April, 1985 or the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987 or the 1st day of April, 1988,

(iii) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1983, to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1984 or the 1st day of April, 1985 or the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987 or the 1st day of April, 1988,

(iv) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1984, to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1985 or the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987 or the 1st day of April, 1988,

(v) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1985, to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1986 or the 1st day of April, 1987 or the 1st day of April, 1988,

(vi) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1986, to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1987 or the 1st day of April, 1988,

(vii) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1987, to the extent, if any, such loss has not been set off against the agricultural income for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1988, and

(viii) the loss so computed for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1988,

shall be set off against the agricultural income of the assessee for the previous year relevant to the assessment year commencing on the 1st day of April, 1989.

(3) Where a change has occurred in the constitution of a firm, nothing in sub-rule (1) or sub-rule (2) shall entitle the firm to set off so much of the loss proportionate to the share of a retired or deceased partner computed in the manner laid down in sub-section (1), sub-section (2) and sub-section (3) of section 67 of the Income-tax Act as exceeds his share of profits, if any, of the previous year in the firm, or entitle any partner to the benefit of any portion of the said loss (computed in the manner aforesaid) which is not apportionable to him.

(4) Where any person deriving any agricultural income from any source has been succeeded in such capacity by another person, otherwise than by inheritance, nothing in sub-rule (1) or sub-rule (2) shall entitle any person, other than the person incurring the loss, to have it set off under sub-rule (1) or, as the case may be, sub-rule (2).

(5) Notwithstanding anything contained in this rule, no loss which has not been determined by the Assessing Officer under the provisions of these rules or the rules contained in Part IV of the First Schedule to the Finance (No. 2) Act, 1980, or of the First Schedule to the Finance Act, 1981, or of the First Schedule to the Finance Act, 1982, or of the First Schedule to the Finance Act, 1983, or of the First Schedule to the Finance Act, 1984, or of the First Schedule to the Finance Act, 1985, or of the First Schedule to the Finance Act, 1986, or of the First Schedule to the Finance Act, 1987, shall be set off under sub-rule (1) or, as the case may be, sub-rule (2).

16 of 1981.
14 of 1982.
11 of 1983.
21 of 1984.
32 of 1985.
23 of 1986.
11 of 1987.

Rule 10.—Where the net result of the computation made in accordance with these rules is a loss, the loss so computed shall be ignored and the net agricultural income shall be deemed to be nil.

Rule 11.—The provisions of the Income-tax Act relating to procedure for assessment (including the provisions of section 288A relating to rounding off of income) shall, with the necessary modifications, apply in relation to the computation of the net agricultural income of the assessee as they apply in relation to the assessment of the total income.

Rule 12.—For the purposes of computing the net agricultural income of the assessee, the Assessing Officer shall have the same powers as he has under the Income-tax Act for the purposes of assessment of the total income.

(c) after NOTE 14, the following NOTE shall be inserted, namely:—

'15. For the purposes of heading Nos. 39.19, 39.20 and 39.21, the expression "film" means sheetings of thickness not exceeding 0.25 millimetres.';

(d) in sub-heading Nos. 3909.60 and 3926.10, in column (4), for the figures and abbreviation "75%", the figures, abbreviations and words "60% plus Rs. 40 per kilogram" shall be substituted;

(12) in Chapter 40, in sub-heading No. 4011.10, for the entry in column (4), the entry "60%" shall be substituted;

(13) in Chapter 48,—

(a) for NOTE 3, the following NOTE shall be substituted, namely:—

'3. In this Chapter "newsprint" means paper intended for the printing of newspapers.';

(b) for NOTE 8, the following NOTES shall be substituted, namely:—

"8. Heading No. 48.20 does not cover loose sheets or cards, cut to size, whether or not printed, embossed or perforated.

9. Heading No. 48.23 applies, inter alia, to perforated paper or paperboard cards for jacquard or similar machines and paper lace.

10. Except for the goods of heading No. 48.14 or 48.21, paper, paperboard, cellulose wadding and articles thereof, printed with motifs, characters or pictorial representations, which are not merely incidental to the primary use of the goods, fall in Chapter 49.";

(c) in sub-heading No. 4811.90, in column (4), for the figures, abbreviations and word "10% plus Rs. 2,000", the figures, abbreviations and word "35% plus Rs. 2,000" shall be substituted;

(14) in Chapter 52,—

(a) NOTES 3 and 4 shall be omitted;

(b) NOTES 5 and 6 shall be renumbered as NOTES 3 and 4, respectively;

(c) in sub-heading No. 5203.33, for the entry in column (4), the entry "26.40 paise plus 3.52 paise per count per kilogram exceeding 35" shall be substituted;

(d) in sub-heading No. 5203.34, for the entry in column (4), the entry "61.60 paise plus 5.28 paise per count per kilogram exceeding 45" shall be substituted;

(e) in sub-heading No. 5203.35, for the entry in column (4), the entry "114.40 paise plus 2.64 paise per count per kilogram exceeding 55" shall be substituted;

(f) in sub-heading No. 5203.43, for the entry in column (4), the entry "114.40 paise plus 5.28 paise per count per kilogram exceeding 35" shall be substituted;

(g) sub-heading Nos. 5206.10 and 5206.20 and the entries relating thereto shall be omitted;

(h) sub-heading Nos. 5206.31, 5206.32, 5206.33, 5206.34, 5206.35 and 5206.36 shall be renumbered as sub-heading Nos. 5206.11, 5206.12, 5206.13, 5206.14, 5206.15 and 5206.16, respectively;

(15) in Chapter 70,—

(a) in NOTE 1, in item (c), for the words "fittings or insulating material", the words "fittings of insulating material" shall be substituted;

(b) in heading No. 70.14, in column (4), for the figures and abbreviation "30%", the figures and abbreviation "35%" shall be substituted;

(16) in Section XV, for the NOTE, the following NOTES shall be substituted, namely:—

'NOTES

1. This Section does not cover:

(a) Prepared paints, inks or other products with a basis of metallic flakes or powder (heading Nos. 32.07 to 32.10, 32.12, 32.13 or 32.15);

(b) Ferro-cerium or other pyrophoric alloys (heading No. 36.06);

(c) Headgear or parts thereof of Chapter 65;

(d) Umbrella frames or other articles of Chapter 66;

(e) Goods of Chapter 71 (for example, precious metal alloys, base metal clad with precious metal, imitation jewellery);

(f) Articles of Section XVI (machinery, mechanical appliances and electrical goods);

(g) Assembled railway or tramway track (heading No. 86.08) or other articles of Section XVII (vehicles, ships and boats, aircraft);

(h) Instruments or apparatus of Section XVIII, including clock or watch springs;

(ij) Lead shot prepared for ammunition (heading No. 93.06) or other articles of Section XIX (arms and ammunition);

(k) Articles of Chapter 94 (for example, furniture, mattress supports, lamps and lighting fittings, illuminated signs, prefabricated buildings);

(l) Articles of Chapter 95 (for example, toys, games, sports requisites); or

(m) Hand sieves, buttons, pens, pencil-holders, pen nibs or other articles of Chapter 96 (miscellaneous manufactured articles).

2. Throughout this Schedule, the expression "parts of general use" means:

(a) Articles of heading No. 73.07, 73.12, 73.15, 73.17 or 73.18 and similar articles of other base metal;

(b) Springs and leaves for springs, of base metal, other than clock or watch springs (heading No. 91.14); and

(c) Articles of heading Nos. 83.01, 83.02, 83.08, 83.10 and frames and mirrors, of base metal, of heading No. 83.06.

In Chapters 73 to 76 and 78 to 82 (but not in heading No. 73.15) references to parts of goods do not include references to parts of general use as defined above.

Subject to the preceeding paragraph and to NOTE 1 to Chapter 83, the articles of Chapter 82 or 83 are excluded from Chapters 72 to 76 and 78 to 81.

3. Classification of alloys (other than ferro-alloys and master alloys as defined in Chapters 72 and 74):

(a) An alloy of base metals is to be classified as an alloy of the metal which predominates by weight over each of the other metals;

(b) An alloy composed of base metals of this Section and of elements not falling within this Section is to be treated as an alloy of base metals of this Section if the total weight of such metals equals or exceeds the total weight of the other elements present;

(c) In this Section the term "alloys" includes sintered mixtures of metal powders, heterogenous intimate mixtures obtained by melting (other than cermets) and intermetallic compounds.

4. Unless the context otherwise requires, any reference in this Schedule to a base metal includes a reference to alloys which, by virtue of NOTE 3 above, are to be classified as alloys of that metal.

5. Classification of composite articles:

Except where the headings otherwise require, articles of base metal (including articles of mixed materials treated as articles of base metal under the Interpretative Rules) containing two or more base metals are to be treated as articles of the base metal predominating by weight over each of the other metals. For this purpose:

(a) Iron and steel, or different kinds of iron or steel, are regarded as one and the same metal;

(b) An alloy is regarded as being entirely composed of that metal as an alloy of which, by virtue of NOTE 3, it is classified; and

(c) A cermet of heading No. 81.13 is regarded as a single base metal.

6. In this Section, the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(a) WASTE AND SCRAP:

Metal waste and scrap from the manufacture or mechanical working of metals, and metal goods definitely not usable as such because of breakage, cutting-up, wear or other reasons.

(b) POWDERS:

Products of which 90% or more by weight passes through a sieve having a mesh aperture of 1 mm.";

(17) in Chapter 72, for the NOTES, the following NOTES shall be substituted, namely:—

Notes

1. In this Chapter and, in the case of Notes (d), (e) and (f) throughout this Schedule, the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(a) PIG IRON:

Iron-carbon alloys not usefully malleable, containing more than 2% by weight of carbon and which may contain by weight one or more other elements within the following limits:

-not more than 10% of chromium

-not more than 6% of manganese

-not more than 3% of phosphorus

-not more than 8% of silicon

-a total of not more than 10% of other elements.

(b) SPIEGELEISEN:

Iron-carbon alloys containing by weight more than 6% but not more than 30% of manganese and otherwise conforming to the specification at (a) above.

(c) FERRO-ALLOYS:

Alloys in pigs, blocks, lumps or similar primary forms, in forms obtained by continuous casting and also in granular or powder forms, whether or not agglomerated, commonly used as an additive in the manufacture of other alloys or as de-oxidants, desulphurising agents or for similar uses in ferrous metallurgy and generally not usefully malleable, containing by weight 4% or more of the element iron and one or more of the following:

-more than 10% of chromium

-more than 30% of manganese

-more than 3% of phosphorus

-more than 8% of silicon

-a total of more than 10% of other elements, excluding carbon, subject to a maximum content of 10% in the case of copper.

(d) STEEL:

Ferrous materials other than those of heading No. 72.03 which (with the exception of certain types produced in the form of castings) are usefully malleable and which contain by weight 2% or less of carbon. However, chromium steels may contain higher proportions of carbon.

(e) STAINLESS STEEL:

Alloy steels containing, by weight, 1.2% or less of carbon and 10.5% or more of chromium, with or without other elements.

(f) OTHER ALLOY STEEL:

Steels not complying with the definition of stainless steel and containing by weight one or more of the following elements in the proportion shown:

-0.3% or more of aluminium
-0.0008% or more of boron
-0.3% or more of chromium
-0.3% or more of cobalt
-0.4% or more of copper
-0.4% or more of lead
-1.65% or more of manganese
-0.08% or more of molybdenum
-0.3% or more of nickel
-0.06% or more of niobium
-0.6% or more of silicon
-0.05% or more of titanium
-0.3% or more of tungsten (wolfram)
-0.1% or more of vanadium
-0.05% or more of zirconium

-0.1% or more of other elements (except sulphur, phosphorus, carbon and nitrogen), taken separately.

(g) REMELTING SCRAP INGOTS OF IRON OR STEEL:

Products roughly cast in the form of ingots without feeder-heads or hot tops, or of pigs, having obvious surface faults and not complying with the chemical composition of pig iron, spiegeleisen or ferro-alloys.

(h) GRANULES:

Products of which less than 90% by weight passes through a sieve with a mesh aperture of 1 mm and of which 90% or more by weight passes through a sieve with a mesh aperture of 5 mm.

(ij) SEMI-FINISHED PRODUCTS:

Continuous cast products of solid section, whether or not subjected to primary hot-rolling; and

Other products of solid section, which have not been further worked than subjected to primary hot-rolling or roughly shaped by forging, including blanks for angles, shapes or sections.

These products are not presented in coils.

(k) FLAT-ROLLED PRODUCTS:

Rolled products of solid rectangular (other than square) cross-section, which do not conform to the definition at (ij) above in the form of:

-coils of successively superimposed layers, or
-straight lengths, which if of a thickness less than 4.75 mm are of a width measuring at least ten times the thickness or if of a thickness of 4.75 mm or more are of a width which exceeds 150 mm and measures at least twice the thickness.

Flat-rolled products include those with patterns in relief derived directly from rolling (for example, grooves, ribs, chequers, tears, buttons, lozenges) and those which have been perforated, corrugated or polished, provided that they do not thereby assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

Flat-rolled products of a shape other than rectangular or square, of any size are to be classified as products of a width of 600 mm or more, provided that they do not assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

(l) BARS AND RODS, HOT-ROLLED, IN IRREGULARLY WOUND COILS:

Hot-rolled products in irregularly wound coils, which have a solid cross-section in the shape of circles, segments of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), triangles or other convex polygons. These products may have indentations, ribs, grooves or other deformations produced during the rolling process (reinforcing bars and rods).

(m) OTHER BARS AND RODS:

Products which do not conform to any of the definitions at (ij), (k) or (l) above or to the definition of wire, which have a uniform solid cross-section along their whole length in the shape of circles, segments of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), triangles or other convex polygons. These products may:

- have indentations, ribs, grooves or other deformations produced during the rolling process (reinforcing bars and rods);

- be twisted after rolling.

(n) ANGLES, SHAPES AND SECTIONS:

Products having a uniform solid cross-section along their whole length which do not conform to any of the definitions at (ij), (k), (l) or (m) above or to the definition of wire.

Chapter 72 does not include products of heading No. 73.01 or 73.02.

(o) WIRE:

Cold-formed products in coils, of any uniform solid cross-section along their whole length, which do not conform to the definition of flat-rolled products.

(p) HOLLOW DRILL BARS AND RODS:

Hollow bars and rods of any cross-section, suitable for drills, of which the greatest external dimension of the cross-section exceeds 15 mm but does not exceed 52 mm, and of which the greatest internal dimension does not exceed one half of the greatest external dimension. Hollow bars and rods of iron or steel not conforming to this definition are to be classified in heading No. 73.04.

(q) SKELP:

Hot-rolled narrow strip of width not exceeding 600 mm with rolled (square, slightly round or bevelled) edge.

2. Ferrous metals clad with another ferrous metals are to be classified as products of the ferrous metal predominating by weight.

3. Iron or steel products obtained by electrolytic deposition, by pressure casting or by sintering are to be classified, according to their form, their composition and their appearance, in the headings of this Chapter appropriate to similar hot-rolled products.

SUB-HEADING NOTE

In this Chapter the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(a) Non-alloy free-cutting steel

Non-alloy steel containing, by weight, one or more of the following elements in the specified proportions:

-0.08% or more of sulphur

-0.1% or more of lead

-more than 0.05% of selenium

-more than 0.01% of tellurium

-more than 0.05% of bismuth.

(b) Silicon-electrical steel

Alloy steels containing by weight at least 0.6% but not more than 6% of silicon and not more than 0.08% of carbon. They may also contain by weight not more than 1% of aluminium but no other element in a proportion that would give the steel the characteristics of another alloy steel.

(c) High speed steel

Alloy steels containing, with or without other elements, at least two of the three elements molybdenum, tungsten and vanadium with a combined content by weight of 7% or more, 0.6% or more of carbon and 3 to 6% of chromium.

(d) Silicon-manganese steel

Alloy steels containing by weight:

-0.35% or more but not more than 0.7% of carbon,

-0.5% or more but not more than 1.2% of manganese, and

-0.6% or more but not more than 2.3% of silicon, but not containing any other element in a proportion that would give the steel the characteristics of another alloy steel.';

(18) in Chapter 73, for the NOTES, the following NOTES shall be substituted, namely:—

'NOTES

1. In this Chapter the expression "cast iron" applies to products obtained by casting in which iron predominates by weight over each of the other elements and which do not comply with the chemical composition of steel as defined in Note 1(d) to Chapter 72.

2. In this Chapter the word "wire" means hot or cold-formed products of any cross-sectional shape, of which no cross-sectional dimension exceeds 16 mm.';

(19) in Chapter 74, for the NOTES, the following NOTE shall be substituted, namely:—

'NOTE

In this Chapter the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(a) REFINED COPPER:

Metal containing at least 99.85% by weight of copper; or Metal containing at least 97.5% by weight of copper provided that the content by weight of any other element does not exceed the limit specified in the following table:

TABLE—OTHER ELEMENTS

Element		Limiting content % by weight
Ag	Silver	0.25
As	Arsenic	0.5
Cd	Cadmium	1.3
Cr	Chromium	1.4
Mg	Magnesium	0.8
Pb	Lead	1.5
S	Sulphur	0.7
Sn	Tin	0.8
Te	Tellurium	0.8
Zn	Zinc	1
Zr	Zirconium	0.3
	Other elements*, each	0.3

*Other elements are, for example, Al, Be, Co, Fe, Mn, Ni, Si.

(b) COPPER ALLOYS:

Metallic substances other than unrefined copper in which copper predominates by weight over each of the other elements, provided that:

(i) the content by weight of at least one of the other elements shall be greater than the limit specified in the foregoing table; or

(ii) the total content by weight of such other elements exceeds 2.5%.

(c) MASTER ALLOYS:

Alloys containing with other elements more than 10% by weight of copper, not usefully malleable and commonly used as an additive in the manufacture of other alloys or as de-oxidants, de-sulphurising agents or for similar uses in the metallurgy of non-ferrous metals. However, copper phosphide (phosphor copper) containing more than 15% by weight of phosphorus falls in heading No. 28.48.

(d) BARS AND RODS:

Rolled, extruded, drawn or forged products, not in coils, which have a uniform solid cross-section along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons (including "flattened circles", and "modified rectangles", of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel). Products, with a rectangular (including square), triangular or polygonal cross-section may have corners rounded along their whole length. The thickness of such products which have a rectangular (including "modified rectangular") cross-section exceeds one-tenth of the width. The expression also covers cast or sintered products, of the same forms and dimensions, which have been subsequently worked after production (otherwise than by simple trimming or descaling), provided that they have not thereby assumed the character of articles or products of other headings.

Wire-bars and billets with their ends tapered or otherwise worked simply to facilitate their entry into machines for converting them into, for example, drawing stock (wire-rod) or tubes, are however to be taken to be unwrought copper of heading No. 74.03.

(e) PROFILES:

Rolled, extruded, drawn, forged or formed products, coiled or not, of a uniform cross-section along their whole length, which do not conform to any of the definitions, of bars, rods, wire, plates, sheets, strip, foil, tubes or pipes. The expression also covers cast or sintered products, of the same forms, which have been subsequently worked after production (otherwise than by simple trimming or de-scaling), provided that they have not thereby assumed the character of articles or products of other headings.

(f) WIRE:

Rolled, extruded or drawn products, in coils, which have a uniform solid cross-section along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons (including "flattened circles" and "modified rectangles", of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel). Products with a rectangular (including square), triangular or polygonal cross-section may have corners rounded along their whole length. The thickness of such products which have a rectangular (including "modified rectangular") cross-section exceeds one-tenth of the width.

In the case of heading No. 74.14, however, the term "wire" applies only to products, whether or not in coils, of any cross-sectional shape, of which no cross-sectional dimension exceeds 6 mm.

(g) PLATES, SHEETS, STRIP AND FOIL:

Flat-surfaced products (other than the unwrought products of heading No. 74.03), coiled or not, of solid rectangular (other than square) cross-section with or without rounded corners (including "modified rectangles" of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel) of a uniform thickness, which are:

-of rectangular (including square) shape with a thickness not exceeding one-tenth of the width.

-of a shape other than rectangular or square, of any size provided that they do not assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

Heading Nos. 74.09 and 74.10 apply, inter alia, to plates, sheets, strips and foil with patterns (for example, grooves, ribs, chequers, tears, buttons, lozenges) and to such products which have been perforated, corrugated, polished or coated, provided that they do not thereby assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

(h) TUBES AND PIPES:

Hollow products, coiled or not, which have a uniform cross-section with only one enclosed void along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons, and which have a uniform wall thickness. Products with a rectangular (including square), equilateral triangular or regular convex polygonal cross-section, which may have corners rounded along their whole length, are also to be taken to be tubes and pipes provided the inner and outer cross-sections are concentric and have the same form and orientation. Tubes and pipes of the foregoing cross-sections may be polished, coated, bent, threaded, drilled, waisted, expanded, cone-shaped or fitted with flanges, collars or rings.

SUB-HEADING NOTE

In this Chapter the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(a) Copper-zinc base alloys (brasses):

Alloys of copper and zinc, with or without other elements. When other elements are present:

-zinc predominates by weight over each of such other elements;

-any nickel content by weight is less than 5% [see copper-nickel-zinc alloys (nickel silvers)]; and

-any tin content by weight is less than 3% [See copper-tin alloys (bronzes).]

(b) Copper-tin base alloys (bronzes):

Alloys of copper and tin, with or without other elements. When other elements are present, tin predominates by weight over each of such other elements, except that when the tin content is 3% or more the zinc content by weight may exceed that of tin but must be less than 10%.

(c) Copper-nickel-zinc based alloys (nickel silvers):

Alloys of copper, nickel and zinc, with or without other elements. The nickel content is 5% or more by weight [see copper-zinc alloys (brasses)].

(d) Copper-nickel base alloys:

Alloys of copper and nickel, with or without other elements but in any case containing by weight not more than 1% of zinc. When other elements are present, nickel predominates by weight over each of such other elements.';

(20) in Chapter 75, below the title of the Chapter, the following NOTE shall be inserted, namely:—

'NOTE

In this Chapter the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(d) PLATES, SHEETS, STRIP AND FOIL:

Flat-surfaced products (other than the unwrought products of heading No. 75.02), coiled or not, of solid rectangular (other than square) cross-section with or without rounded corners (including "modified rectangles" of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel) of a uniform thickness, which are:

- of rectangular (including square) shape with a thickness not exceeding one-tenth of the width,

- of a shape other than rectangular or square, of any size provided that they do not assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

Heading No. 75.06 applies, inter alia, to plates, sheets, strip and foil with patterns (for example, grooves, ribs, chequers, tears, buttons, lozenges) and to such products which have been perforated, corrugated, polished or coated, provided that they do not thereby assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

(e) TUBES AND PIPES:

Hollow products, coiled or not, which have a uniform cross-section with only one enclosed void along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons, and which have a uniform wall thickness. Products with a rectangular (including square), equilateral triangular or regular convex polygonal cross-section, which may have corners rounded along their whole length, are also to be considered as tubes and pipes provided the inner and outer cross-sections are concentric and have the same form and orientation. Tubes and pipes of the foregoing cross-sections may be polished, coated, bent, threaded, drilled, waisted, expanded, cone-shaped or fitted with flanges, collars or rings.

SUB-HEADING NOTE

In this Chapter the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(a) Nickel, not alloyed:

Metal containing by weight at least 99% of nickel plus cobalt, provided that:

(i) the cobalt content by weight does not exceed 1.5%, and

(ii) the content by weight of any other element does not exceed the limit specified in the following table:

TABLE—OTHER ELEMENTS

Element		Limiting content % by weight
Fe	Iron	0.5
O	Oxygen	0.4
Other elements, each		0.3

(b) Nickel alloys:

Metallic substances in which nickel predominates by weight over each of the other elements provided that:

(i) the content by weight of cobalt exceeds 1.5%;

(ii) the content by weight of at least one of the other elements is greater than the limit specified in the foregoing table, or

(iii) the total content by weight of elements other than nickel plus cobalt exceeds 1%.;

(21) in Chapter 76, for the NOTES, the following NOTE shall be substituted, namely:—

'NOTE

In this Chapter the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(a) BARS AND RODS:

Rolled, extruded, drawn or forged products, not in coils, which have a uniform solid cross-section along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons (including "flattened circles" and "modified rectangles", of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel). The expression also covers cast or sintered products, of the same forms, which have been subsequently worked after production (otherwise than by simple trimming or de-scaling), provided that they have not thereby assumed the character of articles or products of other headings.

(c) WIRE:

Rolled, extruded or drawn products, in coils, which have a uniform solid cross-section along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons (including "flattened circles" and "modified rectangles", of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel). Products with a rectangular (including square), triangular or polygonal cross-section may have corners rounded along their whole length. The thickness of such products which have a rectangular (including "modified rectangular") cross-section exceeds one-tenth of the width.

(d) PLATES, SHEETS, STRIP AND FOIL:

Flat-surfaced products (other than the unwrought products of heading No. 76.01), coiled or not, of solid rectangular (other than square) cross-section with or without rounded corners (including "modified rectangles" of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel) of a uniform thickness, which are:

- of rectangular (including square) shape with a thickness not exceeding one-tenth of the width,
- of a shape other than rectangular or square, of any size provided that they do not assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

Heading Nos. 76.06 and 76.07 apply, inter alia, to plates, sheets, strip and foil with patterns (for example, grooves, ribs, chequers, tears, buttons, lozenges) and to such products which have been perforated, corrugated, polished or coated, provided that they do not thereby assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

(e) TUBES AND PIPES:

Hollow products, coiled or not, which have a uniform cross-section with only one enclosed void along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons, and which have a uniform wall thickness. Tubes and pipes of the foregoing cross-sections may be polished, coated, bent, threaded, drilled, waisted, expanded, cone-shaped or fitted with flanges, collars or rings.

SUB-HEADING NOTE

In this Chapter the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(a) Aluminium, not alloyed:

Metal containing by weight at least 99% of aluminium, provided that the content by weight of any other element does not exceed the limit specified in the following table:

TABLE—OTHER ELEMENTS

Element	Limiting content % by weight
Fe+Si (iron plus silicon)	1
Other elements (1), each	0.1 (2)

(1) Other elements are, for example, Cr, Cu, Mg, Mn, Ni, Zn.

(2) Copper is permitted in a proportion greater than 0.1% but not more than 0.2%, provided that neither the chromium nor manganese content exceeds 0.05%.

(b) Aluminium alloys:

Metallic substances in which aluminium predominates by weight over each of the other elements, provided that:

(i) the content by weight of at least one of the other elements or of iron plus silicon taken together is greater than the limit specified in the foregoing table;

(ii) the total content by weight of such other elements exceeds 1%.';

(22) in Chapter 78, for the NOTE, the following NOTE shall be substituted, namely:—

'NOTE

In this Chapter the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(a) BARS AND RODS:

Rolled, extruded, drawn or forged products, not in coils, which have a uniform solid cross-section along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons (including "flattened circles" and "modified rectangles", of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel). Products with a rectangular (including square), triangular or polygonal cross-section may have corners rounded along their whole length. The thickness of such products which have a rectangular (including "modified rectangular") cross-section exceeds one-tenth of the width. The expression also covers cast or sintered products, of the same forms and dimensions, which have been subsequently worked after production (otherwise than by simple trimming or de-scaling), provided that they have not thereby assumed the character of articles or products of other headings.

(b) PROFILES:

Rolled, extruded, drawn, forged or formed products, coiled or not, of a uniform cross-section along their whole length, which do not conform to any of the definitions of bars, rods, wire, plates, sheets, strip, foil, tubes or pipes. The expression also covers cast or sintered products, of the same forms, which have been subsequently worked after production (otherwise than by simple trimming or de-scaling), provided that they have not thereby assumed the character of articles or products of other headings.

(c) WIRE:

Rolled, extruded or drawn products, in coils, which have a uniform solid cross-section along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons (including "flattened circles" and "modified rectangles", of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel). Products with a rectangular (including square), triangular or polygonal cross-section may have corners rounded along their whole length. The thickness of such products which have a rectangular (including "modified rectangular") cross-section exceeds one-tenth of the width.

(d) PLATES, SHEETS, STRIP AND FOIL:

Flat-surfaced products (other than the unwrought products of heading No. 78.01), coiled or not, of solid rectangular (other than square) cross-section with or without rounded corners (including "modified rectangles" of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel) of a uniform thickness, which are:

- of rectangular (including square) shape with a thickness not exceeding one-tenth of the width,
- of a shape other than rectangular or square, of any size provided that they do not assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

Heading No. 78.04 applies, inter alia, to plates, sheets, strip and foil with patterns (for example, grooves, ribs, chequers, tears, buttons, lozenges) and to such products which have been perforated, corrugated, polished or coated, provided that they do not thereby assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

(e) TUBES AND PIPES:

Hollow products, coiled or not, which have uniform cross-section with only one enclosed void along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons, and which have a uniform wall thickness. Products with a rectangular (including square), equilateral triangular or regular convex polygonal cross-section, which may have corners rounded along their whole length, are also to be considered as tubes and pipes provided the inner and outer cross-sections are concentric and have the same form and orientation. Tubes and pipes of the foregoing cross-sections may be polished, coated, bent, threaded, drilled, waisted, expanded, cone-shaped or fitted with flanges, collars or rings.

SUB-HEADING NOTE

In this Chapter the expression "refined lead" means:

Metal containing by weight at least 99.9% of lead, provided that the content by weight of any other element does not exceed the limit specified in the following table:

TABLE—OTHER ELEMENTS

	Element	Limiting content % by weight
Ag	Silver	0.02
As	Arsenic	0.005
Bi	Bismuth	0.05
Ca	Calcium	0.002
Cd	Cadmium	0.002
Cu	Copper	0.08
Fe	Iron	0.002
S	Sulphur	0.002
Sb	Antimony	0.005
Sn	Tin	0.005
Zn	Zinc	0.002
Other (for example Te), each		0.001";

(23) in Chapter 79, for the NOTES, the following NOTE shall be substituted, namely:—

'NOTE

In this Chapter the following expressions have the meanings.

hereby assigned to them:

(a) BARS AND RODS:

Rolled, extruded, drawn or forged products, not in coils, which have a uniform solid cross-section along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons (including "flattened circles" and "modified rectangles", of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel). The expression also covers cast or sintered products, of the same forms, which have been subsequently worked after production (otherwise than by simple trimming or de-scaling), provided that they have not thereby assumed the character of articles or products of other headings.

(c) WIRE:

Rolled, extruded or drawn products, in coils, which have a uniform solid cross-section along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons (including "flattened circles" and "modified rectangles", of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel). Products with a rectangular (including square), triangular or polygonal cross-section may have corners rounded along their whole length. The thickness of such products which have a rectangular (including "modified rectangular") cross-section exceeds one-tenth of the width.

(d) PLATES, SHEETS, STRIP AND FOIL:

Flat-surfaced products (other than the unwrought products of heading No. 79.01), coiled or not, of solid rectangular (other than square) cross-section with or without rounded corners (including "modified rectangles" of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel) of a uniform thickness, which are:

-of rectangular (including square) shape with a thickness not exceeding one-tenth of the width,

-of a shape other than rectangular or square, of any size provided that they do not assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

Heading No. 79.05 applies, inter alia, to plates, sheets, strip and foil with patterns (for example, grooves, ribs, chequers, tears, buttons, lozenges) and to such products which have been perforated, corrugated, polished or coated, provided that they do not thereby assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

(e) TUBES AND PIPES:

Hollow products, coiled or not, which have a uniform cross-section with only one enclosed void along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons, and which have a uniform wall thickness. Products with a rectangular (including square), equilateral triangular or regular convex polygonal cross-section, which may have corners rounded along their whole length, are also to be considered as tubes and pipes provided the inner and outer cross-sections are concentric and have the same form and orientation. SUB-HEADING NOTE

In this Chapter the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(a) Zinc, not alloyed:

Metal containing by weight at least 97.5% of zinc.

(b) Zinc alloys:

Metallic substances in which zinc predominates by weight over each of the other elements, provided that the total content by weight of such other elements exceeds 2.5%.

(c) Zinc dust:

Dust obtained by condensation of zinc vapour, consisting of spherical particles which are finer than zinc powders. At least 80% by weight of the particles pass through a sieve with 63 micrometres (microns) mesh. It must contain at least 85% by weight of metallic zinc.';

(24) in Chapter 80, below the title of the Chapter, the following NOTE shall be inserted, namely:—

'NOTE

In this Chapter the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(a) BARS AND RODS:

Rolled, extruded, drawn or forged products, not in coils, which have a uniform solid cross-section along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons (including "flattened circles" and "modified rectangles", of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel). (b) PROFILES:

Rolled, extruded, drawn, forged or formed products, coiled or not, of a uniform cross-section along their whole length, which do not conform to any of the definitions of bars, rods, wire, plates, sheets, strip, foil, tubes or pipes. The expression also covers cast or sintered products of the same forms, which have been subsequently worked after production (otherwise than by simple trimming or de-scaling), provided that they have not thereby assumed the character of articles or products of other headings.

(c) WIRE:

Rolled, extruded or drawn products, in coils, which have uniform solid cross-section along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons (including "flattened circles" and "modified rectangles", of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel). Products with a rectangular (including square), triangular or polygonal cross-section may have corners rounded along their whole length. The thickness of such products which have a rectangular (including "modified rectangular") cross-section exceeds one-tenth of the width.

(d) PLATES, SHEETS, STRIP AND FOIL:

Flat-surfaced products (other than the unwrought products of heading No. 80.01), coiled or not, of solid rectangular (other than square) cross-section with or without rounded corners (including "modified rectangles" of which two opposite sides are convex arcs, the other two sides being straight, of equal length and parallel) of a uniform thickness, which are:

-of rectangular (including square) shape with a thickness not exceeding one-tenth of the width,

-of a shape other than rectangular or square, of any size provided that they do not assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

Headings Nos. 80.04 and 80.05 apply, inter alia, to plates, sheets, strip and foil with patterns (for example, grooves, ribs, chequers, tears, buttons, lozenges) and to such products which have been perforated, corrugated, polished or coated, provided that they do not thereby assume the character of articles or products of other headings.

(e) TUBES AND PIPES:

Hollow products, coiled or not, which have a uniform cross-section with only one enclosed void along their whole length in the shape of circles, ovals, rectangles (including squares), equilateral triangles or regular convex polygons, and which have uniform wall thickness. Products with a rectangular (including square), equilateral triangular or regular convex polygonal cross-section, which may have corners rounded along their whole length, are also to be considered as tubes and pipes provided the inner and outer cross-sections are concentric and have the same form and orientation. Tubes and pipes of the foregoing cross-sections may be polished, coated, bent, threaded, drilled, waisted, expanded, cone-shaped or fitted with flanges, collars or rings.

SUB-HEADING NOTE

In this Chapter the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them:

(a) Tin, not alloyed:

Metal containing by weight at least 99% of tin, provided that the content by weight of any bismuth or copper is less than the limit specified in the following table:

TABLE—OTHER ELEMENTS

	Element	Limiting content % by weight
Bi	Bismuth	0.1
Cu	Copper	0.4

(b) Tin alloys:

Metallic substances in which tin predominates by weight over each of the other elements, provided that:

(i) the total content by weight of such other elements exceeds 1%; or

(ii) the content by weight of either bismuth or copper is equal to or greater than the limit specified in the foregoing table.';

(25) in Chapter 81, below the title of the Chapter, the following NOTE shall be inserted, namely:—

'NOTE

NOTE 1 to Chapter 74, defining "bars and rods", "profiles", "wire" and "plates, sheets, strip and foil" applies, mutatis mutandis, to this Chapter.';

(26) in Chapter 82, after NOTE 2, the following NOTE shall be inserted, namely:—

"3. Sets consisting of one or more knives of heading No. 82.11 and at least an equal number of articles of heading No. 82.15 are to be classified in heading No. 82.15.";

(27) in Chapter 83, for the NOTES, the following NOTES shall be substituted, namely:—

'NOTES

1. For the purposes of this Chapter, parts of base metal are to be classified with their parent articles. However, articles of iron and steel of heading No. 73.12, 73.15, 73.17, 73.18 or 73.20; or similar articles of other base metal (Chapters 74 to 76 and 78 to 81) are not to be taken as parts of articles of this Chapter.

2. For the purposes of heading No. 83.02, the word "castors" means those having a diameter (including, where appropriate, tyres) not exceeding 75 mm, or those having a diameter (including, where appropriate, tyres) exceeding 75 mm provided that the width of the wheel or tyre fitted thereto is less than 30 mm.';

(28) in Section XVI,—

(a) in NOTE 1,—

(i) for item (h), the following item shall be substituted, namely:—

"(h) Drill Pipe (Heading No. 73.04)";

(ii) in item (n), for the figures "82.08", the figures "82.07" shall be substituted;

(b) after NOTE 5, the following NOTE shall be inserted, namely:—

"6. In respect of goods covered by this Section, conversion of an article which is incomplete or unfinished but having the essential character of the complete or finished article (including 'blank', that is, an article, not ready for direct use, having the approximate shape or outline of the finished article or part, and which can only be used, other than in exceptional cases, for completion into the finished article or part), into complete or finished article shall amount to 'manufacture'.";

(29) in Chapter 84,—

(a) for NOTE 1, for item (d), the following item shall be substituted, namely:—

"(d) Articles of heading No. 73.21 or 73.23 or similar articles of other base metals (Chapters 74 to 76 or 78 to 81);";

(b) for NOTE 6, the following NOTE shall be substituted, namely:—

"6. Heading No. 84.82 applies, inter alia, to polished steel balls, the maximum and minimum diameters of which do not differ from the nominal diameter by more than 1% or by more than 0.05 mm, whichever is less. Other steel balls are to be classified in heading No. 73.26.";

(30) in Section XVII,—

(a) in NOTE 2 in item (d), for the figures "83.15", the figures "83.08" shall be substituted;

(b) after NOTE 5, the following NOTE shall be inserted, namely:—

"6. In respect of goods covered by this Section, conversion of an article which is incomplete or unfinished but having the essential character of the complete or finished article (including 'blank', that is, an article, not ready for direct use, having the approximate shape or outline of the finished article or part, and which can only be used, other than in exceptional cases, for completion into the finished article or part), into complete or finished article shall amount to 'manufacture';";

(31) in Chapter 87, in heading No. 87.16, in column (4), for the figures and abbreviation "15%", the figures and abbreviation "20%" shall be substituted;

(32) in Chapter 89,—

(a) for the word "NOTE", occurring below the title of the Chapter, the word "NOTES" shall be substituted;

(b) the existing NOTE shall be numbered as NOTE 1, and after NOTE 1, as so numbered, the following NOTE shall be inserted, namely:—

'2. In heading No. 89.08, "Light Displacement Tonnage (LDT)" means LDT in metric tonnes as per Builder's Registered LDT referred to in the Stability Book or the builder's certificate at the time of initial commissioning of the vessel or the floating structure:

Provided that in case of any change in the LDT, the highest of the LDT indicated in any of the documents referred to above shall be taken for the purpose of levy of duty.';

(33) in Chapter 90, in NOTE 1, in item (c), for the figures "83.15", the figures "83.06" shall be substituted;

(34) in Chapter 94, in heading No. 94.03, in column (4), for the figures and abbreviation "25%", the figures and abbreviation "30%" shall be substituted.

(2) in Chapter 27,—

(a) after sub-heading No. 2710.13, the following sub-heading shall be inserted, namely :—

"2710.14	--Raw Naphtha	Rs. 2,750 per kilo litre at 15° C";

(b) for sub-heading Nos. 2710.41 and 2710.49, the following sub-heading shall be substituted, namely:—

"2710.40	-Diesel oil, not elsewhere specified, that is to say, any hydrocarbon oil, which satisfies the following requirements :—	Rs. 155 per kilo litre at 15° C";
	(i) has a smoke point of less than 10 millimetres;
	(ii) leaves carbon residue of not less than 1/4 per cent. by weight when tested by Ramsbottom Carbon Residue Apparatus;
	(iii) is as dark as, or darker than, 0.04 Normal Iodine solution when tested by colour comparison test; and
	(iv) possesses a viscosity of less than 100 seconds by Redwood I Viscometer at 37.8°C

(c) for sub-heading Nos. 2713.31, 2713.32 and 2713.39, the following sub-heading shall be substituted, namely :—

"2713.30	- Other residues of petroleum oils or of oils obtained from bituminous minerals, including Heavy Petroleum Stock, Low Sulphur Heavy Stock and other residual fuel oils	Rs. 155 per tonne";

(3) in Chapter 30, for heading No. 30.03, the following heading shall be substituted, namely :—

"30.03	MEDICAMENTS (INCLUDING VETERINARY MEDICAMENTS)]

परिचायक - टिप्पणी

इस पुस्तक को दो भागों में प्रस्तुत किया गया है । पहले भाग में व्याख्यात्मक विवरण दिए गए हैं जिनको निम्नलिखित क्रम के अनुसार विभाजित किया गया है, अर्थात्:-

(i) बजट अनुमानों और संशोधित अनुमानों में आयोजना-भिन्न तथा आयोजनागत व्ययों में होने वाले अन्तर का संक्षिप्त रूप में सपष्टीकरण करने के लिए संशोधित अनुमान, 1987-88,

(ii) आयोजना-भिन्न भाग में, चालू वर्ष के संशोधित अनुमानों के संदर्भ में अगले वर्ष के लिए की गई व्यवस्थाओं की व्याख्या करने के लिए बजट अनुमान, 1988-89,

(iii) केन्द्रीय सरकार के आयोजना-भिन्न व्यय का विहंगम दृश्य उपस्थित करने के लिए वर्ष 1988-89 का आयोजना-भिन्न व्यय, और

(iv) 1988-89 की वार्षिक आयोजना के परिव्ययों को स्पष्ट करने के लिए वर्ष 1988-89 के आयोजना परिव्यय ।

दूसरे भाग में विवरण और अनुबन्ध प्रस्तुत किए गए हैं । विवरण स्वतः स्पष्ट हैं और उनका उल्लेख पुस्तक में यथास्थान विनिर्दिष्टतः किया गया है । इस वर्ष दो नए विवरण भी पुस्तक में जोड़ दिए गए हैं, अर्थात् विवरण संख्या 3, जो मंत्रालयों / विभागों के राजस्व खाते के व्यय से सम्बन्धित है और विवरण संख्या 4 जो मंत्रालयों / विभागों के पूंजी खाते के व्यय से संबंध रखता है । इन विवरणों में, विवरण संख्या 2, अर्थात् 'मंत्रालयों / विभागों के कुल व्यय' से संबंधित अधेतर ब्यौरा भी दिया गया है ।

वाणिज्यिक विभागों के व्ययों को विभागों की प्राप्तियां घटाकर दिखाया गया है, ताकि लेन-देनों की मात्रा में वृद्धि होने के कारण व्ययों और प्राप्तियों, दोनों के आंकड़ों का बहुत अधिक विस्तार न हो जाए । उसी प्रकार राज्यों को दिए जाने वाले ऐसे अल्पावधिक ऋणों और अग्रिमों को, जिनको उसी वर्ष के दौरान वसूल कर लिया जाता है, निवल रूप में प्रदर्शित किया गया है । कतिपय लेनदेनों को, जिनके आधार पर किसी नगद रकम की निकासी नहीं होती और जिनके बराबर की प्राप्तियां भी उपलब्ध हो जाती हैं, अर्थात् अन्तर्राष्ट्रीय मुद्रा कोष को दिए जाने वाले अंशदान आदि जैसे लेनदेनों को शामिल नहीं किया गया है, ताकि व्यय की वास्तविक मदों को ही पूर्ण रूप से स्पष्ट किया जा सके ।

इस पुस्तक में प्रस्तुत बजट-व्यय के अनुमानों में, सामान्य बजट में से किए गए आयोजनागत निवेशों की मात्रा को छोड़ते हुए, रेलवे और दूर-संचार विभागों के लेन-देनों को सम्मिलित नहीं किया गया है । किन्तु संविधान के अनुच्छेद 112 के अन्तर्गत अलग से प्रस्तुत वार्षिक वित्तीय विवरण में केन्द्रीय सरकार के समस्त मंत्रालयों / विभागों का व्यय प्रदर्शित किया गया है ।

INTRODUCTORY NOTES

This volume is made up of two portions. The first portion consists of write-up which is divided into:-

(i) Revised Estimates, 1987-88 to give brief explanations for variations between the Budget Estimates and the Revised Estimates, Non-plan and Plan;

(ii) Budget Estimates, 1988-89 to explain the provisions for next year with reference to the Revised Estimates for the current year, Non-Plan;

(iii) Non-Plan Expenditure 1988-89 to give a bird's eye view to the non-plan expenditure of Central Government; and

(iv) Plan outlays 1988-89 to describe the outlays for the Annual Plan, 1988-89.

The Statements and Annexures form the second portion. The Statements are self-explanatory and have been referred to in the write-up at the appropriate places. Two new Statements have been added this year, namely, Statement No.3 relating to Revenue Expenditure of Ministries/Departments and Statement No.4 relating to Capital Expenditure of Ministries/Departments. These Statements give further details of Statement No.2, namely, Total Expenditure of Ministries/Departments.

The expenditures of commercial departments have been taken net of their receipts so that increase in the volume of transactions does not inflate the figures on both sides. Similarly, short-term loans and advances given to the States and recovered during the same year have been netted. Certain transactions which do not involve cash outgo and are matched by receipts e.g. subscription to International Monetary Fund have been excluded so that focus is on real items of expenditure.

The estimates of budgetary expenditure in this document exclude the transactions of Railways and Telecommunications except to the extent of Plan investments made from the General Budget. The Annual Financial Statement presented separately under Article 112 of the Constitution, however, incorporates the expenditure of all the Central Government Ministries/Departments.

संविधान के अनुच्छेद 113 के अन्तर्गत अलग से प्रस्तुत अनुदानों की मांगों के द्वारा संसद की स्वीकृति व्यय की "सकल" राशियों के लिए मांगी गई है, जिनमें उन "वसूलियों" को हिसाब में नहीं लिया गया है जिन्हें खातों में व्यय में से घटाकर प्रदर्शित किया जाता है। इन वसूलियों की राशियों को अनुदानों की सम्बद्ध मांगों में दिखा दिया गया है। खाते में प्रत्येक मुख्य शीर्ष के अन्तर्गत व्यय को, इन वसूलियों को हिसाब में लेने के बाद, वार्षिक वित्तीय विवरण में प्रदर्शित किया गया है। जैसा ऊपर बताया गया है, व्यय की विभिन्न मदों को समुचित रूप में स्पष्ट करने के लिए, इस पुस्तक में, कुछ और प्राप्तियों को भी और ज्यादा निवल रूप में निरूपित दिया गया है। इस पुस्तक के अनुबंध-I में, खाते के प्रत्येक मुख्य शीर्ष के अन्तर्गत "निवल" व्यय को ही दिखाया गया है। अनुबंध 2 के द्वारा, अनुबन्ध I में दिए गए जोड़ों और वार्षिक वित्तीय विवरण में दिए गए व्यय के जोड़ों के बीच मिलान करके एक रूपता स्थापित की गई है।

The Demands for Grants presented separately under Article 113 of the Constitution seek the approval of Parliament for "gross" amounts of expenditure without taking into account "recoveries" taken in reduction of expenditure in the accounts. Amounts of these recoveries are also shown in the respective Demands for Grants. The expenditure under each major head of account is shown in the Annual Financial Statement after taking into account these recoveries. A further netting of some receipts is done in this document, as explained above, to facilitate proper appreciation of various items of expenditure. Annexure 1 to this document shows the "net" expenditure under each major head of account. Annexure 2 reconciles the totals of Annexure 1 and the expenditure totals in the Annual Financial Statement.

REVISED ESTIMATES, 1987-88

बजट के व्यय के संशोधित अनुमानों में, बजट अनुमानों की तुलना में 2091 करोड़ रुपए की वृद्धि हुई है जिसमें से 1970 करोड़ रुपए आयोजना-भिन्न खाते में और 121 करोड़ रुपए आयोजना खाते के अन्तर्गत हैं। इस वृद्धि की मुख्य मदें इस प्रकार हैं:-

Revised Estimates of expenditure from the Budget show an increase of Rs.2091 crores over the Budget Estimates,of which Rs.1970 crores are on Non-plan account and Rs.121 crores on Plan account. The main items of increase are:-

10. अन्य / Others	21220	20741	(-) 479
कुल-जोड़ / Grand Total	39266	41236	1970

ये निम्नलिखित कारणों से हुई हैं:-

1. ब्याज:- विदेशी ऋणों, अल्प बचतों, भविष्य निधि,गैरसरकारी भविष्य निधियों आदि की विशेष जमा राशियों पर अधिक ब्याज की अदायगियां।

The increases are due to the following reasons :–

1. Interest :- Due to larger interest payments on external loans, small savings, provident funds, special deposits of non-Government provident funds etc.

2. खाद्य संबंधी आर्थिक सहायता:- अंतिम लेखाओं के आधार पर भारतीय खाद्य निगम को देय बकाया राशियों के एक भाग के निबटान के लिए व्यवस्था ।

3. स्वदेशी उर्वरक:- प्रतिधारण मूल्यों में 1-4-85 के पूर्वव्यापी और संशोधन होना तथा विद्युत, गैस आदि जैसी निविष्टियों के मौल्यों में वृद्धि ।

4. ब्याज संबंधी आर्थिक सहायता:- सरकारी उद्यम विभाग के अधीन आने वाली कम्पनियों को (94 करोड़ रुपए) तथा राष्ट्रीय जुट विनिर्माता निगम को (80 करोड़ रुपए) भारी ब्याज संबंधी आर्थिक सहायता अनुदान ।

5. पैंशनें:- पैंशन नियमों को उदार बनाना और 15 साल के बाद पैंशन के सारांशिकृत भाग को बहाल रखना ।

6. बदरपुर तापीय बिजलीघर:- यह वृद्धि, बदरपुर तापीय बिजलीघर की प्राप्तियों में कमी होने के कारण हुई है जिसकी वजह दिल्ली विद्युत प्रदाय संस्थान की चूक है ।

7. सरकारी उद्यमों के ऋण आदि को बट्टे-खाते में डालना:- सरकारी उद्यम विभाग के अधीन आने वाले कुछ उद्यमों और वस्त्रोद्योग मंत्रालय के ऋणों और इक्विटी को पुनर्वास योजना के एक भाग के रूप में बट्टे-खाते डालना । इससे कोई नकद निवल निकासी नहीं होगी ।

8. राज्यों को अनुदान:- खास तौर पर सतलज-यमुना लिंक नहर परियोजना को मिलने वाली सहायता को आयोजना से आयोजना-भिन्न में अन्तरण करने के रूप में (69 करोड़ रुपए), प्राकृतिक विपदाओं के लिए भारी सहायता के रूप में (50 करोड़ रुपए), सीमा-सड़क सहायता के रूप में (30 करोड़ रुपए) और विश्वविद्यालयों एवं स्कूलों के अध्यापकों के वेतनमानों में बढ़ोतरी करने के रूप में (24 करोड़ रुपए) की व्यवस्था ।

9. बिना विधान-मंडल वाले संघ राज्य क्षेत्रों में व्यय:- यह मुख्यतः दिल्ली से संबंधित (89 करोड़ रुपए) है जिसकी वजह दिल्ली विकास प्राधिकरण द्वारा भारी मात्रा में भूमिक के अधिग्रहण और विकास के लिए (30 करोड़ रुपए) लिए गए अग्रिमों की वापसी अदायगी न करना, अध्यापकों के वेतनमानों में (38 करोड़ रुपए) की वृद्धि होना है ।

2. Food Subsidy:- Provision for clearance of part of arrears due to Food Corporation of India on the basis of final accounts.

3. Indigenous fertilizers:- Due to upward revision of retention price retrospectively from 1.4.85, increases in the prices of inputs like power, gas etc.

4. Interest subsidies:- Grant of larger interest subsidy to companies under the Department of Public Enterprises (Rs.94 crores) and National Jute Manufacturers Corporation (Rs.80 crores)

5. Pensions:- Due to liberalization of Pension Rules and restoration of cummuted portion of pension after 15 years.

6. Badarpur Thermal Power Station:- Increase is due to fall in receipts of Badarpur Thermal Power Station which is mainly attributed to default by DESU.

7. Write off of Loans to Public Enterprises:- Due to write off of loans and equity of certain public enterprises under Department of Public Enterprises and Ministry of Textiles as a part of rehabilitation scheme. There is no net cash outgo.

8. Grants to States:- Mainly on account of transfer of assistance for Sutlej Yamuna Link Canal Project from Plan to Non-Plan (Rs.69 crores) larger assistance for natural calamities (Rs.50 crores) assistance for border roads (Rs.30 crores) and improvement of salary scales of University & school teachers (Rs.24 crores).

9. Expenditure in U.Ts :- Mainly relates to Delhi (Rs.89 crores) due to non-re-payment by DDA of advances for large scale acquisition and development of land (Rs.30 crores), improvement of salary scales of teachers (Rs.38 crores).

राज्यों / संघराज्य क्षेत्रों को केन्द्रीय सहायता	Central Assistance to States/Uts.	8754	9881	1127

ये वृद्धियां मुख्यतः निम्नलिखित कारणों से हुई हैं:-

1. कृषि:- यह मुख्यतः साधारण बीमा निगम को फसल के बीमे के लिए अतिरिक्त अदायगी करने, राष्ट्रीय बीज निगम को सूखा प्रभावित क्षेत्रों में बीजों के वितरण के लिए उनकी खरीद करने में सहायता देने के लिए है।

2. ग्रामीण विकास:- मुख्यतः सूखा प्रभावित राज्यों में राष्ट्रीय ग्रामीण रोजगार कार्यक्रम के लिए अधिक आवंटन करने के लिए है।

3. उर्वरक:- कुछ उर्वरक कम्पनियों के संबंध में मूल आयोजना में परिकल्पित अन्तर-निगमित अन्तरणों के बदले में बजटीय समर्थन करने के कारण। यह कुछ अन्य उर्वरक कम्पनियों द्वारा की गई ऋणों की वापसी अदायगी के समतुल्य है।

4. आर्थिक कार्य:- यह नाबार्डको विदेशी सहायता प्राप्त परियोजनाओं के लिए भारी मात्रा में ऋण देने और भूतपूर्व नौवहन विकास निधि समिति द्वारा की गई वचनबद्धताओं के फलस्वरूप नौवहन कम्पनियों को ऋण देने के कारण है।

5. औद्योगिक विकास:- चुने हुए पिछड़े क्षेत्रों में नए औद्योगिक यूनिटों के लिए आर्थिक सहायता की अतिरिक्त व्यवस्था के कारण है।

6. पेट्रोलियम और प्राकृतिक गैस:- बाम्बे आफ शोर ड्रिलिंग के लिए विशेष उपस्कर के संबंध में अदायगी के लिए है।

7. विद्युत:- यह वृद्धि मुख्यतः राष्ट्रीय तापीय विद्युत निगम (एन टी पी सी) के संबंध में 400 करोड़ रुपए के बजटीय समर्थन को प्रतिस्थापित करते हुए अतिरिक्त बजटीय संसाधनों की व्यवस्था किए जाने के कारण हुई है जो विद्युत वित्त निगम के लिए की गई 100 करोड़ रुपए की व्यवस्था से अंशतः प्रतिसन्तुलित हो जाएगी।

8. अन्य:- मुख्य कमी इन क्षेत्रों में है-शिक्षा (87 करोड़ रुपए), परमाणु ऊर्जा (63 करोड़ रुपए), स्वास्थ्य और परिवार कल्याण (26 करोड़ रुपए), अन्तरिक्ष (17 करोड़ रुपए), कला और संस्कृति (16 करोड़ रुपए), सूचना और प्रसारण (15 करोड़ रुपए), विज्ञान और प्रौद्योगिकी (15 करोड़ रुपए), शेष कमी अन्य कई क्षेत्रों में है।

बजट अनुमान, 1988-89

1987-88 के संशोधित अनुमानों की तुलना में इन अनुमानों में 7449 करोड़ रुपए की वृद्धि हुई है, जिसमें से 6660 करोड़ रुपए की वृद्धि आयोजना-भिन्न खाते के अन्तर्गत और 789 करोड़ रुपए की वृद्धि आयोजना खाते के अन्तर्गत हुई है। आयोजना भिन्न खाते के अन्तर्गत वृद्धि वाली मुख्य मदें निम्नलिखित हैं:-

The increases are mainly on account of the following reasons:-

1. Agriculture:- Mainly due to additional payment to G.I.C. for crop insurance, assistance to National Seeds Corporation for purchase of seeds for distribution in drought affected areas.

2. Rural Development:- Mainly due to larger allocation for National Rural Employment Programme in drought affected States.

3. Fertilizers:- Due to provision of budgetary support to certain fertilizer companies in lieu of inter-corporate transfers assumed in the original Plan. This is matched by prepayment of loans by certain other fertilizer companies.

4. Economic Affairs:- Due to larger loans to NABARD for externally aided projects and loans to shipping companies arising from commitments made by erstwhile SDFC.

5. Industrial Development:- Due to additional provision for subsidy to new industrial units in selected backward areas.

6. Petroleum and Natural Gas:- Due to payment for special equipment for Bombay off shore drilling.

7. Power:- The increase is mainly due to substitution of Rs.400 crores of budget support to National Thermal Power Station by extra budgetary resources partly offset by provision of Rs.100 crores for Power Finance Corporation.

8. Others:- The main decreases are in the sectors of Education (Rs.87 crores) Atomic Energy (Rs.63 crores), Health and Family Welfare (Rs.26 crores), Space (Rs.17 crores), Art & Culture (Rs.16 crores), Information and Broadcasting (Rs.15 crores), Science & Technology (Rs.15 crores). The balance of decrease is spread over a number of other sectors.

BUDGET ESTIMATES, 1988-89

The estimates show an increase of Rs.7449 crores over RE 1987-88 ; Rs.6660 crores increase is under Non-Plan and Rs.789 crores under Plan. The main items of increase under Non-Plan are as follows:-

(करोड़ रुपए में) (In crores of Rupees)

जोड़ / Total	41236	47896	6660

ये वृद्धियां निम्नलिखित कारणों से हुई हैं:-

1. ब्याज:- विदेशी और आन्तरिक उधारों की मात्रा अधिक होने के कारण ।

2. रक्षा:- सामान्य वृद्धि ।

3. खाद्य संबंधी आर्थिक सहायता:- भारतीय खाद्य निगम को बकाया राशियों के निबटान के लिए व्यवस्था ।

4. स्वदेशी और आयातित उर्वरकों संबंधी आर्थिक सहायता :- स्वदेशी उर्वकों पर आर्थिक सहायता की वृद्धि (700 करोड़ रुपए) में उत्पादन में पूर्वानुमानित वृद्धि, निविष्टियों की लागत और आगे की जाने वाली अदायगियां शामिल है । देश में ही उत्पादित उर्वरकों के भारी संग्रहों को देखते हुए अनिवार्य करारों/वचनबद्धताओं के अन्तर्गत अगले वर्ष आयात किए जाने वाले उर्वरकों की मात्रा कम होने की आशा है और इसलिए आयातित उर्वरकों पर निवल व्यय में 90 करोड़ रुपए की वृद्धि होगी ।

5. निर्यात संवर्धन :- निर्यात में अप्रत्याशित वृद्धि ।

6. एकमुश्त महंगाई भत्ता :- यह व्यवस्था महंगाई भत्ते की अतिरिक्त किस्त के लिए की गई है जिसे अगले वर्ष स्वीकृत किया जा सकता है ।

7. भारत तेल विकास बोर्ड (ओ.आई.डी.बी.) को अदायगी :- कच्चे तेल पर उपकर की प्राप्तियों में से ओ.आई.डी.बी. को अदायगी करने के लिए 1988-89 के बजट अनुमान में 100 करोड़ रुपए की व्यवस्था की गई है ताकि उद्योग की आवश्यकताओं को पूरा किया जा सके ।

8. पूंजी परिव्यय :- यह वृद्धि मुख्यत: रक्षा मंत्रालय के सरकारी उद्यमों में निवेश (30 करोड़ रुपए), पुलिस के लिए इमारतों के निर्माण पर (40 करोड़ रुपए), तटरक्षक संगठन के लिए इमारतों और पोतों की खरीद पर (39 करोड़

The increases are due to the following reasons:-

1. Interest:- On account of larger quantum of borrowings - external and internal.

2. Defence:- Normal growth.

3. Food Subsidy:- Provides for clearance of part of arrear dues to F.C.I.

4. Indigenous and Imported Fertilizers Subsidy:—The increase in subsidy on indigenous fertilizers (Rs.700 crores) takes into account the anticipated increase in production, input costs and spill over payments. In the context of large accumulation of stock of indigenously produced fertilisers, the off-take next year of fertilisers imported under obligatory agreements/commitments is expected to be less and hence the increase of Rs.90 crores in net expenditure on imported fertilizers.

5. Export Promotion:- Due to anticipated increase in exports.

6. Lumpsum D.A. :- Provisions is for additional instalment of dearness allowance that may be sanctioned next year.

7. Payment of O.I.D.B. :- Provision of Rs.100 crore has been kept in B.E. 1988-89 for payment to O.I.D.B. out of the proceeds of cess on crude to fund the requirements of industry.

8. Capital Outlay:- The increase is mainly on investments in public enterprises in Ministry of Defence (Rs.30 crores); construction of buildings for police (Rs.40 crores), buildings and purchase of vessels for

रुपए), आर्ट ट्रेजर्स एंड एंटीक प्रोजेक्ट्स के अधिग्रहण पर (20 करोड़ रुपए), आयकर अधिनियम के अन्तर्गत सम्पत्तियों के अधिग्रहण पर (15 करोड़ रुपए) से संबंधित है । आयातित सिक्कों से संबंधित कम प्राप्तियों के न होने पर निवल व्यय में भी वृद्धि हुई है ।

9. सरकारी उद्यमों को ऋण :- यह वृद्धि इंजीनियरिंग प्रोजेक्टस (इंडिया) लि0 को ऋण देने (66 करोड़ रुपए), खादी और ग्रामोद्योग आयोग (95 करोड़ रुपए), हिन्दुस्तान उर्वरक तथा भारतीय उर्वरक निगम (प्रत्येक को 25 करोड़ रुपए), भारी इंजीनियरी निगम (25 करोड़ रुपए) को स्वीकृत किए गए पुराने ऋणों के नवीकरण के कारण हुई है । यह वृद्धि विवरण 8 में दर्शाई गई कुछ अन्य कम्पनियों में होने वाली कमियों से अंशतः प्रतिसन्तुलित हो जाएगी ।

10. राज्यों को अनुदान :- यह वृद्धि मुख्यतः विश्वविद्यालय, कालेज और स्कूल के अध्यापकों के वेतनमानों में संशोधन (247 करोड़ रुपए), प्राकृतिक विपदाओं से राहत (50 करोड़ रुपए) और अनुच्छेद 275 (1) के अन्तर्गत अनुदान (53 करोड़ रुपए) से संबंधित है ।

11. विदेशी सरकारों को ऋण :- ये वृद्धियां मुख्यतः भूटान और नेपाल से संबंधित हैं ।

12. पुलिस :- इस वृद्धि का कारण पुलिस बल को सुदृढ़ बनाना है ।

13. श्रम कल्याण :- यह वृद्धि मुख्यतः कर्मचारी परिवार पेंशन योजना में अंशदान (65 करोड़ रुपए) करने की वजय से हुई है ।

14. विज्ञान विभाग :- ये व्यवस्थाएं परमाणु, ऊर्जा विभाग, विज्ञान और प्रौद्योगिकी, जैव-प्रौद्योगिकी, अन्तरिक्ष और महासागर विकास से संबंधित हैं । मुख्य वृद्धि परमाणु ऊर्जा विद्युत परियोजनाओं से संबंधित है । संशोधित अनुमानों में राजस्थान सरकार से वसूलियों की बकाया राशियां शामिल हैं । इन वसूलियों के न होने के कारण वृद्धि हुई ।

अनुमानों (आयोजना) में घट-बढ़ होने के कारणों को संबंधित मांगों के अन्तर्गत खण्ड 2 में देखा जा सकता है ।

Caost Guard Organisation (Rs.39 crores), acquisition of art treasures and antique projects (Rs.20 crores), acquisition of properties under I.T. Act (Rs.15 crores). Less receipts relating to imported coins has also added to the net expenditure.

9. Loans to Public Enterprises:- Increase is due grant of loans to Engineering Projects (India) Ltd. (Rs.66 crores), renewal of old loans sanctioned to Khadi and Village Industries Commission (Rs.95 crores), Hindustan Fertilizers and Fertilizer Corporation of India (Rs.25 crores each), Heavy Engineering Corporation (Rs.25 crores). This is partly offset by decreases in certain other companies as shown in statement No.8.

10. Grants to States:- Increase is mainly on account of revision of salary scale of University, Collage and School Teachers (Rs.247 crores), relief from natural calamities (Rs.50 crores) and Article 275(1) grants (Rs.53 crores).

11. Grant of Loans to Foreign Governments:- Increases mainly relate to Bhutan and Nepal.

12. Police:- Increase is due to strengthening of police forces.

13. Labour Welfare:- Increase is mainly due to contribution to Employees Family Pension scheme (65 crores).

14. Scientific Departments:- Provisions relate to Departments of Atomic Energy, Science and Technology, Bio-Technology, Space and Ocean Development. The main increase is in the atomic energy power projects. Revised Estimates include arrears of recoveries from Rajasthan Government. Absence of these recoveries explain the increase.

Reasons for variations in the estimates (Plan) may be seen in volume 2 under respective Demand.

आयोजना-भिन्न व्यय शब्द का प्रयोग सरकार के ऐसे सारे व्यय के बारे में किया जाता है, जो आयोजना में शामिल नहीं होता। इसमें विकासात्मक और गैर-विकासात्मक दोनों प्रकार का व्यय शामिल होता है। व्यय का कुछ भाग अनिवार्य देनदारियों से सम्बन्धित होता है, जैसे ब्याज सम्बन्धी अदायगियां, पेंशन प्रभार और राज्यों को सांविधिक अन्तरण। व्यय का अन्य भाग राज्य के दायित्वों के सम्बन्ध में होता है अर्थात रक्षा और आन्तरिक सुरक्षा। इसके अलावा, केन्द्र की कुछ विशेष जिम्मेदारियां हैं, जैसे विदेश कार्य, और करेंसी तथा टकसाल, और अन्य विकासशील देशों के साथ सहयोग। पिछली आयोजनाओं की अवधि में निर्मित परिसम्पत्तियों के अनुरक्षण पर किया जाने वाला व्यय भी आयोजना-भिन्न माना जाता है। इसी प्रकार, किसी एक आयोजना की अवधि में प्राप्त स्तरों पर जारी सेवाओं और गतिविधियों पर होने वाला व्यय अगली आयोजना में आयोजना-भिन्न के रूप में शामिल किया जाता है, जैसे शिक्षा और स्वास्थ्य सम्बन्धी सुविधाएं, पहले से चालू अनुसंधान परियोजनाएं और बिजली घरों का प्रचालन व्यय। इस प्रकार, जैसे-जैसे अधिक आयोजनाएं पूरी होती जाती हैं, वैसे-ही निर्मित सुविधाओं तथा सेवाओं के अनुरक्षण और प्रचालन पर होने वाले खर्च की बहुत बड़ी राशि, आयोजना के वित्त पोषण के वास्ते लिए गए उधारों पर ब्याज के अलावा, आयोजना-भिन्न व्यय में बढ़ती जाती है।

1988-89 के बजट में शामिल की गई आयोजना-भिन्न व्यय की महत्वपूर्ण मदों की जानकारी निम्नलिखित पैराग्राफों में दी गई है।

1. ब्याज सम्बन्धी अदायगियां (14100 करोड़ रुपए)

इनका सम्बन्ध आन्तरिक ऋण पर ब्याज (7027.00 करोड़ रुपए) से है, जिसमें मुख्यतः बाजार ऋण और राजकोष हुंडियों पर बट्टा,(6132.51 करोड़ रुपए) विदेशी ऋण (1256.00 करोड़ रुपए), अल्प बचत जमा और बचत-पत्र (2499.65 करोड़ रुपए), गैर-सरकारी कर्मचारियों की भविष्य निधियों की जमा सहित भविष्य निधियां (3019.93 करोड़ रुपए), सरकार के वाणिज्यिक विभागों की आरक्षित निधियां (71.37 करोड़ रुपए), और शामिल है, जिनमें सरकारी क्षेत्र की एजेंसियों की सरकार के पास जमा राशियों सहित, अन्य दायित्व (226.05 करोड़ रुपए) शामिल है।

2. रक्षा (13000 करोड़ रुपए)

इसमें रक्षा सेवाओं पर होने वाला राजस्व और पूंजी व्यय, राजस्व प्राप्तियों को घटाकर, शामिल है। इसके ये घटक हैं: थल सेना (6606.60 करोड़ रुपए), नौ सेना (754.83 करोड़ रुपए), वायु सेना (1722.45 करोड़ रुपए), आयुध कारखाने (44.00 करोड़ रुपए) और उपर्युक्त सभी सेवाओं का पूंजी परिव्यय (3872.12 करोड़ रुपए)।

NON-PLAN EXPENDITURE 1988-89

Non-Plan expenditure is a generic term used to cover all expenditure of Government not included in the Plan. It includes both developmental and non-developmental expenditure. Part of the expenditure is obligatory in nature e.g. interest payments, pensionary charges and statutory transfers to States. Part of the expenditure is an essential obligation of a State e.g. Defence and internal security. Then, there are special responsibilities of the Centre like external affairs, and currency and mint, and co-operation with other developing countries. Expenditure on maintaining the assets created in previous Plans is also treated as Non-plan expenditure. Similarly, expenditure on continuing services and activities at levels already reached in a Plan period is shifted to Non-plan in the next Plan e.g. educational and health facilities, continuing research projects and operating expenses of power stations. Thus, as more Plans are completed a large amount of expenditure on operation and maintenance of facilities and services created gets added to Non-plan expenditure, besides the interest on borrowings to finance the Plan.

Important items of Non-plan expenditure included in the Budget for 1988-89 are indicated in the following paragraphs.

1. INTEREST PAYMENTS (Rs.14100 crores)

These relate to interest on internal debt (Rs. 7027.00 crores) which mainly comprise market loans and discount on Treasury bills (Rs. 6132.51 crores); external debt (Rs. 1256.00 crores), small savings deposits and certificates (Rs.2499.65 crores) provident funds including deposits of provident funds of non-Government employees (Rs. 3019.93 crores) Reserve funds of commercial departments of Government (Rs. 71.37 crores) and other obligations (Rs. 226.05 crores) which include deposits of public sector agencies lodged with Government.

2. DEFENCE (Rs 13000 crores)

This includes revenue and capital expenditure on Defence Services net of revenue receipts. The components are Army (Rs. 6606.60 crores), Navy (Rs. 754.83 crores), Air Force (Rs. 1722.45 crores), Ordnance factories (Rs. 44.00 crores) and capital outlay on all the above services (Rs. 3872.12 crores).

3. आर्थिक सहायता (7316.19 करोड़ रुपए)

(i) खाद्य संबंधी आर्थिक सहायता (2300 करोड़ रुपए) :- भारतीय खाद्य निगम सरकार द्वारा समय-समय पर निर्धारित खरीद-मूल्यों पर केन्द्रीय पूल के लिए खाद्यान्नों की खरीद करता है। ये अनाज (क) सार्वजनिक वितरण प्रणाली के माध्यम से जनता को, (ख) आटे की रोलर मिलों और (ग) ग्रामीण रोजगार कार्यक्रम और अन्य राहत योजनाओं के लिए सरकार द्वारा निर्धारित निर्गम-मूल्यों पर दिए जाते हैं। आर्थिक लागत और निर्गम मूल्य के बीच के अन्तर की प्रतिपूर्ति निगम को उपभोक्ता सम्बन्धी आर्थिक सहायता के रूप में की जाती है। निगम सरकार की ओर से संकट-निरोधक (बफर) भंडार भी रखता है और इसे रखने की लागत भी, जिसमें उठाने-भरने और भंडारण का खर्च, ब्याज और प्रशासनिक प्रभार शामिल हैं, प्रतिपूर्ति की जाती है। जिन महत्वपूर्ण घटकों के आधार पर आर्थिक सहायता का अनुमान लगाया गया है, वे निम्नानुसार हैं:-

3. SUBSIDIES (Rs. 7316.19 crores)

(i) Food subsidy (Rs. 2300 crores) :- The Food Corporation of India purchases foodgrains for the central pool on procurement prices fixed by government from time to time. These grains are issued to (a) public through public distribution system (b) roller flour mills and (c) rural employment programme and other relief schemes at issue prices fixed by Government. The difference between economic cost and the issue price is reimbursed to the Corporation as consumer subsidy. The Corporation also carries buffer stock on behalf of Government and is reimbursed the carrying cost including handling, storage, interest and administrative charges. Important parameters on which the subsidy estimate has been framed are :

		(लाख टन in lakh tonnes)

		57.05	31.85

*इसमें भंडारण और परिवहन संबंधी हानियां शामिल नहीं है।

*Exclude storage and transit losses

(ii) उर्वरकों पर आर्थिक सहायता (3000 करोड़ रुपए)

(ii) Subsidy on fertilisers (Rs. 3000 crores)

(क) देसी उर्वरक (2750 करोड़ रुपए):- देसी उर्वरकों के सम्बन्ध में प्रतिधारण मूल्य योजना 1977 से लागू है। इस योजना का उद्देश्य किसानों को उचित मूल्यों पर उर्वरक उपलब्ध कराना और उर्वरकों के उत्पादकों को उनके निवेश पर उपयुक्त प्रतिलाभ दिलाना है। उर्वरक समय-समय पर निर्धारित निर्गम मूल्यों पर बेचे जाते हैं।

प्रतिधारण मूल्य योजना की अन्तर्गत निवल धनराशि पर 12 प्रतिशत के प्रतिलाभ की अनुमति है, यदि विनिर्माता अपने संयंत्र का उपयोग, अमोनिया संयंत्र के 80 प्रतिशत क्षमता का उपयोग करते हुए, करें और विनिर्दिष्टियों के उपभोग के मानदंडों का पालन करें। वितरण मार्जिन को घटाकर, इस प्रकार

(a) Indigenous fertilisers (Rs.2750 crores) .- A retention price scheme for indigenous fertilizers is in operation since 1977. This scheme is intended to make fertilizers available to the farmers at reasonable prices and give producers of fertilizers a reasonable return on their investment. The fertilizers are sold at issue prices fixed from time to time.

The retention price scheme allows a 12% return on net worth if the manufacturers operate their plant at capacity utilisation of ammonia plant at 80% and observe the input consumption norms. The difference between the retention price so fixed less

निर्धारित प्रतिधारण मूल्य और सांविधिक रूप से नियंत्रित उपभोक्ता मूल्य के बीच के अन्तर के सम्बन्ध में आर्थिक सहायता दी जाती है। प्रतिधारण मूल्य प्रत्येक संयंत्र के लिए मूल्य निर्धारण की अवधि के लिए निश्चित किया जाता है। तथापि, मूल्य निर्धारण की अवधि के दौरान प्रमुख निविष्टियों की कीमतों में होने वाली घट-बढ़ को देखते हुए आवश्यक समायोजन किए जाते हैं। अतएव आर्थिक सहायता की मात्रा प्रतिधारण मूल्य, उपभोक्ता मूल्य और उत्पादन के स्तर पर निर्भर होती है। इसके अलावा, विनिर्माताओं को कारखाने से वितरण के स्थान तक उर्वरकों को ले जाने के भाड़े के सम्बन्ध में भी आर्थिक सहायता दी जाती है। पोषक तत्वों के रूप में उर्वरकों का घरेलू उत्पादन 1988-89 में 77 लाख मीट्रिक टन के स्तर पर पहुंच जाने का अनुमान है।

(ख) आयातित उर्वरक (250 करोड़ रुपए) :- चूंकि देशी उत्पादन उर्वरकों की मांग को पूरा करने के लिए पर्याप्त नहीं है, इसलिए कमी को पूरा करने के लिए आयात किया जाता है। मुख्यतः उर्वरकों की तीन किस्में अर्थात यूरिया, डाइ अमोनियम फास्फेट और म्यूरिएट आफ पोटाश आयात की जाती है।

(ii) निर्यात संवर्धन (1091 करोड़ रुपए) - इसमें निर्यात-उत्पादों और संभावित निर्यात के लिए नकद प्रतिपूरक समर्थन के रूप में बाजार विकास सहायता, संभावित निर्यात के लिए शुल्क की वापसी के बदले पूरक नकद प्रतिपूरक समर्थन (1000 करोड़ रुपए), पात्र संस्थाओं को बैंकों द्वारा दिए जाने वाले निर्यातपित के ब्याज-प्रभारों में 1.5 प्रतिशत की आर्थिक सहायता देने के लिए निर्यात ऋण सुविधा (71 करोड़ रुपए), और निर्यात संवर्धन परिषदों आदि को सहायता अनुदान (20 करोड़ रुपए) शामिल है।

(iii) रेलवे (203.17 करोड़ रुपए):- रेलवे अभिसमय समिति की सिफारिशों के अनुसार, रेलवे को कई मदों पर लाभांश की अदायगी करने से छूट दी गई है। इनका विवरण वार्षिक-बजट सम्बन्धी दस्तावेज में दिया गया है। सामरिक महत्व की लाइनों पर होने वाली हानि से संबंधित लाभांश-छूट को छोड़कर, रेलवे को सामान्य राजस्व से आर्थिक सहायता के रूप में लाभांश-छूट प्रदान की जाती है।

(iv) मिल का बना कपड़ा और हथकरघों पर बना कपड़ा (194.67 करोड़ रुपए):- एक योजना, जो अन्तर्गत, जिसका वित्तपोषण कपड़े और वस्त्रोद्योग सामग्री पर लगाए गए अतिरिक्त उत्पाद शुल्क से प्राप्त होने वाली राशि से किया जाता है, उपभोक्ता को मिल के बने कंट्रोल का कपड़ा और हथकरघा क्षेत्र में उत्पादित धोतियां और साड़ियां भी कम मूल्यों पर सप्लाई की जाती है। यह आर्थिक सहायता धोतियों और साड़ियों पर 2 रुपए प्रति वर्ग मीटर और लट्ठे पर 1.50 रुपए प्रति वर्ग मीटर और पोलिएस्टर सूती मिश्रित शर्टिंग पर 3.70 रुपए प्रति दर से दी जाती है। अनुमान है कि वर्ष 1988-89 में इस योजना के अन्तर्गत 70 करोड़ वर्ग मीटर कपड़े पर आर्थिक सहायता दी जाएगी। हथकरघों के कपड़े पर आर्थिक सहायता 167.27 करोड़ रुपए और मिल से बने कपड़े पर 27.40 करोड़ रुपए है।

(V) शैक्षिक कार्यों के लिए सफेद मुद्रण कागज (24 करोड़ रुपए) :- भारत सरकार द्वारा 22 जनवरी, 1987 से कागज नियंत्रण आदेश रद्द किए जाने के फलस्वरूप, सफेद मुद्रण कागज की बाजार मूल्य और कागज के रियायती मूल्य के बीच के अन्तर की राशि राज्य सरकारों को आर्थिक सहायता के रूप में देने का निर्णय किया गया है ताकि शिक्षा क्षेत्र को सफेद कागज की समय पर और सुचारु पूर्ति सुनिश्चित की जा सके। यह आर्थिक सहायता हिन्दुस्तान पेपर कारपोरेशन के जरिए दी जाती है, जो ऐसे कागज की पूर्ति की व्यवस्था करता है।

distribution margin and the statutorily controlled consumer's price is allowed as subsidy. The retention price is fixed for each plant over the pricing period. Necessary adjustments are, however, made during the pricing period on account of variation in the prices of major inputs. The quantum of subsidy, therefore, depends on the retention price, the consumers' price and the level of production. In addition, the manufacturers are also allowed freight subsidy for movement of fertilisers from factory to delivery points. Domestic production of fertiliser in terms of nutrients is expected to reach a level of 77 lakh tonnes in 1988 - 89.

(b) Imported fertilizers (Rs.250 crores) :– As indigenous production is not adequate to meet the demand for fertilisers, imports are arranged to make up the shortfall. Mainly, three varieties of fertilizers viz. Urea, Di - ammonium phosphate and Muriate of Potash, are imported.

PLAN OUTLAY 1988-89

This part depicts the Plan outlay for various projects, programmes and schemes included in the Central Plan for 1988-89. The summary of the Central Plan 1988-89 gives Plan outlays (i) by sectors of development and heads of development under the various sectors and (ii) Ministry/Department-wise allocations. The physical targets, wherever given, are relatable to the entire Plan outlay which includes both the budgetary support and the internal and extra budgetary resources (IEBR). A more detailed analysis of the performance of various projects, programmes and schemes will be available in the Performance Budgets which will be separately presented by the Ministries/ Departments dealing with developmental expenditure. The reasons for major variations in the outlays between the BE 1987-88 and RE 1987-88 under each head of development, wherever deemed necessary, have also been high-lighted.

The Central Plan outlay for 1988-89 compares with the outlay for 1987-88 as under:

कृषि और संबंधित गतिविधियां

फसल की देख-भाल : इस शीर्ष के अन्तर्गत बारानी खेती सहित फसल प्रधान कार्यक्रमों, लघु और सीमान्तिक किसानों से सम्बद्ध योजना आदि पर अधिक बल दिया गया है। सातवीं आयोजना के दौरान क्रियान्वित किए जाने वाले मुख्य फसल प्रधान कार्यक्रम ये हैं: राष्ट्रीय तेलहन विकास कार्यक्रम, पूर्वी क्षेत्र के लिए विशेष चावल उत्पादन कार्यक्रम, दालों के उत्पादन और तिलहन उत्पादन बल परियोजना (ओ.पी.डी.पी.) आदि के लिए राष्ट्रीय परियोजना। इसमें विस्तार और प्रशिक्षण, सांख्यिकी,

AGRICULTURE AND ALLIED ACTIVITIES

Crop Husbandry: The major thrust under this head is on all the crop oriented programmes including dry land farming, small and marginal farmers scheme, etc. The main crop oriented programmes under implementation during the Seventh Plan are National Oil Seeds Development Programme, Special Rice Production Programme for the Eastern Region, National Project for Pulses Production and Oilseed Production

बीजों, उर्वरकों, पौधों के रक्षा रखाव, कृषि संबंधी औजार और मशीनें, बागवानी और फसल बीमा आदि के लिए परिव्यय शामिल है। 215.55 करोड़ रुपए के अनुमोदित परिव्यय के मुकाबले, वर्ष 1987-88 के लिए 253.38 करोड़ रुपए का संशोधित परिव्यय रखा गया है। वर्ष 1988-89 के लिए 387.22 करोड़ रुपए का परिव्यय रखा गया है।

भूमि और जल संरक्षण: इस शीर्ष के अधीन किए गए परिव्यय में मुख्यत: इनके लिए व्यवस्था की गई है:- मुख्य नदी घाटी परियोजनाओं के जल-ग्रहण क्षेत्रों में भूमि के कटाव को कम करने के लिए भूमि और जल संरक्षण उपाय, मृदा मिश्र का संरक्षण और जलाशयों में गाद को रोकना, और सिन्धु-गंगा बेसिन में बाढ़ की आशंका वाली नदियों के जल ग्रहण क्षेत्र में समन्वित जलक्षेत्र प्रबन्ध करना और दस्यु प्रभावित क्षेत्रों के लिए खड्डे-भूमि सुधार कार्यक्रम। 36.00 करोड़ रुपए के अनुमोदित परिव्यय के मुकाबले, 1987-88 के लिए 35.65 करोड़ रुपए का संशोधित परिव्यय रखा गया है। वर्ष 1988-89 के लिये 38.00 करोड़ रुपए का परिव्यय रखा गया है।

पशुपालन: पशु-विकास के सामान्य रूप से दो उद्देश्य है। पहला बढ़ती हुई आबादी के लिए जानवर प्रोटीन को पर्याप्त मात्रा में उपलब्ध करना और दूसरा, कृषि उत्पादन की वृद्धि बनाए रखने के लिए पर्याप्त पशु-शक्ति प्रदान करना है। 24.69 करोड़ रुपए के अनुमोदित परिव्यय के मुकाबले, वर्ष 1987-88 के लिए 18.80 करोड़ रुपए का संशोधित परिव्यय रखा गया है। 1988-89 के लिए 27.00 करोड़ रुपए का परिव्यय रखा गया है।

डेरी विकास: इस शीर्ष में मुख्य रूप से भरपूर दूध की पूर्ति-II कार्यक्रम के लिए व्यवस्था की गई है, जो कि यूरोपीय आर्थिक समुदाय की वस्तु सहायता, अन्तर्राष्ट्रीय विकास अभिकरण से ऋण सहायता, और भारतीय डेरी निगम के आन्तरिक साधनों द्वारा कार्यान्वित किया जा रहा है। इस परियोजना का उद्देश्य 80 लाख ग्रामीण दूध उत्पादक परिवारों और 1.5 करोड़ मंजर वंश की गायों और भैंसों के राष्ट्रीय दुधारू मवेशी झुण्ड को लाभ पहुंचाना है। इस परियोजना के अन्तर्गत दूध का उत्पादन करने वाले 173 जिले शामिल हैं जिनका उनकी दूध उत्पादन संभाव्यता के आधार पर पता लगाया गया है। इसमें दिल्ली दुग्ध योजना के लिए भी व्यवस्था की गई है। 65.31 करोड़ रुपए के अनुमोदित परिव्यय के मुकाबले, वर्ष 1987-88 के संशोधित परिव्यय में 78.93 करोड़ रुपए की राशि निर्धारित की गई है। संशोधित परिव्यय में वृद्धि का मुख्य कारण भरपूर दूध की पूर्ति कार्यक्रम के अंतर्गत अधिक विदेशी सहायता है। वर्ष 1988-89 के लिए 58.17 करोड़ रुपए का परिव्यय रखा गया है।

मीन उद्योग: इस शीर्ष के अन्तर्गत परिव्यय की समुद्री साधनों का अन्वेषणात्मक सर्वेक्षण करने, गहरे समुद्र में मछलियां पकड़ने, अन्तर्देशीय मीन उद्योग की साधनों का विकास करने आदि के लिए प्रयोग में लाया जाएगा। 40.00 करोड़ रुपए के अनुमोदित परिव्यय के मुकाबले, वर्ष 1987-88 के संशोधित परिव्यय में 46.12 करोड़ रुपए की राशि निर्धारित की गई है। वर्ष 1988-89 के लिए 53 करोड़ रुपए का परिव्यय रखा गया है।

वन-पालन और वन्य जीवन: 92.00 करोड़ रुपए के अनुमोदित परिव्यय के मुकाबले, वर्ष 1987-88 के संशोधित परिव्यय में 83.42 करोड़ रुपए की राशि निर्धारित की गई है। वर्ष 1988-89 के परिव्यय में 95 करोड़ रुपए की बड़ी राशि निर्धारित की गई है। इसमें राष्ट्रीय बंजर भूमि विकास बोर्ड की योजनाओं, एकीकृत भूमि तथा जल संरक्षण योजनाओं, सामाजिक वनपालन और वन संरक्षण, विकास और पुन: प्रजनन के लिए परिव्यय शामिल है।

Thrust Project (OPTP), etc. It also includes outlays for extension and training, statistics, seeds, fertilizers, plant protection, agricultural implements and machinery, horticulture and crop insurance, etc. Against the approved outlay of Rs. 215.55 crores, the revised outlay for 1987-88 is Rs. 253.38 crores. The outlay for 1988-89 has been kept at Rs. 387.22 crores.

Soil and Water Conservation: The outlay under this head is provided for undertaking soil and water conservation measures in catchments of major river valley projects with a view to reducing soil erosion, conserving soil mixture and preventing siltation in reservoirs, and integrated watershed management in the catchments of flood-prone rivers in the Indo-Gangetic Basin, and for Ravine Reclamation Programme for dacoit infested areas. Against the approved outlay of Rs. 36.00 crores, the revised outlay for 1987-88 is Rs. 35.65 crores. The outlay for 1988-89 has been kept at Rs. 38.00 crores.

Animal Husbandry: Development of livestock in general has a two fold objective. First, to make available adequate quantity of animal protein for the growing population, and second to supply adequate animal power to sustain the growth of agricultural production. Against the approved outlay of Rs. 24.69 crores, the revised outlay for 1987-88 is Rs. 18.80 crores. The outlay for 1988-89 has been kept at Rs. 27.00 crores.

Dairy Development: This head mainly provides for Operation Flood II Programme, which is being implemented with commodity assistance from European Economic Community, credit assistance from International Development Agency (IDA), and internal resources of the National Dairy Development Board. The project is intended to benefit 8 million rural milk-producer families and national milch herd of about 15 million cross-bred cows and buffaloes. The project will cover 173 milch herd districts identified on the basis of their potential for milk production. It also includes provision for Delhi Milk Scheme. Against the approved outlay of Rs. 65.31 crores, the revised outlay for 1987-88 is Rs. 78.93 crores. The increase in revised outlay is mainly due to enhanced foreign assistance under Operation Flood Project. The outlay for 1988-89 is Rs. 58.17 crores.

Fisheries: The outlay under this head is utilised for conducting exploratory surveys of marine resources, exploitation of deep sea fishing potential, development of inland fishery resources, etc. Against the approved outlay of Rs. 40.00 crores, the revised outlay for 1987-88 is Rs. 46.12 crores. The outlay for 1988-89 is kept at Rs. 53.00 crores.

Forestry and Wild Life: Against the approved outlay of Rs. 92.00 crores, the revised outlay for 1987-88 is Rs. 83.42 crores. The outlay for 1988-89 has been kept higher at Rs. 95.00 crores. The outlay includes schemes of National Wastelands Development Board, integrated soil and water conservation schemes, social forestry, Forest Conservation, development and regeneration.

पर्यावरणीय गिरावट और वन संसाधनों की क्षीणता, मानव और पशुओं की संख्या में अत्यधिक वृद्धि, वन उत्पादों की मांग और खपत में बढ़ता हुआ अन्तराल, जैसे विपरीत घटकों को ध्यान में रखते हुए, एक नई और विशिष्ट नीति तैयार की गई है। इसका मुख्य उद्देश्य देश के वनों की रक्षा में सुधार लाना और उसे सुदृढ़ बनाना तथा वनों के क्षेत्र में विस्तार करना तथा अपेक्षित स्तर तक अपने वनों के उत्पादों को बढ़ाना है ताकि समस्त राष्ट्र के लोगों की मूल आवश्यकताओं को लगातार पूरा किया जा सके। नयी योजनाओं में ये शामिल हैं :- ईंधन/चारा विकास के लिए विशेष क्षेत्र परियोजना, आबद्ध प्रजनन और ऐसी जातियों का पुनर्वास जो समाप्त हो रही हैं, असम में गैंडों का संरक्षण आदि।

Taking into account the diverse factors such as environmental degradation and depletion of forest resources, the phenomenal rise in human and cattle population, the ever widening gap between demand and supply of forest produce, a new and well conceived strategy has been evolved. The main objective is to improve and revitalise the husbandry of forests of the country as also to increase substantially the forest coverage and enhance the productivity of our forests to the desired level and to help to fulfil the basic needs of the people of the nation as a whole on a sustained basis. Among the new schemes are the area specific project for fuel/fodder development, captive breeding and rehabilitation of endangered species, conservation of rhinos in Assam, etc.

बागान : इस शीर्ष के अन्तर्गत परिव्यय का उपयोग, चाय, कॉफी, रबड़, इलायची और तम्बाकू जैसी निर्यात-प्रधान बागानों के विकास के लिये किया जाता है। 31.52 करोड़ रुपए के अनुमोदित परिव्यय के मुकाबले 1987-88 के लिये 33.00 करोड़ रुपए के संशोधित परिव्यय की व्यवस्था की गई है। वर्ष 1988-89 के लिए 32.48 करोड़ रुपए का परिव्यय रखा गया है।

Plantations: The outlay under this head is utilised for development of export oriented plantations, such as tea, coffee, rubber, cardamom and tobacco. Against the approved outlay of Rs. 31.52 crores, the revised outlay for 1987-88 is Rs. 33.00 crores. The outlay for 1988-89 has been kept at Rs.32.48 crores.

खाद्य, भण्डारण और भण्डागारण : इस परिव्यय में ये शामिल हैं :

(i) खाद्य, कृषि उत्पाद और अधिसूचित वस्तुओं के संबंध में भारतीय खाद्य निगम और केन्द्रीय भण्डागारण निगम में निवेश।
(ii) छोटे/सीमान्त किसानों द्वारा कृषि उत्पादों के लिए भण्डागारण संबंधी आवश्यकताओं हेतु ग्रामीण गोदामों की राष्ट्रीय ग्रिड की स्थापना, ताकि वे घबराहट में शीघ्र बिक्री न करें।
(iii) फल और सब्जियों का संसाधन, तथा
(iv) अनुसंधान, प्रशिक्षण और मूल्यांकन।

Food, Storage and Warehousing: The outlay includes :

(i) investment in Food Corporation of India and Central Warehousing Corporation in connection with storage of food, agricultural produce and other notified commodities;
(ii) establishment of national grid of rural godowns for storage requirements for agricultural produce by small/marginal farmers to avoid distress sale by them;
(iii) fruit and vegetable processing; and
(iv) research, training and evaluation.

72.16 करोड़ रुपए के बजट अनुमान को संशोधित करके 67.19 करोड़ रुपए कर दिया गया है और 1988-89 के बजट अनुमानों के लिए 60.67 करोड़ रुपए की व्यवस्था की गई है। 1988-89 के दौरान निर्धारित परिव्यय का उद्देश्य भारतीय खाद्य निगम और केन्द्रीय भण्डागारण निगम (सी.डब्ल्यू.सी.) की भाण्डागारण क्षमता में वृद्धि करना है और क्षमता की ऐसी बढ़ोतरी के लिए सी.डब्ल्यू.सी. के माध्यम से राज्य भाण्डागारण निगमों की इक्विटी में अंशदान की व्यवस्था करना।

Budget estimates of Rs.72.16 crores has been revised to Rs.67.19 crores and to Rs.60.67 crores in the budget estimates for 1988-89. Outlay during 1988-89 is to augment the storage capacity of Food Corporation of India and Central Warehousing Corporation (CWC) as also to provide contribution to equity of State Warehousing Corporations through CWC for such augmentation of capacity.

कृषि अनुसंधान और शिक्षा : इस शीर्ष के अन्तर्गत की गई व्यवस्था मुख्य रूप से कृषि और संबद्ध क्षेत्रों में अनुसंधान और शिक्षा के लिए भारतीय कृषि अनुसंधान परिषद और उसकी अनुसंधान संस्थाओं को सहायता देने के लिए है। 82 करोड़ रुपए के अनुमोदित परिव्यय के मुकाबले, 1987-88 के लिए 82.00 करोड़ रुपए का संशोधित परिव्यय रखा गया है। 1988-89 के परिव्यय को 96 करोड़ रुपए के कुछ ऊंचे स्तर पर रखा गया है।

Agricultural Research and Education: Provision under this head is made mainly for assistance to Indian Council of Agricultural Research and its research institutions for research and education in agriculture and allied fields. Against the approved outlay of Rs. 82.00 crores, the revised outlay for 1987-88 is Rs. 82.00 crores. The outlay for 1988-89 has been kept at a slightly higher level of Rs. 96.00 crores.

कृषि वित्तीय संस्थाएं : इसके अन्तर्गत अनुमोदित परिव्यय के लिए 155.00 करोड़ रुपए और संशोधित परिव्यय के लिए 347.39 करोड़ रुपए के परिव्यय की व्यवस्था की गई है। 1988-89 के लिए 110 करोड़ रुपए के परिव्यय की व्यवस्था की गई है। इसके अन्तर्गत राष्ट्रीय कृषि और ग्रामीण विकास बैंक के लिए कृषि ऋण देने के लिए 105 करोड़ रुपए तथा क्षेत्रीय ग्रामीण बैंकों के लिये 5 करोड़ रुपए की व्यवस्था शामिल है।

Agricultural Financial Institutions: Against the approved outlay of Rs.155.00 crores, and the revised outlay of Rs.347.39 crores the outlay for 1988-89 has been kept at Rs.110 crores. It includes an outlay of Rs. 105.00 crores for NABARD, for providing agricultural credit and Rs. 5.00 crores for Regional Rural Banks.

सहकारिता : इस परिव्यय में निम्नलिखित के लिये व्यवस्था शामिल है:-
कम विकसित राज्यों में सहकारी ऋण संस्थाएं, राष्ट्रीय सहकारिता विकास निगम, राष्ट्रीय कृषि

Co-operation: The provison includes outlay for assistance to Cooperative Credit Institutions in under-developed States, National Cooperative Development Corporation,

सहकारी विपणन संघ लिमिटेड, संस्थाओं की इमारतों के लिये सहकारी विकास योजना, सहकारिता की दृष्टि से पिछड़े राज्यों/संघ राज्य क्षेत्रों में सहकारी संस्थाओं के लिये विशेष योजना, अनुसूचित जातियों/अनुसूचित जनजातियों के लिए बनाई गई सहकारी समितियों के लिये विशेष योजना, दीर्घ-कालीन सहकारी ऋण ढांचों के विकास के लिये विस्तृत योजना, भूमि विकास बैंक आदि । 91.00 करोड़ रुपए के अनुमोदित परिव्यय के मुकाबले 1987-88 के लिये 105.17 करोड़ रुपए के संशोधित परिव्यय की व्यवस्था की गई है । संशोधित परिव्यय में वृद्धि मुख्य रूप से भाडागार विपणन सहकारी समितियों आदि को परिव्यय में वृद्धि होने के कारण हुई है । 1988-89 के लिए 114.26 करोड़ रुपए के परिव्यय की व्यवस्था की गई है ।

अन्य कृषि-संबंधी कार्यक्रम : इस परिव्यय में 6.50 करोड़ रुपए की व्यवस्था कृषि विपणन को सुधारने, नियमित बाजारों का विकास करने तथा विशेष रूप से पिछड़े इलाकों में छोटे और सीमान्त किसानों के लिये फलों, सब्जियों तथा वाणिज्यिक फसलों के व्यापार हेतु आधारभूत सुविधाओं को प्रदान करने के लिये की गई है । इस कार्यक्रम के अन्तर्गत बाजार-अनुसंधान, जांच, मानकीकरण तथा गुणवत्ता-नियंत्रक जैसी अन्य स्कीमें सम्मिलित हैं ।

National Agricultural Cooperative Marketing Federation Limited, Cooperative Development Scheme for institution building, special scheme for cooperative institutions in cooperatively weaker States/Union Territories, special scheme for cooperative societies set-up for Scheduled Castes/Scheduled Tribe, comprehensive scheme for development of long-term cooperative credit structure, Land Development Banks etc. Against the approved outlay of Rs. 91.00 crores, the revised outlay for 1987-88 is Rs. 105.17 crores. The increase in the revised outlay is mainly due to increase in the outlays for Warehousing marketing cooperatives etc. The outlay for 1988-89 is Rs.114.26 crores.

Other Agricultural Programmes: Outlay of Rs.6.50 crores is for improving agricultural marketing, development of regulated markets and providing infrastructural facilities for marketing fruits, vegetables and commercial crops, particularly for the small and marginal farmers in backward areas. Market research, investigation, standardisation and quality control are the other schemes covered by this programme.

ग्रामीण विकास

ग्रामीण विकास के लिए विशेष कार्यक्रम : 1988-89 के लिए कुल परिव्यय 464.56 करोड़ रुपए है (आई.आर.डी.पी. 346.22 करोड़ रुपए, टी.आर.वाई.एस.ई.एम. 6.60 करोड़ रुपए, डी.पी.ए.पी. 51.26 करोड़ रुपए, डी.डी.पी. 50 करोड़ रुपए) । गरीबी-हटाओ कार्यक्रम के एक प्रमुख अंग के रूप में एकीकृत ग्रामीण विकास कार्यक्रम का उद्देश्य सहायता-अनुदानों और विभिन्न संस्थानों के ऋण के माध्यम से गरीबी की रेखा से नीचे की श्रेणी के चुनिंदा परिवारों के लिए आय-उपार्जक परिसम्पत्तियों की व्यवस्था करना है जिससे उनकी आय के स्तर में सुधार हो तथा अन्ततः वे गरीबी की रेखा से ऊपर उठ सकें । जिला ग्रामीण विकास अभिकरणों को केन्द्रीय सरकार तथा संबंधित राज्य सरकार द्वारा बराबर-बराबर आधार पर आर्थिक सहायता दी जाती है । इससे लाभान्वित होने वाले व्यक्तियों में से 30 प्रतिशत अनुसूचित जाति/अनुसूचित जनजातियों से संबंधित होंगे तथा अन्य 30 प्रतिशत स्त्रियां होंगी । ब्लाक स्तर पर प्रशासन को मजबूत करने के लिए भी इसमें व्यवस्था की गई है । इसके अन्तर्गत 1988-89 के दौरान 32 लाख परिवारों के लाभान्वित होने की आशा है ।

राष्ट्रीय ग्रामीण युवक आत्म नियोजन प्रशिक्षण स्कीम का मुख्य उद्देश्य चिह्नांकित-समूह में से चुने गए ग्रामीण युवकों को तकनीकी कार्यों का प्रशिक्षण देना है ताकि वे स्व-रोजगार अथवा वेतन वाले रोजगार प्राप्त कर सकें । प्रशिक्षणार्थियों को वजीफे और औजारों के किट निशुल्क प्रदान किए जाते हैं । प्रशिक्षण संबंधी आधारभूत संरचना को मजबूत बनाने के लिए केन्द्र सरकार और राज्य सरकारों द्वारा प्रशिक्षण संस्थानों को बराबर-बराबर आधार पर वित्तीय सहायता प्रदान की जाती है ।

सूखा आशंकित क्षेत्रों के कार्यक्रम (डी.पी.ए.पी.) को दीर्घकालीन सम्भावनाओं को ध्यान में रखते हुए सूखे की समस्या से निपटने के लिए तैयार किया गया है तथा यह कार्यक्रम भूमि और जल संसाधनों के अनुकूलतम उपयोग करने पर आधारित है । इस कार्यक्रम के अन्य अंग सम्बद्ध विषयों में अनुसंधान तथा विभिन्न स्तरों पर भागीदारों को प्रशिक्षण देना है । इस कार्यक्रम के लिए केन्द्र और राज्यों द्वारा 50:50 के अनुपात में धन दिया जाता है ।

RURAL DEVELOPMENT

Special Programmes for Rural Development : The total outlay for 1988-89 is Rs.464.56 crores(IRDP-Rs.346.22 crores,TRYSEM-Rs.6.60 crores, DPAP-Rs.51.26 crores, DDP-Rs.50.00 crores). As a major poverty alleviation programme, the objective of IRDPis to provide income generating assets to identified families below the poverty line through a mix of subsidy and institutional credit to enable them to improve their income levels so as to eventually cross the poverty line. Subsidy is given to District Rural Development Agencies by the Central Government and State Government concerned on a matching basis. 30% of the beneficiaries would be SC/ST and another 30% women. This also includes provision for strengthening of Block Level Administration. It is expected that 32 lakh families will be assisted during 1988-89.

The main objective of Training of Rural Youth for Self Employment (TRYSEM) is to provide training to identified rural youth from the target group in technical skills so as to enable them to take up self/wage employment. Stipends and free tool kits are provided to the trainees. Financial assistance is provided to the training institutes for strengthening training infrastructure by the Centre and States on matching basis.

The Drought Prone Area Programme (DPAP) is designed to tackle the problem of drought with a long-term perspective, based on the strategy of optimum utilisation of land and water resources. Research in allied subjects and training of various levels of participants are also among the components of the programme. The funds for the programme are provided by the Centre and States on 50:50 basis.

मरुस्थल विकास कार्यक्रम (डी.डी.पी.), जिसका शत-प्रतिशत वित्तीयकरण केन्द्रीय सरकार द्वारा किया जाता है, का उद्देश्य चुनींदा उष्ण और शीत शुष्क क्षेत्रों का विकास करना है जिसके लिए ऊसरता का नियंत्रण करके इन क्षेत्रों की उर्वरता को उन्नत किया जाता है, इससे इन क्षेत्रों में रहने वाले लोगों की आय तथा रोजगार के अवसरों में बढ़ोतरी होती है। अभी तक शुरू की गई प्रमुख गतिविधियां ये हैं : वनरोपण, चरागाहों का विकास, रेत के टीलों का स्थिरीकरण,भूमिगत जल का विकास और उपयोग आदि।

ग्रामीण क्षेत्रों में घरेलू खपत तथा उत्पादन संबंधी गतिविधियों के लिए ऊर्जा के परम्परागत और गैर-परम्परागत स्रोतों के समेकित प्रयोग के लिए समेकित ग्रामीण ऊर्जा आयोजना कार्यक्रम के अन्तर्गत 1988-89 के दौरान 1.70 करोड़ रुपए की व्यवस्था की गई है।

ग्रामीण रोजगार : इसके अन्तर्गत 1987-88 के लिए अनुमोदित परिव्यय हेतु 1205 करोड़ रुपए तथा संशोधित परिव्यय के लिए 1334.90 करोड़ रुपए की व्यवस्था की गई है। यह वृद्धि ग्रामीण रोजगार कार्यक्रम के अन्तर्गत सूखाग्रस्त क्षेत्रों में 6 लाख टन अधिक टन के अतिरिक्त खाद्यान्न के वितरण पर हुए खर्च के कारण हुई है। वर्ष 1988-89 के लिए कुल परिव्यय 1259.43 करोड़ रुपए रखा गया है। ग्रामीण भूमिहीन रोजगार गारंटी कार्यक्रम (730 करोड़ रुपए) का मुख्य उद्देश्य प्रत्येक भूमिहीन परिवार के कम से कम एक सदस्य को एक वर्ष में 100 दिन तक का रोजगार उपलब्ध करने की व्यवस्था को ध्यान में रखते हुए ग्रामीण भूमिहीन श्रमिकों के लिए रोजगार के अवसरों में सुधार और वृद्धि करना है। इस कार्यक्रम का एक उद्देश्य ग्रामीण आधारभूत-ढांचे को सुदृढ़ बनाने के लिए टिकाऊ सामुदायिक सम्पदाओं का निर्माण करना भी है ताकि ग्रामीण अर्थ-व्यवस्था का तेजी से विकास हो सके। इस कार्यक्रम के लिए सारी धनराशि केन्द्रीय सरकार द्वारा दी जाती है। कार्यक्रम के अन्तर्गत इस धनराशि का कम से कम 50 प्रतिशत भाग सामाजिक वानिकी के लिए निर्धारित होता है। अनुसूचित जाति/अनुसूचित जन-जातियों के लिए मकानों के निर्माण (इंदिरा आवास योजना) तथा ग्रामीण शौचालयों के निर्माण के लिए भी अलग से व्यवस्था की गई है। 1988-89 के लिए 3700 लाख श्रम दिनों के रोजगार सृजन का लक्ष्य निर्धारित किया गया है।

राष्ट्रीय ग्रामीण रोजगार कार्यक्रम (529.43 करोड़ रुपए) केन्द्र द्वारा प्रायोजित योजना है जिसे केन्द्र और राज्य दोनों के द्वारा बराबर-बराबर के आधार पर वित्तपोषित किया जाता है। इस कार्यक्रम का उद्देश्य ग्रामीण क्षेत्रों के बेरोजगार और अपूर्ण रूप से रोजगार प्राप्त व्यक्तियों के लिए रोजगार के अतिरिक्त अवसर पैदा करना तथा इसके साथ-साथ ग्रामीण आधारभूत ढांचे को मजबूत बनाने के लिए उत्पादक और टिकाऊ सामुदायिक परिसम्पत्तियों का सृजन करना है। ग्रामीण गरीब लोगों के पोषाहार मानक को सुधारने के लिए, दैनिक भत्ते में से 2.5 किलोग्राम गेहूं रियायती दर पर दिया जाता है। संसाधनों का 10 प्रतिशत भाग अनुसूचित जातियों/अनुसूचित जनजातियों के लोगों को सीधा लाभ पहुंचाने वाले कार्यों के ही उपयोग के लिए सुरक्षित रखा जाता है। संसाधनों का अन्य 25 प्रतिशत भाग सामाजिक वानिकी के लिए सुरक्षित रखा गया है। 1988-89 के दौरान 4250 लाख श्रम दिनों के रोजगार सृजन की संभावना है।

भूमि सुधार : 1987-88 के लिए अनुमोदित परिव्यय 5.75 करोड़ रुपए और संशोधित परिव्यय 3.55 करोड़ रुपए है। इस वृद्धि का मुख्य कारण राजस्व तंत्र को सुदृढ़ बनाकर और भूमि रिकार्डों को अद्यतन करके नयी योजनाओं का कार्यान्वयन न किया जाना है। कृषि जोत सीमा को लागू कर दिए जाने पर फालतू घोषित भूमि पर बसाए गए नए भाग्यिकों की सहायता के लिए राज्य सरकारों को समरूप आधार पर सहायता-अनुदान दिया जाता है। राज्य सरकारों के राजस्व तंत्र को सुदृढ़ बनाने के लिए तथा भू-अभिलेखों को अद्यतन बनाने के लिए भी समरूप आधार पर सहायता दिए जाने का प्रस्ताव है। वर्ष 1988-89 के लिए 9.65 करोड़ रुपए का परिव्यय रखा गया है।

The Desert Development Programme (DDP) which is funded 100% by the Central Govt., aims at the development of selected hot and cold arid areas by controlling desertification and raising the productivity of these areas, thereby increasing the income and employment opportunities of the population. Some of the major activities undertaken are afforestation, grassland development, sand dune stabilisation, development and utilisation of ground water etc.

Integrated Rural Energy Planning Programme for integrated use of conventional and non-conventional sources of energy for domestic consumption as well as productive activities in rural areas has an outlay of Rs. 1.70 crores during 1988-89.

Rural Employment : Against an approved outlay of Rs.1205 crores for 1987-88 the revised outlay is Rs.1334.90 crores. The increase accounts for the cost of 6 lakhs tonnes of additional foodgrains distributed under Rural Employment Programme in drought affected areas. The total outlay for 1988-89 is Rs.1259.43 crores. The Rural Landless Employment guarantee Programme (RLEGP) (Rs.730 crores) has the basic objective of improving and expanding the employment opportunities available for the rural landless labour with a view to providing a guarantee of employment to atleast one member of every landless labour household up to 100 days a year. It also aims at creation of durable community assets for strengthening the rural infrastructure which will lead to rapid growth of rural economy. This programme is fully funded by the Central Government. A minimum of 50% of the funds under the programme are earmarked for social forestry. Separate provision is also made for construction of houses for SC/ST (Indira Awas Yojna) and construction of rural sanitary latrines. A target of employment generation of 370 million mandays has been fixed for 1988-89.

National Rural Employment Programme (NREP) (Rs. 529.43 crores) is a Centrally Sponsored Scheme which is funded on matching basis by the Centre and the States. It aims at generating additional gainful employment opportunities to the unemployed and under-employed persons in the rural areas, simultaneously creating productive and durable community assets to strengthen the rural infrastructure. To improve the nutritional standards of rural poor, 2.5 Kg. of foodgrains are given at subsidised rates as part of daily wages. 10% of the resources are to be earmarked for utilisation exclusively on works of direct benefit to members of the Scheduled Caste/ Scheduled Tribes. Another 25% of the resources are earmarked for social forestry. Employment generation of 425 million mandays is expected during 1988-89.

Land Reforms: The approved outlay for 1987-88 is Rs.5.75 crores and the revised outlay is Rs.3.55 crores. The decrease is mainly due to non-implementation of the new schemes of strengthening of revenue machinery and updating of land records. Assistance in the form of grants-in-aid is given to the State Govts. on a matching basis to assist new assignees of such land as has been declared surplus on implementation of ceiling on agricultural holdings. Under this programme, assistance is also proposed to be given to States for strengthening of revenue machinery and updating of land records on a matching basis. The outlay for 1988-89 is Rs.9.65 crores.

अन्य ग्रामीण विकास कार्यक्रम : 1988-89 के लिए 28.06 करोड़ रुपए का परिव्यय रखा गया है। ग्रामीण क्षेत्रों में महिलाओं और बच्चों का विकास कार्यक्रम (11.41 करोड़ रुपए) का अभिप्राय ग्रामीण गरीब लोगों के लक्षित समूह के परिवारों की महिलाओं पर ध्यान केन्द्रित करना है ताकि उनकी आय में बढ़ोतरी की जा सके और उन्हें स्व-नियोजन द्वारा आय के साधन जुटाने के लिए तैयार करने में आवश्यक सहायक साधन जुटाए जा सकें। चूंकि व्यक्तिगत उद्यम प्रभावी नहीं है, इसलिए इनका सामूहिक गठन करने के लिए नीति अपनाई गई है। बहुउद्देश्यीय सामुदायिक केन्द्रों के निर्माण की एक योजना आरम्भ की गई है। इस योजना का वित्तपोषण आंशिक रूप से केन्द्रीय सरकार द्वारा और आंशिक रूप से राज्य सरकारों और यूनिसेफ द्वारा किया जाता है।

Other Rural Development Programmes : The total Plan outlay for 1988-89 is Rs. 28.06 crores. Development of Women and Children in Rural Areas (Rs.11.41 crores) is meant to focus attention on the women members of the families of the target group of the rural poor so as to increase their income and also to provide the supporting sources needed to enable them to take up income generating activities on a self-sustaining basis. Since individual ventures are not effective a strategy of group formation has been adopted. A scheme of construction of multipurpose community centres has been started. The scheme is funded partly by Central Government and partly by State Governments and UNICEF.

सिंचाई और बाढ़ नियंत्रण

मुख्य और मध्यम सिंचाई : मुख्य और मध्यम सिंचाई के लिए आवश्यक आधारभूत सुविधाओं को तैयार करने तथा प्रौद्योगिकी के संवर्धन के लिए इस क्षेत्र के अंतर्गत सर्वेक्षण तथा अन्वेषण, आंकड़ों के संग्रह, अनुसंधान एवं अन्य गतिविधियों से सम्बद्ध व्यय के लिए व्यवस्था की गई है। 1988-89 के लिए 16.25 करोड़ रुपए के कुल परिव्यय के अन्तर्गत मंत्रालय के अधीन विभिन्न संगठनों की आवश्यकताओं की पूर्ति की जाएगी।

लघु सिंचाई : इस क्षेत्र के अन्तर्गत कार्यान्वित किए जाने वाले कार्यक्रमों में निम्नलिखित शामिल हैं : (i) हाइड्रोलोजिकल सर्वेक्षण के माध्यम से भूमि-जल विकास और केन्द्रीय भूमि-जल बोर्ड द्वारा अन्वेषण और (ii) केन्द्र द्वारा प्रायोजित लघु सिंचाई परियोजनाएं, राज्यों/संघ राज्य क्षेत्रों में भूमि तथा सतही जल संगठन को सुदृढ़ बनाना, जल छिड़काव, ड्रिप सिंचाई के प्रयोग को बढ़ावा देना और पम्प सेटों आदि में सुधार करना। 41.00 करोड़ रुपए के परिव्यय की आवश्यकता देश में विद्यमान सूखा परिस्थितियों को देखते हुए सर्वेक्षण की मौजूदा गतिविधियों और भूमिगत जल संसाधनों का पता लगाने तथा केन्द्रीय भूमिगत जलबोर्ड द्वारा रिगों की प्राप्ति के लिए है।

कमान क्षेत्र विकास : इस कार्यक्रम के अंतर्गत खेत संबंधी विकास कार्यों को तैयार करने, उनकी योजना बनाने, कार्यान्वयन करने और सर्वेक्षण तथा टोपोग्राफिकल भूमि और हवाई सर्वेक्षण, वेयर बन्दी, प्रशिक्षण एवं मूल्यांकन अध्ययन आदि के लिए राज्यों और संघ राज्य क्षेत्रों को अनुदान देकर या ऋण दिए जाते हैं। भूमि को समतल बनाने और उसे आकार में लाने, खेतों में नालियों और नालों तथा ऋण दिए जाते हैं। भूमि को समतल बनाने और उसे आकार में लाने, खेतों में नालियों और नालों का निर्माण करने, जल छिड़काव और ड्रिप सिंचाई के लिए आई.आर.डी.पी. पद्धति के आधार पर छोटे और सीमांत किसानों को ऋण सहायता देने के लिए बराबर-बराबर के आधार पर अनुदान/ऋण दिया जाता है। 1988-89 के लिए 125.00 करोड़ रुपए के परिव्यय की व्यवस्था की गई है। सभी कमान क्षेत्रों में सृजित सिंचाई संभाव्यताओं के तीव्र और बेहतर उपयोग पर अत्यधिक महत्व दिए जाने के कारण, अधिक परिव्यय की व्यवस्था की गई है।

बाढ़ नियंत्रण : इस क्षेत्र के अन्तर्गत 35.05 करोड़ रुपए की गई व्यवस्था निम्नलिखित कार्यक्रमों के दो भागों के लिए है : (i) बाढ़ नियंत्रण योजनाएं/कार्यक्रम जिनका इस मंत्रालय के नियंत्रणाधीन विभिन्न संगठनों द्वारा कार्यान्वयन किया जाता है, और (ii) बाढ़ नियंत्रण और समुद्र कटाव-रोधी निर्माण कार्यों के लिए विभिन्न राज्यों को सहायता। उपरोक्त पहले कार्यक्रम में बाढ़ से संबंधित आंकड़ों को सुव्यवस्थित रूप से इकट्ठा करना, बारीकी से मानीटरिंग कार्य तथा बाढ़ संबंधी

IRRIGATION AND FLOOD CONTROL

Major and medium irrigation : The outlay under this sector is meant for survey and investigation, data collection, research and other activities for building up of infrastructural facilities and upgrading technology needed for major and medium irrigation sector. The total outlay of Rs.16.25 crores for 1988-89 covers the requirements of different organisations under the Ministry.

Minor irrigation : The programmes that are implemented under this sector include :- i) Ground Water Development through hydrological surveys and exploration by the Central Ground Water Board; and (ii) Centrally sponsored Minor Irrigation schemes, strengthening of Ground and Surface Water Organisations in the States/Union Territories; encouraging use of sprinklers, drip irrigation, rectification of pump-sets etc. The outlay of Rs.41.00 crores is required for expansion of existing activities of survey and exploration of ground water resources in view of the drought conditions prevailing in the country and for acquisition of additional rigs by the Central Ground Water Board.

Command Area Development: Under this programme, grants and loans are given to States and Union Territory Governments for preparation, planning, implementation and supervision of On-Farm Development works and for topographical soil and aerial survey, training and evaluation studies etc. Grants/loans are also given on matching basis for subsidy of loans to small and marginal farmers on the IRDP pattern for land levelling and shaping, construction of field channels and drains, sprinklers and drip irrigation. The outlay for 1988-89 is Rs.125.00 crores. Due to greater emphasis on faster and better utilisation of irrigation potential created in all the Command Areas, increased outlay has been provided.

Flood Control and Drainage: The outlay of Rs.35.05 crores under this sector is for two categories of programmes: (i) Flood Control Schemes/Programmes that are implemented by various organisations under the control of this Ministry; and (ii) assistance to various states for flood control and anti-sea erosion works. Under the former are the programmes like systematic collection of data on floods, close monitoring and issue of flood forecasts and warning through the network of flood forecasting and warning centres, Brahmaputra Board for preparation of a Master Plan for control of floods and bank erosion of the Brahmaputra and the Barak system of rivers, Ganga Flood Control Commission, and survey and investigation of Flood Control Projects on rivers common with Nepal and Bhutan. A provision has also been made in the budget estimates 1988-89 for assistance to Government of Assam for flood control work in Brahmaputra Valley, and to Government of Kerala for anti-sea erosion works.

भविष्यवाणी और चेतावनी केन्द्रों के नेटवर्क के माध्यम से बाढ़ संबंधी भविष्यवाणी करना और चेतावनी देना, ब्रह्मपुत्र नदी में बाढ़ नियंत्रण और तटीय कटाव और नदियों के लिए मैस्टर प्रणाली हेतु मास्टर आयोजना तैयार करने के लिए ब्रह्मपुत्र बोर्ड, गंगा बाढ़ नियंत्रण आयोग तथा नेपाल और भूटान से होकर बहने वाली नदियों संबंधी बाढ़ नियंत्रण परियोजनाओं के सर्वेक्षण और जांच संबंधी कार्य । इसके अतिरिक्त 1988-89 के बजट अनुमानों में ब्रह्मपुत्र घाटी में बाढ़ नियंत्रण कार्य के लिए आसाम सरकार को और समुद्र कटाव-रोधी कार्यों के लिए केरल सरकार को वित्तीय सहायता देने की व्यवस्था की गई है ।

विद्युत : 1988-89 के लिए 3962.70 करोड़ रुपए का परिव्यय रखा गया है जो कि मुख्य रूप से राष्ट्रीय तापीय विद्युत निगम (2180.00 करोड़ रुपए), राष्ट्रीय पन बिजली विद्युत निगम (144.00 करोड़ रुपए), दामोदर घाटी निगम (160.00 करोड़ रुपए), उत्तर-पूर्वी बिजली विद्युत निगम (45.00 करोड़ रुपए), विद्युत वित्त निगम (75.00 करोड़ रुपए), नाथपा-झाकरी विद्युत निगम (50.00 करोड़ रुपए), नेवेली लिग्नाइट निगम (270.00 करोड़ रुपए) के लिए है ।

तापीय और पन बिजली उत्पादन और सम्बद्ध पारेषण लाइनें : राष्ट्रीय ताप विद्युत निगम के लिए 1005 करोड़ रुपए की व्यवस्था की गई है । यह व्यवस्था इसके निम्नलिखित कार्यों के लिए 2204 करोड़ रुपए की आयोजना परिव्यय में सहायता देने के लिए है : सुपर थर्मल पावर स्टेशन:- सिंगरौली चरण I और II (2000 मेगावाट), कोरबा चरण I और II (2100 मेगावाट), रामागुंडम चरण I और II (2100 मेगावाट), फरक्का चरण I और II (1600 मेगावाट), विंध्याचल चरण I और II (2260 मेगावाट), रिहन्द चरण I और II (2000 मेगावाट), कहलगांव चरण I (840 मेगावाट), एन.सी.टी.पी.पी. (दादरी)-(840 मेगावाट), तलचर चरण I (1000 मेगावाट), कवास (600 मेगावाट), अन्ता (430 मेगावाट) और औरैया (600 मेगावाट)-गैस आधारित केन्द्र और उससे सम्बद्ध पारेषण लाइनें, अनुसंधान और विकास योजनाएं, नवीकरण और आधुनिकीकरण करना तथा नई तापीय योजनाओं के लिए स्थान सम्बन्धी सर्वेक्षण और खोज । इसमें बदरपुर तापीय विद्युत परियोजना के लिए भी 18.66 करोड़ रुपए की व्यवस्था है जिसमें से 1.24 करोड़ रुपए चरण-II (210 मेगावाट), 2.16 करोड़ रुपए चरण-III (220 मेगावाट) जो चालू हो चुकी है और 13.26 करोड़ रुपए इन संयंत्रों के नवीकरण और आधुनिकीकरण के लिए तथा 2.00 करोड़ रुपए राख के गड्ढों के लिए है ।

इस व्यवस्था में वे पूंजीगत व्यय शामिल है, जो इन पनबिजली परियोजनाओं से संबंधित है- लोकतक (105 मेगावाट-जिसे चालू कर दिया गया है), दुलहस्ती (450 मेगावाट), चमेरा (540 मेगावाट), टनकपुर (120 मेगावाट), रंगित (60 मेगावाट), धौलीगंगा (260 मेगावाट), उरी (480 मेगावाट), जैपुर-तलचर, लीमाटक जिरीबाम मोगा-भिवानी तथा चुक्का पारेषण लाइनें तथा नई पन बिजली परियोजनाओं का अन्वेषण, 15.00 करोड़ रुपए सलाल पन-बिजली परियोजना (345 मेगावाट), 15.00 करोड़ रुपए चमेरा चरण-II और बागलिहार, स्वालकोट तथा धलेश्वरी पन-बिजली परियोजनाओं तथा 10.00 करोड़ सलाल चरण-II के लिए है । मध्य प्रदेश के सरदार सरोवर परियोजना विद्युत संघटक के शेयर में

Power: The outlay for 1988-89 is Rs.3962.70 crores, which is mainly for schemes of National Thermal Power Corporation (Rs.2180.00 crores), National Hydro-electric Power Corporation (Rs.144.00 crores), Damodar Valley Corporation (Rs.160.00 crores), North Eastern Electric Power Corporation (Rs.45.00 crores), Power Finance Corporation (Rs.75.00 crores), Nathpa-Jhakri Power Corporation (Rs.50.00 crores), Neyveli Ligmite Corporation (Rs.270.00 crores).

Thermal & Hydro Power Generation including associated Transmission Lines : There is a provision of Rs. 1005.00 crores for National Thermal Power Corporation to support its plan outlay of Rs.2204.00 crores for Singrauli Stages I & II (2000MW), Korba Stages I & II (2100 MW) Ramagundam Stages I & II (2100 MW), Farakka Stages I & II (1600 MW) Vindhyachal Stages I & II (2260 MW), Rihand-Stages I & II (2000 MW), Kahalgoan Stage I (840 MW), NCTPP (Dadri)-(840 MW), Talcher Stage I (1000 MW) super thermal power stations; Kawas (600 MW) Anta (430 MW) and Auraiya (600 MW) - gas based stations and transmission lines associated with them, research and development schemes, renovation and modernisation and survey and investigation schemes for new thermal sites. This also includes a provision of Rs. 18.66 crores for Badarpur Thermal Power Project comprising Rs. 1.24 crores for Stage II (210 MW), Rs. 2.16 crores for Stage III (210 MW) which have been commissioned and are under commercial operation, Rs. 13.26 crores for renovation and modernisation of these plants and Rs.2.00 crores for land for ash pond.

Other provisions include capital expenditure on Loktak (105 MW already commissioned), Dulhasti (450 MW), Chamera (540 MW), Tanakpur (120 MW), Rangit (60 MW), Dhauliganga (260 MW) Uri (480 MW) hydro-electric projects; Jeypore-Talchar, Liematak-Jiribam, Moga-Bhiwani and Chukka transmission lines and investigation of new hydroelectric projects Rs. 15 crores for Salal Hydro-electric Project (345 MW), Rs. 15.00 crores each Chamera Stage-II and Baglihar, Swalkot and Dhaleshwari hydro-electric projects and Rs. 10.00 crores for Salal Stage-II. Rs. 22.96 crores as Government of India's contribution to the resources gap in the share of Madhya Pradesh

साधनों के अन्तर को पूरा करने के लिए भारत सरकार का 22.96 करोड़ रुपए का अंशदान और उत्तरी-पूर्वी बिजली विद्युत शक्ति निगम द्वारा निष्पादित की जाने वाली काठलगुरी गैस टर्बाइन योजना के लिए 20.00 करोड़ रुपए को भी शामिल किया गया है ।

अन्तर्राज्यीय पारेषण लाइनें : क्षेत्रीय ग्रिडों के निर्माण में सहायता देने के लिए सघीय के विद्युत प्रणालियों को जोड़ने के लिए अन्तर्राज्यीय पारेषण लाइनों के निर्माण के लिए 27.00 करोड़ रुपए की व्यवस्था की गई है जिससे कि अन्ततः एक राष्ट्रीय ग्रिड का निर्माण होगा और जिससे उपभोक्ताओं को समुचित और कुशलतापूर्वक बिजली की सप्लाई मिलेगी ।

क्षेत्रीय भार प्रेषण केन्द्र पांच क्षेत्रीय भार प्रेषण केन्द्रों-उत्तरी, दक्षिणी, पश्चिमी, पूर्वी तथा उत्तर-पूर्वी क्षेत्र की स्थापना सबंधित क्षेत्रीय ग्रिडों के प्रचालन एवं नियंत्रण के लिए की गई है । इससे सबंधित क्षेत्रों में राज्य की पारेषण प्रणालियों की गतिविधियों के बीच समन्वय भी स्थापित हो जाएगा जिससे क्षेत्र में उत्पादन का सर्वोत्तम उपयोग और पारेषण सुविधाओं को सुनिश्चित किया जा सकेगा । इसके अन्तर्गत राष्ट्रीय भार प्रेषण केन्द्र, नई दिल्ली के लिए 5 लाख रुपए की व्यवस्था की गई है ताकि अखिल भारतीय आधार पर क्षेत्रीय भार प्रेषण केन्द्रों की गतिविधियों को समन्वित किया जा सके । दक्षिणी भार प्रेषण केन्द्र का आधुनिकीकरण करने के लिए भी एक करोड़ रुपए की इसमें व्यवस्था शामिल की गई है ।

अनुसंधान और विकास: बहुत से संस्थान जैसे केन्द्रीय विद्युत अनुसंधान संस्थान, बंगलौर, केन्द्रीय सिंचाई और बिजली बोर्ड, भारत हैवी इलेक्ट्रिकल्स लिमिटेड, विद्युत इंजीनियरों की प्रशिक्षण सोसायटी, हाटलाइन ट्रेनिंग सेन्टर, विद्युत प्रणाली प्रशिक्षण संस्थान-बिजली की आधारभूत और अनुप्रयोगिक-दोनों प्रकार की समस्याओं पर अनुसंधान कार्य में लगे हैं और इसके साथ-साथ विद्युत केन्द्रों के प्रचालन तथा अनुरक्षण संबंधी कई पहलुओं के संबंध में भी प्रशिक्षण दे रहे हैं ।

सर्वेक्षण और जांच: इसके अंतर्गत पहाड़ी और आदिवासी क्षेत्रों में विद्युत परियोजनाओं के सर्वेक्षण और जांच, पंचेश्वर परियोजना की जांच, सी.डब्ल्यू.सी. की जांच योजनाएं, और कच्छ की खाड़ी में भूतापीय जांच तथा ज्वारीय विद्युत परियोजना के लिए की गई व्यवस्था है ।

ऊर्जा संरक्षण और अन्य कार्यक्रम : इसमें इनके लिए व्यवस्था शामिल है :- ऊर्जा संरक्षण से संबंधित योजनाओं के लिए 10.00 करोड़ रुपए की व्यवस्था, तापीय विद्युत केन्द्रों के बेहतर कार्य निष्पादन के लिए प्रोत्साहन योजना वास्ते 1.20 करोड़ रुपए, टी.एण्ड डी. क्षतियों में कमी करने के लिए प्रोत्साहन योजना हेतु 0.80 करोड़ रुपए, केन्द्रीय विद्युत प्राधिकरण की गौण गतिविधियों के लिए 2.69 करोड़ रुपए की व्यवस्था, और मशीनरी एवं उपकरण की खरीद के लिए राष्ट्रीय निर्माण परियोजना निगम को 5.60 करोड़ रुपए की बजटीय सहायता इसमें शामिल की गयी है ।

न्युक्लीय विद्युत : 1988-89 के लिए कुल परिव्यय 469 करोड़ रुपए रखा गया है । न्युक्लीय विद्युत निगम के लिए 461.32 करोड़ रुपए की व्यवस्था की गई है जिसमें काकरापार परमाणु विद्युत परियोजना के लिए 135.00 करोड़ रुपए, नारोरा परमाणु विद्युत परियोजना के लिए 33.00 करोड़ रुपए, राजस्थान III और IV यूनिटों तथा कैगा परमाणु विद्युत परियोजना के लिए 165 करोड़ रुपए, 500 मे.वा.ड परियोजनाओं के लिए 73.26 करोड़ रुपए तथा 235 मे.वा.ड की नई परियोजनाओं के लिए 40.00 करोड़ रुपए की व्यवस्था की गई है । 15.06 करोड़ रुपए की व्यवस्था गौण परियोजनाओं के लिए की गई है, जो मुख्य रूप से तारापुर और राजस्थान परमाणु विद्युत केन्द्रों, 500 मेगावाट ड रिएक्टरों के विकास के लिए है ।

in the power component of the Sardar Sarovar Project and Rs. 20.00 crores for Kathalguri Gas Turbine Project being executed by North Eastern Electric Power Corporation, have also been included.

Inter-State Transmission Lines: A provision of Rs.27 crores is for construction of inter-state transmission lines to connect contiguous power systems for facilitating the formation of regional grids leading ultimately to the formation of a national grid, which will enable reliable and efficient supply of power to the consumers.

Regional Load Despatch Stations: Five Regional Load Despatch stations for the Northern, Southern, Western, Eastern and North - Eastern Regions are being established for the operation and control of respective regional grids. This will also facilitate coordination between the activities of the state systems in the respective regions with a view to ensuring optimum utilisation of generation and transmission facilities in the region. This includes a provision of Rs. 5 lakhs for a National Load Despatch Centre at New Delhi to coordinate the activities of the regional load despatch centres on an All India basis. A provision of Rs. 1 crore has also been made for modernisation of Southern Regional Load Despatch Centre.

Research and Development: A number of institutes such as Central Power Research Institute, Bangalore, Central Board of Irrigation and Power, Bharat Heavy Electricals Ltd., Power Engineers' Training Society, Hotline Training Centre, Power System Training Society, are engaged in research on power problems, fundamental as well as applied, as also in imparting training in respect of several aspects of the operation and maintenance of power stations.

Survey & Investigation: Provision is for survey and investigation of power projects in hilly and tribal areas, investigation of Pancheshwar Project, investigation schemes of CWC, geothermal investigations and the tidal power project in the Gulf of Kutch.

Energy Conservation and Other Programme: Provision of Rs. 10.00 crores is for schemes relating to conservation of energy, Rs.1.20 crores for incentive scheme for better performance of thermal power stations, Rs.0.80 crores for incentive scheme for reduction of T & D losses, a provision of Rs.2.69 crores for ancillary activities of Central Electricity Authority, and budgetary support of Rs.5.60 crores to National Projects Construction Corporation for purchase of machinery and equipment, have been included.

Nuclear Power: The total outlay for 1988-89 is Rs. 469 crores. There is a provision of Rs. 461.32 crores for Nuclear Power Corporation to support its plan outlay to the extent of Rs. 135 crores for Kakrapar Atomic Power Project, Rs. 33 crores for Narora Atomic Power Project Rs. 165 crores, for Rajasthan III & IV units and Kaiga Atomic Power project, Rs. 73.26 crores for new 500 MWe projects, Rs. 40 crores for new 235 MWe projects. A provision of Rs. 15.06 crores is for ancilliary projects mainly for improvements to Tarapur and Rajasthan Atomic power Stations and development for 500 MWe Reactors.

पेट्रोलियम: वर्ष 1988-89 में पेट्रोलियम और प्राकृतिक गैस मंत्रालय के लिए 3394.56 करोड़ रुपए का आयोजना परिव्यय निर्धारित किया गया है, जिसमें कच्चे तेल और प्राकृतिक गैस (प्राकृतिक गैस के लाने ले जाने सहित) के अन्वेषण और उत्पादन के लिए 2869.00 करोड़ रुपए, पेट्रोलियम उत्पादों के परिष्करण और विपणन के लिए 458.00 करोड़ रुपए, पेट्रो-रसायन परियोजनाओं के लिए 49.36 करोड़ रुपए और इंजीनियरी यूनिटों के लिए 18.20 करोड़ रुपए की व्यवस्था शामिल है। इस मंत्रालय के 1988-89 के आयोजना परिव्यय का वित्तपोषण 3231.36 करोड़ रुपए के आन्तरिक और बजटेतर साधनों और 163.20 करोड़ रुपए के बजटीय समर्थन द्वारा किया जाएगा। परिव्यय में वृद्धि मुख्यतौर पर (i) भारत में हाइड्रोकार्बन्स के अन्वेषण की गति तेज करने के लिए तेल और प्राकृतिक गैस आयोग, (ii) गुजरात तेल शोधक कारखाने में अतिरिक्त गौण संसाधन सुविधा के लिए इंडियन आयल, (iii) बम्बई और मंगलौर तेल शोधक कारखानों में कैप्टिव विद्युत संयंत्रों के लिए हिन्दुस्तान पेट्रोलियम निगम, और (iv) आयल इंडिया लिमिटेड के लिए अधिक परिव्यय व्यवस्था करना।

कोयला और लिग्नाइट: भारतीय अर्थव्यवस्था को बुनियादी समर्थन देने के लिए ऊर्जा क्षेत्र के महत्व को देखते हुए, कोयले और लिग्नाइट क्षेत्र के लिए 1988-89 के केन्द्रीय आयोजना परिव्यय को बढ़ा कर 1733 करोड़ रुपए कर दिया था। 1493 करोड़ रुपए की कुल बजटीय सहायता में 1700 लाख मीट्रिक टनों के निर्धारित कोयला उत्पादन के लिए कोल इंडिया लिमिटेड के लिए 1144 करोड़ रुपए, 205 लाख मीट्रिक टन के निर्धारित कोयला उत्पादन के लिए सिंगरेनी कोलरीज के लिए 125 करोड़ रुपए तथा 104.6 लाख मीट्रिक टनों के निर्धारित लिग्नाइट उत्पादन के लिए नेयवेली लिग्नाइट निगम के लिए 215 करोड़ रुपए शामिल हैं।

ऊर्जा के गैर-परम्परागत स्रोत: 1987-88 के 100.00 करोड़ रुपए के अनुमोदित परिव्यय को संशोधित अनुमानों में कम करके 99.56 करोड़ रुपए कर दिया गया है। 1988-89 के लिए 105.00 करोड़ रुपए के परिव्यय की व्यवस्था की गई है। इस परिव्यय का मुख्य भाग बायोगैस के लिए आवंटित किया गया है। इसमें सौर ऊर्जा, पवन ऊर्जा, बायोमास कार्यक्रम, धावल भूसी विद्युत संयंत्र और धावल पुआल तापीय संयंत्र से संबंधित कार्यक्रमों के लिए भी व्यवस्था की गई है।

ऊर्जा समन्वय और विकास: ऊर्जा सलाहकार बोर्ड के लिए 1988-89 के संबंध में 0.70 करोड़ रुपए की व्यवस्था की गई है। इसके उद्देश्य हैं विश्व के सन्दर्भ में देश में ऊर्जा स्थिति की निरन्तर समीक्षा करना और भावी ऊर्जा विकल्पों के संबंध में सुझाव देना, वाणिज्यिक और गैर-वाणिज्यिक ऊर्जा स्रोतों सहित समेकित ऊर्जा नीति तैयार करना, अपने स्रोतों के संरक्षण, पर्यावरण संबंधी सरोकारों तथा तुलनात्मक लागतों और लाभों को ध्यान में रखते हुए ऊर्जा के विभिन्न साधनों की संभाव्य मांग तथा उपलब्धता का समय-वार पता लगाना।

Petroleum: The approved Plan outlay 1988-89 of Rs. 3394.56 crores of the Ministry of Petroleum & Natural Gas consists of Rs.2869.00 crores for exploration and production of crude oil and natural gas (including transportation of natural gas), Rs.458.00 crores for refining and marketing of petroleum products, Rs.49.36 crores for petro-chemical projects and Rs.18.20 crores for engineering units. The Plan Outlay 1988-89 of this Ministry will be financed by internal and extra-budgetary resources of Rs.3231.36 crores and by budgetary support of Rs.163.20 crores. Increase is mainly due to additional provision to ONGC for accelerating pace of exploration of Hydro-carbons in India; to Indian Oil Corporation for additional secondary processing facility at Gujarat Refinery; to Hindustan Petroleum Corporation for captive power Plants at Bombay and Mangalore refineries.

Coal and Lignite : Keeping in view the importance of the Energy sector for infrastructure support to the Indian economy, the Central Plan Outlay for the coal and lignite sector for 1988-89 has been stepped upto Rs.1733 crores. The total budgetary support of Rs.1493 crores comprises Rs.1144 crores for Coal India Ltd., for targetted coal production of 170 million tonnes, Rs.125 crores for Singareni Collieries Co. Ltd., for targetted coal production of 20.5 million tonnes and Rs.215 crores for Neyveli Lignite Corporation, for targetted lignite production of 10.46 million tonnes.

Non-Conventional Sources of Energy : An approved outlay of Rs. 100.00 crores for 1987-88 has been revised to Rs. 99.56 crores at revised estimates stage. The outlay for 1988-89 is Rs.105.00 crores. The major portion of this outlay is for bio-gas. Provision has also been made for programmes relating to solar energy, wind energy, bio-mass programmes, rice husk power plant and rice straw thermal plant.

Energy Coordination and Development: A provision of Rs.0.70 crore has been made in 1988-89 for the Advisory Board on Energy. Its objectives are : continuously reviewing the energy situation in the country in the global context and proposing future energy options, formulating an integrated energy policy covering commercial and non-commercial sources of energy, periodically assessing the likely demand and availability of different forms of energy keeping in view the need to conserve our resources, environmental considerations and comparative costs and benefits.

उद्योग और खनिज

ग्राम और लघु उद्योग: इस शीर्ष के अन्तर्गत खादी और ग्राम उद्योग, शिक्षित बेरोजगार युवकों के लिए स्व-रोजगार स्कीम, ऋण गारंटी स्कीम, लघु उद्योग विकास संगठन की स्कीमों, राष्ट्रीय लघु उद्योग निगम आदि के लिए परिव्यय शामिल है। 1987-88 के 295.28 करोड़ रुपए के अनुमोदित परिव्यय के मुकाबले संशोधित परिव्यय 302.22 करोड़ रुपए का है। वर्ष 1988-89 के लिए 336.59 करोड़ रुपए के परिव्यय की व्यवस्था की गई है। शिक्षित बेरोजगार युवकों के लिए स्व-रोजगार

INDUSTRY AND MINERALS

Village and Small Scale Industries: This head includes outlays for Khadi and Village Industries, self-employment Scheme for Educated Unemployed Youth, Credit Guarantee Scheme, Small Industries Development Organisation (SIDO) Schemes, National Small Industries Corporation etc. Against the approved outlay of Rs.295.28 crores for 1987-88 the revised outlay is Rs.302.22 crores. The outlay for 1988-89 is

स्कीम जिसे 1983-84 में प्रारम्भ किया गया था, के अन्तर्गत जिला उद्योग केन्द्र, दसवीं या इससे अधिक कक्षा उत्तीर्ण तथा आई.टी.आई. के, 18 से 35 वर्ष की आयु वर्ग के शिक्षित बेरोजगार युवकों को उद्योगों, सेवाओं और छोटे-छोटे कारबार के जरिए स्व-रोजगार दिलाने में मदद करते हैं। लाभानुभोगियों का पता लगाने के लिए जिला उद्योग केन्द्र के महाप्रबंधक के नेतृत्व में प्रत्येक जिले में एक कार्यदल का गठन किया गया है। पता लगाए गए ऐसे लाभानुभोगी उद्योग लगाने के लिए कुल मिलाकर 35,000रुपए, सेवाओं के लिए 25,000 रुपए, अपने उद्यम चलाने के लिए 15,000 के रुपए ऋण पाने के पात्र हैं। संभिदा किए गए प्रत्येक ऐसे ऋण के लिए बैंक द्वारा पिछड़े क्षेत्रों में 10 प्रतिशत और अन्य क्षेत्रों में 12 प्रतिशत ब्याज लिया जाता है। यह योजना समाज के निम्न आय वर्ग के लिए है और इस तरह लाभानुभोगियों की पारिवारिक आय प्रतिवर्ष 10,000/- रुपये से अधिक नहीं होनी चाहिए। इसके अलावा इस योजना में अनुसूचित जाति/जन-जातियों के लिए 30 प्रतिशत का आरक्षण विद्यमान है। इस स्कीम का एक मुख्य आकर्षण यह है कि ऋण का 25 प्रतिशत भाग सरकार द्वारा उधार देने वाले बैंकों को पूंजीगत आर्थिक सहायता के रूप में दिया जाता है, जो कि अन्ततोगत्वा लाभानुभोगियों को दे दिया जाता है।

Rs.336.59 crores. Under the self-employment scheme for educated unemployed youth, which was started from the year 1983-84, the District Industries Centres (DICs) assist educated unemployed youth falling in the age group of 18 to 35 years and having passed matriculation and above, including ITI, to get self-employment through industry, services and small business. A task force has been constituted in each district under the leadership of General Manager of the District industries Centre to identify the beneficiaries. The identified beneficiaries are entitled to get composite loan not exceeding Rs.35,000/- for industry, Rs. 25,000/- for Service and Rs.15,000/- for starting business ventures. Interest charged by the banks on each loan contracted is 10% for backward areas and 12% in other areas. The scheme is meant for lower income sections of the society and as such the family income of the beneficiaries should not exceed Rs.10,000 per annum. Further there is reservation of 30% for Scheduled Castes/Scheduled Tribes. A special feature of the scheme is that 25% of the loan is paid as capital subsidy by the Government of India to the lending bank to be ultimately passed on to the beneficiaries.

लोहा और इस्पात उद्योग : वर्ष 1987-88 के लिए 1484.00 करोड़ रुपए के अनुमोदित परिव्यय की तुलना में संशोधित परिव्यय 1519.97 करोड़ रुपए है। 1988-89 के लिए 1575.00 करोड़ रुपए का परिव्यय रखा गया है जिसका वित्तपोषण, 660.00 करोड़ रुपए की बजटीय सहायता और 915.00 करोड़ रुपए के आन्तरिक और बजटेतर साधनों द्वारा किया जाएगा। स्टील अथारिटी आफ इंडिया लिमिटेड (सेल) को उसके नियंत्रणाधीन विभिन्न संयंत्रों (बोकारो-220 करोड़ रुपए, भिलाई-160 करोड़ रुपए, राउरकेला-110 करोड़ रुपए, दुर्गापुर-229 करोड़ रुपए, एलाय इस्पात संयंत्र-19.50 करोड़ रुपए, सेलम इस्पात संयंत्र-4.00 करोड़ रुपए और आर.डी.-10 करोड़ रुपए) के लिए कुल 855.00 करोड़ रुपए के परिव्यय की व्यवस्था की गई है

Iron and Steel Industries : As against an approved outlay of Rs.1484.00 crores for 1987-88, the revised outlay is Rs.1519.97 crores. The outlay for 1988-89 is Rs.1575.00 crores which will be financed by a budgetary support of Rs.660 crores and internal and extra-budgetary resource of Rs.915.00 crores. The outlay for Steel Authority of India (SAIL) has been set at Rs.855.00 crores for the various Plants under its control (Bokaro-Rs.220 crores, Bhilai-Rs. 160 crores, Rourkela - Rs.110 crores, Durgapur-Rs.229 crores, Alloy Steel Plant-Rs.19.50 crores, Salem Steel Plant-Rs.4.00 crores and R&D Rs.10 crores).

विशाखापत्तनम में स्थित इस्पात संयंत्र के लिए 640 करोड़ रुपए के परिव्यय की व्यवस्था की गई है। इसके जून 1990 तक पूरा हो जाने की आशा है। येलेरू जलपूर्ति योजना और महानदी जलाशय परियोजना, तेनुघाट डैम परियोजना के लिए आवंटन किए गए हैं। इनका उद्देश्य इस्पात संयंत्रों के लिए जलपूर्ति को बढ़ाया देना है। राष्ट्रीय खनिज विकास विगम लिमिटेड के लिए 26.21 करोड़ रुपए की बजटीय सहायता भी शामिल की गई है।

An outlay of Rs.640 crores has been provided for the Steel Plant at Visakhapatnam. It is expected to be completed by June 1990. Allocations have been made for Yelleru Water Supply Scheme and Mahanadi Reservoir Project and Tenughat Dam Project which are to augment the water supply to the Steel Plants. Budgetary support of Rs. 26.21 crores to National Mineral Development Corporation Limited has also been included.

अलौह खनन तथा धातुकर्मी उद्योग : वर्ष 1987-88 के 359.95 करोड़ रुपए के अनुमोदित परिव्यय की तुलना में संशोधित परिव्यय 404.48 करोड़ रुपए है। संशोधित परिव्यय में हुई वृद्धि भारत एल्यूमीनियम कम्पनी लि. (बालको) के लिए 36.70 करोड़ रुपए और नैलको के लिए 19.53 करोड़ रुपए के पूर्तिकर्ता ऋण के कारण हुई है। वर्ष 1988-89 के लिए 315 करोड़ रुपए (33.00 करोड़ रुपए के आन्तरिक तथा बजटेतर साधनों सहित) के परिव्यय की व्यवस्था की गई है। सकल परिव्यय का विस्तृत ब्यौरा इस प्रकार है :

Non-ferrous Mining and Metallurgical Industry : Against the approved outlay of Rs.359.95 crores for 1987-88, the revised outlay is Rs.404.48 crores. The increase in the revised outlay is mainly due to additional suppliers credit to the Bharat Aluminium Company Limited (BALCO) Rs.36.70 crores and Rs.19.53 crores to National Aluminium Company Ltd. (NALCO). The outlay for 1988-89 is Rs.315.00 crores (including internal and extra budgetary resources of Rs.33.00 crores). The break-up of the gross outlay is as under:–

(क) एल्यूमीनियम (148.00 करोड़ रुपए),
नैलको के लिए 98.50करोड़ रुपए और बालको के लिए 49.50 करोड़ रुपए ।

(ख) ताम्बा (35.00 करोड़ रुपए)
यह परिव्यय पूरी तरह से हिन्दुस्तान कापर लिमिटेड के लिए रखा गया है।

(a) Aluminium (Rs148.00 crores);
NALCO Rs.98.50 crores and BALCO Rs.49.50 crores.

(b) Copper (Rs.35.00 crores);
The outlay is exclusively for Hindustan Copper Limited.

(ग) जस्ता और शीशा (53.50 करोड़ रुपए)
(घ) सोना (8 करोड़ रुपए)
(ङ) खनिज अन्वेषण और विकास (28 करोड़ रुपए)
(च) भारतीय भू-विज्ञान सर्वेक्षण (24.00 करोड़ रुपए) और भारतीय खान ब्यूरो (7.93 करोड़ रुपए)

सीमेंट और धातु-भिन्न खनिज उद्योग : वर्ष 1987-88 के लिए 85.00 करोड़ रुपए का अनुमोदित परिव्यय रखा गया है । 1988-89 के लिए 105.00 करोड़ रुपए का परिव्यय पूरी तरह से भारतीय सीमेंट निगम के लिए है । नयागाव और येरागुन्टला यूनिटों, विस्तार और अतिरिक्त/सुधार कार्यों एवं प्रतिस्थापन के लिए व्यवस्था की गई है ।

उर्वरक उद्योग : 1987-88 के लिए अनुमोदित परिव्यय 926.00 करोड़ रुपए का रखा गया है जिसमें हजीरा में 'कृभको' (50 करोड़ रुपए) और आंवला में 'इफको' (219.60 करोड़ रुपए) की सहकारी उर्वरक परियोजनाओं के लिए 269.60 करोड़ रुपए का परिव्यय शामिल है । इसकी तुलना में संशोधित परिव्यय 995.47 करोड़ रुपए का रखा गया है । संशोधित परिव्यय में वृद्धि मुख्यतः निम्नलिखित के लिए अतिरिक्त धनराशियों की आवश्यकता के कारण हुई है : कैप्रोलैक्टम प्रोजेक्ट आफ "फैक्ट", हल्दिया प्रोजेक्ट आफ एच.एफ.सी., एच.एफ.एल. के भटिंडा और पानीपत में कैप्टिव पावर प्लांट, पी.पी.सी.एल. की अन्झोर उर्वरक परियोजना, 'इफ्को' की आंवला परियोजना और भारत-ब्रिटेन उर्वरक विकास कार्यक्रम । वर्ष 1988-89 के लिए 671 करोड़ रुपए का परिव्यय रखा गया है ।

335.00 करोड़ रुपए की बजटीय सहायता नेशनल फर्टिलाइजर्स कारपोरेशन लिमिटेड (36.40 करोड़ रुपए), हिन्दुस्तान फर्टिलाइजर कारपोरेशन लिमिटेड (60.00 करोड़ रुपए), फर्टिलाइजर्स एण्ड केमिकल्स ट्रावनकोर लिमिटेड (70.00 करोड़ रुपए), पारादीप फास्फेटस लिमिटेड (42.00 करोड़ रुपए), फर्टिलाइजर कारपोरेशन आफ इंडिया लिमिटेड (32.00 करोड़ रुपए), पाइराइट्स फास्फेट्स एण्ड केमिकल्स लिमिटेड (35.00 करोड़ रुपए), प्रोजेक्ट्स एण्ड डेवलपमेन्ट इंडिया लिमिटेड(13.00 करोड़ रुपए), मद्रास फर्टिलाइजर्स लिमिटेड (12.00 करोड़ रुपए), और कृषक भारती कोआपरेटिव लिमिटेड (16.10 करोड़ रुपए) । अन्य योजनाओं के अंतर्गत 18.50 करोड़ रुपए की व्यवस्था की गई है जिसमें प्रोजेक्ट एण्ड डेवलपमेन्ट इंडिया लिमिटेड के लिए उर्वरकों के क्षेत्र में अनुसंधान तथा विकास संबंधी गतिविधियों के लिए 4.00 करोड़ रुपए, इन्दो-यू.के. फर्टिलाइजर एजुकेशनल प्रोग्राम के लिए 7.80 करोड़ रुपए इन्दो-ई.ई.सी. फर्टिलाइजर डेवलपमेंट प्रोग्राम के लिए 1.70 करोड़ रुपए, बीजापुर उर्वरक परियोजना के लिए जलपूर्ति योजना के वास्ते मध्य प्रदेश सरकार को ऋण सहायता प्रदान करने के लिए 1.00 करोड़ रुपए और उर्वरकों का माल उतारने, उन्हें उठाने-भरने और परिवहन संबंधी सुविधाओं को सुदृढ़ बनाने के लिए राष्ट्रीय परियोजनाओं के वास्ते 4.00 करोड़ रुपए शामिल है ।

पेट्रो-रसायन उद्योग : इस क्षेत्र के लिए जितना परिव्यय रखा गया है, वह निम्नलिखित उद्योग समूहों के लिए रखे गए परिव्ययों के जोड़ के बराबर है :

i) पेट्रो-रसायन, और
ii) पेट्रोलियम और प्राकृतिक गैस मंत्रालय के अन्तर्गत पेट्रोलियम तेल शोधक कारखानों का पेट्रो-रसायन भाग ।

वर्ष 1987-88 के लिए बजट अनुमान 354.51 करोड़ रुपए और इसी वर्ष के लिए संशोधित अनुमान 332.92 करोड़ रुपए रखा गया है । वर्ष 1988-89 के बजट अनुमान में 406.56 करोड़ रुपए रखे गए हैं जिसमें से 403.46 करोड़ रुपए भारतीय पेट्रो-रसायन निगम लिमिटेड (आई.पी.सी.एल.) के लिए है और इसमें से भी 88.56 करोड़ रुपए की राशि बजटीय सहायता के रूप में है और 314.90 करोड़

(c) Zinc and Lead (Rs.53.50 crores).
(d) Gold (Rs.8.00 crores).
(e) Mineral exploration and development (Rs.28.00 crores).

TRANSPORT

Railways: Keeping in view the essential needs of Railways, the approved outlay of Rs.2980 crores for 1987-88 was enhanced to Rs.3300 crores. The additional amount

राशि मुख्य रूप से रोलिंग स्टाक को प्राप्त करने, कार्यशालाओं और शेडो तथा कपूरथला कोच फैक्टरी, अत्यावश्यक ट्रैफिक सुविधा कार्य तथा नई लाईनों को बिछाने के लिए अपेक्षित खर्चे की पूर्ति के लिए की गई है । 1988-89 के लिए 3850 करोड़ रुपए के परिव्यय की व्यवस्था की गई है । इससे निम्नलिखित के लिए रेलवे समर्थ हो पाएगा : (i) 18,500 वैगन, 303 लोकोमोटिव्स और 1672 कोच की खरीद, (ii) 3750 ट्रेक किलोमीटर के नवीकरण का कार्य प्रारम्भ करना, (iii) लगभग 680 किलोमीटर के विद्युतकरण का कार्य प्रारम्भ करना, (iv) 255 कि.मी. की नई लाईनें, 78 किलोमीटर गैज में परिवर्तन और लगभग 280 किलोमीटर लाईन को डबल करना, (v) कपूरथला में रेल कोच फैक्टरी स्थापित करने के कार्य में तेजी लाना और (vi) 3320 लाख मीट्रिक टन माल भाड़े के यातायात की क्षमता का विकास करना ।

पत्तन और दीपस्तम्भ : पत्तन क्षेत्र की नीति में निम्नलिखित तरीकों से बड़े पत्तनों का विकास करने के लिए जोर दिया गया है (i) कन्टेनर कार्गो के लिए पत्तन सुविधाओं का विस्तार करना, (ii) अन्य पत्तन सुविधाओं का आधुनिकीकरण और विस्तार, (iii) बड़े जहाजों को घाट लगाने के लिए चुने हुए मुख्य पत्तनों पर गोदी (ड्राफ्ट) को गहरा करना, (iv) तलकर्षण सुविधाओं का विस्तार करना और, (v) बड़े पत्तनों के पूरक के रूप में भूमिका अदा करने के संबंध में चुने हुए छोटे पत्तनों का विकास करना ।

375.50 करोड़ रुपए के बजट परिव्यय की तुलना में 1987-88के लिए संशोधित परिव्यय 269.09 करोड़ रुपए का है । वर्ष 1988-89 के लिए आयोजना परिव्यय को बढ़ाकर 525.79 करोड़ रुपए कर दिया गया है । यह वृद्धि बम्बई के निकट न्हावा-शेवा पत्तन परियोजना के लिए बढ़ी हुई व्यवस्था और अन्य पत्तन न्यासों के लिए अधिक परिव्यय की व्यवस्था के कारण हुई है । दीपस्तम्भों के विकास के लिए की गई व्यवस्था को बढ़ा दिया गया है ताकि दीपस्तम्भों के विकास और अन्य सामुद्रिक सहायता की बढ़ती हुई मांग को पूरा किया जा सके । बजटीय समर्थन के अतिरिक्त, ऐसी सम्भावना है कि पत्तनों की आवश्यकता उनके आन्तरिक साधनों द्वारा पूरी की जाएगी । ड्रेजिंग कारपोरेशन ऑफ इंडिया के लिए 38.90 करोड़ रुपए का परिव्यय रखा गया है ।

नौवहन : भारतीय नौवहन उद्योग के विकास और विस्तार के लिए 113.10 करोड़ रुपए के अनुमोदित परिव्यय का संशोधन करके 1987-88 के संशोधित अनुमानों में 223.87 करोड़ रुपए का परिव्यय रखा गया है । वर्ष 1988-89 के लिए 261.06 करोड़ रुपए का परिव्यय रखा गया है । इसमें भारतीय जहाजरानी निगम के लिए की गई अधिक व्यवस्था तथा भारतीय नौवहन ऋण और निवेश कम्पनी को ऋण देना शामिल है ।

नागर विमानन : नागर विमानन क्षेत्र के 442.00 करोड़ रुपए के अनुमोदित परिव्यय की तुलना में 1987-88 के संशोधित परिव्यय में 397.46 करोड़ रुपए रखे गए हैं । नागर विमानन क्षेत्र के लिए 1988-89 के परिव्यय में 388.00 करोड़ रुपए निर्धारित किए गए हैं, जिसमें बजट समर्थन 15.00 करोड़ रुपए और आन्तरिक तथा बजट बाह्य साधनों से 373.00 करोड़ रुपए की रकम होगी । इसमें एयर इंडिया 130.35 करोड़ रुपए, इंडियन एयरलाइन्स 138.65 करोड़ रुपए, आई.ए.ए.आई. 48.00 करोड़ रुपए, वायुदूत 9.70 करोड़ रुपए, नेशनल एयरपोर्ट अथोरिटी 46.00 करोड़ रुपए और पवनहंस 10.00 करोड़ रुपए शामिल हैं ।

सड़कें और पुल : सड़क क्षेत्र में, सुरक्षित और द्रुत गति से यात्रा सुनिश्चित करने के लिए राजपथ पद्धति में मौजूदा कमी को उत्तरोत्तर रूप से कम करने, ऊर्जा संरक्षण और वाहनों की प्रचालन संबंधी लागत को कम करने की दृष्टि से सड़कों की सतह को बेहतर बनाने के लिये सड़कों के निर्माण में प्रयुक्त प्रौद्योगिकी का उत्थान करने और मौजूदा सड़क प्रणाली के पुनः सुधार कार्य को उच्च प्राथमिकता दी गई है। allotted was mainly to meet the requirements for procurement of rolling stock, workshops and sheds including Kapurthala Coach Factory, urgent traffic facility works and new lines. The outlay for 1988-89 has been fixed at Rs.3850 crores. It would enable the Railways to (i) procure 18,500 wagons, 303 locomotives and 1672 coaches including EMUs; (ii) undertake renewals of 3750 track kilometres; (iii) undertake electrification of about 680 route kilometres; (iv) complete 255 Kms of "new lines", 78 Kms of gauge conversion and approximately 280 Kms of "doubling". (v) step up the pace of work for setting up Rail Coach Factory at Kapurthala and (vi) build up capacity to lift 332 million tonnes of freight traffic.

Ports and Lighthouses: The policy thrust in the port sector envisages development of major ports by (i) expansion of port facilities,for container cargo; (ii) modernisation and expansion of other port facilities; (iii) deepening of draft at selected major ports to receive larger vessels; (iv) augmentation of dredging facilities, and (v) development of selected minor ports to play a complementary role to major ports.

The revised outlay for 1987-88 is Rs. 269.09 crores as against the budget outlay of Rs.375.50 crores. The Plan outlay for 1988-89 has been enhanced to Rs.525.79 crores. The increase is on account of increased provision for the project of Nhava-Sheva Port, and increased outlays for other Port Trusts. The provision for the development of Lighthouses has been increased for meeting increased requirements for development of Lighthouses and other navigational aids. In addition to the budgetary support, the Ports are expected to meet their requirements from their internal resources. Outlay for Dredging Corporation of India is Rs.38.90 crores.

Shipping: For development and expansion of Indian shipping industry the approved outlay of Rs.113.10 crores has been revised to 223.87 crores in RE 1987-88. The outlay for 1988-89 has been kept at Rs.261.06 crores. This includes increased outlay for Shipping Corporation of India, and for loan to Shipping Credit and Investment Company of India.

Civil Aviation: Against the approved outlay of Rs. 442.00 crores for Civil Aviation, the revised outlay for 1987-88 is Rs. 397.46 crores. The outlay for 1988-89 for the Civil Aviation Sector has been fixed at Rs.388.00 crores with a Budgetary Support of Rs.15.00 crores and Internal and Extra Budgetary Support of Rs.373.00 crores. This includes provision for Air India Rs.130.35 crores, Indian Airlines Rs.138.65 crores, I.A.A.I. Rs.48.00 crores, Vayudoot Rs.9.70 crores, National Airports Authority Rs.46.00 crores and Pawan Hans Rs.10.00 crores.

Road and Bridges: In the Road Sector, a high priority is accorded for progressive removal of the present deficiencies in the Highway system to ensure safe and speedy travel, to upgrade the technology in the construction of roads to ensure better road surface in the interest of energy conservation and lowering the cost of operations of the vehicles, and rehabilitation of the present road system.

देश के राष्ट्रीय राजमार्गों के निर्माण, विकास और अनुरक्षण के क्षेत्र में काफी प्रगति की गई है । सामरिक और अन्तर-राज्यीय महत्व की सड़कों की देखभाल केन्द्र सरकार द्वारा की जाती है । 1987-88 के 355.00 करोड़ रुपए के अनुमोदित परिव्यय की राशि को संशोधित करके 346.50 करोड़ रुपए कर दिया गया है । राष्ट्रीय अर्थव्यवस्था के विकास के लिये सड़कों के महत्व को देखते हुए 1988-89 के संबंध में 410.00 करोड़ रुपए का परिव्यय रखा गया है । इसमें राष्ट्रीय राजमार्गों के निर्माण और विकास के लिये (378.50 करोड़ रुपए), सामरिक महत्व की सड़कों के लिए (18.00 करोड़ रुपए) अन्तर्राज्यीय महत्व की सड़कों और पुलों के लिये (29.25 करोड़ रुपये), तथा राजमार्ग अनुसंधान और आयोजना के लिये (2.25 करोड़ रुपए) की व्यवस्था शामिल है ।

सड़क परिवहन : सरकार सड़क परिवहन के बारे में व्यापक नीतियां बनाने पर विचार कर रही है जिसमें राज्य परिवहन उपक्रमों का प्रबन्ध, राज्य सड़क परिवहन निगम से संबंधित मोटर वाहन कानून भी शामिल है । 73.00 करोड़ रुपए के अनुमोदित परिव्यय के मुकाबले 1987-88 के लिए संशोधित परिव्यय 66.16 करोड़ रुपए का है । संशोधित परिव्यय में कमी मुख्य रूप से दिल्ली परिवहन निगम के लिये ऋण की कम व्यवस्था करने और एस.आर.टी. सी. को कम अंशदान करने के कारण हुई है । 1988-89 के लिये परिव्यय की राशि 84.26 करोड़ रुपए रखी गई है । इस राशि में शामिल परिव्यय इस प्रकार है : राज्य सड़क परिवहन निगमों को केन्द्रीय सरकार के द्वारा दिये जाने वाले अंशदानों के लिये (55.25 करोड़ रुपए) (2) दिल्ली परिवहन निगम के लिये 21.00 करोड़ रुपये, और (3) अनुसंधान और विकास की अन्य योजनाओं के लिये 8.01 करोड़ रुपये ।

अन्तर्देशीय जल परिवहन: वर्ष 1987-88 के संबंध में 32.00 करोड़ रुपए के अनुमोदित परिव्यय के मुकाबले संशोधित परिव्यय की राशि 31.10 करोड़ रुपए रखी गई है । संशोधित परिव्यय में आई कमी का मुख्य कारण अन्तर्देशीय जल परिवहन की अन्य योजनाओं में कटौती करना है । 1988-89 के परिव्यय की राशि बढ़ाकर 43.89 करोड़ रुपए कर दी गई है । इसमें 12.79 करोड़ रुपए की जो वृद्धि हुई है उसका मुख्य कारण सी.आई.डब्ल्यू.टी.सी. (5.00 करोड़ रुपए), और आई.डब्ल्यू.ए.आई. (5.30 करोड़ रुपए) और जलपरिवहन के अन्य कार्यक्रमों में अधिक निवेश करना है ।

अन्य परिवहन सेवाएं : फरक्का बराज परियोजना का उद्देश्य भागीरथी हुगली नदी प्रणाली के क्षेत्र (रिजीम) और नौगम्यता में सुधार द्वारा कलकत्ता बंदरगाह का परिरक्षण और रखरखाव करना है । 5.00 करोड़ रुपए के अनुमोदित परिव्यय की तुलना में वर्ष 1987-88 के लिए संशोधित परिव्यय 5.20 करोड़ रुपए का रखा गया है । 1988-89 के लिए 9 करोड़ रुपए का परिव्यय है । इस वृद्धि का मुख्य कारण परियोजना में भू-कटाव निरोधक कार्य करना है ।

On Medical side, the emphasis is on development of medical sciences including medical education , training and research for which a total outlay of Rs.63.02 crores has been provided during 1988-89.

परिवार कल्याण: देश के योजनाबद्ध विकास में परिवार कल्याण कार्यक्रम को प्राथमिकता दी जा रही है और इसका लक्ष्य वर्ष 2000 तक जन्म दर को घटाकर 21 प्रति हजार तथा मृत्युदर को क्रमशः 9 प्रति हजार कर देने का लक्ष्य रखा गया है । इस उद्देश्य की पूर्ति के लिए वर्ष 1988-89 के लिए लक्ष्य 65 लाख नसबन्दियां, 47.5 लाख लूप लगाना और सामान्य गर्भ-निरोधकों का इस्तेमाल करने वालों तथा गर्भ निरोध के लिए खाई जाने वाली दवाओं का इस्तेमाल करने वाले व्यक्तियों की संख्या बढ़ाकर 135 लाख करना है । इन लक्ष्यों को प्राप्त करने के लिए 1987-88 के लिए रखे गए 585.00 करोड़ रुपए के आयोजना परिव्यय के संशोधित स्तर को बढ़ाकर 1988-89 के लिए 600.00 करोड़ रुपए कर दिया गया है । 1988-89 के परिव्ययों में प्रसूति एवं शिशु स्वास्थ्य सेवाओं को सुदृढ़ करने के लिए, ग्रामीण परिवार कल्याण सेवाओं, शहरी परिवार कल्याण सेवाओं, शिक्षा, प्रशिक्षण और अनुसंधान, व्यवस्था शामिल है । देश के 30 जिलों और 50 मेडिकल कालेजों के साथ लगने वाले क्षेत्रों

Family Welfare: Family Welfare Programme occupies high priority in developmental planning of the country and its aim is to bring down the birth rate to 21 and death rate to 9 per thousand respectively by 2000 AD. For achieving these objectives the operational target for 1988-89 is to perform 6.50 million sterilisations, 4.75 million IUD insertions and raise the level of users of contraceptives (condom and oral pills) to 13.50 millions. Keeping these targets in view, the outlay for 1988-89 has been stepped up to Rs.600.00 crores from the current level of Rs.585.00 crores for 1987-88. The outlay for 1988-89 includes provision for strengthening of Maternity and Child Health (MCH) services, Rural Family Welfare Services, Urban Family Welfare Services, Education, Training and Research. A scheme for universal immunisation was

नवम्बर, 1985 से एक व्यापक प्रतिरक्षण योजना चलाई गई। वर्ष 1987-88 के दौरान इस स्कीम को 90 जिलों में लागू कर दिया गया है। इसके अलावा 120 जिलों को भी 1988-89 में इसमें अन्तर्गत शामिल कर दिया जाएगा। 1984 के मध्य में लगाए गए अनुमानों के आधार पर गैर-जनजातीय क्षेत्र में 5000 ग्रामीण जनसंख्या के लिए और पहाड़ी तथा जनजातीय क्षेत्र में 3000 की जनसंख्या के लिए एक-एक उप-केन्द्र की स्थापना करने के उद्देश्य को पूरा करने में सहायता देने के लिए ग्रामीण क्षेत्रों में उप-केन्द्र स्थापित करने, उप-जिला अस्पतालों के अतिरिक्त 1988-89 के दौरान 125 सब डिवीजनल अस्पतालों में प्रसवोत्तर कार्यक्रम का विस्तार करने, और बेकार पड़े वाहनों के प्रतिस्थापन के लिए वाहनों की खरीद के लिए व्यवस्था की गई है।

जल-पूर्ति और सफाई : जल-पूर्ति और सफाई राज्य का विषय है और केन्द्रीय सहायता निर्धारित समस्याग्रस्त गांवों में पेय जल की व्यवस्था करने के वास्ते राज्य सरकारों तथा संघ राज्यक्षेत्रों के संसाधनों को पूरा करने के लिए दी जाती है। केन्द्रीय सरकार/केन्द्रीय लोक स्वास्थ्य और पर्यावरणिक इंजीनियरी संगठन के माध्यम से जलपूर्ति और सफाई कार्यक्रमों को तैयार करने और उनका क्रियान्वयन करने के लिए तकनीकी मार्गदर्शन भी प्रदान करती है। साफ पेय जल एक बुनियादी आवश्यकता है और 20-सूत्री कार्यक्रम में प्रधानमंत्री गांवों को पेय जल की आपूर्ति करने का कार्यक्रम शामिल किया गया है। भारत सरकार जो कि अन्तर्राष्ट्रीय पेय जल पूर्ति और सफाई दशक पर संयुक्त राष्ट्र के संकल्प पर हस्ताक्षर करने वाले देशों में से एक देश है, मार्च 1991 तक पूरी ग्रामीण आबादी को जलपूर्ति की व्यवस्था करने के लिए वचनबद्ध है। वर्ष 1988-89 के लिए केन्द्र सरकार द्वारा प्रायोजित त्वरित ग्रामीण जलपूर्ति स्कीम के लिए 410.00 करोड़ रुपए की व्यवस्था की गई है। इस योजना के कार्यान्वयन में सुधार लाने और लागत में कमी करने के उद्देश्य से गांवों में पेयजल और उससे संबद्ध जल-प्रबन्ध के लिए एक तकनीकी मिशन की स्थापना की गई है।

ग्रामीण सफाई योजना का उद्देश्य ग्रामीण क्षेत्रों में निजी घरों में साफ शौचालयों का निर्माण करके विभिन्न केन्द्रीय और राज्य क्षेत्र के कार्यक्रमों को बढ़ावा देना है ताकि ग्रामीण क्षेत्रों में जीवन-यापन की गुणवत्ता में सुधार किया जा सके। अनुसूचित जातियों/अनुसूचित जन जातियों के लाभानुभोगियों और गरीबी की रेखा से नीचे के लोगों से सम्बन्धी सारा खर्च केन्द्रीय सरकार द्वारा वहन किया जाएगा और अन्य मामलों में कुछ व्यय सरकारी वित्तीय सहायता द्वारा और कुछ लाभानुभोगियों से अंशदान/ऋणों द्वारा पूरा किया जाएगा। वर्ष 1988-89 के लिए 20 करोड़ रुपए की व्यवस्था की गई है। वर्ष 1988-89 के लिए जलपूर्ति और सफाई के संबंध में कुल परिव्यय 432.00 करोड़ रुपए का है।

आवास : 44.41 करोड़ रुपए के निर्धारित आयोजना परिव्यय में केन्द्रीय सरकार के कर्मचारियों के लिए दिल्ली, बम्बई, मद्रास, कलकत्ता, नागपुर, कोचीन, शिमला, बंगलौर, श्रीनगर, हैदराबाद, गाजियाबाद और फरीदाबाद में विभिन्न प्रकार के रिहायशी मकानों के निर्माण पर होने वाले खर्च की परिकल्पना की गई है। इसमें आवास तथा नगर विकास निगम (हुडको) के लिए व्यवस्था भी शामिल है। प्रस्तावित राष्ट्रीय आवास बैंक की स्थापना के लिए बजट में कुछ राशि आवंटित की गई है।

नगर विकास: 30.24 करोड़ रुपए के निर्धारित आयोजना परिव्यय में छोटे तथा मध्यम दर्जे के कस्बों के समन्वित विकास के लिए 17.75 करोड़ रुपए, राष्ट्रीय राजधानी क्षेत्र के लिए 7.92 करोड़ रुपए, प्रस्तावित नगर विकास वित्त निगम में निवेश के लिए 0.50 करोड़ रुपए और शहरी विकास योजनाओं तथा शहरी परिवहन संघ निधि के लिए 4.07 करोड़ रुपए शामिल है। launched from November, 1985 in 30 districts and catchment areas of 50 medical colleges in the country. During the year 1987-88, the Scheme has been extended to another 90 districts and to the remaining medical colleges. Besides, this additional 120 districts will be covered during 1988-89. Provision has been made for establishment of sub-centres in rural areas to help in achieving the goal of setting up of one sub-centre for 5000 rural population in non-tribal areas and one sub-centre for 3000 population in hilly and tribal areas based on mid 1984 projections, extension of Post Partum Programme to 125 sub-divisional hospitals during 1988-89 and procurement of vehicles in replacement of condemned vehicles.

Water Supply and Sanitation: Water supply and sanitation is a State subject and Central assistance is intended to supplement the resources of State Governments and Union Territory Governments in providing safe drinking water to identified problem villages. The Central Government also provides technical guidance for formulation and implementation of water supply and sanitation programmes through Central Public Health and Environmental Engineering Organisation. Safe drinking water is a basic need and supply of drinking water to all problem villages has been included in the 20-Point Programme. The Government of India, being a signatory to the U.N. resolution on International Drinking Water Supply and Sanitation Decade, is committed to provide water supply to the entire rural population by March, 1991. Provision of Rs.410.00 crores has been made for the Centrally Sponsored Accelerated Rural Water Supply Scheme for the year 1988-89. A Technology Mission on drinking water in villages and related water management has been set up to improve performance and cost-effectiveness of the scheme.

The scheme of Rural Sanitation aims at supplementing the efforts made under various Central and State Sector Programmes for providing sanitary facilities in rural areas through construction of sanitary latrines in individual houses with the overall objective of improving the quality of life in rural areas. The entire expenditure in the case of SC/ST beneficiaries and those below the poverty line is borne by the Central Govt. and in the case of others partly by subsidy and partly and partly by beneficiary contributions/loans. The provision for 1988-89 is Rs.20 crores. The total outlay for water supply and sanitation in 1988-89 is Rs.432.00 crores.

Housing: The outlay of Rs.44.41 crores envisages expenditure on construction of various types of residential accommodation for Central Government Employees at Delhi, Bombay, Madras, Calcutta, Nagpur, Cochin, Simla, Bangalore, Srinagar, Hyderabad, Ghaziabad and Faridabad. It also includes provision for the Housing and Urban Development Corporation (HUDCO). An allocation has been included for setting up of the proposed National Housing Bank.

Urban Development: The outlay of Rs.30.24 crores includes Rs.17.75 crores for the Integrated Development of Small and Medium Towns, Rs.7.92 crores for the National Capital Region, Rs.0.50 crores for investment in the proposed Urban Development Financing Corporation and Rs.4.07 crores for Urban Development Schemes and Urban Transport Consortium Fund.

सूचना और प्रचार : 1988-89 के लिए 18.00 करोड़ रुपए का आवंटन किया गया है, जिसमें राष्ट्रीय फिल्म विकास निगम के लिए 3.81 करोड़ रुपए शामिल हैं और इसमें से भी सरकार द्वारा बजटीय सहायता के रूप में 1.81 करोड़ रुपए की व्यवस्था की जायगी और 2.00 करोड़ रुपए की शेष राशि की पूर्ति निगम के आन्तरिक साधनों से की जायगी। 1988-89 के आवंटनों में वृद्धि का कारण नयी योजनाओं का कार्यान्वयन है।

प्रसारण : वर्ष 1988-89 के बजट में ध्वनि प्रसारण के लिए 1987-88 के 160.00 करोड़ रु० की तुलना में 159.00 करोड़ रु० का परिव्यय (जिसमें से 50 करोड़ रु० आकाशवाणी और दूरदर्शन वाणिज्यिक राजस्व निधि से पूरे किए जाएंगे) रखा गया है। 1987-88 के लिए संशोधित अनुमान 128.97 करोड़ रु० के हैं। इस कमी का मुख्य कारण उपस्करों की आपूर्ति और स्कीमों को पूरा कार्यक्रमबद्ध करने में देरी होना है। अगले वर्ष के परिव्यय में स्टूडियोज के कार्य को पूरा करने, नये केन्द्रों, निर्माण-कार्य तथा ट्रांसमीटर परियोजनाओं को पूरा करने के लिए व्यवस्था की गई है। 1988-89 के बजट में दूरदर्शन के लिए 180.00 करोड़ रु० का परिव्यय निर्धारित किया गया है (जिसमें से 70.00 करोड़ रु० आकाशवाणी और दूरदर्शन वाणिज्यिक राजस्व निधि से पूरे किए जाएंगे) जबकि इसकी सूचना में 1987-88 के लिए 150 करोड़ रु० रखे गए थे। 1987-88 के लिए संशोधित अनुमान 147.72 करोड़ रु० के रखे गए हैं। अगले वर्ष के परिव्यय में नए टी.वी. स्टूडियो स्थापित करने, उच्च शक्ति वाले टी.वी. ट्रांसमीटरों, सिविल निर्माण कार्यों, ओ.बी. गाड़ियों, टी.वी. कैमरों और अन्य उपस्करों की व्यवस्था शामिल है।

Information and Publicity : The allocation for 1988-89 is Rs.18.00 crores which includes an amount of Rs.3.81 crores for the National Film Development Corporation, of which Rs.1.81 crores will be provided as budgetary support by the Government and the balance Rs.2.00 crores will be met by the Corporation from its internal resources. Increase in the allocation for 1988-89 is for implementation of new schemes.

Broadcasting : For Sound Broadcasting the outlay for 1988-89 is Rs. 159.00 crores (of which Rs. 50 crores would be met from Akashvani and Doordarshan Commercial Revenue Fund) as against 1987-88 outlay of Rs.160.00 crores. The revised estimates for 1987-88 are Rs.128.97 crores. The shortfall is mainly on account of delay in supply of equipment and rescheduling of schemes. The outlay for next year includes provision for completion of studios, new stations, installation works and completion of transmitter projects. The outlay for Doordarshan for 1988-89 has been fixed at Rs.180 crores (of which Rs. 70.00 crores will be met from Akashvani and Doordarshan Commercial Revenue Fund) against Rs.150.00 crores for 1987-88. The revised estimates for 1987-88 are placed at Rs.147.72 crores. Next year's outlay includes provision for commissioning of new T.V. Studios, High Power T.V Transmitters, civil works, O.B. vans, T.V. cameras and other equipment.

Labour and Employment : The outlay for 1987-88 of Rs. 18.96 crores was revised to Rs.18.32 crores, both inclusive of works outlay. The outlay for 1988-89 is Rs. 22.94 crores inclusive of works outlay and the entire amount has budgetary support. Emphasis is on employment and training of labour and improving working conditions and safety.

सामाजिक सुरक्षा और कल्याण 1987-88 के लिए 258.27 करोड़ रुपए के अनुमोदित परिव्यय की तुलना में 1988-89 के परिव्यय में काफी वृद्धि कर दी गई है और उसे बढ़ाकर 314.00 करोड़ रुपए तक कर दिया गया है। 1988-89 के संबंध में किए गए बजट आवंटन में वृद्धि मुख्य रूप से एकीकृत बाल विकास सेवाओं, दिन में देखरेख करने वाले केन्द्रों तथा महिला कल्याण संबंधी अन्य कार्यक्रमों के लिए व्यवस्था करने के कारण हुई है। 1988-89 के परिव्यय में बच्चों के लिए दिन में देख-रेख करने वाले केन्द्रों, रोजगार में लगी महिलाओं के लिए होस्टलों, महिला शिक्षा के संक्षिप्त पाठ्यक्रमों के संबंध में व्यवस्था शामिल है। निर्धन और भूमिहीन खेतीहर मजदूरों के लिए बीमा योजना, विस्थापित लोगों के पुनर्वास और अपंग तथा विकलांगों के कल्याण के लिए व्यवस्था भी की गई है।

पौषाहार : यह खाद्य विभाग की मांग का एक भाग है। वर्ष 1987-88 के लिए 0.31 करोड़ रुपए के परिव्यय की व्यवस्था है। संशोधित परिव्यय 0.26 करोड़ रुपए का है और 1988-89 के लिए बजट अनुमान 0.78 करोड़ रुपए के हैं।

सचिवालय-सामाजिक सेवाएं : इस शीर्ष के अन्तर्गत रखे गए परिव्यय का संबंध शिक्षा विभाग से है।

सामान्य सेवाएं

करेंसी, सिक्का निर्माण तथा टकसाल : वर्ष 1987-88 के लिए 58 करोड़ रुपए के परिव्यय के मुकाबले उस वर्ष के लिए संशोधित अनुमानों में 48.04 करोड़ रुपए का परिव्यय रखा गया है। 1988-89 के लिए बजट परिव्यय 64.05 करोड़ रुपए है। 1988-89 के परिव्यय का संबंध करेंसी नोट प्रैस, नासिक रोड, बैंक नोट प्रैस, देवास, भारत सरकार टकसाल, और न्यू नोट प्रैस से है। पूरी राशि बजट समर्थन से पूरी की जाएगी।

अन्य राजकोषीय सेवाएं : 1988-89 के लिए 15.95 करोड़ रु० का परिव्यय रखा गया है, इसमें से 12.00 करोड़ रु० भारतीय प्रत्याभूति मुद्रणालय और 3.95 करोड़ रुपए प्रत्याभूति छपाई मुद्रणालय के लिए हैं।

पुलिस : वर्ष 1987-88 के लिए 4.00 करोड़ रुपए का परिव्यय था, जिसे संशोधित कर 3.68 करोड़ रुपए तक कर दिया गया था। वर्ष 1988-89 के लिए परिव्यय की राशि 5.00 करोड़ रुपए है जिसमें शिक्षा, प्रशिक्षण और अनुसंधान तथा आपराधिक जांच और सतर्कता तथा अन्तर्राज्यीय पुलिस वायरलेस स्कीम के लिए परिव्यय शामिल है।

पूर्ति तथा निपटान : पूर्ति तथा निपटान महानिदेशालय के इन्डेन्टों के प्रत्युत्तर में विभिन्न एककों की क्षमता और कार्य भार के बीच सन्तुलन बनाए रखने के लिए एक अलग प्रभार की स्थापना की जानी है। पूर्ति तथा निपटान महानिदेशालय सरकार का एकमात्र और सबसे बड़ा खरीद अभिकरण है, अतः पूर्ति तथा निपटान महानिदेशालय द्वारा इन्डेन्ट की गई मदों के विनिर्माताओं तथा संभरकों की तकनीकी सक्षमता और क्षमता का सुनियोजित ढंग से मूल्यांकन करना और उनकी एक छोटी सूची बनाना जरूरी है ताकि भावी अपेक्षाओं के संबंध में वस्तुओं की पूर्ति का एक निश्चित स्रोत सुनिश्चित किया जा सके। 1988-89 के लिए 0.04 करोड़ रुपए का आयोजना परिव्यय है।

Social Security and Welfare: Against the approved outlay of Rs.258.27 crores for 1987-88 the outlay for 1988-89 has been substantially stepped up to Rs.314.00 crores. The increase in the allocation for 1988-89 is mainly on account of increased outlay for Integrated Child Development Services, Day Care Centres and other programmes for women's welfare. The outlay for 1988-89 also includes provision for day care centres for children, hostels for working women, Condensed Courses for Education of Women. Provision has been made for insurance scheme for poor and landless agricultural labourers, rehabilitation of displaced person, and welfare of sick and handicapped persons.

Currency, Coinage and Mints : Against an outlay of Rs.58 crores for 1987-88, the revised outlay for that year is Rs. 48.04 crores. The outlay for 1988-89 is Rs.64.05 crores. The outlay for 1988-89 relates to Currency Note Press, Nasik Road, Bank Note Press, Dewas, India Government Mints and New Note Press. The entire amount would be budgetary support.

Other Fiscal Services : The outlay for 1988-89 is Rs.15.95 crores, of this Rs.12.00 crores is for India Security Press and Rs.3.95 crores for Security Printing Press.

Police: The outlay for 1987-88 was Rs.4.00 crores which was revised to Rs.3.68 crores. The outlay for 1988-89 is Rs.5.00 crores for education, training and research, criminal investigation and vigilance, and Interstate Police Wireless Scheme.

Supplies and Disposals : A separate Division is to be established to ensure a balance between capacity and load of different units responding to the indents of DGS&D. DGS&D, being single and largest procurement agency for the Government, it is necessary to verify systematically the technical capability and capacity of manufacturers and suppliers of items indented by DGS&D and short list them to ensure a dependable source of supply against future requirements. The outlay for 1988-89 is Rs. 0.04 crore.

लेखन सामग्री और मुद्रण : 3.00 करोड़ का यह परिव्यय मुख्य रूप से भारत सरकार मुद्रणालय, मिन्टो रोड के आधुनिकीकरण के लिए है ।

लोक निर्माण कार्य: इसके अंतर्गत 5.35 करोड़ रुपए का परिव्यय निर्धारित है जिसमें दिल्ली/नई दिल्ली, कलकत्ता, बम्बई, मद्रास, नागपुर, इंदौर, हैदराबाद, बंगलौर, त्रिवेन्द्रम और गाजियाबाद में कार्यालय भवनों के निर्माण के लिए व्यवस्था शामिल है ।

अन्य प्रशासनिक सेवाएं : 1987-88 के बजट अनुमानों में 4.85 करोड़ रुपए के परिव्यय के मुकाबले में 1988-89 के परिव्यय में 8.20 करोड़ रुपए की व्यवस्था की गई है जिसमें प्रशिक्षण, सरकारी कार्यालयों की मशीनों आदि के यांत्रिकीकरण विकास के लिए अधिक व्यवस्था की गई है ।

Stationery and Printing: This outlay of Rs.3.00 crores is primarily intended for modernisation of the Government of India Press at Minto Raod.

Public Works: The outlay of Rs.5.35 crores provides for construction of Office accommodation in Delhi/New Delhi, Calcutta, Bombay, Madras, Nagpur, Indore, Hyderabad, Bangalore, Trivandrum and Ghaziabad.

Other Administrative Services: As against the outlay in budget estimates in 1987-88 of Rs.4.85 crores, the outlay for 1988-89 is Rs.8.20 crores with increased provision for training, mechanisation of government offices etc.
